(5) Proceedings for committal for contempt are in the nature of quasi-criminal proceedings and in such proceedings established practice must be strictly followed, not only in substance but also in form. (1951) 88 Cal LJ 70.

(6) Notice of the motion for contempt of Court must state the precise act complained of inasmuch as the proceeding is of a criminal nature. AIR 1934 Bom 452 (454) = 59 Bom 10  AIR 1959 Pat 262 (265, 266) = 1959 Cri LJ 754 = 1958 BLJR 802 (DB)  (1951) 88 Cal LJ 70.

(7) The deeds or words which are said to constitute contempt must be set out precisely and in detail in the notice or Rule for contempt. AIR 1958 Cal 474 (480) = 1958 Cri LJ 1162.

(8) Where a contempt is committed by breach of a Court's order the precise breach or breaches of order complained of must be set out in the notice of motion itself. AIR 1932 Bom 638 (640).

(9) Under the practice prevalent in India, a notice to show cause in a contempt proceeding which is in substance sufficient to apprise the accused of the charge he has to meet with is a valid notice and it cannot be condemned on the ground of its non-compliance with any technical form. AIR 1957 Pat 528 (530) = 36 Pat 955 = 1957 Cri LJ 1156 (DB).

(10) Wherever the grounds indicated in the notice of motion clearly indicate the charge of contempt, failure to give in the notice of motion minute particulars as to the contempt complained of is not a fatal objection to the application for contempt. ILR (1946) 2 Cal 499 (506).

(11) The procedure of issuing a notice to show cause in the first instance containing only extracts of news items as amounting prima facie to contempt and subsequently issuing another notice containing the entire news items amounting to contempt, is not irregular provided such procedure does not cause any prejudice. AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (326) = ILR (1952) Cut 1 = 1952 Cr LJ 1605.

11. Scope of enquiry.— (1) Proceedings for contempt are of summary nature and so a hotly contested question of fact cannot be decided. AIR 1944 Lah 196 (201) = 46 Cri LJ 174 (SB)  AIR 1951 Pat 443 (444) = 52 Cri LJ 558 (DB)  AIR 1967 Mad 162 (164) = 1967 Cri LJ 551 = (1966) 2 Mad LJ 219 (DB)  AIR 1961 Punj 18 (20) = 1961 (1) Cri LJ 146 = 62 Punj LR 752.

(2) A party guilty of contempt cannot escape the consequences of his act by merely traversing the allegations even though on affidavit and thus making the matter a hotly contested issue of fact. Facts in contempt cases are generally admitted or are established beyond controversy. Of course there is no hard and fast rule about it. (1947) 48 Cri LJ 757 (763) (DB) (Lah).

(3) The Court in contempt proceedings based on the ground of disobedience to judicial orders will not enquire into the merits of the case to ascertain whether the order is erroneous. AIR 1958 Punj 180 (183) = ILR (1958) Punj 580 = 1958 Cri LJ 685  (1968) 1 Andh WR 382 = (1968) Mad LJ (Cri) 260.

(4) In practice the opposite parties, namely the parties charged with contempt cannot be called upon to answer to anything which is not set out specifically in the grounds used before the Court at the time the Rule was issued. AIR 1932 Cal 255 (257) = 33 Cri LJ 369 (DB).

(5) The nature of the proceedings for contempt is commonly treated as of criminal aspect, even when they arise in civil actions. Freest opportunity should always be given to the respondent to present his defence. AIR 1959 Punj 632 (636) = 1959 Cri LJ 1469.

(6) Though contempt jurisdiction is considered to be summary jurisdiction, Courts are not barred from holding a detailed enquiry, when necessary. (1967) All Cri R 488 = 1967 All WR (HC) 776.

12. Defences in contempt proceedings.—

(1) A person charged with committing contempt of Court by disobeying its order is entitled to raise any technical objection which might stand in his favour on the question as to whether there had been actual disobedience of the order of the Court. AIR 1953 Pat 99 (99, 100) = 1953 Cri LJ 816 (DB).

(2) Rule that party in contempt cannot be heard is inapplicable when order for the breach of which contempt is alleged is challenged on ground of want of jurisdiction. AIR 1931 Bom 402 (402) = 55 Bom 803 (DB)  ILR (1968) 1 Ker 384 (541) = 1968 Ker LJ 197 (FB)  (1966) 68 Bom LR 453 = 1966 Mah LJ 693.

(3) It is no defence for a charge of contempt by interference with the possession of Receiver appointed by the Court, to state that the order was erroneous, unjustified or even contrary to law, so long as the Court making the order acted within jurisdiction. AIR 1958 Punj 471 (476) = ILR (1958) Punj 1822 = 1958 Cri LJ 1559.

(4) A disrespectful conduct in Court if it amounts to a contempt cannot be defended on the ground that the Court was acting without jurisdiction in the proceedings during which the contempt was committed. AIR 1956 All 258 (267) = ILR (1956) 1 All 656 = 1956 Cri LJ 679 (DB).

(5) Violation of the order of injunction cannot be excused on the ground that though the Court acted within its jurisdiction, the order that is passed was erroneous. (1968) 1 Andh WR 382 = (1968) Mad LJ (Cri.) 260 (DB).

(6) Innocence of the contemner in doing the act which amounts to contempt is no defence to the charge of contempt. It would be relevant only for determining the punishment. AIR 1945 Nag 33 (47) = ILR (1945) Nag 74 (DB)  AIR 1962 SC 1172 (1179) = 1962 (2) Cri LJ 262 = 1962 Supp (2) SCR 838. (AIR 1959 Punj 182. (7) It is no defence, to a charge of contempt that the offensive article never reached the eyes of the Court, or that the Court was not prevented from performing its duties fairly and properly or that they were published without intent to injure the parties or interfere with the administration of justice. (1961) 2 Cri LJ 104 (106) = 1960 Ker LT 792 (DB)  (1965) 2 Ker LR 124 = 1965 Ker LT 871 (DB).

(9) Pleas of justification or privilege are strictly speaking not available to contemner except perhaps as matters of tending to aggravate or mitigate offence of contempt. AIR 1966 All 588 (589) = 1966 Cri LJ 1361  AIR 1963 Bom 254 (262) = 1963 (2) Cri LJ 603 = 65 Bom LR 131 (DB).

(10) The excuse that a person may be found fault with by the higher authorities or that he should consult the higher authorities before complying with the orders of Court can be of no avail when he is asked to show cause why he should not be committed for contempt. (1965) 2 Andh WR 483 = (1966) 1 Andh LT 158 (DB)  AIR 1967 Andh Pra 19 (21) = 1967 Cri LJ 19 = (1965) 2 Andh WR 483 (DB).

(11) In case of prohibitive orders, the fact that they were not served on the officers concerned is not a defence to their liability for contempt of Court, if they came to know of that order from a source whose authenticity they cannot doubt. (1967) 1 Andh WR 129 (DB).

(12) The fact that the offending publication was of the report as given by the Police Officer himself and the publication itself showed this, did not absolve the publishers and the editor of the publication of the responsibility for contempt, when the report amounted to contempt of Court. AIR 1959 Ker 266 (272, 273) = 1959 Cri LJ 1075 = 1959 Ker LT 102 (DB).

(13) Person charged for committing contempt by acting in contravention of prohibitory order issued by High Court, cannot take plea that he was not party to that proceeding or that the order was not received by the concerned person. (1968) 2 Andh WR 208 = 1968 Mad LJ (Cri) 531 (DB).

(14) A Police Officer cannot escape the consequences of his acts of contempt by setting up a plea under Section 43, Police Act. Nor would Section 23 of that Act avail him against his deliberate unlawful acts of contempt. AIR 1958 Punj 471 (478) = ILR (1958) Punj 1822 = 1958 Cri LJ 1529.

(15) The immunity granted to the Judicial Officers by the Judicial Officers Protection Act of 1850 cannot be used as a shield in proceedings for contempt of Courts. AIR 1958 Punj 471 (478) = ILR (1958) Punj 1822 = 1958 Cri LJ 1529.

(16) The sooner the misconception is removed from the mind of those taking defence of freedom of press that they are not accountable to the law for what they edit, write and print, the better it will be for society. 1966 Cri LJ 214 (217) = 1965 MPLJ 844 (DB).

13. Evidence and mode of proof.— (1) In proceedings for contempt, a Court should not act on inferences and surmises, but must give a finding that the persons charged with contempt have been proved to have committed the contempt. AIR 1952 Mad 180 (180) = 1952 Cri LJ 389.

(2) In the case of breach of an order of the Court if it is done by a private person, apparently to gain some unlawful advantage, the presumption would be that infringement or disobedience was wilful, but in the case of an official, if he commits a certain disobedience, there would be a presumption in his favour, that he had in the ordinary circumstances, done it bona fide and unintentionally. The presumption is not irrebuttable. AIR 1960 All 231 (234) = 1960 Cri LJ 442 = 1960 All LJ 247 (DB).

(3) In the absence of evidence showing the connection with or responsibility of a managing director in the publication of a news item which amounts to contempt, such managing director of a news agency is not ipso facto and as a matter of law, liable in contempt for such news. AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (324) = ILR (1952) Cut 1 = 1952 Cri LJ 1605.

(4) In proceedings for contempt against newspaper editors for comments on pending proceedings, the prosecution need not affirmatively establish that the offender had knowledge of pendency of proceedings. AIR 1955 Orissa 169 (171) = ILR (1955) Cut 323 = 1955 Cri LJ 1514 (DB).  AIR 1966 Cal 411 (420) = 1966 Cri LJ 883 = 70 Cal WN 579.

(5) Contempt proceedings even if they are judicial proceedings within the meaning of Section 1 of the Evidence Act have always been treated as falling outside the scope of that section and hence it is not necessary to prove a contempt in the manner provided for proving any fact by that Act. In those proceedings the Court is competent to adopt its own procedure for deriving satisfaction on the question that a contempt has been committed. AIR 1955 All 638 (640) = ILR (1956) 2 All 470 = 1955 Cri LJ 1451 (DB)  AIR 1960 Pat 430 (436, 437) = 1960 Cri LJ 1254 = 1960 BLJR 622 (FB).

(6) In cases of criminal contempt the facts can be proved by affidavit. AIR 1955 All 638 (640) = ILR (1956) 2 All 470 = 1955 Cri LJ 1451 (DB).

(7) In the contempt proceedings, if an alleged contemner does not deny on affidavit, an allegation made by the applicant, he runs the risk of the applicant's statement being accepted and acted upon. AIR 1951 Nag 26 (32) = ILR (1951) Nag 266 = 52 Cri LJ 452 (DB).

(8) Generally speaking it is not necessary to take oral evidence in Court in contempt cases. The evidence in such cases usually consists of sworn affidavits. (1947) 48 Cri LJ 757 (763) (Lah).

(9) Where a contemner wishes to defend himself he is to be given every opportunity having regard to the nature of summary proceedings in the trial of contempt matters, but it is for the Court to decide whether the documents produced had the tendency or were calculated to interfere with the course of justice by embarrassing the trial Judge in the trial of the cause and any witness outside the Court need not be examined to give opinion on the matter. AIR 1968 Punj 217 (236) = 1968 Cri LJ 775 = 69 Pun LR 673 (FB).

(10) For conviction for contempt of Court arising from scandalising the Court, it is not necessary that 'clear and present danger' to the orderly and impartial administration of justice has to be made out. ILR (1968) 1 Ker 384 (519-20) = 1968 Ker LJ 197 (FB).

(11) An affidavit filed by the complainant in contempt of Courts proceedings attributing knowledge of pendency of proceedings to alleged contemner which rests on information and belief without any particulars in regard to the source and basis of that information is not a legal evidence of the fact that contemner had knowledge of the case. AIR 1958 Mad 558 (560) = ILR (1958) Mad 851 = 1958 Cri LJ 1421  AIR 1959 Cal 106 (113) = 1959 Cri LJ 172 (DB)  AIR 1958 Mad 558 (561) = 1958 Cri LJ 1421 = (1958) 2 Mad LJ 425 (DB).

(12) Where the contempt is obvious from the documents produced the Court can proceed against the person guilty of the contempt even without first obtaining an affidavit from same person. AIR 1943 All 67 (68) = ILR (1942) All 942.

(13) Where a contempt is committed in presence of the Court, it is competent for the Court to punish the offender on the evidence of what it has seen and heard, without any trial or issue. AIR 1958 Punj 141 (143) = ILR (1958) Punj 745 = 1958 Cri LJ 673.

(14) If a contumacious speech is denied by the contemner, Courts can always take evidence and on proof of the speech deal with the contemner according to law. AIR 1966 Cal 411 (423) = 1966 Cri LJ 883 = 70 Cal WN 579.

(15) The report of the Court stands on the same footing as an affidavit by it and would be evidence to prove its contents. AIR 1956 All 258 (263) = ILR (1956) 1 All 656 = 1956 Cri LJ 679 (DB).

[But see AIR 1929 Cal 115 (116) (DB).]

(16) There is no prescribed or settled practice in Orissa High Court to mark documents as exhibits in contempt cases. AIR 1953 Orissa 266 (268) = ILR (1952) Cut 467 = 1953 Cri LJ 1578.

(17) An alleged contemner not being exactly an accused person can file an affidavit or make a statement on oath. AIR 1951 Pat 443 (444) = 52 Cri LJ 558 (DB)  AIR 1943 Lah 329 (346) = ILR (1944) Lah 111 = 45 Cri LJ 445 (FB).

(18) Although there is no bar to a contemner giving evidence on his own behalf by an affidavit, his not doing so and remaining silent cannot be treated as supplying the prima facie evidence against him which is absent in the case. AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (324) = ILR (1952) Cut 1 = 1952 Cri LJ 1605.

(19) A person against whom a charge of contempt of Court has been levelled is neither an accused within the meaning of Section 5 of the Oaths Act nor a person accused of an offence within the meaning of Article 20 (3) of the Constitution of India. Hence the cross-examination of him upon an affidavit filed by him voluntarily is not barred. AIR 1954 All 523 (537) = ILR (1954) 1 All 394 = 1954 Cri LJ 1141 (FB).

(20) Where there is any reasonable doubt in a case of contempt of Court the person charged with the contempt is entitled to the benefit of that doubt. (21) In the matter of a prohibitory order issued by a Court, it is not necessary that the order itself should have been served on the party against whom it has been granted in order to justify committal for breach of such an order, provided it is proved that the person complained against had notice of the order aliunde. AIR 1967 All 93 (98) = 1967 Cri LJ 291.

(2) High Court will not exercise summary jurisdiction except in a case beyond reasonable doubt. AIR 1967 Andh Pra 299 (308) = 1967 Cri LJ 1470 = ILR (1968) Andh Pra 42 (DB).

(3) Although the Court has issued a rule in a case of contempt it can examine the grounds on which it was issued and discharge the accused when those grounds are found to be insufficient. AIR 1932 Cal 255 (257) = 33 Cri LJ 369.

(4) The fact that in a case of contempt committed in its face the Court before it calls upon the contemner to show cause comes to a decision that a contempt has been committed does not disqualify the Court from adjudicating upon the matter when cause is shown by the contemner. AIR 1932 Lah 502 (503) = 33 Cri LJ 675 (FB).

(5) The jurisdiction to commit for contempt is an extraordinary one and should be sparingly and circumspectly used. AIR 1956 Andhra 84 (86) = ILR (1955) Andhra 545 = 1956 Cri LJ 475 (DB)  AIR 1943 Lah 329 (337) = ILR (1944) Lah 111 = 45 Cri LJ 445 (FB)  AIR 1956 Mad 621 (626) = ILR (1956) Mad 1239 (DB)  AIR 1954 All 308 (309) = ILR (1954) 2 All 278 = 1954 Cri LJ 645 (DB)  AIR 1965 SC 745 (791) = (1965) 1 SCR 413  AIR 1969 Delhi 6 (6)  AIR 1969 Delhi 304 (308)  AIR 1969 Orissa 117 (128) = 1969 Cri LJ 763 = ILR (1968) Cut 437 (DB)  (1968) 2 Andh WR 208 = 1968 Mad LJ (Cri) 531 (DB)  1968 Cri LJ 248 (250) = 71 Cal WN 771 (DB)  AIR 1968 Ker 301 (307) = 1968 Cri LJ 1424 = 1968 Ker LT 157 (DB)  AIR 1967 Andh Pra 219 (225, 226) = 1967 Cri LJ 984 = ILR (1967) Andh Pra 487 (DB)  1963 (1) Cri LJ 820 (823) = 1963 MPLJ 148 (DB).

(6) Power to proceed against persons for contempt is a shield given to Courts for protecting their authority and making the same effective. It is a protective power necessary for the proper functioning of Court and due administration of justice. 1969 Ker LT 513 (517) = 1969 Ker LJ 453 (DB).

(7) Proceedings by way of contempt being summary, and the Court being both accuser and judge of accusation, such proceedings have to be initiated in exceptional cases where there is a serious interference with proceedings of Court. The jurisdiction for committing for contempt being practically arbitrary and unlimited, must be most jealously and carefully watched and exercised with greatest reluctance and greatest anxiety on the part of judges. AIR 1969 Delhi 291 (293, 294) (DB).

(8) In action by way of contempt, Court is both the accuser and judge of the accusation. It behoves the Court to act with due circumspection — Court must always be jealous in vindicating its dignity and impartiality while at the same time, it must exercise its power with restraint and care — Litigant may have a grievance in a matter decided by Courts, but that cannot justify use of intemperate or improper language by aggrieved party in reference to Courts. AIR 1969 Delhi 169 (169, 170) (FB).

(9) A Court will not exercise its extraordinary power of committal upon light occasions and where the ends of justice do not require its use. (16) Interference with due course of justice in pending proceedings — Case in question referred to in public speech made by P — P explicitly declaring that that case was sub judice and he would refrain from any discussion about it — In view of cautionary trends of speech, jurisdiction relating to contempt of Court held could not be invoked. AIR 1969 Mad 378 (380) (DB).

(17) Benefit of doubt — Publication of letter in a pending case marked by Court only for identification — Letter neither proved, nor admitted in evidence nor read out in Court — Held that in view of principle that action for contempt should be taken with caution and deliberation, it was proper to ignore publication of full text of letter in newspaper in peculiar facts of case and benefit of doubt given to accused. AIR 1969 Delhi 201 (212) (FB).

(18) The High Court will not exercise its jurisdiction in contempt upon a mere question of propriety. (19) The matter of dealing with the contempt is totally within the jurisdiction of the High Court and is not the right of any party in any sense. Further, this jurisdiction must be very sparingly used only where the interests of justice imperatively require its use, and even then only to the limit strictly called for by such interests: any impression that the exercise of such jurisdiction or the power to punish for contempt, has been made in a somewhat hasty or dominating mode without carefully considering the consequence involved to parties may be even more unfavourable to the administration of justice, than permitting such acts of contempt to go unnoticed. (1969) Mad LW 25 (28) (DB) (Cri).

(20) The jurisdiction to commit for contempt should not be used to vindicate any personal interest of the Judge but only the general administration of law which is the public concern. (5) Held on facts that the object of contemner clearly was to scandalize the magistrates and thus to deflect them from a strict and non-hesitant performance of their duties and hence Section 3 (2) was no bar to jurisdiction of High Court to punish contemner for contempt of subordinate Court—Penal Code (1860), Section 228. AIR 1969 Delhi 214 (219) (SB).

20. Contempt of Courts, what amounts to — See Notes under S. 1.

SECTION 4 — SYNOPSIS

1. Principles governing award of punishment.
2. Order for payment of costs by contemner.
3. Apology.

1. Principles governing award of punishment. — (1) Punishment for contempt of Court is inflicted not with a view to protect the individual Judges from repetition of the attack or the Court as a whole or maintain the individual or collective dignity of the judges but to ensure the confidence of the public in the administration of free, fearless and impartial justice and to avert the tremendous public mischief which will inevitably be caused if such confidence is allowed so to be undermined or impaired. AIR 1967 Raj 203 (206) = 1967 Cri LJ 1057 = 1966 Raj LW 454 (DB)  AIR 1967 Andh Pra 299 (308) = 1967 Cri LJ 1470 = ILR (1968) Andh Pra 42 (DB)  AIR 1958 Orissa 168 (182) = 1958 Cri LJ 1055 = ILR (1958) Cut 195 (DB).

(2) The High Court's powers for punishment of contempt have been preserved by the Constitution and they are also inherent in a Court of Record. AIR 1964 SC 1625 (1630) = 1964 (2) Cri LJ 590 = (1964) 5 SCR 86.

(3) Although the Court's power to punish contempt is unlimited and absolute it has to be exercised with great forbearance and circumspection in view of the fact that the ordinary protection available to a person accused of any criminal act or offence is not open to a person accused of criminal contempt. AIR 1956 Hyd 33 (34) = ILR (1955) Hyd 833 = 1956 Cri L Jour 400 (DB)  AIR 1969 SC 189 (193) = 1969 Cri LJ 401 = (1969) 1 SCJ 533  AIR 1966 Cal 411 (417) = 1966 Cri LJ 883 = 70 Cal WN 579.

(4) It is only in very grave cases of contempt that the Court would exercise its power under the Act to mete out punishment. AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (333) = ILR (1952) Cut 1 = 1952 Cri L Jour 1605  AIR 1966 Cal 411 (417) = 1966 Cri LJ 883 = 70 Cal WN 579  (1967) All Cr R 488 = 1967 All WR (HC) 776.

(5) The Court would ordinarily exercise its extraordinary powers to punish contempts only in cases where the act or conduct is intentional and deliberate. AIR 1956 Hyd 33 (34) = ILR (1955) Hyd 833 = 1956 Cri L Jour 400 (DB)  AIR 1969 SC 189 (193) = 1969 Cri LJ 401 =

(1969) 1 SCJ 533  1968 Ker LJ 197 = ILR (1968) 1 Ker 384 (FB).

(6) A stricter view has to be taken where the contemner tries to interfere with the course of judicial proceeding and not a word of regret or apology is expressed at any stage. AIR 1966 All 305 (315) = 1966 Cri LJ 632.

(7) Even if a contempt is not of a serious kind the accused should be punished where he instead of apologising persists in contending that he had not committed any offence. AIR 1941 Pat 185 (194) = 20 Pat 306 = 42 Cri L Jour 225 (DB).

(8) Contempt is aggravated where the accused persistently justifies his action. AIR 1945 Nag 33 (49, 50) = ILR (1945) Nag 74 (DB)  AIR 1968 Andh Pra 207 (213) = 1968 Cri LJ 888 = (1968) 2 Andh WR 112 (DB)  (1965) 2 Andh LT 170 (DB).

(9) Maximum sentence of six months was awarded to the habitual contemner who was convicted of contempt of Court on previous occasions for similar acts but sentences awarded found to have no deterrent effect. (1965) 2 Andh LT 170 (DB)  AIR 1966 Bom 19 (29) = 1966 Cri LJ 9 = 67 Bom LR 380 (DB)  (1961) 65 Cal WN 722 (DB).

(10) The summary jurisdiction exercised by the superior Courts in punishing contempt of their authority exists for the purpose of preventing interference with the course of justice and for maintaining the authority of law. This is an extraordinary power which must be sparingly exercised, but where the public interest demands it, the Court will not shrink from exercising it and imposing punishment even by way of imprisonment in cases where a mere fine may not be adequate. AIR 1954 SC 743 (747) = 1955 SCR 677.

(11) A contempt committed by making scandalous allegations against subordinate judges should be dealt with by inflicting deterrent punishment to contemner. AIR 1958 Pat 276 (278) = 1958 Cri L Jour 670  1968 Ker LJ 197 = 1968 Ker LT 299 (FB)  AIR 1968 Andh Pra 207 (213) = 1968 Cri LJ 888 = (1968) 2 Andh WR 112 (DB)  AIR 1966 Andh Pra 167 (173) = 1966 Cri LJ 642 = (1966) 1 Andh WR 164 (DB)  AIR 1961 Pat 360 (361) = 1961 (2) Cri LJ 362 = 1961 BLJR 152 (DB).

(12) Serious contempt of Court such as preventing the bailiff from making an attachment in execution on two occasions and maltreating him and pushing him out of contemner's shop, calls for a deterrent punishment and not a sentence of fine. AIR 1959 Punj 627 (629) = ILR (1959) Punj 1770.

(13) Reckless attacks on the impartiality of presiding officer of Court would not only imperil dignity of Court, but would also endanger proper administration of justice and impair confidence of public in administration of justice. The offence is not such as to be lightly wiped out by a mere expression of regret. 1967 Ker LT 118 (119) = 1967 Mad LJ (Cri) 233 (DB).

(14) A criminal contempt is punishable with fine or imprisonment by the summary process of attachment or committal. AIR 1954 Pat 513 (520) = 33 Pat 603 = 1954 Cri L Jour 1593 (DB)  (1883) 7 Bom 5 (13) (DB).

(15) A person imprisoned for the disobedience of direction given in a decree against him under a process of contempt is not entitled to be released after the lapse of the period prescribed in the Civil P. C. The provisions of the Civil P. C. do not apply to his case. (1879) 4 Cal 655 (657) (DB).

(16) Mitigating circumstances and discretion of Court. — Whether a contempt actually committed is to be followed by substantive punishment and if so to what extent, must depend upon the circumstances of each case. AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (333) = ILR (1952) Cut 1 = 1952 Cri L Jour 1605.

(17) It is in the discretion of the Court to commit or not to commit the person for the contempt which has been established against him. AIR 1945 PC 147 (150) = 72 Ind App 226 = ILR (1945) Kar (PC) 355 = ILR (1945) Bom 959 = 47 Cri L Jour 61  AIR 1957 Hyd 17 (17) = ILR (1956) Hyd 468 (DB)  AIR 1951 Cal 507 (509).

(18) The object of punishment being prevention of crime, its measure varies according to the prevalence of a particular offence. AIR 1950 Pepsu 9 (21) = 1 Pepsu LR 253 = 51 Cri L Jour 1219 (SB)  AIR 1959 Orissa 89 (96) = 1959 Cri LJ 626 = ILR (1958) Cut 631 (DB).

(19) Good faith or innocence of the contemner although it cannot absolve him of his culpability is an extenuating circumstance. AIR 1952 Orissa 318 (339) = ILR (1952) Cut 1 = 1952 Cri L Jour 1605  AIR 1945 Nag 33 (47) = ILR (1945) Nag 74 (DB)  1966 All LJ 953 = 1966 All WR (HC) 197.

(20) Motive or intention of the accused may be properly taken into account in awarding punishment for contempt. 1942 Oudh WN 6 (20) (DB)  AIR 1952 Kutch 74 (77) = 1952 Cri L Jour 1482  AIR 1959 Cal 174 (175) = 1959 Cri LJ 316 = 62 Cal WN 862 (FB)  AIR 1968 Ker 301 (308) = 1968 Cri LJ 1424 = 1968 Ker LT 157 (DB).

[But see AIR 1954 Pat 289 (296) = 1954 Cri L Jour 942 (DB).]

(21) Pleas of justification or privilege are not strictly speaking available to contemner except perhaps as matters tending to aggravate or mitigate offence of contempt. AIR 1966 All 588 (589) = 1966 Cri LJ 1361 = 1966 All LJ 547.

(22) The motive is not a relevant consideration at all in deciding the question whether contempt of Court has been committed or not. Truth or falsity of allegations and lack of intention or knowledge are equally irrelevant matters. But lack of intention or knowledge has bearing on the question whether offender should be convicted after he is found to have committed contempt of Court. It is not necessary that every finding of guilty should be followed by conviction. Every conviction need not be followed by sentence also. 1969 Ker LJ 453 (457) = 1969 Ker LT 513 (DB).

(23) Excitable temper of the accused is a justification for mitigation of the maximum sentence for contempt of Court. AIR 1938 All 358 (362) = ILR (1938) All 548 = 39 Cri L Jour 677 (DB)  AIR 1961 Pat 1 (11) = 1961 (1) Cri LJ 134 = 1960 BLJR 541 (DB).

(24) Where a person disobeys the order of the Court upon the advice of his advocate, the advice though would not absolve him from liability is a mitigating circumstance. (1950) 55 Mys HCR 148 (150, 151) (DB).

(25) Ignorance of law or inability of the legal advisers to properly advise their clients is not a mitigating circumstance. AIR 1969 Delhi 201 (213) = 1969 Cri LJ 884 (FB).

(26) The inherent difficulty of an officer who possesses both magisterial and executive functions is neither an excuse nor an extenuation in his favour when he is found guilty of having committed contempt by addressing certain communication to a subordinate magistrate in connection with a case which was pending before him. AIR 1954 Orissa 1 (6) = ILR (1953) Cut 246 = 1953 Cri L Jour 1906 (DB).

(27) Where certain literate persons, who also held positions in the village panchayat, attempted to influence a magistrate in his decision in a pending case and in their explanation tendered to the Court expressed an opinion that they had a right to do what they did it was held that the ends of justice required that they should be awarded nothing less than a sentence of imprisonment. AIR 1952 All 86 (88).

(28) If the circumstances of a case warrant it, the Court can take a lenient view of the contempt proved against the accused and let him off with a fine only. AIR 1953 Cal 53 (54) = ILR (1954) 1 Cal 415 = 1953 Cri L Jour 214  AIR 1966 Andh Pra 167 (173) = 1966 Cri LJ 642 = (1966) 1 Andh WR 164 (DB)  (1968) 2 Andh WR 208 = 1968 Mad LJ (Cri) 531 (DB).

(29) Where it is uncertain whether the impugned criticism is fair or not, the contemner is entitled to the benefit of this uncertainty. AIR 1966 All 588 (589) = 1966 Cri LJ 1361 = 1966 All LJ 547.

(30) Where facts disclose that only a technical contempt is committed and it is inexpedient in public interest to take any action in the matter, Court would not punish contemner. 1969 Ker LJ 453 (457) = 1969 Ker LT 513 (DB).

(31) Although ordinarily the Court would sentence the accused to imprisonment and fine in a case of gross contempt it could in any particular case take into consideration the fact that the case itself is the first of its kind and sentence the accused only to a fine with imprisonment for default. ILR (1955) Punj 717 (723).

(32) The accused who was found guilty of an act amounting to scandalizing the Court in reference to a pending case was let off with a fine in view of the fact that he so acted not because he had any personal interest in the case but because he had been approached by the parties to the case to give them assistance in his capacity as a responsible officer of a political party to which he belonged. 1954 BLJR 46 (53).

(33) High Court being unable to decide as to the quantum of prejudice likely to be caused by the speech, let off the contemner with expression of disapproval of his conduct. AIR 1966 Cal 411 (428) = 1966 Cri LJ 883 = 70 Cal WN 579.

(34) The fact that the accused who interfered with the course of justice were raw and illiterate villagers was taken into consideration in their favour and they were let off with a mere fine. AIR 1956 Pat 321 (325) = 1956 Cri L Jour 1087  1962 Jab LJ 1147 (DB).

(35) Tender age of the contemner is a circumstance which the Court has to take into consideration. AIR 1959 Cal 174 (175) = 1959 Cri LJ 316 = 62 Cal WN 862 (FB).

(36) The fact that the contemner is a college student and editor only in name of the paper in which offending article was published was taken into consideration in his favour and he was let off only with fine. 1966 Cri LJ 214 (217) = 1965 MPLJ 844 (DB).

(37) Alleged contempt of Court consisted of objectionable language in revision petition — Petition drafted and signed by lawyer — Mere fact that it bears signatures of petitioner also, does not constitute actionable contempt by petitioner. AIR 1969 Delhi 304 (307).

(38) In cases of contempts of a very trifling nature mere warning to the accused that a repetition of the offence would be viewed with severity may be sufficient. AIR 1953 Orissa 249 (253, 254) = ILR (1953) Cut 283 = 1953 Cri L Jour 1491  AIR 1957 Hyd 17 (17) = ILR (1956) Hyd 468 (DB)  AIR 1954 Orissa 57 (64) = 1954 Cri L Jour 311  AIR 1950 East Punj 366 (367)  1968 Ker LJ 197 = ILR (1968) 1 Ker 384 (FB)  AIR 1969 Pat 140 (147) = 1969 Cri LJ 631 = 1968 Pat LJR 589.

(39) Additional District Magistrate not carrying out order of High Court directing accused to surrender to bail — A. D. M. inexperienced in Court procedure and relying on bench clerk — Held guilty of contempt of Court but in the circumstances apology tendered by him was accepted by High Court. AIR 1969 Cal 602 (604) (DB).

(40) In cases of contempt committed by Senior Advocate, the condemnation for contempt by a High Court is itself a heavy punishment against such advocate. AIR 1955 SC 19 (25) = 1955 SCR 757 = 1955 Cri L Jour 133.

(41) If contempt of Court is committed by a person, then merely because someone else takes entire responsibility, it is no ground in law to absolve the former. AIR 1969 Delhi 201 (205) = 1969 Cri LJ 884 (FB).

(42) Simple imprisonment for 3 months for contempt of Court in wilful and deliberate disobedience of the direction of the Court to produce the person detained in Court, is not excessive. AIR 1964 SC 1625 (1629) = (1964) 2 Cri LJ 590 = (1964) 5 SCR 86.

(43) Court's power to punish contempt always carries with it the power to pardon contempt if need be. AIR 1951 Cal 507 (509).

2. Order for payment of costs by contemner.— (1) High Court has jurisdiction to order the payment and recovery of fine from a person punished under the Act. AIR 1935 All 1013 (1014) = 58 All 374 = 36 Cri L Jour 1365 (DB).

(2) The High Court has got inherent power to award costs in a proceeding for contempt. AIR 1969 Pat 70 (71) = 1969 Cri LJ 398 = 1969 BLJR 655 (DB).

(3) Person not interested in case approaching Magistrate in his Chambers after Court hours and asking him to accept bail on behalf of accused — On Magistrate's refusal, person threatening by show of his wealth, to teach him a lesson — Amounts to contempt of Court — Contemner, considering his age was administered warning and was ordered to pay costs. AIR 1969 Delhi 214 (218) (SB).

(4) The Court while discharging the Rule for contempt on the ground that the opposite party had been guilty of only a technical contempt, ordered him to pay costs of the application. AIR

1951 Punj 49 (52) = ILR (1951) Punj 362 = 52 Cri L Jour 950 (DB).

(5) Though the Court rejects the application for contempt accepting the apology of the accused it can award costs of the application against him. AIR 1954 Him Pra 31 (31)  AIR 1914 Cal 550 (554) = 15 Cri L Jour 65.

(6) Person obstructing receiver in discharge of his duty may be made to pay costs of a hearing. AIR 1914 Cal 550 (554) = 15 Cri L Jour 65.

(7) Costs directed to be paid by a person punished under the Contempt of Courts Act can be recovered on the same lines as on which decrees are executed. AIR 1935 All 1013 (1014) = 58 All 374 = 36 Cri L Jour 1365 (DB).

3. Apology.— (1) An apology by itself is not sufficient to purge the guilt of the contemner. AIR 1955 SC 19 (23) = 1955 SCR 757 = 1955 Cri L Jour 133  AIR 1934 All 317 (318) = 35 Cri L Jour 433 (DB)  AIR 1969 Cal 1 (3, 4) = 1969 Cri LJ 40 = 72 Cal WN 82 (SB)  AIR 1967 Raj 203 (207) = 1967 Cri LJ 1057 = 1966 Raj LW 454 (DB)  AIR 1964 Cal 572 (586) = 1964 (2) Cri LJ 660 = 69 Cal WN 82 (DB)  AIR 1959 Cal 174 (175) = 62 Cal WN 862 = 1959 Cri LJ 316 (FB)  1962 Jab LJ 1147 (DB).

(2) An apology does not entitle the accused to a discharge as a matter of right. AIR 1948 Oudh 114 (116) = 23 Luck 37 = 49 Cri L Jour 108 (DB)  AIR 1967 Ker 177 (180) = 1967 Cri LJ 1147 = 1967 Ker LT 59 (DB)  AIR 1959 Cal 174 (176) = 1959 Cri LJ 316 = 62 Cal WN 862 (FB)  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 50 (52) = 1959 Cri LJ 199 = 1958 MPLJ 820 (DB).

(3) A Court can even when it accepts an apology, commit the offender to prison or otherwise punish him. AIR 1953 All 153 (158) = 1953 Cri L Jour 402  AIR 1940 Sind 239 (246) = ILR (1941) Kar 3 = 42 Cri L Jour 1 (FB)  AIR 1961 Pat 1 (11) = 1961 (1) Cri LJ 134 = 1960 BLJR 541 (DB).

(4) In considering the steps to be taken and the punishment to be awarded to the person accused of having committed contempt of Court it is open to the Court to take into account the apology tendered by him. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 152 (152) = 1957 Cri L Jour 1137.

(5) Punishment can be remitted by accepting the unconditional apology of the accused. AIR 1934 All 317 (318) = 35 Cri L Jour 433 (DB)  AIR 1950 Sind 1 (2, 3) = 51 Cri L Jour 810 (FB).

(6) Unqualified apology accompanied by genuine regret in a clear case of contempt entitled a pardon to the offender. 1966 All LJ 953 = 1966 All WR (HC) 197.

(7) The question whether an apology should be accepted in any case depends upon the facts of that case and the

Court is not bound as a matter of rule to accept an apology in every case even if it is an unqualified one. AIR 1953 All 153 (157) = 1953 Cri L Jour 492  AIR 1953 Pat 364 (365) = 1953 Cri L Jour 1779 (DB)  AIR 1952 All 86 (87)  AIR 1961 Pat 1 (10) = 1961 (1) Cri LJ 134 = 1960 BLJR 541 (DB)  AIR 1969 Cal 1 (3) = 1969 Cri LJ 40 = 72 Cal WN 82 (SB)  AIR 1967 Ker 177 (180) = 1967 Cri LJ 1147 = 1967 Ker LT 59 (DB)  AIR 1967 Raj 203 (207) = 1967 Cri LJ 1057 = 1966 Raj LW 454 (DB)  AIR 1964 Cal 572 (586) = 1964 (2) Cri LJ 660 = 69 Cal WN 82 (DB)  1967 Cur LJ 883 (Punj).

(8) Mere apology is not enough to purge the guilt of contempt. The Court has to consider the background in the light of the facts both antecedent to the offer of apology as also the contemner's subsequent conduct right upto the contempt proceedings. AIR 1959 Orissa 89 (94) = 1959 Cri LJ 626 = ILR (1958) Cut 631 (DB).

(9) Unqualified apology tendered at the outset by admitting mistake in a straightforward manner, for act done unwittingly, should be accepted. AIR 1967 All 93 (100) = 1967 Cri LJ 291.

(10) An apology in order to dilute the offence must be voluntary. AIR 1957 All 457 (459) = 1957 Cri L Jour 801  AIR 1961 Pat 1 (11) = 1961 (1) Cri LJ 134 = 1960 BLJR 541 (DB)  AIR 1960 Orissa 132 (137) = 1960 Cri LJ 1120 = 26 Cut LT 116.

(11) The apology must be an unconditional apology born out of repentance or remorse. The contemner cannot enter into any kind of stipulation with the Court in that respect. AIR 1966 Bom 19 (29) = 1966 Cri LJ 9 = 67 Bom LR 380 (DB)  AIR 1969 Delhi 201 (211) = 1969 Cri LJ 884 (FB).

(12) Unconditional apology amounts in law to a confession of the guilt. Consequently, once unqualified apology is tendered by the contemner, the Court cannot drop the proceedings against him, but must convict him though the Court might accept unqualified apology and discharge him without punishment, when the offence is only technical. (1958) 24 Cut LT 479 = (1959) 29 Com Cas 264.

(13) An apology should not necessarily be taken as a confession of guilt and the accused may be pronounced not guilty of contempt although he has made an apology. AIR 1953 SC 436 (437) = 31 Pat 182 = 1953 Cri L Jour 1837.

(14) An expression of regret if genuine should ordinarily be accepted in mitigation of the offence. AIR 1958 Punj 377 (384) = ILR (1958) Punj 1723 = 1958 Cri L Jour 1225  AIR 1940 Sind 239 (246) = ILR (1941) Kar 3 = 42 Cri L Jour 1 (FB)  AIR 1954 Hyd 180 (181) = ILR (1954)

Hyd 170 = 1954 Cri L Jour 1300  (1954) 56 Pun LR 302 (304) =  AIR 1968 Ker 301 (308) = 1968 Cri LJ 1424 = 1968 Ker LT 157 (DB)  AIR 1967 Guj 124 (126) = 7 Guj LR 970  1966 All LJ 953 = 1966 All WR (HC) 197  1963 (2) Cri LJ 219 (224) = 1962 MPLJ 1121 (DB).

(15) The apology must be unequivocal and not hedging and hypothetical. AIR 1964 Cal 572 (586) = 1964 (2) Cri LJ 660 = 69 Cal WN 82 (DB).

(16) Although a contempt of Court by a subordinate judicial officer must be treated as an intentional one and a more serious matter because he is one who in the nature of things is educated and should have known his duty his apology when he tenders one carries with it, for the same reason, the stamp of being a genuine apology. AIR 1952 All 56 (59) = ILR (1953) 2 All 332 = 1952 Cri L Jour 223 (DB).

[See also AIR 1959 Pat 373 (373, 374) = 1959 Cri LJ 1013 = 1959 BLJR 352 (DB).]

(17) An apology is intended to be evidence of real contriteness the manly consciousness of a wrong done, of an injury inflicted, and the earnest desire to make such reparation as lies in the wrongdoer's power. Only then it is of any avail in a Court of justice. (22) While Courts will assume an unconditional apology tendered at an early stage to be sincere they would refuse to do so in the case of belated apologies even if they are unqualified. (29) Justification of his act by contemner and at the same time tendering an apology are incompatible and incongruous and such an apology cannot but be taken as an afterthought put forward in the hope of avoiding the consequence. Such an apology cannot be entertained. AIR 1969 Pat 323 (327) = 1969 Pat LJ 110 (113).

(30) An apology tendered at the end of the argument in justification of the contempt is nothing more than an after-thought put forward to avoid the consequences of the offence if the Court were to hold the accused guilty. AIR 1953 All 153 (158) = 1953 Cri L Jour 402  AIR 1954 Kutch 2 (6) = 1954 Cri L Jour 390  AIR 1969 Cal 1 (3) = 1969 Cri LJ 40 = 72 Cal WN 82 (SB).

(31) The proper method for tendering an apology by the person complained against in an action for contempt of Court is to offer it in the first instance and thereafter make his submissions in defence of his conduct. (32) In border line cases where a question of principle about rights of counsel and their duties has to be settled Courts will consider even an alternative plea of apology because in such cases, as it is possible for the Judge to conclude that no contempt has been committed, the defence of unqualified apology, which tantamounts to the admission of guilt, would be meaningless. AIR 1955 SC 19 (24) = 1955 SCR 757 = 1955 Cri L Jour 133  AIR 1969 Orissa 117 (132) = 1969 Cri LJ 763 = ILR (1968) Cut 437 (DB).

(33) Unqualified apology coupled with justification for objectionable remarks against Judge — Justification vague — Contemner uneducated and frustrated in litigation — Held no serious action against contemner was called for except being admonished. AIR 1965 Mad 415 (416) = 1965 (2) Cri LJ 371 = (1965) 1 Mad LJ 322 (DB).

(34) Where the contempt alleged against the accused is his disobedience to an order of injunction under Order 39, Rule 1 of Civil P. C. and the accused admitting his disobedience tenders an unqualified apology it cannot be said that the apology is a conditional one merely because he has not also given up his defence in the suit but on the other hand mentioned that defence in the apology. AIR 1954 Him Pra 31 (31).

(35) A contempt of a very grave character should be punished in spite of the unconditional apology of the contemner. (36) The Court should not permit a person who is found to have deliberately sworn a false affidavit in proceedings before the Court, to get away with an apology except in very exceptional circumstances. 1967 Cur LJ 888 (Punj).

(37) The proviso to the section gives the High Court a power of reviewing its judgment awarding punishment to an accused under the Act where the accused offers an apology to the satisfaction of the Court. But that power however is discretionary. AIR 1953 Him Pra 3 (4) = 1953 Cri L Jour 92.

(38) An unqualified apology although it is not sufficient to let go the accused unpunished where his contempt is grave and his conduct persistently contumacious can justify some leniency being shown to the accused in the matter of punishment. (39) An apology which is neither sincere nor satisfactory and which besides is a belated one will not be accepted by the Courts especially in cases of gross contempt as sufficient to treat the accused leniently and let him off without any punishment at all. (ACT XLIX OF 1950)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"Pursuant to Articles 267 (1) and 283 (1) of the Constitution, this Bill seeks to provide for the establishment of the Contingency Fund of India, and for the custody of, the payment of moneys into and the withdrawal of moneys from, such fund. It is proposed to place a sum of fifteen crores of rupees in the Fund, which will be administered by the Finance Ministry on behalf of the President. The advances will be resumed to the Fund as soon as the necessary supplementary funds have been authorised by Parliament through Supplementary Appropriation Acts or at the end of the Financial Year."

[THE] CONTINUANCE OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS ACT, 1948

(ACT XXXVIII OF 1948)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

"Section 15 (2) of the Indian Independence Act, 1947, provides inter alia that any legal proceedings by or against the Secretary of State in respect of any right or liability of the undivided India or any part thereof which were pending in Indian Courts immediately before the 15th August, 1947, shall be continued by or against such person as may be designated by order of the Governor-General under Section 9 of that Act or otherwise by law of the Dominion concerned. Article 12 (3) of the Indian Independence (Rights, Property and Liabilities) Order, 1947, makes the requisite provision for the continuance of such legal proceedings, but only in respect of any liability of the undivided India or part thereof. This Article does not cover proceedings in respect of any right of the undivided India. The Bihar Government brought to the notice of the Government of India the existence of a long pending suit which was instituted in 1933 before the passing of the Government of India Act, 1935, in the name of the Secretary of State in Council to establish the right of Government to underground minerals in an estate, and since there was the possibility of a few more cases of a similar character pending by or against the Secretary of State in some of the Courts, an Ordinance entitled the Continuance of Legal Proceedings Ordinance, 1948 (12 of 1948), was promulgated. The object of the present Bill is to convert that Ordinance into an Act of the Legislature."

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

[*] For Statement of Objects and Reasons see Gaz. of Ind., 1948, Pt. V, p. 464.

1. Short title and extent.—(1) This Act may be called THE CONTINUANCE OF LEGAL PROCEEDINGS ACT, 1948.

(2) It extends to *[the whole of India except †[the territories which, immediately before the 1st November, 1956, were comprised in Part B States].]

P.: Pepsu with pre-reorganisation Punjab and Saurashtra now forms part of Gujarat.

2. Interpretation.—In this Act, "the appointed day" means the 15th day of August, 1947.

[THE INDIAN] CONTRACT ACT, 1872

(ACT IX OF 1872)*

[25th April, 1872.]

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to contracts; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

[*] For the Statement of Objects and Reasons for the Bill, which was based on a Report of Her Majesty's Commissioners appointed to prepare a body of substantive law for India, dated July 6, 1866, see Gazette of India, 1867, Extraordinary, page 34; for the Report of the Select Committee, see ibid, Extraordinary, dated 28th March, 1872; for discussion in Council, see ibid, 1867, Supplement, p. 1064; ibid, 1871, p. 313 and ibid, 1872, p. 527.

The Chapters and Sections of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882 (4 of 1882), which relate to contracts are, in places in which that Act is in force, to be taken as part of this Act—see T. P. Act 4 of 1882, S. 4.

PREAMBLE — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope of the Act.

2. Interpretation of the Act.

3. Illustrations to sections.

1. Applicability and scope of the Act.

— (1) The Contract Act is both an amending and a consolidating Act and it is not exhaustive of the law of contract to be applied by the Courts in India. AIR 1942 Bom 302 (303) = ILR (1942) Bom 670  AIR 1917 Bom 268 (270).

(2) The Contract Act, so far as it goes, is exhaustive and imperative. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (548) = 30 Ind App 114 (PC).

(3) Although the Indian Contract Act purports to deal only with certain parts of the law relating to contracts yet where it treats with a subject in a way at variance with the English law, it should be considered as exhaustive and binding on Courts in India. AIR 1916 Nag 104 (110) (DB).

(4) Wherever the provisions of the Contract Act do not apply in terms to a case the principles of English law become applicable as rules of justice, equity and good conscience. AIR 1952 Cal 93 (98)  AIR 1942 Bom 302 (304) = ILR (1942) Bom 670  AIR 1939 Bom 23 (25) = ILR (1938) Bom 794 (DB)  AIR 1966 SC 543 (549) = (1966) 1 SCR 656. (Act is not exhaustive — It does not refer to Banker's lien in respect of cash deposits.)  AIR 1960 Punj 632 (635) = ILR (1960) 2 Punj 823 (DB)  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 234 (237) = 1959 Jab LJ 281.

(5) English principles of equity can be applied only if they are not opposed to the provisions of the Contract Act. AIR 1937 Oudh 82 (86) = 13 Luck 65 (DB).

(6) The Contract Act, including Section 73, applies in terms to all contracts including those in respect of lands. The Indian Courts cannot, therefore, even where the result might appear hard, apply to such contracts foreign rules of law or equity, modifying the express terms of

PRELIMINARY

1. Short title.—This Act may be called THE INDIAN CONTRACT ACT, 1872.

Extent: Commencement.—It extends to the *whole of India †[except the State of Jammu and Kashmir]; and it shall come into force on the first day of September, 1872.

‡[* ° °] Nothing herein contained shall affect the provisions of any Statute, Act or Regulation not hereby expressly repealed, nor any usage or custom of trade, nor any incident of any contract, not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act.

[*] This Act has been declared to be in force in—the Santhal Parganas [See the Santhal Parganas Settlement Regulation (3 of 1872), S. 3]; Panth Piploda [See the Panth Piploda Laws Regulation, 1929 (1 of 1929), S. 2.]

It has been declared by notification under S. 3 (a) of the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874 (14 of 1874) to be in force in the Tarai of the Province of Agra—see Gaz. of Ind., 1876, Pt. I, page 505; and in the Districts of Hazaribagh, Lohardaga and Manbhum, and Pargana Dhalbhum and the Kolhan in the District of Singbhum—See Gaz. of Ind., 1881, Pt. I, page 504. (The District of Lohardaga included at this time the present District of Palamau which was separated in 1894. The District of Lohardaga is now called the Ranchi District—See Calcutta Gazette, 1899, Pt. I, page 44). (All these districts form parts of Bihar State now.)

It has been extended to Berar by the Berar Laws Act, 1941 (4 of 1941).

This Act has been extended to the new Provinces and Merged States, by the Merged States (Laws) Act, 1949 (59 of 1949), S. 3 [1-1-1950] and to the Union Territories of Manipur and Tripura by the Union Territories (Laws) Act, 1950 (30 of 1950), S. 3 [16-4-1950]. Vindhya Pradesh to which the Act was extended by this Act, now forms part of State of M. P. — See Act 37 of 1956, S. 9 (1) (e) [1-11-1956].

the Statute. AIR 1927 Sind 120 (122) = 19 Sind LR 337.

(7) Justice, equity and good conscience mean the rules of English law so far as they are applicable to Indian circumstances. AIR 1939 Sind 125 (126) = ILR (1939) Kar 422 (DB)  (1935) 62 Cal 612 (617) (DB).

(8) The general provisions of the Contract Act do not supersede the provisions of a special later enactment such as Bombay Hereditary Offices Act. AIR 1928 Bom 201 (203) (DB).

(9) The Contract Act (9 of 1872), is not retrospective. (1874) 12 Beng LR 451 (458, 472) (SB)  1946 Jaipur LR 442 (445) (DB).

2. Interpretation of the Act. — (1) The Court must interpret an Act where it applies and the natural meaning of the words should be followed uninfluenced by the previous state of the law. AIR 1932 Bom 168 (172, 173) = 56 Bom 101 (DB).

(2) Indian law of contract is similar to the English law of contract. But where the Indian law clearly lays down principles that may not be identical with the English law, the Court has to be cautious in accepting citations of English law or rulings applying that law. The duty of the Court is to apply the Indian statute literally and unambiguously. AIR 1952 Vindh Pra 51 (57).

(3) The definition of "good faith" in General Clauses Act would not apply to Contract Act. The definition of 'good faith' as understood generally in civil law would apply viz., that nothing is said to be done in 'good faith' which is done without due care and attention. AIR 1969 Bom 127 (130) (DB).

3. Illustrations to sections. — (1) The illustration to a section cannot control the plain meaning of the section itself especially when its effect would curtail a right purported to be conferred by the section. AIR 1917 Bom 268 (270).

(2) The illustrations are only intended to assist in construing the language of the Act. It is a mistake to be guided by the illustrations, rather than considering the wording of the sections. (1874) 22 Suth WR 367 (368) (DB).

Section 1 — Note 1

(1) The law of contract is the law of the place where the contract was made. Where the law of one province of British India is distinct from the law of the other province, the two provinces must be regarded for the purposes of this rule, as foreign countries inter se. AIR 1970 All 108 (113). (Act has no extra territorial operation.)

(2) The proper law of contract which would govern the validity, interpretation and effect of a contract of affreightment

It has also been extended to the States Merged in the States of Bombay and Punjab; see Bombay Act 4 of 1950 and Punjab Act 5 of 1950 respectively. States of Bombay and Punjab have now been reorganised into two States each, namely, Maharashtra and Gujarat and Punjab and Haryana respectively — See Acts 11 of 1960 and 31 of 1966.

The Act has been amended in C. P. by C. P. Act 1 of 1915 and in C. P. and Berar by C. P. and Berar Act 15 of 1938. This latter Act, in its application to Berar i.e., Vidarbha region of Maharashtra State, has now been repealed by Maharashtra Act 26 of 1963.

It has been extended to the Union Territories of — Dadra and Nagar Haveli by Regulation 6 of 1963 [w.e.f. 1-7-1965].
Goa, Daman and Diu by Regulation 11 of 1963 [w.e.f. 1-12-1965].
Laccadive, Minicoy and Amindivi Islands by Regulation 8 of 1965.

[‡] The words "the enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto are repealed to the extent specified in the third column thereof but" were repealed by the Repealing and Amending Act, 1914 (10 of 1914).

is the law by which the parties intend their contract to be governed. The expressed intention in the contract would determine the proper law of the contract. AIR 1951 Trav-Co 1 (3) = 1950 Trav-Co LR 339 (DB)  AIR 1961 SC 1285 (1294) = (1961) 3 SCR 1020 = 64 Bom LR 169.

(4) The liability of common carriers in India is not affected by the Indian Contract Act, 1872. The written law relating to that liability is untouched by the Act; the unwritten law is not within its scope. (1891) 18 Cal 620 (628) = 18 Ind App 121 (PC).

(5) In India the duties and liabilities of the common carrier are governed by the principles of English common law on the subject except where they have been departed by Indian Statutes. (6) At a meeting between the mortgagees and the family of A and B who were the co-mortgagors it was agreed that A and B should execute a sale deed in favour of the mortgagees in respect of certain properties including the mortgaged properties. The mortgagors subsequently sent a letter to the mortgagees stating these terms to which the mortgagees replied accepting the arrangement and stating that they would reconvey the mortgaged items at the cost of mortgagors. It was held that the promisee under the arrangement was the wife of B and that was in no way affected by the statement in the letter of acceptance that the property would be reconveyed at the cost of mortgagors on their demand. AIR 1953 SC 443 (446).

2. Consideration need not be to the benefit of the promisor.— (1) It is not necessary that promisor should benefit by consideration. AIR 1926 Nag 149 (151)  AIR 1934 All 271 (272)  1967 Raj LW 383.

(6-a) The rule regarding lack of mutuality is not without exceptions or apparent exceptions; one such exception is of a contract where one party has an option by the exercise of which the other party, becomes bound to perform his part'. AIR 1967 Mad 375 (379) = 79 Mad LW 726 (DB).

(6-b) An agreement to reconvey was supported by the element of mutuality. AIR 1964 Mad 219 (220, 221) = (1964) 1 Mad LJ 135 (DB).

3. Consideration may proceed from third party.— (1) The consideration for a promise need not necessarily move from the promisee but may move from a third party. AIR 1939 Pat 477 (485) (DB)  AIR 1940 Rang 91 (93)  AIR 1936 Bom 344 (351) = 60 Bom 954 (DB)  AIR 1930 All 434 (436) (DB)  AIR 1923 Mad 434 (435)  (1883) 6 Mad 351 (354) (DB)  (1965) 2 Mad LJ 329 = 78 Mad LW 446.

(709)  AIR 1934 Oudh 442 (2) (444).
  AIR 1960 All 446 (448).

(1-A) Family arrangement as such can be arrived at orally. Its terms may be recorded in writing as a memorandum of what had been agreed upon. AIR 1966 SC 292 (295) = (1966) 2 SCJ 290.

(2) Parties can arrange to avoid necessity for legal proceedings and such arrangement is supported by sufficient consideration. (1809) 4 Ind Cas 513 (516) (DB) (Cal)  AIR 1934 Lah 163 (163).

(2-A) No doubt a family arrangement which is for the benefit of the family generally can be enforced in a Court of law. But before the Court would do so, it must be shown that there was an occasion for effecting a family arrangement and that it was acted upon. AIR 1965 SC 825 (828) = (1965) 1 SCR 26.

(2-B) Courts give effect to a family settlement upon the broad and general ground that its object is to settle existing or future disputes regarding property amongst members of a family. The word 'family' in the context is not to be understood in a narrow sense of being a group of persons who are recognised in law as having a right of succession or having a claim to a share in the property in dispute. AIR 1966 SC 323 (329) = (1965) 3 SCR 841.

(3) The consideration for the family arrangement may be preservation of the family property, preservation of the peace and honour of the family or the avoidance of litigation. AIR 1954 Orissa 80 (84) = ILR (1953) Cut 591 (DB)  AIR 1959 All 473 (481) = 1959 All WR (HC) 85 (DB)  AIR 1959 Assam 109 (110) = ILR (1959) 11 Assam 59 (DB)  AIR 1959 Punj 434 (439) = ILR (1959) Punj 794 (DB)  ILR (1959) 9 Raj 253.

(4-A) For the validity of a family arrangement where there are no family disputes to be settled it is also essential that there must be mutuality in the agreement arrived at between the parties; that is to say, some consideration, however small, must pass from the side of the person upon whom a right in property is sought to be conferred and mere love or affection between the members of the family is not enough. AIR 1965 Pat 87 (91, 92) (DB). ((1867) 2 Ch A 294, Appld.)

(4-B) A family arrangement to be good need not necessarily be a compromise of doubtful rights. AIR 1959 All 473 (481) = 1959 All WR (HC) 85 (DB).

(5) Settlement of a doubtful claim for maintenance is not void for want of consideration. AIR 1931 Nag 197 (198) = 27 Nag LR 281.

(5-A) 'Valuable consideration' does not mean sufficient consideration. Transfer for consideration, whatever its extent, will be for valuable consideration in the eye of law. 1966 BLJR 739.

(6) Composition followed by partial acceptance is consideration. AIR 1929 Sind 153 (154) = 23 Sind LR 294 (DB).

(7) In a suit based on an agreement recording a compromise arrived at between the parties for the settlement of outstanding disputes in relation to the estate of a deceased person, the question whether any consideration moved from the plaintiff to support the agreement depends upon whether he had a bona fide claim to the property which was the subject of the agreement of compromise AIR 1948 PC 7 (7).

(8) Compromise is agreement to put an end to dispute and to terminate or avoid litigation, and real consideration is not sacrifice of right but abandonment of claim. AIR 1916 Cal 843 (857) (FB)  AIR 1933 Pat 306 (396) = 12 Pat 359 (DB)  (1909) 1 Ind Cas 573 (579) (DB) (Cal).

(9) If there was a compromise of the dispute between the parties in order to render the compromise valid it is not necessary in law for either party to relinquish his rights because the very fact that parties enter into a compromise for the purpose of peace and avoiding litigation is consideration for the compromise. (1909) 4 Ind Cas 133 (2) (134) (DB) (Bom)  AIR 1959 Assam 109 (111) = ILR (1959) 11 Assam 59 (DB).

(9-A) A compromise of litigation by way of family settlement is in no sense an alienation. AIR 1966 SC 323 (329) = (1965) 3 SCR 841.

(9-B) Where three brothers and their mother were parties to a family arrangement orally and an agreement incorporates the statements of the three brothers only the fact that her statement was not recorded in the agreement does not invalidate the arrangement. AIR 1966 SC 292 (294) = (1966) 2 SCJ 290.

(10) Evidence may be led in to show that the real consideration for a deed of agreement is the settlement of doubtful rights. AIR 1935 Cal 368 (384) = 62 Cal 346 (DB).

(11) A settlement of accounts is a good consideration for a fresh agreement to pay the ascertained amount. 1949 Jai-pur LR 161 (165) (DB).

(12) Where a promissory note was executed for a consideration of the debt due on accounts the fact that the amount was not credited in the accounts does not make it void of consideration. AIR 1950 Kutch 24 (26, 27).

Section 2 (d) (contd.)

5. Consideration to one co-promisor is consideration to all. — (1) Consideration paid to one of several joint promisors is sufficient consideration to support a promise to pay made by others. AIR 1914 Mad 41 (41) = 38 Mad 680 (DB)  AIR 1929 Lah 466 (467)  AIR 1928 Bom 316 (318) (DB)  AIR 1926 Nag 149 (152)  AIR 1922 Mad 23 (24) = 45 Mad 345 (DB)  (1962) 2 Andh WR 276 (278) (DB).

(3) Reciprocity of obligations is not of the essence of consideration. An act done or forbearance made in return for a unilateral promise is a sufficient consideration to support the promise. AIR 1957 Cal 92 (94) (DB)  AIR 1943 Oudh 89 (90) = 18 Luck 647.

(4) A consideration to be valid must be "good or valuable" in the sense in which these words appear in English Law though these words do not appear in the Contract Act which speaks only of unlawful and lawful considerations. AIR 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

(4-A) Consideration means something which is of some value in the eye of law. It must be real and not illusory, adequate or not, adequacy being a matter purely for contracting parties to decide and to agree upon. Alienation requiring alienee to discharge debts and maintain wife of alienor, is for value AIR 1961 Mad 405 (407) = 74 Mad LW 16.

(5) A valuable consideration may consist either in some right, interest or profit accruing to one party or some loss or responsibility suffered or undertaken by other. AIR 1918 Bom 183 (184) (DB).

(5-A) The expression "valuable" is implied. Consideration shall be "something which not only parties regard but the law can regard as having some value; consideration may be negative or positive. Where the mortgagees under a trust were obliged to pay certain sum to charity and in discharge of such obligation they transferred the mortgage interest to charity, the transfer was held to be for valuable consideration. AIR 1966 SC 193 (197) = (1966) 1 SCR 168.

(8) The legal term 'consideration' does not mean payment of money only. Where a person executes a handnote in favour of a Bank on the basis of which he receives a substantial benefit of having current overdraft account with the Bank, the handnote cannot be said to be without consideration. AIR 1953 Tripura 10 (10).

[See also AIR 1950 All 632 (636, 637) = ILR (1953) 1 All 265 (DB). ("Price" is not necessarily cash consideration. Sale deed executed partly for arrears of maintenance and partly for the chargeholder surrendering her right the entire consideration is one which could not be expressed in terms of money.)]

(8-A) Promise to perform existing contract with third person can be good and valid consideration for another contract. AIR 1970 Madh Pra 40 (49).

(9) The mere doing of a thing which a person is already legally bound to do is no consideration for a new promise in his favour. AIR 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB)  AIR 1954 Orissa 80 (84) = ILR (1953) Cut 591 (DB)  AIR 1933 All 511 (512).

(10) Where the mortgagors are already under a legal obligation, by virtue of the terms of the mortgage, to pay the interest due regularly, a fresh undertaking to pay that interest regularly cannot form a good consideration for an agreement for reduction of the rate of interest payable. AIR 1948 Oudh 152 (154) = 22 Luck 503 (DB).

(11) The grant of a permit to an association to extract limestone cannot constitute any consideration in law if it confers no right on the association which it did not already possess under its prospecting licence. AIR 1954 All 393 (397) = ILR (1954) 1 All 582 (DB).

(12) Motive is distinct from and therefore cannot become the consideration for a contract. AIR 1936 Mad 978 (980)  AIR 1926 Cal 59 (63) = 53 Cal 51 (DB). (Amount paid so that complainant may drop a criminal prosecution for embezzlement was not consideration for dropping down the prosecution but provided only a motive.)

(13) A single consideration cannot be made, by force of the definition in the Contract Act, to support an indefinite series of subsequent contracts. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 302 (2) (305) (Mad)  AIR 1928 All 440 (441) = 51 All 164 (FB). (Consideration received by a minor cannot be good consideration for fresh promise by him after attaining majority.)

(15) An undertaking given by the mortgagee in the mortgage deed to pay off the debts of the mortgagor constitutes good and sufficient consideration for the mortgage so far as the mortgagor is concerned. AIR 1943 Mad 77 (78).

(1895) 17 All 264 (269, 270) (DB).

(21-A) Vendor's letter to vendee stated that agreement of conditional sale was settled between them but in application for registration, sale deed was referred as unconditional sale deed. It was held that such a bond was given without consideration as the small amount paid for stamping and preparation of the bond was not "consideration" in legal sense. (1882) 4 All 352 (355) (DB).

(28) The limitation imposed on trustees to deal with the trust property as required by the trust deed cannot be considered to be a consideration for the transfer of the property to them and hence the trustees cannot be called transferees of the trust property for a valuable consideration. (13) Forbearance to sue will not constitute a valid consideration where the plaintiff does not bona fide believe in the validity of his claim. AIR 1929 Lah 689 (690) (DB).

(14) In order to constitute a forbearance a valid consideration for a contract there should be a request by a debtor to a creditor to refrain from suing and an acceptance by him of that request. The question whether there has or has not been a request by the debtor to the creditor to forbear from suing is a question of fact to be determined on the particular circumstances of each case. AIR 1952 All 996 (1010) = ILR (1952) 2 All 984.

(15) Positive evidence as to postponement of legal action is not essential in every case but may safely be assumed when the circumstances so permit. (1931) 134 Ind Cas 1105 (1106) (DB) (Lah). [See also 1967 Raj LW 383.]

9. Future promise as consideration. —

(1) A promise to do something in future is legal consideration. AIR 1938 Rang 202 (203) = 1938 Rang LR 385 (FB).

(2) A promise so long as it remains executory will not amount to a consideration in the eye of the law unless it involves a legal obligation which the promisor could be compelled to perform. But where it involves no such obligation its execution alone will constitute a sufficient consideration. AIR 1936 Mad 709 (712) (DB).

(3) Where one of terms of a karar for partition was that other coparceners should pay certain sum for costs of marriage of daughter of one of them and in pursuance thereof pro-notes were executed, pro-note and agreement to pay are supported by consideration, namely, the agreement of the father to other term of the karar. (4) Agreement by widow to adopt a particular person is good consideration for adoptee executing agreement in widow's favour. AIR 1926 All 194 (198) (DB).

10. Consideration for a promise to pay subscription. — (1) A mere promise to subscribe a sum of money or the entry of such promised sum in a subscription list does not furnish any consideration and therefore the subscriber is not liable to pay it. AIR 1936 Mad 135 (135)  AIR 1914 All 22 (23) = 36 All 268 (DB)  (1887) 14 Cal 64 (66) (DB).

(3) Where the person asked to subscribe knows the purpose to which the money is to be applied and also knows that on the faith of their subscription an obligation to pay was to be incurred by the promisee then the obligation to pay must be taken to be incurred at the desire of the promisor and that the promise for subscription is supported by consideration. (1887) 14 Cal 64 (67) (DB).

11. Past consideration. — (1) In many cases a promise of one party is a consideration for promise of the other party, but that is not the only consideration known to law. A consideration may consist in performance which is known as executed consideration. AIR 1957 Cal 92 (94) (DB).

(2) An executed consideration consists in an act already done by one as consideration for a promise of the other. In an executed consideration the liability is outstanding against only one whereas in an executory consideration it is outstanding on both sides. AIR 1957 SC 652 (655) = 1957 SCR 1039 = ILR (1957) Punj 1701.

(3) Past consideration is as good as present consideration or future consideration and a transaction cannot be held to be not supported by consideration if the consideration for the transaction was a past one. 1956-1 Mad LJ 471 (472)  (1962) 66 Cal WN 8.

(4) Under the English law consideration must be present at the time of making the promise and there is no such thing as past consideration. A past request to the promisee to do an act even to the detriment of the promisee without simultaneous understanding that it is to be recompensed in future cannot make the act good consideration for a subsequent promise to pay. But the Indian Act does not require any such understanding. AIR 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

(5) It is not every act on the part of the promisee, though done at the request of the promisor, which could support a subsequent promise. The act done by the promisee must be "good or valuable" consideration in the sense in which the terms appear in English law. AIR 1915 Mad 528 (529) (DB).

(6) Services previously rendered at the desire of a promisor are, by Cl. (d) of Section 2 of the Contract Act (9 of 1872), placed on the same footing with services to be rendered in the future, and constitute a good consideration for a definite agreement. (1932) 138 Ind Cas 900 (902) (PC)  AIR 1939 Bom 250 (251) = ILR (1939) Bom 307 (DB).

(7) If the servants put forth extra work in consideration whereof a bonus is promised to them by the masters it is in law a promise for past services which is good under Indian law. AIR 1925 Mad 192 (194) (DB).

(8) The services performed for a person can constitute the consideration for a promissory note executed by him subsequently in favour of the person who rendered the service. AIR 1951 Cal 55 (59) = ILR (1952) 1 Cal 395 (DB).

(9) Services rendered at the desire of a person during his minority and also continued after his majority form a good consideration for a promise made by him subsequently in favour of the person who rendered the service. (1896) 20 Bom 755 (757) (DB).

(10) Money received during minority can form the consideration for a contract made by a person of full age and competent to contract. AIR 1924 All 730 (731) = 46 All 568 (DB).

(11) Power of attorney given by company to Bank to sell the properties mortgaged with it was for consideration relatable to the loan advanced earlier by Bank. AIR 1968 Mad 50 (52) = (1967) 2 Mad LJ 515 (FB).

(12) Old debts form good consideration for mortgage or transfer of property. AIR 1919 All 348 (348) (DB).

(13) A past debt even if barred by time is a good consideration for a promise to pay under Section 25 of the Contract Act. AIR 1958 Raj 10 (11, 12) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 129.

(14) A time-barred debt can be valid consideration for transfer of property AIR 1925 Oudh 267 (268).

(16) A settlement of accounts by all partners even if subsequent to three years from date of dissolution is valid. The mutual promises to abide by it is a good consideration to support the contract. AIR 1933 PC 120 (121).

(17) Where an old bond is said to be consideration of the new bond but in the new bond consideration has not been described at all and there is nothing to connect the two bonds except the deposition of the plaintiff who has no personal knowledge of the previous transaction, the old bond cannot form consideration of the new bond. AIR 1950 Kutch 80 (80, 81).

(18) That which have voluntarily been performed in the past cannot be made consideration for a promise to do something in future. There must be another promise as consideration for that promise. AIR 1943 Oudh 89 (90) = 18 Luck 647.

(19) Though past services voluntarily rendered are not consideration to support promise and not capable of being enforced by the promisee yet they can be pleaded as valuable consideration in a suit to set aside alienation made on account of such past services. (1909) 4 Ind Cas 1104 (1105) (DB) (Mad).

(20) Past co-habitation with a concubine, being an immoral consideration, cannot support a transfer. AIR 1952 Punj 293 (293).

(21) Past co-habitation even if it can properly be called a consideration cannot be considered an immoral consideration which would render the contract to pay an allowance to the woman ab initio void. (1881) 3 All 787 (788) (DB).

(22) Concubine and paramour render service to each other by their agreement to cohabit. Her services were given in lieu of exchange for his promise under which she obtained similar services. Having once operated as consideration for his earlier promise, her past services could not be treated as a subsisting consideration for his subsequent promise to transfer properties. AIR 1968 SC 253 (254) = (1968) 1 SCR 43.

12. Suit by strangers to contract. —

(1) Under the law of contract an agreement can be binding on and can only be enforced against the parties to it. (4) There is nothing in Section 2 to allow a stranger to a contract to enforce it. On the other hand, the section, while it has by Clause (d) widened the definition of "consideration" so as to enable a party to a contract to enforce it, has also rigidly excluded, by the definition of "promisor" and "promisee" a stranger to a contract from enforcing the same. AIR 1969 Cal 496 (508, 509, 510, 514) (DB).

Section 2 (e) — Note 1

(1) The term "agreement" is used in law in two different senses namely to mean a provisional arrangement or a concluded bargain. Whether in any particular case the agreement falls within the former category or the latter category is a matter for construction depending on the facts of each case. AIR 1952 Nag 220 (223, 227) = ILR (1949) Nag 581 (DB).

(2) Every agreement must be construed with reference to language used therein AIR 1967 Cal 168 (170) (DB).

(3) To find out whether there is a concluded contract by correspondence, the entire bunch of correspondence between the parties has to be looked into. The rule has no application in a case in which the contract has to be evidenced by a formal document under Article 299 of the Constitution. AIR 1959 Cal 526 (530).

(4) Agreements are of two kinds, executed and executory agreements. In an executed agreement one party has already performed his part of the agreement while the other party has to perform his part. In an executory contract both the parties have to perform their mutual promises and the fact that they have to perform their parts of the contract does not affect the validity of the contract. AIR 1957 SC 652 (655) = 1957 SCR 1039 = ILR (1957) Punj 1701.

(5) Every "promise" as defined by clause (b) of Section 2 is not necessarily an "agreement" falling within Clause (e) also. The acceptance of a proposal may bring into existence a promise but yet to have an agreement it is very essential that there should be consideration for the promise. AIR 1948 Sind 91 (93) = ILR (1947) Kar 182 (DB).

[But see ('04) 28 Bom 66 (72) (DB).]

(6) A promise ripens into an agreement only after an offer has been accepted by the offeree and until there is such an agreement the question whether there was any consideration for the promise would not arise at all. AIR 1957 SC 95 (102) = 1956 SCR 872.

(7) Agreement includes a single promise or set of promises forming the consideration for each other. Consequently, there is no difficulty in treating promises made to minors for consideration received, as contracts, for they are made by persons competent to contract for consideration received. (1899) 23 Bom 146 (163, 164) (SB).

(8) Where a document besides being an acknowledgment includes a stipulation to pay interest it becomes an agreement. But such a document if it is insufficiently stamped as an agreement its secondary evidence is not admissible. AIR 1958 Raj 72 (74)  AIR 1958 Raj 260 (261).

(9) Acceptance of terms of trust deed did not mean that trustees agreed inter partes to carry out every term. Arbitration clause in trust deed in order to become an agreement, there must be proposal and acceptance. AIR 1965 Cal 628 (629) = 69 Cal WN 309 (DB).

(10) Supply of electricity by Government — Respondents charged for actual quantity of electrical energy consumed by them — Notification issued by Government introducing system of minimum consumption and rate charged thereon — Respondents although protesting against the introduction of new system continuing to take electrical energy — Held, the respondents by their conduct, accepted the terms notified in the notification and thereby made themselves liable to pay charges for the units fixed for minimum consumption. AIR 1968 Pat 171 (174) (DB).

(11) Where a mining lease did not provide as a term of lease that State Government should help and assist lessee for getting land and electricity for proposed plant of lessee and the lessee by letters requested Government for help and assistance of Government to get them, the expectations of lessee expressed in letters and suitably replied to by Government could not have the sanctity of a term of an agreement so as to be enforceable in law. AIR 1969 Orissa 152 (157) = ILR (1969) Cut 93 (DB).

(12) Agreement not to file appeal against ejectment decree if tenant was given time to vacate — It is a valid and enforceable agreement. AIR 1969 Bom 221 (223, 224) = 70 Bom LR 788.

(13) On 2-9-1957 defendant wrote to plaintiff as follows: 'I hereby assign the said lease area of 184 acres in your favour subject to your paying one lakh and eighty thousand rupees at your option to be decided by you within three months from this date'. This offer was revoked by defendant by letter dated 31-10-1957, which reached plaintiff on 6-11-1957. On 1-11-1957, plaintiff filed a suit to enforce contract — Held that the document dated 2-9-1957 though worded as an agreement was in point of law only an offer. That the service of copy of plaint through medium of Court is not communication of acceptance and that there was no concluded contract between parties. AIR 1969 SC 1157 (1159) = (1969) 2 SCJ 641. (Reg. Appeal No. 231 of 1960, D/- 19-6-63 (Mys), Reversed.)

Section 2 (g) — Note 1

(1) The words "not enforceable by law" do not refer to a disability to sue arising under any procedural regulations such as the statute of Limitation or any of the Orders under the Civil P. C. The unenforceability which is contemplated is one which arises under the provisions of the substantive law. AIR 1939 PC 110 (113) = 66 Ind App 198 = 1939 Rang LR 358.

(2) A contract void in its inception is no contract at all; it has not passed from the stage of agreement to the stage of a contract. It is an agreement not enforceable at law. AIR 1937 Sind 211 (212) = 31 Sind LR 176 (DB)  AIR 1939 PC 110 (113) = 66 Ind App 198 = 1939 Rang LR 358  AIR 1965 Andh Pra 191 (193, 196) = (1965) 1 Andh WR 176 (DB).

(3) An agreement by which the parties do not intend to create any legal obligation is not enforceable. AIR 1953 Pat 231 (233) = 32 Pat 152.

(4) Merely because parties have reached an agreement it would not follow that they are bound by it. The question as to when they would be bound depends on their intention and if it is their intention that they ought to be bound only when the agreement is embodied in a formal document then until such document is drawn up the agreement remains only a provisional arrangement. AIR 1952 Nag 220 (227) = ILR (1949) Nag 581 (DB).

(5) The manager of a joint Hindu family being only a representative of the coparceners cannot bring about a valid and binding agreement when such agreement is beyond the capacity of the coparceners themselves to enter into. AIR 1957 Bom 280 (282) = ILR (1958) Bom 667.

(6) An agreement entered into by the mother alone for the marriage of her major daughter and which was not made by her on behalf of her daughter is unenforceable. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 129 (130).

(7) Agreement to pay interest, not awarded by a decree, together with the decretal amount, without the sanction of the Court which passed the decree, is void. (1885) 9 Bom 176 (178) (DB).

(8) Failure to comply with statutory provisions relating to the manner in which a particular agreement should be made would render it void. AIR 1956 Cal 138 (142)  ILR (1950) 2 Cal 431 (435)  AIR 1940 Sind 199 (202) = ILR (1940) Kar 3 (DB)  AIR 1967 Andh Pra 26 (38) = (1966) 1 Andh WR 454 (DB).

[See also AIR 1952 Bom 349 (359).]

(9) If a statement in proposal form which has been made the basis of contract is found to be untrue, the contract would be void irrespective of the question whether the statement is of a material nature or not. AIR 1959 Pat 102 (106) = 1958 Pat LR 194 (DB).

(10) Void partnership agreement could not be made basis of an arbitration reference under Section 20 of Arbitration Act, 1940. AIR 1969 Pat 322 (323).

Section 2 (h) — Note 1

(1) Since a contract can only be bilateral and the same party cannot be a party on both sides, there can hardly be a contract between A on the one side and A and B on the other side, particularly in a contract of employment. AIR 1958 Bom 467 (468) = ILR (1958) Bom 428.

(2) Many contracts have three well-defined stages, namely the stage of negotiation, the stage when they have reached an agreement and thirdly when the parties reduce their agreement into writing and have a formal document. In any case where all these three stages are present it is always a question of construction as to at what stage both the parties intended to be bound by their contract. AIR 1952 Nag 220 (223, 224) = ILR (1949) Nag 581 (DB).

(3) Where the parties agree to enter into a contract such an agreement is not a contract in law at all. AIR 1956 Cal 280 (281).

(4) A contract of lease which satisfies all the necessary requirements of Section 2 would not be rendered incomplete merely because there is a stipulation in it to the effect that the rent was to be fixed according to the market rate. AIR 1953 Sau 91 (91).

(5) Under Andhra Pradesh Sugar Cane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act, 1961 and the Rules framed thereunder cane-grower in the factory Zone is free to make or not to make an offer of sale of cane to the occupier of the factory. But if he makes an offer, the occupier of the factory is bound under law to accept it. The resulting agreement is neither void nor voidable and it is freely made. AIR 1968 SC 599 (604) = (1968) 1 SCR 705.

(6) Where a lease deed stipulates sale of the land if the lessor was ever required to sell and if the lessee agreed to purchase at a reasonable price, the stipulation cannot be a completed contract. AIR 1969 Assam 43 (45).

(7) An agreement not enforceable by law is itself void and therefore, cannot be a contract at all. AIR 1936 Pat 153 (156, 157) (DB).

(8) An agreement although the promise involved cannot be specifically enforced could still be a binding contract if some relief is open to the party who is aggrieved by the breach of it. AIR 1952 All 882 (885) = ILR (1953) 1 All 494 (FB).

(9) A promise without consideration is unenforceable in a Court of law and cannot amount to a contract between the parties. AIR 1952 Trav-Co 202 (202).

(10) Where the nature of disposition by a deed was the nature of a gift although settlor purported to bind himself to do certain things which were in nature of voluntary covenants of unilateral character, the deed was a unilateral document and did not contain any contract at all. AIR 1959 Cal 434 (436) = (1959) 37 ITR 91.

(11) An agreement to pay varasulka may itself be unenforceable but the promissory note executed by the promisor for the amount would not also become unenforceable on the account. In such a case it is to be regarded that the amount, although its payment could not have been enforced by the promisee, was paid by the promisor and then reinvested by the promisee as cash and hence the promissory note executed by the promisor was supported by consideration. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 231 (232).

(12) An admission of liability for a certain amount coupled with an undertaking to deposit the same amounts to an agreement enforceable by law and hence a contract also. 1946 Jaipur LR 386 (390).

(13) An oral agreement between two private individuals to sell or purchase immovable property can be enforced by a suit for specific performance and hence would constitute a concluded contract. AIR 1955 Mys 76 (78)  AIR 1965 Manipur 3 (7).

[See also AIR 1964 Madh Pra 101 (106) = 1964 MPLJ 579 (DB). (AIR 1941 Bom 247, held reversed in AIR 1946 PC 97 and not good law; AIR 1962 SC 378, Rel on.)]

(14) In determining the place where a contract takes place the interpretation clauses in Section 2 which largely incorporate the substantive law of contract must be taken into account. Acceptance and intimation of acceptance are both necessary to result in a binding contract. In the case of proposal and acceptance by telephone conversation, contract is made at place where acceptance is received. AIR 1966 SC 543 (548, 550) = (1966) 1 SCR 656.

(15) It is perfectly legal for parties to a transaction to agree that their liabilities should be different from that created by statutes and a contract containing such an agreement would be given effect to provided their intention to so vary the liability is clear beyond doubt from the terms of the contract itself. AIR 1945 Pat 447 (449) = 24 Pat 438 (DB).

(16) A contract subsists till payments due thereunder are finally made. ILR (1966) 1 Punj 49 (DB).

(17) Option to repurchase reserved to a vendor under original conveyance may not by itself constitute a contract. But when the option is exercised in due conformity with the terms of the contract, that will amount to an acceptance of the offer and a binding contract for reconveyance results. AIR 1965 Mad 506 (507) = 78 Mad LW 515 (DB).

(18) Where an assessee approached the collector and came to an arrangement with him agreeing to pay the amount of Sales Tax in instalments, such arrangement was not a contract. Even otherwise, it would not bind the State Government as it did not comply with Article 299 (1) of the Constitution. (1965) 16 STC 701 (All).

(19) There can be no enforceable agreement when a manager of the Court of Wards agrees to lease a property contrary to the provisions of the statute requiring the prior sanction of the Board of Revenue and hence no binding contract. AIR 1952 Pat 139 (140).

(20) A term in mining lease giving option to Government to purchase certain quantity of ore on their demand, amounts to only an offer and did not constitute subsisting contract within the meaning of that term in Section 7 (d). Representation of the People Act. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 77 (84) = (1963) 2 Andh WR 288 (DB).

(21) Where the parents of a minor boy and a minor girl enter into an agreement of marriage of those minors, the agreement is merely a nudum-pactum and not a contract because whether the marriage should take place or not must depend upon the will of the minors and not solely of their parents. AIR 1947 Pat 132 (134).

(22) A contract which reserves to the seller the right to vary the price fixed in the contract or which reserves to him complete liberty to deliver or not to deliver or to render the contract void is no contract at all. AIR 1949 Cal 231 (232, 233) = ILR (1945) 1 Cal 87. (Obiter.)

(23) A party to a contract is not entitled in law to cancel a concluded contract unilaterally. Having entered into an agreement, it is not open to the defendant to resile from the same on untenable grounds as he pleases. Therefore, such a cancellation has no effect in law. AIR 1958 Ker 195 (201).

(24) Non-registration of a document compulsorily registrable does not render the contract contained in it void. ILR (1954) Patiala 244 (250).

(25) Under French Civil Code, promise of sale is itself equivalent to a sale when there is the consent of both the parties over the price and over subject-matter of the sale. The promise of sale is not subject to any particular written form. It could even be an oral transaction. Even to effect a sale of immovable property no written conveyance is necessary. Under the French Law if there is a promise of sale but no sale in actuality, parallel to what might be termed an executory agreement of sale under the law familiar to our Courts, that promise would nevertheless inhibit the promisor from dealing afresh with the property. But a vendee if he be a vendee for valuable consideration without notice of the earlier contract, would be permitted to validly purchase as in our system of law. ILR (1964) 2 Mad 471 (DB).

(26) A managing director, under terms of agreement was invested with extensive powers of management but to exercise his functions subject to direction and control of Board of Directors — Company credited to his account a remuneration every month but withholding it subsequent to assessment year. (i) An agreement which is enforceable by law at the option of one or more of the parties thereto, but not at the option of the other or others, is a voidable contract :

(j) A contract which ceases to be enforceable by law becomes void when it ceases to be enforceable.†

[†] For an exception to this see Section 25 (3) infra, which treats a time-barred debt as a good consideration for fresh promise to pay such a debt.

Section 2 (h) — Note 1 (contd.)

(28) The obligations in Chapter V cannot be brought within the definition of contract contained in this section. AIR 1946 Bom 216 (242, 243) = ILR (1946) Bom 517.

(29) Where a sugar-factory in compliance with directions issued by Sugar Controller of India in exercise of authority under Sugar and Sugar Product Control Order, 1946, despatches sugar to Madras Province such despatches were not result of any contract of sale. Controller did not act as agent of Province to purchase goods. No offer to purchase sugar by province and no acceptance of any offer by manufacturer is involved. AIR 1963 SC 1207 (1212) = (1963) Supp 2 SCR 459.

(30) While it is true that delivery of the actual goods by the seller to the buyer is not required under a c. i. f. contract, delivery of the goods to a ship's Master is undoubtedly required and it is also required that the goods must be of the contract description and that the relative bill of lading must not exceed or fall below the stipulated quantity even by an ounce. AIR 1959 Cal 328 (332, 333) = ILR (1959) 2 Cal 325 (DB).

(31) Saurashtra Groundnut and Groundnut Products (Forward Contract Prohibition) Order (1949), Cl. 3 — Forward contract — Essentials — Expression "against which contracts are not transferable to third parties" — To come within this exception contract need not specifically provide that it is not transferable to third parties — Such condition may be implied from its terms and surrounding circumstances — Verawal Merchants Association Rules — Contract in pursuance of — Held, not transferable to third parties and therefore not a forward contract. AIR 1969 Bom 401 (407) = 71 Bom LR 214 (DB).

Section 2 (i) — Note 1

(1) The word 'voidable' in the contract has been used to mean that the contract is binding on the parties unless set aside on the ground that the transaction was vitiated by fraud, undue influence, misrepresentation or any other circumstances which would entitle a party to a contract to avoid it. AIR 1928 Mad 986 (989) (DB).

(2) A one-sided contract although extremely unfavourable to one of the parties is still a valid and binding contract unless the Court can find that there is no mutuality or that there is really no obligation upon one of the parties to fulfil his part of the contract. ILR (1950) 1 Cal 550 (554) (DB).

(3) Where a contract is not binding upon one of the parties to it because it is not in the form in which it is required to be executed by the mandatory provisions of a statute and what has been done by that party is to be regarded only as a part performance under the contract, its consideration being executory, it is open to the other party to successfully claim that the contract is void on the ground of absence of mutuality and not merely voidable. AIR 1934 Bom 277 (285) = 58 Bom 660.

(4) A contract falling under Sec. 236 is a voidable contract. AIR 1933 Sind 207 (209) (DB).

(5) Transaction covered by second proviso to Section 20 of the Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act is voidable at the instance of the Government. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 522 (529) = (1958) 1 Andh WR 459 (DB).

(6) A transaction covered by the second proviso to Section 20 of the Madras Estates (Abolition and Conversion into Ryotwari) Act, 26 of 1948, being enforceable by the Government but not against it is a voidable transaction. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 522 (529) = ILR (1958) Andh Pra 289.

(7) When a voidable contract is acted upon by a party as valid, the party is estopped from denying its validity. AIR 1933 Sind 207 (210) (DB).

3. Communication, acceptance and revocation of proposals.—The communication of proposals, the acceptance of proposals, and the revocation of proposals and acceptances, respectively, are deemed to be made by any act or omission of the party proposing, accepting or revoking by which he intends to communicate such proposal, acceptance or revocation, or which has the effect of communicating it.

(3) A contract embodied in a document which is compulsorily registrable does not render the contract void ab initio if that document is not registered. ILR (1954) Patiala 244 (250).

(1) A mere mental resolve to make an offer unless such intention is also communicated to the other party cannot bring into existence an offer which could be accepted. AIR 1949 Nag 286 (288) = ILR (1949) Nag 106.

(2) There can be an acceptance of an offer by the communication of the assent of the person to whom the offer is made or by his doing some act which he is requested by the terms of the offer to do or by his accepting performance itself of the act constituting the offer. Mere silence cannot amount to any assent. AIR 1955 Bom 419 (430).

(3) In the case of acceptance, if there is an express or implied intimation from the offerer, that a particular mode of acceptance would suffice, some overt act must be done or words spoken by the offeree which are evidence of his intention to accept and which conform to mode of acceptance indicated by the offerer. A mere tacit formation of intention cannot constitute an acceptance of an offer. AIR 1952 Cal 691 (694) (DB).

(4) In the absence of any express or implied directions from the offeror to the contrary an offer can be accepted by a letter. AIR 1952 Cal 32 (33).

(7) Where an Insurance Company offered to revive a lapsed policy if the assured remitted the premium amount before a specified date it was held that remittance by post must have been the mode of payment which was in contemplation of the company and hence the policy became revived as soon as the assured put the money into the post office. The fact that the assured could have recalled the money from the post office did not in any way prevent the payment to it operating as an acceptance which had become effective against the company immediately. AIR 1947 Mad 122 (123).

(8) Contract of insurance when becomes binding — Acceptance of proposal does not necessarily result in a binding insurance contract — However, like other contracts, it may be concluded by offer and acceptance — If there is a stipulation that liability will attach itself under contract only if premium is paid that will be a condition precedent to policy taking effect. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 353 (355) = (1963) 1 Andh WR 124 (DB).

(9) Contract of life insurance — Contract when complete — Proposal of assured accepted subject to personal statement duly completed by doctor — Risk to commence from date of receipt issued — Held acceptance was not qualified and contract was completed by acceptance of offer. (10) Acceptance — Signing of proposal form of policy by P on behalf of X as owner of vehicle — Insurer communicating acceptance to X by post — X keeping silent and not disowning ownership of vehicle — Held, X was owner of the vehicle and vehicle was properly insured. (1967) 69 Pun LR 578.

AIR 1941 Oudh 529 (539).

(12) In a sale by auction, the auctioneer is the agent of the person whose property or rights are being auctioned. The agent invites offers and every bid is an offer and it is only binding on

1. Communication of proposal. — (1) Unless a proposal is communicated to the person to whom it is made, it is not complete and is inchoate and inconclusive. AIR 1954 Bom 491 (494) = ILR (1954) Bom 1137 (DB)  AIR 1937 Mad 571 (573) = ILR (1937) Mad 990 (DB). [See (1964) 68 Cal WN 1109.]

(2) An offer is made not at the place where if it is made by letter is put into post but at the place where the letter is delivered. AIR 1949 Pat 270 (276) = 27 Pat 723  AIR 1947 All 337 (339) = ILR (1947) All 44 (DB)  AIR 1920 Mad 177 (180) (DB).

(3) Offer made by letter is effective only when it has been received by addressee. AIR 1945 Lah 260 (263, 264) (DB).

(4) There can be no valid proposal until it comes to the knowledge of the person to whom it is made. AIR 1953 Madh B 38 (39).

Section 4 — Note 1 (contd.)

(5) Offer by letter must be deemed to have reached the addressee, when the letter ordinarily would be delivered at the addressee's residence. Any delay in addressee actually receiving it in his hands, caused owing to his failure to make proper arrangements to receive the communication, will not be considered. AIR 1927 Lah 50 (50, 51).

(6) If under Section 4 of the Contract Act the offer is not complete unless and until it is communicated to the person to whom it is made, then it follows that the offer is completed not at the place from where it was sent but where it was received. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 234 (235, 236) = 1959 MPLJ 596.

(7) The object of Sections 4 to 6 is to fix the point of time at which either party is precluded from revoking the offer or acceptance. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 234 (237) = 1959 MPLJ 596.

2. Communication of acceptance. — (1) A contract complete and absolute can come into existence when the acceptance of an offer has been communicated to the offerer. AIR 1957 Punj 261 (264) = ILR (1957) Punj 1505 (DB)  AIR 1947 All 332 (334) (DB).

(2) Communication of acceptance is necessary to convert into a promise an offer which seeks a promise in return. AIR 1954 Pat 14 (16).

(3) The Court when communicating the offer of one party to be bound by the oath of the other acts merely as an intermediary and hence a completed agreement between the parties can arise only when the Court conveys the acceptance by the other party of the offer to the offerer. AIR 1952 All 882 (884, 885) = ILR (1953) 1 All 494 (FB).

(4) Where the acceptance of a bid in an auction sale is a conditional acceptance, and it is communicated to the bidder, there is no need for a further communication of the fulfilment of the condition. AIR 1951 Mad 322 (324).

(5) As soon as the acceptance is posted or sent by telegram, the acceptance is complete against the proposer and the contract is concluded. AIR 1954 Bom 491 (494) = ILR (1954) Bom 1137 (DB)  AIR 1945 Lah 260 (264) (DB).

(6) Where the proposal and acceptance are made by letters, the contract is made at the time when and at the place where the letter of acceptance is posted. (1904) 27 Mad 355 (359). (7) The actual despatch of a letter of acceptance must be established by evidence and it is not permissible to presume the fact from any course of business followed by the offeree. (1887) 9 All 366 (384) (DB).

(8) A letter of acceptance to a proposer, not correctly addressed, could not, although posted, be said to have been "put in a course of transmission" to him. (1887) 9 All 366 (385) (DB).

(9) The act of acceptance is a continuous act and it becomes effective so as to bind the acceptor completely when the acceptance comes to the knowledge of the proposer. AIR 1954 Bom 491 (494) = ILR (1954) Bom 1137 (DB)  AIR 1949 Pat 270 (278) = 27 Pat 723 (DB).

(10) The cover note despatched by an Insurance Company on receipt of the proposal and the insurance premium, accepting the risk without any condition that a policy would be issued only if on further consideration the proposal was accepted on its receipt by the assured amounts to a binding acceptance and the non-issue of a formal policy would not affect the liability of the company in regard to the risk which it had undertaken to insure. AIR 1934 All 298 (300) = 56 All 726 (DB).

(11) The post office is the agent of the sender of letter or telegram and not the agent of the addressee and hence an acceptance becomes complete only at the place where it is communicated to the offerer. AIR 1949 Pat 270 (276) = 27 Pat 723 (DB).

(12) Where before an acceptance sent by letter reaches the offerer a telegram revoking the acceptance reaches him no concluded contract can come into existence. AIR 1949 Pat 270 (276) = 27 Pat 723 (DB).

(13) The communication of acceptance does not make any change in the place where the contract is made but only affects the time of its complete formation. 1896 Pun Re No. 76 p. 234 (238) (DB).

(14) The communication of the acceptance to the proposer cannot be said to be such an integral part of the completion as to constitute a part of the cause of action in a suit and even if the acceptance does not reach the proposer being lost or misplaced in transit, the contract would be complete. AIR 1954 Bom 491 (494) = ILR (1954) Bom 1137 (DB).

(15) In the case of an offer which seeks an act from the other party the performance of the act alone is sufficient to convert it into a promise without any further communication of an acceptance. AIR 1954 Pat 14 (16)  AIR 1929 Lah 656 (656).

(16) Proposal and acceptance by telephone conversation — Contract is made at place when acceptance is received and part of cause of action for suit for damages for breach arises at that place — Analogy of contract by post and tele-

5. Revocation of proposals and acceptances.—A proposal may be revoked at any time before the communication of its acceptance is complete as against the proposer, but not afterwards.

An acceptance may be revoked at any time before the communication of the acceptance is complete as against the acceptor, but not afterwards.

(1-A) Sec. 5 must be read subject to Section 8. (1959) 10 STC 74 (81) (DB) (Pat).

(1-B) Word 'conveyance' is used in definition in Section 5 in a wide sense so as to include sale, mortgage, charge, lease etc. While a transfer of property may take place not only in the present, but also in the future, property must be in existence at the time of transfer, for an instrument to be a deed of transfer. A purported transfer of property, not in existence at time of contract, can only operate as a contract to be performed in future. AIR 1968 Mad 319 (322) = (1968) 2 Mad LJ 1 (FB).

(1-C) There is in principle a material distinction between acceptance of an offer which asks for a promise and an offer which asks for an act on the condition of the offer becoming a promise. In the former case where the acceptance is to consist of a promise, there must be communication to the proposer. But in the latter class of cases, as for example, despatching goods ordered by post, the rule is that no further communication of acceptance is necessary than performance of proposed act. (1959) 10 STC 74 (81) (Pat) (DB).

6. Revocation how made.—A proposal is revoked—

- (1) by the communication of notice of revocation by the proposer to the other party;
- (2) by the lapse of the time prescribed in such proposal for its acceptance, or, if no time is so prescribed, by the lapse of a reasonable time, without communication of the acceptance;
- (3) by the failure of the acceptor to fulfil a condition precedent to acceptance; or
- (4) by the death or insanity of the proposer, if the fact of his death or insanity comes to the knowledge of the acceptor before acceptance.

7. Acceptance must be absolute.—In order to convert a proposal into a promise, the acceptance must—

- (1) be absolute and unqualified;
- (2) be expressed in some usual and reasonable manner, unless the proposal prescribes the manner in which it is to be accepted. If the proposal

(6) An original proposal becomes superseded by the counter-proposal made by the other party and would not be revived even if the maker of the proposal rejects the counter offer. Quite a different result would however follow if the person making the counter proposal withdraws it before the other either accepts the counter-proposal or rejects it. ILR (1956) 1 Cal 164 (170).

AIR 1939 Nag 225 (226) = ILR (1941) Nag 567.

(2) Acceptance of shares allotted after delay amounts to acquiescence on the part of the applicant and he cannot thereafter repudiate the allotment on the ground that as his offer became revoked by delay in allotment there could have been no valid allotment of the shares to him. 1955 Mad WN 80 (81).

SECTION 7 — SYNOPSIS

1. Acceptance must be unconditional and absolute.

2. Counter proposal.

3. Manner of acceptance.

1. Acceptance must be unconditional and absolute. — (1) The theory of offer and acceptance has received statutory recognition in India so that every transac-prescribes a manner in which it is to be accepted, and the acceptance is not made in such manner, the proposer may, within a reasonable time after the acceptance is communicated to him, insist that his proposal shall be accepted in the prescribed manner, and not otherwise; but if he fails to do so, he accepts the acceptance.

tion to be recognised as a contract must, in its ultimate analysis, resolve itself into a proposal and its absolute and unqualified acceptance. AIR 1951 All 93 (97) = ILR (1950) All 1033 (FB)  AIR 1922 Pat 24 (26)  (1904) 28 Bom 420 (425) (DB)  (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523) (DB).

(2) Until there is absolute acceptance of a proposal the parties are still in the stage of negotiations and no legal obligations attach to them. (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523) (DB)  (1956) 60 Cal WN 423 (433).

(3) An absolute and unqualified acceptance may, even when there is no express communication from the offeree, be inferred from his conduct. AIR 1919 All 7 (8, 9) = 42 All 187.

(4) An acceptance which does not extend to all the terms of a contract cannot make a binding contract. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (536).

(5) An acceptance which leaves one of the conditions essential to the implementing of the acceptance to the discretion of a third person is not an unqualified acceptance and fails as an acceptance. AIR 1941 Oudh 529 (543).

(6) An acceptance which is qualified by certain conditions cannot amount to an absolute and unqualified acceptance which is capable of resulting in a completed contract. AIR 1947 All 332 (334).

(7) Where an acceptance is in substance only a provisional arrangement subject to something more being done to complete the arrangement it cannot make a binding contract. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (536).

(8) Where the acceptance of the highest bid at an auction sale by the sale officer or the auctioneer is subject to the confirmation by a superior authority there is only a provisional or conditional acceptance and the bidder will be bound by his offer only after such confirmation is received. AIR 1951 Mad 322 (325)  AIR 1953 Punj 274 (278).

(9) When an order for goods is accepted "subject to confirmation by mail" the acceptance is conditional and the contract cannot be said to have been complete on the date of such acceptance. AIR 1930 Lah 325 (326) (DB)  AIR 1930 Lah 114 (115) (DB).

(10) An acceptance which at the same time exempts the acceptor of any obligation is not an acceptance capable of creating a binding contract. AIR 1931 Lah 260 (263) (DB).

(11) Where by the absolute and unequivocal acceptance of an offer a binding contract has come into existence between the parties the non-execution of a formal document cannot absolve the parties of their engagement. AIR 1934 All 298 (300) = 56 All 726 (DB). (Proposal by insurance accepted by company — Non-issue of policy before happening of risk cannot absolve company of its liability.)

(12) A covenant in a sale deed that the vendee in the event of selling the property in future must sell it to the vendor or his heirs for the same price and also the price of any building he might have erected on the property amounts to a completed contract and not merely a standing offer which requires acceptance before it could become a contract. AIR 1933 Mad 322 (323) = 56 Mad 433 (FB).

(13) A condition in a concluded contract of insurance that the liability under it will attach itself only on the insured paying the premium is only a condition precedent for the policy taking effect inserted for the benefit of the insurer which can be waived by him. AIR 1954 Mad 520 (521) = ILR (1954) Mad 747 (DB).

(14) In order to decide whether there is an absolute and unqualified agreement between the parties to a contract, the entire negotiations and correspondence should be considered. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (536)  AIR 1930 Mad 654 (655, 656) (DB).

(15) A new collateral term annexed to an acceptance of a contract does not affect the original contract accepted absolutely. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (536).

(16) During the course of the negotiations for the sale of a horse the seller gave a warranty that the horse was sound. The buyer accepted the bargain by telegram and later sent a letter stating that he confirmed the telegram and would take the horse if the seller had no objection to get a veterinary certificate. It was held that the warranty was not a proposal. Therefore it could not be said that by asking for the certificate the buyer had not accepted the warranty absolutely and without qualification and therefore the seller was not bound by it. (1912) 14 Ind Cas 135 (135) (DB) (All).

(17) Acceptance of offer must be absolute and unconditional — Tender for supply of oil subject to conditions of contract — Condition subsequent as to security deposit — Acceptance letter stating that contract was concluded but it was subject to making security deposit — Held there was a concluded contract. AIR 1962 SC 378 (385) = (1962) 3 SCR 769.

(18) When one party makes a composite offer, each part thereof being dependent on the other the other party cannot by accepting a part of the offer, compel the other to confine its dispute only to that part not accepted, unless the party offering the composite offer agrees to that course. AIR 1964 SC 892 (895) = (1964) 5 SCR 125 = (1964) 34 Com Cas 10.

(19) Agreement for sale of land — Price and area of land and time for completion of sale fixed — Mere omission to settle mode of payment does not affect the completeness of contract. AIR 1968 SC 1028 (1032) = (1968) 3 SCR 387.

(20) Oral agreement—Reference to execution of formal contract does not establish the proposition that the parties cannot be bound by previous agreement. AIR 1968 SC 1028 (1031) = (1968) 3 SCR 387.

(21) Auction sale — Provisional or conditional acceptance — No concluded contract. Bidder held entitled to withdraw his offer and revoke bid. AIR 1968 Pat 433 (435, 436) = 1968 Pat LJR 310 (DB).

(22) Offer by plaintiffs to sell certain quantity of oil at certain rate accepted by defendants without any qualification or condition — Fresh negotiations between parties regarding payment of Vidya fund which was not mentioned earlier — Further negotiations held did not affect main contract as to sale of oil which was already concluded. AIR 1962 Punj 56 (60, 61, 62) (DB).

(23) When is contract concluded — Conditional acceptance — There is no concluded contract — Sale by auction — Bidder can withdraw before final acceptance — Clause 10 of Rule 10 of Proclamation of Auction Sale — Scope is not a statutory condition — Bidder can withdraw bid before expiry of one month mentioned in clause. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 110 (114, 115) = (1962) 1 Andh WR 383 (DB).

(24) In order that acceptance of the proposal be inferred the acceptance of the consideration must be unconditional. Of course if by any action on the part of the acceptee the proposer cannot be restored to his former position, then the acceptee cannot be permitted to say that his acceptance should be treated as other than as per the original proposal. But in the absence of such estoppel being applicable the conditional acceptance cannot become absolute acceptance. AIR 1968 Bom 294 (296) = 69 Bom LR 843.

(25) Contract to purchase several tons of iron scrap belonging to Government — Is concluded on acceptance of purchaser's tender — Condition for payment of price does not make the contract conditional. AIR 1969 Bom 163 (171) = 70 Bom LR 364.

(26) A notice communicating to its constituent the decision of the bank to raise the rate of interest from a certain date may not amount to an express proposal within the meaning of Section 2 (a) but it nevertheless contains an implied proposal to the effect that if the constituent wanted to keep alive his overdraft account with the Bank or desired to take further advances from the Bank it could be done only on the terms contained in the notice. AIR 1958 Cal 644 (646, 647, 648) = ILR (1959) 2 Cal 252 (DB).

(27) Where an oral contract for reconveyance is entered into, the question whether it would be enforceable as a completed contract notwithstanding the omission of the parties to execute a written agreement would depend on the question whether the written agreement was a term of bargain or whether it was merely an expression of desire. It is a question of construction whether the execution of the further contract is a condition or term of the bargain or whether it is a mere expression of the desire of the parties as to the manner in which the transaction already agreed to will in fact go through. 1959 Ker LT 595 = 1959 Ker LJ 702.

2. Counter proposal. — (1) An acceptance with a variation in the terms of the offer or with a qualification is simply a counter proposal. (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523) (DB)  ILR (1956) 1 Cal 164 (167)  AIR 1938 Lah 341 (344) (DB)  1913 Pun Re No. 92 (DB)  (1908) 2 Sind LR 7 (8, 9) (DB).

(2) A policy containing the condition that no insurance shall be deemed to have been effected until the premium in full is paid and accepted is only in the nature of a counter offer and not an absolute and unqualified acceptance of the proposal for insurance. AIR 1928 Bom 260 (261, 262) = 52 Bom 532 (DB).

(3) An acceptance by an insurance company of a proposal for life insurance on condition that the first premium thereunder should be paid within 30 days from the date of acceptance is in law a counter-offer to be completed thereafter into contract by the fulfilment of that condition as required thereunder. AIR 1959 Pat 540 (541) = 1959 BLJR 425 (DB).

(4) A counter offer amounts to a rejection of the original offer. AIR 1938 Lah 341 (344) (DB).

(5) If counter proposal is withdrawn before it has been either accepted or rejected, then it must be held that the original proposal stands unrejected, and capable of being accepted. ILR (1956) 1 Cal 164 (170).

(6) A counter proposal must be accepted by the original offerer before contract can result. (1900) 24 Bom 510 (523)  ILR (1950) All 112 (115)  AIR 1947 Cal 14 (16) (DB).

(7) The acceptance of a counter-offer results in a contract whose situs is the place where the counter-offer was received and accepted. ILR (1954) 4 Raj 252 (257).

8. Acceptance by performing conditions, or receiving consideration.—Performance of the conditions of a proposal, or the acceptance of any consideration for a reciprocal promise* which may be offered with a proposal, is an acceptance of the proposal.

(8) The plaintiff while accepting the defendant's offer of a lease made a counter proposal for insertion of a clause in the lease note providing for a renewal of lease for another five years. The defendant's estate manager replied "I am making necessary arrangements." It was held that the counter offer was not accepted. AIR 1921 Bom 200 (201) = 45 Bom 8 (DB).

(9) Offer, counter-offer and acceptance — Acceptance of offer with introduction of new term — Effect of — Counter-offer. The offeree must unreservedly assent to the exact terms of the offer to bring about a concluded contract. If, while purporting to accept the offer as a whole, he introduces a new term which the offerer has had no opportunity of examining, he is in fact merely making a counter-offer. The effect of such a counter-offer in the eyes of law is to destroy the original offer. An offer once refused is dead and cannot be accepted unless renewed. The question whether the terms added are intended to be part of the contract or are merely in the nature of enquiries for further information has to be decided by the Court in individual cases by looking into the effect of the words used in particular cases and thereby gathering the intention of the parties. AIR 1961 Ker 21 (23) = 1960 Ker LT 574 (DB).

(10) Where after rejecting the counter proposal the offerer repeats his original offer and the offeree accepts the same a binding contract arises between the parties. AIR 1938 Cal 343 (346).

(11) It is not every slight variation in the acceptance that would affect the validity of a contract. It must be a material variation to bring about that result. (1908) 2 Sind LR 7 (8, 9) (DB).

3. Manner of acceptance. — (1) Where a person in an offer made by him to another person expressly or impliedly intimates a particular mode of acceptance as sufficient to make the bargain binding it is only necessary for the other person to whom such offer is made to follow the indicated mode of acceptance; and if the person making the offer expressly or impliedly intimates in his offer that it will be sufficient to act on the proposal without communicating acceptance of it to himself, performance of the conditions is a sufficient acceptance, without notification. AIR 1952 Cal 691 (695)  AIR 1937 Bom 39 (43) = ILR (1937) Bom 763.

(2) Where a letter makes offer for sale of property, directing that purchaser should write about acceptance to a certain person and the intending purchaser instead of so writing communicates directly with the seller, there is no contravention of Section 7 as to render contract not binding on seller. AIR 1936 Cal 87 (91) (DB).

This implied proposal invites from him in the words of Section 8 a 'reciprocal promise' to pay interest at the higher rate. AIR 1958 Cal 644 (646, 647) = ILR (1959) 2 Cal 252.

(5) In spite of the fact that an agreement is embodied in a document the parties could show even by oral evidence that when the document was signed they intended that it should not operate as an agreement and therefore there is no contract at all. AIR 1936 PC 70 (74) = 63 Ind App 126 = 59 Mad 446.

[See also (1969) 1 Comp LJ 153 (Cal). (Contract of Insurance — Nature of evidence to show that terms of policy do

(8) A clause in a concluded contract which is in no sense continuing one giving an option to one party to cancel the contract is void and unenforceable. AIR 1957 Mad 82 (86) = ILR (1957) Mad 315 (DB).

(9) Any stipulation unilaterally introduced by a party into an instrument handed over by him to the other would not constitute a contract unless agreed to by the other. AIR 1957 J and K 7 (7)  AIR 1961 Mad 281 (282) = (1961) 1 Mad LJ 244  AIR 1961 Punj 66 (70) = 63 Pun LR 152 (DB).

(11) Where two adults enter into a valid contract the default of one to do something as undertaken by him under the contract is not sufficient to deprive the other of the right to specific performance of the contract. AIR 1951 Mad 612 (615, 616).

(12) The persons designated in the contract as parties to it cannot show by evidence that in reality some other persons and not they intended to incur obligations under the contract. AIR 1956

(17) A settlement in a conciliation proceeding after it has received the assent of the conciliator does not retain the character of a contract as between the original parties to the dispute. AIR 1965 Bom 146 (150) = 67 Bom LR 1 (DB).

(18) A compromise decree is creature of agreement on which it is based and is subject to all incidents of such agreement, that it is but a contract with the command of a judge superadded to it and in construing its provisions fundamental principles governing construction of contract are applicable. (19) A partition arrangement which contains a stipulation that the co-sharer who wishes to sell his share must offer the option of purchase to other co-sharers at price to be determined by respectable persons is a completed contract which is capable of being enforced. 1956 Andh WR 801 (803, 804).

(20) Although a permit-holder for a stage carriage, by reason of a condition in the permit, is under an obligation to carry for remuneration mails when called upon to do so by the postal authorities yet the agreement entered into by him with the postal authorities is nonetheless a contract inasmuch as it is an agreement between two competent parties with their free consent and is supported by lawful consideration. AIR 1955 SC 459 (463) = 1955-2 SCR 83.

(21) A control regulation which requires the owner of goods to sell it at a certain price and in certain quantities only to the quota holders as directed by an authority no doubt places restrictions on the freedom of contract of the owners but that does not mean that when the owner agrees to sell a quota holder at the specified price the quantity fixed by the authority there is no consensus ad idem between them and therefore no contract. ILR (1956) Andhra 502 (507, 509).

(22) Incidence of any insurance contracts in India are on the same footing as in England and the agreement is not enforceable by law if the basis of the agreement is broken. AIR 1959 Pat 102 (106) (DB).

(23) An undertaking executed to the Court by a person whereby he agreed that if the decree-holder who was given possession of the property decreed did not restore it in the event of his failure in the appeal he would make compensation to the Court to the extent of a certain amount is an agreement which satisfies all the requirements of Section 10 of the Act and is therefore a contract. In the intrinsic nature of the agreement there is nothing which would make it unenforceable. AIR 1931 Oudh 99 (102) = 6 Luck 601 (SB). (AIR 1931 All 189, Dissented from.)

(24) An agreement by a party to do something can be proved by evidence of his conduct even if there is no oral evidence of the agreement itself. AIR 1944 Nag 124 (126) = ILR (1944) Nag 101 (DB).

(26) In contracts for sale of immovable property, time is generally not of the essence of the agreement. The proper criterion is to ascertain whether agreement goes to show that it was the intention of the parties that time should be of the essence of the contract for the sale of immovable property. 1967 Raj LW 498 = ILR (1967) 17 Raj 917.

(27) Courts cannot absolve a party from liability to perform his part of the contract on grounds of hardship. (1969) 1 SCWR 765. (AIR 1960 SC 588 (594, Rel. on.)

(28) If for amicable settlement parties agreed to abide by certain terms it cannot be said that such an agreement is without consideration. (1966) All WR (HC) 134.

(29) A contract entered into in defiance of a legal provision continues to be illegal even after the legal provision ceases to be effective and a plea that the contract, when it was to be enforced, was not hit by any subsisting law is not open to the party seeking to enforce it. AIR 1963 All 206 (209) = 1962 All LJ 767 (DB).

(30) The core of the doctrine of privity of contract is that consideration must move from promisee. AIR 1969 Cal 496 (509) (DB).

2. Parties' intention to execute document — Effect of.— (1) Where parties enter into an executory agreement which is to be carried out by a deed afterwards to be executed the real completed contract is to be found in the deed. The contract is merged in the deed. (1938) 173 Ind Cas 88 (89, 90) (PC).

(2) There is only a provisional agreement and not a concluded contract between the parties where in order to make the agreement a binding contract one of them should take certain steps and those steps have not been taken. AIR 1954 Nag 142 (148) = ILR (1953) Nag 746 (DB).

(3) Whether intention to have formal document drawn up postpones formation of contract depends on circumstances of each case. AIR 1936 Mad 752 (755) (DB)  AIR 1968 SC 1028 (1031) = (1968) 3 SCR 387.

(4) Where the execution of a further document containing the contract between the parties is a condition or the term of their bargain then unless such a document is executed there can be no enforceable contract between the parties because either the condition is unfulfilled or because the law does not recognise a contract to enter into a contract. AIR 1933 PC 29 (31) = 60 Cal 980 = 60 Ind App 297  AIR 1947 Sind 6 (11)  AIR 1946 Bom 149 (153) (DB)  AIR 1942 Pesh 33 (34, 35) (DB).

(5) Where the parties to a bargain contemplate the execution of a further contract merely as an expression of their desire as to the manner in which the transaction already agreed to will in fact go through, the non-execution of such a document will not affect the finality and the binding character of the contract already concluded between them. AIR 1933 PC 29 (31) = 60 Cal 980 = 60 Ind App 297  (1911) 9 Ind Cas 104 (105) (FB) (Mad)  AIR 1946 Bom 149 (153) (DB)  AIR 1967 Mys 156 (158, 159).

(6) Unregistered document — Executants agreeing to sell properties and execute a document of conveyance whenever demanded — Document held, merely an agreement to sell and a suit for specific performance could be based on it — Mere fact that the document mentioned that executants had received sale consideration or that possession had been handed over did not mean that it was a deed of conveyance — Agreement to execute formal deed of conveyance could be specifically enforced. AIR 1969 Mad 418 (419, 421) = (1969) 2 Mad LJ 151. (AIR 1934 Mad 418 and AIR 1937 Mad 22 held overruled by AIR 1943 Mad 761 (FB). AIR 1929 PC 362 held no longer good law.)

Evidence of concluded contract.

(7) Where it is a point in issue in a case whether negotiations started with the object of forming a contract were still open to bargaining or had resulted in the formation of a contract the decision should depend on the intention of the parties to be ascertained from all the facts and circumstances of that particular case. AIR 1951 All 93 (97) = ILR (1950) All 1033 (FB)  AIR 1969 SC 9 (12) = (1968) 2 SCR 565  AIR 1959 SC 633 (637) = (1959) (2) SCR (Supp) 136  AIR 1968 Delhi 68 (70, 71) (DB)  AIR 1968 Raj 278 (282) = 1968 Raj LW 163  AIR 1966 Mys 118 (122) = (1965) 1 Mys LJ 546 (DB)  AIR 1962 Mad 369 (371, 372) = (1962) 2 Mad LJ 25 (DB)  AIR 1962 Pat 28 (30) (DB)  AIR 1960 Cal 752 (758, 759, 760) = ILR (1961) 1 Cal 799 (DB).

(8) When words of contract are clear and unambiguous there is no scope for drawing upon hypothetical considerations or supposed intentions of the parties. AIR 1959 SC 1362 (1368) = (1960) 1 SCR 493.

(9) Whether an agreement is a completed bargain or merely a provisional agreement depends on the intention of the parties as deducible from the language used while negotiations take a concrete shape. AIR 1941 All 377 (383) = ILR (1941) All 741 (DB)  AIR 1968 Raj 129 (135) = 66 ITR 1 (DB)  AIR 1962 All 147 (148) = 1961 All LJ 831 (FB).

(10) In order to find out whether the parties have concluded a binding contract or not the negotiations and the correspondence should be looked at as a whole. AIR 1939 Rang 423 (423) (DB)  AIR 1921 Nag 42 (44) = 17 Nag LR 1  AIR 1920 Mad 177 (179) (DB).

(11) Whether a concluded contract has been made or not is a question of fact to be determined in each case by a consideration of all the relevant circumstances and facts and cannot be concluded by the parties' or the solicitors' description of the situation either as a contract or negotiation. AIR 1960 Cal 752 (754) = ILR (1961) 1 Cal 799 (DB).

(12) The conduct of the parties in acting upon the contract before the formal agreement is drawn up is clear evidence of the fact that they did not intend the execution of a further contract as a condition or a term of the bargain. AIR 1942 Pesh 33 (34, 35) (DB)  (1969) 1 Mad LJ 557 = 82 Mad LW 379  AIR 1964 Mad 52 (53) = (1963) 2 Mad LJ 330  (1964) 68 Cal WN 611.

(13) The subsequent waiver by a party of any of his rights is irrelevant to the question whether a binding contract came into existence between the parties on the day on which it is alleged to have been entered into. AIR 1955 Cal 210 (215) (DB).

(14) Where a lease deed stipulates sale of land if lessor was ever required to sell and if lessee agreed to purchase at a reasonable price, the stipulation cannot be a completed contract. AIR 1969 Assam 43 (45).

3. Written agreements.— (1) A written agreement is an instrument whereby parties perform the act declaring their consent as to any act or thing to be done or forborne by some or one of those persons for the use of the others or other of them through the process of writing. (1912) 6 Sind LR 278 (280).

(2) There is an essential difference between a written agreement and a document which merely embodies the terms of an agreement. Such document may be evidence of the agreement but is not the agreement itself; unless it be also the instrument whereby the assent of each party has been expressed. (1912) 6 Sind LR 278 (280).

(3) It is not necessary for the existence of a written agreement that the parties should put their signatures to the document embodying the terms of the agreement because the plain acceptance of a document containing all the terms is sufficient. AIR 1956 All 725 (728) = ILR (1957) 1 All 232 (DB)  AIR 1968 Raj 89 (92-93) = 1967 Raj LW 129  AIR 1965 Cal 404 (406) (DB).

(4) Where it is definitely ascertained that a party who has signed an instrument intended to be bound by it as a concluded contract the fact that his signature is not at the end of the document as is usual but at some other place in it will not render the execution of it ineffective. AIR 1955 Raj 91 (92, 93) = ILR (1955) 5 Raj 427 (DB).

(5) Contract in writing does not require signature of both parties. A bond executed by a party and delivered to the other party and accepted by him completes the agreement between the parties and in law this amounts to a contract in writing. AIR 1916 Cal 771 (773) (DB)  AIR 1963 Pat 160 (162) = 1962 BLJR 942 (DB).

(6) When a contract is reduced into writing the previous negotiations, whether they resulted in a binding agreement or not is presumptively merged in the writing. AIR 1945 Lah 35 (40) = ILR (1944) Lah 578 (DB)  (1968) 9 Guj LR 1082.

4. Oral contracts.— (1) An oral contract by which itself the parties intended to be bound is valid and enforceable. AIR 1946 PC 97 (99) = 73 Ind App 98 = ILR (1946) Kar (PC) 94 = ILR (1946) Bom 694.

(2) An agreement of re-sale is not required by law to be reduced to the form of a document. ILR (1950) All 32 (38) (DB).

(3) A contract to pay does not require a writing. AIR 1944 Nag 124 (126) = ILR (1944) Nag 101 (DB)  AIR 1968 Raj 278 (280) = 1968 Raj LW 163.

(4) Where the owner of a premises accepted only orally the proposal made to him by another to take on lease the premises it was held that there was only an oral contract to lease and not a lease in writing. AIR 1938 Cal 136 (138) = ILR (1938) 1 Cal 563 (DB).

(5) Oral agreements require clearest and most satisfactory evidence. (1941) 43 Pun LR 97 (103) (DB).

(6) A mere reference to a future formal contract in an oral agreement does not prevent a binding bargain between the parties. AIR 1968 SC 1028 (1031) = (1968) 3 SCR 387.

5. Parties to contract.— (1) A contract implies two parties. AIR 1916 Cal 771 (2) (773)  1958 MPLJ 410 = 1958 Jab LJ 464.

(2) A contract can only be bilateral. The same party cannot be a party to a contract on both sides and hence there can hardly be a contract between A on the one side and A and B on other side. AIR 1958 Bom 467 (468) = ILR (1958) Bom 428 (DB)  (1968) 9 Guj LR 1082.

(3) In an ordinary contract to sell immovable property the personality of the party is not usually material. It is sufficient if the identity of the purchaser is ascertainable. It is not necessary to utter the actual name unless the personality is an essential part of the contract. AIR 1960 Cal 752 (757, 758) = ILR (1961) 1 Cal 799 (DB).

(4) Contract — 'A' contracting with 'B' for purchase of goods from 'B' — 'B' independently arranging with 'C' for supply — There is no contract between 'A' and 'C' for want of privity — Yet if goods are not supplied, C bound to return money to A for 'prevention of unjust enrichment.' AIR 1969 Cal 496 (509, 510, 514) (DB).

Devolution on death of party.

(5) Where there is no express or implied condition in a contract that the contracting party should continue to live for its continued subsistence the contract survives the maker of it and devolves on his personal representatives both in respect of the benefit and the burden of it. ILR (1952) 2 Cal 161 (165) (DB).

Competency to contract.

(6) In the case of a statutory person who is incompetent to make any contract except in compliance with the formalities prescribed by statutes there is no inherent disqualification or incompetency to make a contract as in the case of a minor or a lunatic. AIR 1955 Assam 33 (44) (DB).

(7) A minor cannot enter into a contract of partnership. Fact that the minor was represented by his guardian would not make the agreement valid, as a minor can only be admitted to benefits of partnership under the law and cannot be made a partner even by his guardian. (1962) 45 ITR 170 (Cal) (DB).

(8) A contract to be specifically enforced by Court must, as a general rule, be mutual, that is to say such that it might at the time it was entered into, have been enforced by either of the parties against the other of them. The relevant date on which this test of mutuality is to be applied is the date of contract itself and not the date on which it is sought to be enforced. Where an infant plaintiff claims under a party who himself could have obtained specific performance, such infancy is no ground for refusing specific performance. AIR 1969 Mad 470 (473) = (1969) 1 Mad LJ 427.

6. Formalities prescribed by law in force.— (1) Where the law has prescribed certain formalities those formalities should be complied with to create a contract capable of attaching liability. AIR 1930 All 118 (120) (DB).

(2) A party acting upon a contract required by law to be executed in a particular manner but not so executed cannot sue for breach of such contract. AIR 1937 Rang 378 (380).

(3) Where the law prescribes that a valid contract could be executed only in a certain form and no other the Court cannot look at the terms of a contract which has not been executed in that form even to determine the nature of transaction entered into between the parties. AIR 1956 Punj 181 (184) = ILR (1956) Punj 1279 (DB).

(4) Where a statute requires an agreement to be 'in the form' or 'in accordance with the form' prescribed by it, then unless the contrary is clearly expressed, it is a sufficient compliance with the statute if the agreement is substantially in the form. An immaterial variation in such a case does not amount to a violation or non-compliance with the provisions of the statute. AIR 1956 All 725 (728) = ILR (1957) 1 All 232 (DB).

(5) The failure to conclude a contract in accordance with the provisions of a special law which are not mandatory does not render the contract unenforceable. AIR 1957 Madh B 190 (191).

(6) Where the bought and the sold notes have by the Bye-laws to be in writing and in the prescribed form and if there be any discrepancy between the two, there is no concluded contract. AIR 1968 SC 1308 (1310) = (1968) 3 SCR 450.

Government contracts.

(7) Under Sec. 30 of the Government of India Act of 1919 a contract to be enforceable by or against the Secretary of State for India had to comply with its provisions and as sub-section (2) of that section implied the execution of a document oral contracts were completely excluded by the section and therefore could not be enforced. AIR 1941 All 377 (384) = ILR (1941) All 741 (DB).  AIR 1952 Pat 393 (403) (DB).

(8) Considering Section 175 (3) of Government of India Act (1935), a contract may be validly made by correspondence or by tender and its acceptance or by informal documents. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (538) (DB)  AIR 1957 Assam 159 (160, 161) = ILR (1956) 8 Assam 1 (DB)  AIR 1941 All 377 (384) = ILR (1941) All 741 (DB)  AIR 1969 Bom 163 (171) = 70 Bom LR 364  AIR 1967 Mys 156 (158, 159)  AIR 1964 Punj 230 (231)  AIR 1962 Manipur 47 (51).

[See however AIR 1966 SC 1724 (1726, 1728) = (1964) 3 SCR 774  AIR 1968 Mys 279 (282, 283) = (1967) 1 Mys LJ 533 (DB).]

(9) A contract executed by a person who was not authorised by the Governor-General under sub-section (3) of Section 175 of the Government of India Act, 1935 was held to be not capable of binding the Government. AIR 1955 Assam 33 (41) (DB)  AIR 1965 Cal 191 (194, 195)  AIR 1959 Bom 56 (58) = 1958 Nag LJ 142.

(10) Where a contract is not in strict conformity with the provision of Section 175 (3) of the Government of India Act (1935), such contract though unenforceable against the Government, is binding upon the officer, who actually made the contract under Section 230 (3) of the Contract Act. AIR 1954 SC 236 and AIR 1962 SC 113 Followed. AIR 1962 Pat 372 (375) = 1962 BLJR 480.

(11) See also Article 299, Constitution of India.

7. Construction of contracts.— (1) A contract should be construed as a whole in order to determine the rights of the parties thereto. AIR 1958 Cal 21 (23) (DB)  AIR 1956 Bom 151 (153, 155)  1955 BLJR 93 (94, 95) (DB).  AIR 1964 SC 1526 (1531). (The question whether the impugned contract is transferable must depend upon the language of the contract interpreted in the light of surrounding circumstances.)  AIR 1962 SC 378 (385) = (1962) 3 SCR 769  AIR 1969 All 296 (303) = 1968 All LJ 225 (FB). (Entire contract must be taken as constituting an organic synthesis, embodying provisions which balance in the sum of reciprocal rights and obligations. It is through the prism of that principle that the terms of compromise decree must be analysed).  (1969) 23 STC 374 (377) (Mad) (DB)  AIR 1968 Cal 496 (499) = 69 ITR 139 (DB)  AIR 1967 Cal 99 (104) = 70 Cal WN

(2) For correct interpretation of contract Courts have to look primarily to the document itself, but must also take into consideration circumstances in which it was written, drafting ability of parties, intention which writing was to convey and how parties acted under it. AIR 1959 All 29 (32) (DB).

(3) The terms and conditions and the nature of the contract between the parties have to be ascertained from all the facts and circumstances of the case. AIR 1959 Assam 75 (90).

(4) A contract must be interpreted by itself and without reference to another contract unless the expressions used in both and the facts and surrounding circumstances also are the same or identical. AIR 1916 Cal 548 (550) = 42 Cal 1050 (DB)  AIR 1956 Bom 151 (152).

[See also AIR 1959 Andh Pra 370 (374) (DB). (Decision on similar contract — However similar contracts may appear, decision as to each must depend on consideration of the language of the particular contract.)]

(5) Where the question is what exactly were the terms and conditions of the contract of carriage by sea in a particular case, reference to other bills of lading, issued by the shipping company in connection with the same voyage cannot be made. AIR 1957 Trav-Co. 133 (134) = ILR (1956) Trav-Co 348 (DB).

(6) If a letter of credit authorises payment against bills of lading such payment should be made only against clean bills of lading. The recognised practice is to interpret the letter of credit as authorising payment only against clean bills of lading. (1961) 2 Mad LJ 88 = 74 Mad LW 281 (DB).

(7) A contract must be construed according to its own terms and not explained or interpreted by any antecedent contract. AIR 1949 Cal 174 (176)  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 151 (161) = 1960 MPLJ 334 (FB)  (1969) 23 STC 374 (377) (Mad) (DB)  (1962) 4 Orissa JD 349  AIR 1962 Punj 383 (384) = 64 Punj LR 199.

(8) Power-of-attorney should be construed strictly — Document contains the words "to put his (agent's) signature" — Document not empowering execution of sale-deeds — Fact that the agent had hitherto been selling, held, could not alter the legal position. 1969 BLJR 593 (609) = 1969 Pat LJ 156 (DB).

(9) A preliminary written contract is entirely governed by the subsequent deed, where there is any difference between them. AIR 1938 Mad 81 (82).

[See AIR 1962 All 425 (431) (DB). (The two agreements have to be read together in order to find out what was the intention of the parties and the final contract between them.)]

(10) The Court while construing the whole document embodying a contract can give preference to an earlier recital over a later one if it finds that the recital is the most important one to convey the actual intention of the parties. 1955 BLJR 93 (94, 95) (DB)  AIR 1968 Cal 496 (499) = 69 ITR 139 (DB).

(11) In construing provisions of an agreement, it is not a rigid rule that the same meaning ought to be given to an expression in every part of the document in which it appears. AIR 1928 PC 115, Rel. on. AIR 1966 Mad 60 (63) = (1966) 1 Mad LJ 181.

(12) Contracts ought to be construed according to the primary and natural meaning of the language in which the contracting parties have chosen to express the terms of their mutual agreement. 1955 BLJR 93 (94) (DB)  AIR 1968 Cal 496 (499) = 69 ITR 139 (DB)  AIR 1967 Cal 168 (170) (DB)  AIR 1967 Cal 119 (125) (DB)  AIR 1964 All 526 (526)  AIR 1962 Cal 12 (18) = ILR (1961) 2 Cal 558 (DB)  AIR 1961 Assam 173 (175) = ILR (1961) 13 Assam 351. (If the language is vague, the surrounding circumstances may be looked into to interpret the contract.)  AIR 1966 Him Pra 54 (56).

(13) The grammatical or the natural and usual meaning should be imputed to the words in a contract. AIR 1954 Cal 179 (182)  AIR 1961 SC 1295 (1296) = (1961) 3 SCR 845 = 63 Bom LR 962  AIR 1960 Cal 320 (322, 323)  AIR 1960 Orissa 199 (202) = 26 Cut LT 346 (DB).

(14) In construing contracts the Courts cannot give the words of the contract an entirely different sense from their natural and grammatical meaning even to avoid a superfluity. AIR 1949 Bom 356 (357) = ILR (1950) Bom 144 (DB).

(15) Where in a contract there exists an apparent inconsistency according to the literal construction of the words used, and if by any other reasonably possible construction that inconsistency can be reconciled, that construction should be adopted. AIR 1940 PC 151 (152, 153) = ILR (1940) Kar PC 361  AIR 1964 Raj 72 (75) = 1963 Raj LW 351. (Deed capable of two interpretations — One favouring right to sue and other hampering it — Construction advancing right to sue should be preferred.)

(16) Prima facie printed clauses and type-written clauses in a contract have to be given equal effect unless there is an inconsistency between the two in which case greater force may be given to the type-written clause. (1950) 85 Cal L Jour 136 (142)  AIR 1943 Bom 229 (236)  AIR 1942 Mad 139 (141) = ILR (1942) Mad 33 (DB).

(17) Where there is inconsistency between the printed and the written provisions print cannot be discarded but the real meaning is to be discovered from the printed as well as from written words. (1906) 30 Bom 1 (14) (DB).

(18) Greater force must be given to the written clauses in a contract on a printed form when there is inconsistency between these clauses and the printed clauses in the contract. AIR 1949 Cal 231 (233) = ILR (1945) 1 Cal 87  AIR 1943 Bom 229 (236)  AIR 1917 Bom 246 (248)  AIR 1961 SC 1295 (1297) = (1961) 3 SCR 845 = 63 Bom LR 962  AIR 1962 Cal 325 (330) = (1963) 33 Com Cas 1 (DB).

(19) In construing written contracts Courts ought not to resort to evidence of negotiation except to the extent necessary for clarifying what is ambiguous in the contract. AIR 1946 PC 50 (50, 51)  AIR 1965 SC 1288 (1290, 1291) = (1965) 1 SCJ 498  AIR 1969 Andh Pra 88 (90) = (1968) 2 Andh WR 287 (DB).

(20) When there is ambiguity in the sale deed as to what exactly was agreed to be sold, the contract of sale can be looked into. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 278 (280).

(21) The subsequent conduct of the parties in the performance of a contract cannot change the true effect of the clear and unambiguous words of the contract. AIR 1938 PC 26 (29)  AIR 1959 SC 1362 (1368) = (1960) 1 SCR 493  AIR 1964 Orissa 73 (74, 75) = 29 Cut LT 548 (DB)  AIR 1959 J & K 24 (25) (DB).

(22) An illustration can in no event override an express provision in the contract. 1946 Nag L Jour 128 (136).

(23) When conditions of a contract are separately printed, and the very sentence (not to speak of the paragraph) speaking of it refers to a particular class of orders and there is nothing in that paragraph showing that part of it is of general application, one has to hold that the condition is a self-contained one applying to that particular class only. 1964 Jab LJ 342.

(24) Rules of construction which are only aids for ascertaining intention of the parties, cannot be relied on to override declared intention of the parties unequivocally expressed. AIR 1966 Ker 303 (305) = 1966 Ker LT 1145 (DB).

(25) The terms of a contract should be interpreted on two well-established principles. Firstly, there must be a clear intention, which is beyond the possibility of any dispute. Secondly, the construction to be placed on a deed ought to be such as to make it just to both the parties rather than unjust to one of them. AIR 1969 Tripura 19 (21).

(26) Where terms of memorandum of Association of Company are ambiguous or silent, it has to be read together with the Articles of Association. AIR 1963 SC 1185 (1191) = (1963) Supp 2 SCR 887.

(27) Power of attorney which gives the power to the mokhtar-am to present for registration documents such as sale deeds can be interpreted to give the mokhtar-am the authority to present a deed of mortgage for such registration. AIR 1958 Pat 63 (65) = 1957 BLJR 641 (DB).

(28) Arbitration Clause of agreement between Electricity Board and consumers excluding from its purview a dispute regarding recovery of charges for energy consumed and any other charges such as minimum charges, miscellaneous or other charges — Dispute whether Board is entitled to recover surcharge and fuel adjustment charge is 'a dispute regarding recovery of other charges' within words of exclusion in clause — Arbitration clause held not attracted. AIR 1969 MP 105 (110) = 1969 MPLJ 374 (DB).

(29) Contract for supply of meat to military authorities — Condition providing for increase or decrease of rates by reviewing Tribunal according to rise or fall in the market rates—On application by contractor, one member of Tribunal recommending enhancement — Held in view of plain language of condition and on facts, that condition for enhanced rate was complied with. AIR 1970 SC 479 (483) = 1970 SCD 131.

7 (a). Nomenclature of deed—If conclusive.— (1) Court has, unless prohibited by statute, power to go behind the documents and to determine the nature of the transaction, whatever may be the form of the documents. AIR 1966 SC 1178 (1185) = (1966) 2 SCR 828  (1967) 1 Mad LJ 352 = 80 Mad LW 160.

(2) For the purpose of determining as to which category a particular contract comes under, Court will look at the substance of the agreement and not at the mere words describing the category. AIR 1961 SC 440 (446) = (1961) 2 SCR 522.

(3) Name given by parties to a document is not conclusive as to its real legal nature and effect. Where language used in the document is unambiguous and clear real nature of the document is to be determined by its contents, uninfluenced by any intention of the parties. AIR 1967 Him Pra 29 (31-32).

(4) Name is prima facie a valuable indication of the purport of a deed,

11. Who are competent to contract.—Every person is competent to contract who is of the age of majority according to the law to which he is subject,* and who is of sound mind, and is not disqualified from contracting by any law to which he is subject.

especially when the transaction named is a well known transaction carrying with it certain well-defined legal incidents and, when the terms themselves are equivocal the name may be conclusive. 1961 Ker LT 1033 = 1961 Ker LJ 1491.

(5) The question whether a contract is of apprenticeship or of employment ultimately depends on a construction of the terms of agreement between the person concerned and the employer and not on the description of the person either as apprentice or as workman. AIR 1966 Pat 445 (448) = 1967 BLJR 582 (DB).

(6) The real criterion to test whether a particular agreement is an agreement to sell or a hire-purchase agreement is to find out whether the purchaser has any option to return the chattel and determine the contract. If such an option is given then it is a hire-purchase agreement. But if the purchaser is under an obligation to purchase and has no option to return it, then it is an agreement of sale and not an agreement of hire-purchase. (1965) 1 Andh WR 229 = ILR (1967) Andh Pra 1377.

8. Implied terms.— (1) In a written contract, which can be fulfilled as it stands, no term can be imported merely on the ground that such a term should reasonably have been there in the contract. AIR 1956 Bom 151 (153)  ILR (1966) 1 Punj 49 (DB)  (1960) 1 Lab LJ 628 (Mad).

(2) All the conditions of a contract need not be expressed in words and there are conditions which may be implied from the nature of the transaction. AIR 1949 East Punj 301 (304) (DB).

(3) Every contract, of necessity, leaves matters which are to be implied and hence they have to be construed with reference to the surrounding circumstances and the parties who made them. AIR 1947 Nag 17 (24) = ILR (1946) Nag 824 (FB).

(4) A term which is necessary to give the transaction such efficacy as both parties must have in all reason intended it to have can be considered to be implied in a written contract. AIR 1956 Bom 151 (153)  AIR 1969 Bom 163 (171) = 70 Bom LR 364  AIR 1964 Guj 30 (33) = (1964) 5 Guj LR 82  (1961) 2 Mad LJ 349 = ILR (1961) Mad 955 (DB)  AIR 1959 Bom 143 (147) = 59 Bom LR 985 (DB)  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 151 (162) = 1960 MPLJ 334 (FB).

(5) Price is no doubt a material term of a contract of sale but if the price is not expressed it might be necessary in appropriate cases to imply a term that a fair and reasonable price was intended by the parties. 1956 Andh WR 801 (804)  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 151 (161) = 1960 MPLJ 334 (FB).

(6) The doctrine of implied terms can only be invoked to give business efficacy to the transaction as must have been intended; if an obligation is not clearly intended as such, it must fail to take effect unless some obvious oversight is remedied; or it is something so obvious that it goes without saying. AIR 1958 Punj 83 (101): ILR (1956) Punj 311 (DB)  AIR 1962 Andh Pra 249 (252, 253) (DB)  AIR 1958 Punj 93 (96) = 59 Pun LR 435 (DB).

(7) Vendee was charged on behalf of vendor with duty of redeeming mortgage, but had not been left with sufficient amount to redeem — Suit by mortgage — Held, that vendee was liable for costs. So long as the mortgagee was not paid in full, the costs of the suit by the mortgagee to enforce the mortgage were such as may reasonably be supposed to have been in the contemplation of both the parties at the time they made the contract as the probable result of the breach of it. 1967 Ker LJ 101 (102, 104) = 1967 Ker LT 1126 (DB).

(8) No term can be imported into a contract by reference to custom where that term would contradict the written contract and compel a party to do something at the instance of the other, which was not stipulated for. AIR 1916 Bom 4 (7) = 41 Bom 518 (DB)  (1962) 66 Bom LR 113 = 1962 Nag LJ 709  AIR 1961 Mad 281 (283) = (1961) 1 Mad LJ 244.

[See also AIR 1949 Cal 472 (478).]

(9) The power of the employer to suspend an employee under the ordinary law of master and servant in the sense of a right to forbid a servant to work, is not an implied term in an ordinary contract between master and servant, and such a power can only be the creature either of a statute governing the contract, or of an express term in the contract itself. AIR 1960 SC 1342 (1345) = (1960) 1 SCR 476.

(3) A suit by a minor after his majority on a contract entered into by the karta on behalf of the Hindu joint family of which he is a member cannot be rejected on the ground of want of mutuality. AIR 1937 Mad 869 (870, 872).

(4) Where the major brother when purchasing property jointly in his and his minor brother's name entered into an agreement both for himself and on behalf of his minor brother to reconvey the property after the latter become a major it was held that as the property belonged to the brothers as tenants-in-common the agreement for reconveyance could be enforced against the minor on his attaining majority without the doctrine of mutuality interfering with the same. AIR 1956 Mad 261 (264) = ILR (1956) Mad 99 (FB).

(5) Where the plaintiff-purchaser was a minor, at the time of the agreement, there is want of mutuality because the agreement could not have been enforced against the plaintiff by the defendant. This defect disentitles the plaintiff to enforce the agreement for specific performance against the defendant irrespective of whether the defendant was of sound or unsound mind, when he made the agreement. AIR 1964 All 527 (528) = 1964 All LJ 494 (DB). (ILR 39 Cal 232 (PC) and AIR 1933 Mad 322 (FB), Foll.)

(6) Where father of minor plaintiffs sold his property to defendant and on the same date the defendant executed a registered deed of agreement for resale in favour of plaintiff's father who assigned his rights under the agreement of resale to the plaintiffs, there can be no valid legal objection to granting decree for specific performance in favour of plaintiffs. AIR 1969 Mad 470 (473).

18. Burden of proof and estoppel.— (1) Where in a suit upon contract the defendant denies the validity of the contract on the ground that he was not of full age at the time of its execution the burden lies in the first instance on the plaintiff to establish by prima facie evidence that the contract is not invalid and that the defendant when he executed it was a competent party. (1909) 2 Ind Cas 839 (840) (DB) (All)  (1910) 4 Sind LR 250 (254, 255).

(3) Where a minor enters into a contract by representing that he was of full age he is not estopped from pleading his minority in avoidance of the contract. AIR 1928 PC 152 (156). (5) Where a minor after alleging himself to be a major when the contract was executed by him seeks to plead his minority in avoidance of the contract a very heavy burden rests upon him to prove his defence. AIR 1928 PC 152 (156).

(6) Where a Kobala is executed by the Hindu mother on behalf of minor on the footing that she is competent to transfer the property of the minor and this position is accepted by the alienee who has obtained an advantage by the transaction of sale and got the entire property, including the share of the minor and has agreed to reconvey the property in its entirety, the alienee cannot turn round and repudiate the authority of the mother to effect the sale on behalf of the minor or to repurchase the property of the minor upon refund of the consideration money. He will be estopped by his conduct from doing so. AIR 1960 Cal 65 (66) = 63 Cal WN 436.

19. Contract by adult persons in favour of infants.— (1) A contract between an adult person and a minor cannot be void where the consideration for the promise of the adult is not a reciprocal promise by the minor but is something which had actually been done by the minor. AIR 1936 Pat 153 (157) (DB).

(2) A minor can enforce a contract made in his favour for a valuable consideration, as while no liability can be incurred by a minor, he is not debarred from acquiring a title to anything valuable. AIR 1927 Lah 24 (27) (DB).

(3) An executory contract cannot be entered into by a minor. But a minor or a lunatic is not disqualified as such from being the transferee of immovable property as purchaser or mortgagee under an executed contract. AIR 1945 All 156 (157) = ILR (1945) All 204 (DB)  AIR 1922 Nag 239 (241).

(4) Merely because the conveyance of property is made in favour of a minor, there is no defective title passed. (1913) 18 Ind Cas 451 (451) (DB) (Cal). (Sale.)

(5) Where a sale-deed was taken in the name of the mother she paying the consideration from the monies belonging to her major and minor sons it was held that it was in no sense a sale to the minors themselves but a sale either to the mother herself as a trustee for her sons or a purchase by the major son with the family funds in the name of the mother. AIR 1914 Mad 666 (667).

(6) A mortgage in favour of a minor who has advanced the whole of the mortgage money is a valid transaction and is enforceable by him or by other persons on his behalf. (11) Purchase of property for the benefit of a minor by his maternal uncle is valid and if the property is alienated by a minor's father, the minor is entitled to recover it back. AIR 1915 Mad 412 (414) = 37 Mad 390 (DB).

(12) A minor, although not competent to contract, can accept a gift through his natural guardian. There is no principle forbidding a natural guardian to accept a gift subject to a condition, and then perform that condition, if the whole transaction is for the minor's benefit. ILR (1947) 2 Cal 1 (13).

20. Restrictions on power to contract does not relate to competency.— (1) A statutory person is not on the same footing with a minor in the matter of his capacity to contract. While a minor's incapacity is an inherent one the statutory person suffers from no such incapacity. No doubt he can exercise the power only subject to his complying with the formalities imposed by the statute but that restriction on the exercise of power does not amount to inherent disqualification or incapacity. AIR 1952 Cal 306 (309)  AIR 1955 Assam 86 (93) (DB)  (1952) 89 Cal L Jour 342 (372).

21. Disqualification under any other law.— (1) There is no disability attached to a female, married or unmarried, to preclude her from entering into a contract either on the ground of sex or coverture. AIR 1947 Nag 84 (85) = ILR (1947) Nag 154.

(2) The law of England which prohibits a barrister from entering into any contract of fees with his client does not operate in India and hence he is entitled, while practising as an advocate of a High Court in India, to enter into contracts of fees with his clients. 12. What is a sound mind for the purposes of contracting.—A person is said to be of sound mind for the purpose of making a contract if, at the time when he makes it, he is capable of understanding it and of forming a rational judgment as to its effect upon his interests.

A person who is usually of unsound mind, but occasionally of sound mind, may make a contract when he is of sound mind.

Section 12

1. Unsoundness of mind.— (1) A contract entered into by a person who at the time was of unsound mind is void. (1908) 10 Bom LR 1004 (1006)  AIR 1957 Pat 491 (492) (DB).

(2) The test of unsoundness of mind is, whether the person is incapable of understanding the business concerned, and its implications. AIR 1944 Nag

(3) Even a person who by appearance behaves normally would be protected by the law if in reality he is one incapable of forming a judgment as to what is to his interest. AIR 1957 Pat 491 (493) (DB).

(4) Mere weakness of mind does not amount to unsoundness of mind. AIR 1944 Nag 232 (234) = ILR (1944) Nag 698  AIR 1923 Pat 187 (192) (DB).

(5) In case of a person who is illiterate or who is not in a position to read contents of a document, the contract cannot be imposed upon him simply because he has endorsed his signature thereon unless further it is proved that he did that after understanding the contents of the same. AIR 1959 Pat 540 (546-547) = 1959 BLJR 425 (DB).

(6) Mere loss of memory does not make a person unfit for the management of his own affair in his lifetime. AIR 1932 PC 69 (72).

(7) A person who being subject to undue influence is unable to exercise freely his judgment cannot be brought within the category of persons of unsound mind contemplated by Section 12. AIR 1927 Cal 889 (896) = 55 Cal 285 (DB).

(8) Idiocy is the most extreme form of mental unsoundness. AIR 1944 Nag 232 (233) = ILR (1944) Nag 698.

(9) An idiot is one who has been of unsound mind since birth and hence is subject to all the legal disabilities and incapacities which attach to a person of unsound mind. (1863) 1 Mad HCR 214 (215) (DB).

(10) If a party to a contract seeks to enforce a contract which is void under Section 12, it is not permissible to give equitable relief. However, statutory relief can be given under Sections 38 and 41 of the Specific Relief Act when decision is asked for on the ground that the contract is void under Section 12. (1908) 10 Bom LR 1004 (1006, 1007).

2. Evidence and proof.— (1) The question whether a person is of unsound mind at the time of execution of a document is a question of fact. AIR 1953 Assam 94 (95) = ILR (1951) 3 Assam 515.

(2) Pleadings and evidence must be scrutinized before deciding issue of mental condition. AIR 1938 Nag 204 (208).

(3) Circumstances evincing insanity have to be considered together and not individually and their cumulative effect gauged. AIR 1941 Nag 251 (254) = ILR (1942) Nag 236 (DB).

(4) Question whether contract is invalidated by unsoundness of mind does not depend merely on belief or disbelief of the witnesses before Court but largely upon inference to be drawn from evidence. AIR 1956 Cal 213 (214) (DB)  AIR 1953 Assam 94 (95) = ILR (1951) 3 Assam 515  AIR 1941 Nag 251 (252) = ILR (1942) Nag 236 (DB).

(5) In the case of a registered document, in deciding the question relating to the mental condition of the executant, the Registrar's endorsement on the deed cannot be discarded. AIR 1938 Nag 204 (209).

(6) Once it has been established that a person is usually of unsound mind, the burden of proof is on the party who alleges that the document was executed during a lucid interval. AIR 1941 Nag 251 (252) = ILR (1942) Nag 236 (DB)  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 22 (27) (DB).

(7) It is doubtful whether it could be held that any person was by reason of unsoundness of mind incapable of entering into a contract in the absence of any medical evidence. AIR 1953 Assam 94 (95) = ILR (1951) 3 Assam 515.

(8) When it is shown that a person suffered from senile dementia on a particular day a presumption of its continuance would arise and it would then be on the party who tries to uphold the subsequent transaction of that person to show that at the time of the transaction there was no incapacity. AIR 1940 Mad 73 (74, 75) (DB)  AIR 1956 Cal 213 (214) (DB).

(9) An allegation of the unsoundness of mind of a person should be established by proof which shows that he was incapable of understanding business and forming a rational judgment as to the effect of his transaction upon his interest. AIR 1957 Pat 491 (492) (DB)  AIR 1927 Cal 889 (899) = 55 Cal 285 (DB)  AIR 1923 Pat 187 (192) (DB).

(10) In order to avoid a contract on the ground of unsoundness of mind, the all important question to be decided is whether that person was of unsound mind when the contract was made. AIR 1927 Cal 889 (892) = 55 Cal 285 (DB)  AIR 1933 Lah 458 (460).

[See however AIR 1932 Rang 24.]

(11) The executant of a deed might be a hard drunkard who might frequently be unsound but to hold that his deed is not binding it must be established that he was unsound when the deed was executed. AIR 1926 Oudh 470 (472) = 2 Luck 226 (DB).

(12) Proof that a person was suffering from delusions by itself is not sufficient to set aside his transaction but it must be established that the delusions influenced the disposition or the contract. (1908) 10 Bom LR 1004 (1016).

(13) A case of lucid interval cannot be established by the solitary fact that on the day on which the transaction took place the person in question did not show any instability or insanity. AIR 1956 Cal 213 (214) (DB).

(14) Where unsoundness of mind has been proved by definite medical evidence lucid intervals should also be proved by as strong and as much demonstrative evidence. AIR 1932 Rang 24 (25).

(15) It is not legitimate for a Court to commute an insufficient case of insanity into a complete case of weakness, when the type of insanity connoted in the evidence is something quite different. (1905) 27 All 1 (10) = 7 Oudh Cas 287 = 31 Ind App 285 (PC).

Burden of proof.

(16) Normal presumption is in favour of sanity. The onus of proving insanity is on person who alleges it. AIR 1923 Pat 187 (192) (DB)  (1908) 10 Bom LR 1004 (1007)  AIR 1967 J & K 85 (88) = 1967 Kash LJ 44  (1960) 2 Orissa JD 492. (Mere endorsement in the document to the effect that it was read over to the lady and understood by her, cannot be relied upon, when the writer of the endorsement has not been examined as a witness.)

Section 13

1. Consent.— (1) 'Consent' is a legal term of wide import which would include both express and implied consent. Tacit consent and connivance would also fall within that legal import of the term. AIR 1958 Raj 324 (332) = ILR (1958) 8 Raj 1024 (DB).

(2) A consent induced by false representation may not be 'free' within the meaning of Section 14, but it can nevertheless be real, and ordinarily the effect of fraud or misrepresentation is to render a transaction voidable only and not void. AIR 1954 SC 181 (184) = 1954 SCR 391.

(3) Whether there is consent or not has to be proved as a fact in accordance with the principles of the law of contract. AIR 1954 SC 181 (185) = 1954 SCR 391.

(4) For a deed to be binding on its executant it is necessary that there should be not only the physical act of execution but also the mental act in the sense that the mind accompanied the act of execution. AIR 1933 Pat 306 (335) = 12 Pat 359 (DB)  AIR 1925 PC 204 (209) = 52 Ind App 342 = 47 All 703.

(5) Where a person is induced to execute a deed of one kind under the belief that he is signing an instrument of a wholly different kind the transaction is void and not only voidable. AIR 1921 Cal 786 (788) (DB)  AIR 1956 Cal 575 (577) (DB)  AIR 1939 Lah 439 (451) = ILR (1939) Lah 433 (DB)  (1879) 3 Bom 242 (266, 267).

(6) Where there is error either in regard to the identity of the party or the subject-matter of the contract there is no consent within the meaning of the section. AIR 1954 SC 181 (184) = 1954 SCR 391  AIR 1932 Bom 151 (153) = 56 Bom 180 (DB).

(7) When there is mutual misapprehension between both parties to a sale of a bill of exchange as to the particular kind of bill wanted by the purchaser their minds cannot be said to have met, or in the words of this section there would be no consent. (1882) 4 All 334 (336, 337) (DB).

(8) A person who entered into an agreement to compound an offence under the Forest Act of 1926 by payment of 'price' of forest produce as assessed by the Forest Officer and also paid the same cannot turn round and say that as there was no consensus ad idem on the meaning of the word 'price' there was no contract at all and therefore a part of the amount which was paid by him according to the assessed value should be paid back to him as being an amount which is in excess of what could be taken from him if the officer had estimated the value according to certain executive instructions issued by the department. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 169 (170, 171) = 1957 Cri L Jour 1146.

(9) Where a policy of insurance is issued by a company, subject to the regulations and conditions comprised in the prospectus, it is unnecessary to prove that the company's prospectus had been read by or specially brought to the notice of the assured, apart from the reference made to it in the policy. (1902) 25 Mad 183 (205) (DB).

(10) It would not avail a party seeking to avoid any condition in a contract executed by him on a printed form to plead either that he did not read the contract or that it was in a language not understood by him. In the latter case it would be for him to ask for and obtain an explanation of the terms. He can avoid a condition, especially one which is usually found in such contracts, only by showing that he signed the contract on the assurance given to him that he would not be bound by it. AIR 1921 Sind 121 (123) = 16 Sind LR 235.

(11) The fact that a document is in a language which is not known to its executant does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that he did not understand its contents. AIR 1949 FC 78 (80, 81).

(12) A passenger, who has sufficient notice from the passage-ticket itself that he and his luggage are being carried subject to certain conditions printed on the back of it, must, if he is ignorant of the language in which these conditions are printed, get them explained and translated to him before he goes on board. If he negligently omits to do so he will be bound by these conditions and his ignorance of the language will not help him to avoid them. (1881) 6 Cal 227 (234) (DB).

(13) A person who is not illiterate cannot escape a document executed by him on the plea that he did not read it. AIR 1930 Pat 601 (602) (DB).

(14) Persons signing a printed form of contract without studying its terms is bound thereby. (1938) 40 Pun LR 701 (705).

(15) No effective contract can come into existence unless the parties are ad idem on all the essential terms of the transaction. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (536).

(16) If a party to an agreement embodied in a document is told that any stipulation in the agreement would not be enforced, he cannot be held to have assented to it. AIR 1936 PC 70 (74) = 63 Ind App 126 = 59 Mad 446.

(17) The person who sets up and relies upon a document executed by a person of disability like the purdanashin lady has to prove that she executed it after fully understanding the nature of the disposition freely and willingly. AIR 1925 PC 204 (209) = 47 All 703 = 28 Oudh Cas 338 = 52 Ind App 342  AIR 1953 Madh B 32 (34)  AIR 1939 All 348 (361) (DB).

(18) Where the contents of the document were merely read out but not explained to and understood by the executant who has an illiterate man it must be held that there is no consensus ad idem and hence the executant is not bound by it. AIR 1918 Cal 546 (547) (DB). (Per Chatterjee J.)

(19) In the case of a person who is sui juris and not under any disability, the mental act of intending the execution is, also, presumed, where there is admission of execution, or where the execution is proved. AIR 1933 Pat 306 (335) = 12 Pat 359 (DB).

(20) An agent's consent on behalf of his principal is as effective and binding on the latter as when the same is given by himself. AIR 1954 SC 181 (185) = 1954 SCR 391.

(21) The definition of the word 'consent' given in this section applies to that word as used in Section 30 (2) of the Sale of Goods Act. AIR 1954 SC 181 (184) = 1954 SCR 391.

2. Transactions of purdanashin women.— (1) A purdanashin lady, in the true sense of that term is a lady living in seclusion that is, the "zanana," and having no communication with any male strangers except from behind a screen. AIR 1930 Lah 985 (987) = 12 Lah 239 (DB).

(2) Merely because a woman lives in some degree of seclusion it will not entitle her to be treated as a purdanashin woman when as a matter of fact she is found to have appeared before the registrar and also in Courts and transacted her business herself. Section 14 — Note 1

(1) That definition of coercion in Section 15 is expressly inserted for the special object of applying to Section 14 i.e. to define what is the criterion whether an agreement was made by means of a consent extorted by coercion and does not control the interpretation of coercion when the word is used in other surroundings. AIR 1970 Guj 59 (64).

(3) fraud, as defined in Section 17, or

(4) misrepresentation, as defined in Section 18, or

(5) mistake, subject to the provisions of Sections 20, 21 and 22.

Consent is said to be so caused when it would not have been given but for the existence of such coercion, undue influence, fraud, misrepresentation or mistake.

15. "Coercion" defined.—"Coercion" is the committing, or threatening to commit, any act forbidden by the Indian Penal Code, or the unlawful detaining, or threatening to detain, any property, to the prejudice of any person whatever, with the intention of causing any person to enter into an agreement.

Explanation.—It is immaterial whether the Indian Penal Code is or is not in force in the place where the coercion is employed.

Illustration

A, on board an English ship on the high seas, causes B to enter into an agreement by an act amounting to criminal intimidation under the Indian Penal Code.

A afterwards sues B for breach of contract at Calcutta.

A has employed coercion, although his act is not an offence by the law of England, and although Section 506 of the Indian Penal Code was not in force at the time when or place where the act was done.

Section 14 — Note 1 (contd.)

(2) Consent is free, when the activity of man, by which it is effective, works without obstacles to impede its exercise. AIR 1945 Cal 218 (238) (DB).

(3) General averment that consent was not freely obtained is not enough to set up the plea that there was one of the vitiating elements enumerated under Section 14. AIR 1915 PC 7 (13) = 39 Bom 441 = 42 Ind App 135.

(4) The law upon the question of free consent is given in the statute itself, and therefore, the Court has to administer the law to a case when it comes within its provisions irrespective of the consideration whether the application of the provisions would or would not disfavour the abuse of moral influence or encourage moral cowardice. AIR 1945 Cal 218 (235) (DB).

(5) Consent obtained under duress, whether the duress is physical or moral, is not free. But the fear caused by the duress must be real — non metus vani hominis — and must be such as would induce a reasonable man to enter into a contract. AIR 1945 Cal 218 (235) (DB). [See also AIR 1939 All 348 (361) (DB).]

(6) Where one of the parties enters into a contract, as a result of the deception practised upon him by the other, the consent is not free. 1866 Punj Re No. 21, p. 28 (29).

(7) Where by a special law regulating the production, supply and distribution of certain essential commodities representative dealers could sell them only to certain quota holders and at the price fixed by the Government there is only a restriction on the freedom of contract of the person who chooses to become a representative dealer in those commodities. Thereby it cannot be said that when he becomes such a dealer and sells to the quota holder the contract is not freely entered into because he has not the freedom to choose the purchaser or fix his own price as he could have if he dealt in the open market. In such a case no question can arise at all of there being force, or threat of force or fear of personal suffering or abuse of legal proceeding merely because of the restrictions imposed on him. ILR (1956) Andhra 502 (509).

(8) While absence of consent would render the transaction void a consent which is not free would only render it voidable. AIR 1954 SC 181 (184) = 1954 SCR 391.

(9) Offer by canegrower to sell his cane, to occupier of sugar factory — Occupier has to accept offer and enter into agreement with can-grower under provisions of A. P. Sugar-cane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act and Rules thereunder — Consent of occupier to agreement is free within the contemplation of Section 14 and not under undue influence. AIR 1968 SC 599 (603) = (1968) 1 SCR 705.

(10) Where agreement reached by parties is accepted by the Court, under the provisions of O. 23, R. 3-A of Civil P. C. (Kerala Amendment), party can resile from such agreement only on grounds contemplated by Contract Act. AIR 1967 Ker 15 (16) = 1966 Ker LT 494.

SECTION 15 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. "Act forbidden by the Penal Code."
3. Detention of property.

Section 15 — Synopsis (contd.)4. "Prejudice."*5. Proof.

1. Scope. — (1) In India, the English Common law doctrine relating to duress is not the law which is to be applied where a plaintiff seeks to avoid a contract on a plea of coercion. The law which governs such plea is to be sought in this section and it is much wider than anything to be found in English authorities. (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 192 (197).

(2) Coercion as defined in Section 15 implies committing or threatening to commit some act, which is contrary to law. (1900) 22 All 224 (225) (DB).

(3) Coercion means every kind of compulsion even if it does not measure up to definition under Section 15. AIR 1969 Mys 230 (235) = 11 Law Rep 237 (DB).

(4) The mere need for raising a loan is not by itself sufficient to enable the debtor to avoid his agreement on the ground of coercion. 1936 All WR 84 (84) (DB).

(5) Where the Government in order to realise fine, due from the son, has attached the property belonging both to son and father and the father pays the fine in order to save property from being sold, payment made by the father is under coercion in view of the definition in Section 15 of the Act. AIR 1939 All 373 (374, 375).

(6) Refusal to withdraw prosecution, already launched, unless a bond for the amount due is executed would not be covered by Section 15. AIR 1926 Cal 455 (456, 457) (DB).

(7) "Coercion" need not proceed from party to contract or be immediately directed against the party whom, it is intended to coerce, to enter into the contract. AIR 1917 Mad 288 (290) (DB)  (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 192 (197).

(8) The definition contained in Section 15 is solely intended for the purpose of considering whether the consent in any particular case is a free consent falling within Section 14 and it does not govern the meaning of the word coercion as used in Section 72 of the Act. (1913) 40 Cal 598 (612) = 40 Ind App 56 (PC)  AIR 1954 Mad 213 (213)  (1888) 15 Cal 656 (665) (DB)  AIR 1970 Guj 59 (64).

(9) The threat of strike is neither a threat to commit any offence under the Penal Code nor is it unlawful detaining or threatening to detain any property. Hence it does not come under the definition of "coercion". AIR 1966 Assam 115 (118) = (1967) 2 Lab LJ 371 (DB).

(10) Though the occupier of the factory is obliged to enter into agreement under Andhra Pradesh Sugar-cane (Regulation of Supply and Purchase) Act, 45 of 1961 and Rules framed thereunder, the compulsion of law is not coercion. In spite of the compulsion, the agreement is neither void nor voidable. AIR 1968 SC 599 (604) = (1968) 1 SCR 705.

(11) Where it was alleged in written statement that when there was state of emergency in country on account of Qabaili raids, defendant was forced to affix his thumb impression on some paper where it was written that the land in question belonged to a mosque and that what was written on paper was contrary to facts, held that this was an all too inadequate and unsatisfactory form of pleading coercion. AIR 1960 J & K 132 (135).

(12) Illegal loan transaction — Third person having no knowledge of illegality of transaction executing deed in favour of creditor and taking sale chit from debtor for 10 of his bulls and an agreement allowing debtor to keep the bulls for a period of six months — Held, that there was no coercion. (1967) 2 Andh WR 80.

(13) By conjoint operation of Section 25, Cl. (iii) of the Special Marriage Act, 1954 and S. 15 coercion would mean threatening to commit any act forbidden by the Penal Code. AIR 1969 Cal 293 (299) = 72 Cal WN 905 (DB).

2. "Act forbidden by the Penal Code."

— (1) In dealing with a case of coercion the Court should decide, whether the alleged act of coercion amounts to an offence under the Indian Penal Code. AIR 1917 Mad 288 (290) (DB).

(2) In England the law is that duress always avoids a contract except in certain cases where the imprisonment is lawful. But that exception does not apply to a case where a man is in custody upon a criminal charge in a country where there is no settled system of law and Judges have arbitrary power and the person suffering imprisonment made an agreement to give benefit to another to get release from that charge. Such a contract is void in England. (1876) 1 Cal 330 (334, 335) = 3 Ind App 61 (PC).

(3) Where a person who had been taken in arrest in execution of a decree passed by a Court having no jurisdiction executed a bond for the decretal amount while under duress to obtain his release it was held that the bond had been obtained by coercion within the meaning of this section. (1882) 4 All 352 (354) (DB).

(4) A threat of bringing a false charge with the object of making another do a thing amounts to blackmail or coercion. AIR 1936 Lah 6 (7).

(5) To threaten another with criminal prosecution is not per se forbidden by the Penal Code. Such act could be forbidden by the Penal Code only when it amounts to a false charge. (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 192 (197, 198)  1927 Mad WN 761 (762) (DB).

*[16. "Undue influence" defined.—(1) A contract is said to be induced by "undue influence" where the relations subsisting between the parties are such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other and uses that position to obtain an unfair advantage over the other.

(2) In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing principle, a person is deemed to be in a position to dominate the will of another—

(a) where he holds a real or apparent authority over the other or where he stands in a fiduciary relation to the other; or

(b) where he makes a contract with a person whose mental capacity is temporarily or permanently affected by reason of age, illness, or mental or bodily distress.

(3) Where a person who is in a position to dominate the will of another, enters into a contract with him, and the transaction appears, on the face of it or on the evidence adduced, to be unconscionable, the burden of proving that such contract was not induced by undue influence shall lie upon the person in a position to dominate the will of the other.

(6) Where a criminal prosecution is instituted against a person, and such person, fearing the result of the prosecution, entered into an agreement in favour of the complainant in consideration of his abandoning the prosecution: Held, that it cannot be held simply on these grounds that the consent of such person was caused by coercion. 1882 Pun Re No. 135, p. 398 (399, 400) (DB).

(7) Where consequent to the accused entering into an agreement to refer the dispute to arbitration the pending prosecution against him was withdrawn and even after such withdrawal he attended the arbitration proceedings it was held that there was no substance in his contention that he entered into the agreement under coercion. (1901) 25 Bom 10 (12) (SB).

(8) A threat to commit suicide in consequence of which a document is executed by a person, is a threat to commit an "act forbidden by the Penal Code" and amounts to coercion. AIR 1918 Mad 414 (416) = 41 Mad 33 (SB)  AIR 1917 Mad 288 (289) (DB)  AIR 1969 Cal 293 (299) = 72 Cal WN 905 (DB). (Threat to commit murder.)

3. Detention of property. — (1) Seizure and detention of property even if the person who does that has a colour of right amounts to unlawful detention of property within the meaning of Section 15. AIR 1920 Low Bur 38 (40) (DB).

(2) Where a dismissed agent detained the accounts in order to obtain his release deed it was held that the release deed obtained was the result of coercion. AIR 1927 Mad 852 (855) = 50 Mad 786 (DB).

4. "Prejudice". — (1) The word 'prejudice' in Section 15 does not mean mere sentimental prejudice. Some legal injury must flow before a person can be said to be 'prejudiced' under the section. AIR 1918 Mad 414 (416) = 41 Mad 33 (SB).

5. Proof. — (1) The question of coercion is one of fact depending upon the circumstances of each case. AIR 1953 Sau 53 (55)  AIR 1954 Mad 213 (214).

(2) To establish coercion a person must prove (1) utterance of threat (2) of an act forbidden by Penal Code (3) with the intention of compelling the plaintiff to make the agreement complained of. (1912) 15 Oudh Cas 192 (197, 198) (DB).

(3) Where coercion is alleged the allegation must by law be supported by particulars. It is only after due proof of those particulars that the Court can find that the alleged coercion is proved. AIR 1915 Bom 68 (71) = 39 Bom 149 (DB).

(4) Coercion under the Contract Act can be pleaded only where the end arrived at was achieved by the use of something in the nature of unlawful force, or the threat of unlawful force, against the person or the mind of the contracting party. AIR 1945 Cal 218 (238) (DB).

(5) Suspicion or probability of the existence of coercion cannot take the place of proof. There must be actual proof to support the plea of coercion. AIR 1915 Bom 68 (70) = 39 Bom 149 (DB).

(a) A having advanced money to his son, B, during his minority, upon B's coming of age obtains, by misuse of parental influence, a bond from B for a greater amount than the sum due in respect of the advance. A employs undue influence.

(b) A, a man enfeebled by disease or age, is induced, by B's influence over him as his medical attendant, to agree to pay B an unreasonable sum for his professional services. B employs undue influence.

(c) A, being in debt to B, the money-lender of his village, contracts a fresh loan on terms which appear to be unconscionable. It lies on B to prove that the contract was not induced by undue influence.

(d) A applies to a banker for a loan at a time when there is stringency in the money market. The banker declines to make the loan except at an unusually high rate of interest. 1. Undue influence — General. — (1) Influence will be deemed "undue" when a person, in a dominant position uses that position to obtain unfair advantage for himself at the cost of a person relying upon his authority or aid. AIR 1950 Nag 71 (75) = ILR (1950) Nag 105  AIR 1961 All 295 (297).

(2) According to the definition of undue influence in Section 16 there are three ingredients: (1) that the relation subsisting between the parties should be such that one of the parties is in a position to dominate the will of the other; (2) that the dominant party obtains an unfair advantage over the other and (3) that the dominant party uses his dominant position to obtain that unfair advantage. AIR 1963 SC 1279 (1290) = (1964) 1 SCR 270.

(3) To constitute undue influence there must be either confidence reposed in the person charged or dominating influence with him over the other such as to render the latter to stand in some respect, in awe or fear of the former. AIR 1921 Mad 394 (397) (DB).

(4) Undue influence means the domination of a weak mind by a strong mind to an extent which causes the behaviour of the weaker person to assume an unnatural character. AIR 1937 Pat 362 (363) (DB)  AIR 1961 Punj 383 (386) = 63 Pun LR 212 (DB).

(5) Undue influence is any influence brought to bear upon a person entering into an agreement or consenting to a disposal of property which in the circumstances of the case appears to have been such as to preclude the exercise of free and deliberate judgment. AIR 1956 Hyd 114 (117) = ILR (1956) Hyd 328 (DB)  AIR 1947 Oudh 89 (91).

(6) The essence of "undue influence" is that a person is constrained to do against his will, but for the influence he would have refused to do if left to exercise his own judgment. AIR 1961 Punj 383 (386) = 63 Pun LR 212 (DB).

(7) Undue influence does not connote 'excessive, inordinate or disproportionate' influence but something wrongful. It is an influence which acts to the injury of a person who is swayed by it and which compels that person to do something which he would not have done if he had been a free agent. AIR 1958 Punj 190 (203) = ILR (1958) Punj 481 (DB)  (1890) 13 Mad 214 (223, 224) (DB)  AIR 1961 Punj 383 (386) = 63 Pun LR 212 (DB).

(8) A friendly advice or influence arising from gratitude or esteem is not undue influence unless thereby the functioning of a free mind is destroyed. Mere suggestions or appeals cannot have such an effect. An influence which exists from attachment or respect or which results from arguments or appeals to the reason and judgment is not undue. AIR 1961 Punj 383 (386) = 63 Punj LR 212 (DB).

(9) Although mere advice or persuasion is legitimate and would not constitute undue influence, pressure of whatever character, whether acting on the fears or hopes, so exerted as to overpower the volition of the person who is under domination, would fall within the definition of undue influence. AIR 1938 Bom 97 (107)  AIR 1939 Pat 477 (482) (DB)  1908 Pun Re No. 51. p. 259 (261)  1901 Pun Re No. 36 p. 107 (110) (DB).

(10) Undue influence is clearly distinguishable from fraud and like fraud it assumes myriad forms. AIR 1947 All 180 (181)  AIR 1932 Pat 105 (117) = 11 Pat 50 (DB).

(10-A) Acts of undue influence must range themselves under either coercion or fraud. AIR 1934 PC 130 (133, 134) = 61 Ind App 224 = 9 Luck 178  AIR 1929 Oudh 44 (49) (DB)  AIR 1922 Oudh 59 (63) (DB)  (1908) 32 Bom 37 (44)  AIR 1962 Pat 168 (173, 174) (DB)  AIR 1964 Raj 250 (252) = 1964 Raj LW 302.

(11) Undue influence is a species of fraud whereby mastery is obtained over the mind of the victim by insidious approaches and seductive artifices. Sometimes the result is brought about by fear, coercion, importunity or other domination calculated to prevent expression of the victim's true mind. AIR 1958 Punj 190 (203, 204) = ILR (1958) Punj 481  AIR 1964 Raj 250 (252) = 1964 Raj LW 302.

(12) Undue influence consists in some coercion almost amounting to fraud, whereby the will of one party was dominated by the other, so that the resulting transaction cannot be regarded as expressing the real intention of the party coerced. AIR 1928 Pat 441 (444) = 7 Pat 426 (DB).

(13) Undue influence and incapacity to enter into a contract are totally different things. AIR 1927 Cal 889 (896) = 55 Cal 285 (DB)  AIR 1965 Ker 189 (194) = 1964 Ker LT 497 (DB).

(14) Undue influence may be exercised by a party to the contract in conspiracy with or through the agency of others. But such a conspiracy must be clearly established by evidence. AIR 1920 PC 65 (66, 67) = 43 Mad 566 = 47 Ind App 1.

(15) The fact that a party enters into a contract for the purpose of satisfying the demands of a third party to whose undue influence he is amenable cannot defeat the rights of the other party to the contract when there is neither an allegation of undue influence against him nor are the terms of the contract exorbitant. AIR 1925 Lah 430 (431) (DB).

(16) When a third party who benefits by a transaction has notice of the facts which raise the presumption of undue influence, he is in no better position than the person who exercises the influence. ILR (1955) 2 Cal 214 (220)  AIR 1945 PC 8 (9, 10) = 71 Ind App 184 = ILR (1945) Bom 189 = ILR (1945) Kar (PC) 56  AIR 1940 Mad 285 (289) (DB)  AIR 1938 Bom 97 (106) (DB).

(17) A plea of undue influence is totally different from a plea that the transaction is fictitious. AIR 1937 Lah 437 (439) (DB).

(18) Questions as to undue influence must be decided under the Contract Act; principles of English equity do not apply. AIR 1918 PC 249 (250) = 1918 Pun Re No. 124  (1906) 28 All 570 (583) = 33 Ind App 118 = 9 Oudh Cas 188 (PC)  AIR 1925 Oudh 535 (535)  (1911) 34 Mad 7 (10) (DB).

2. Position to dominate — (a) General.— (1) The question whether a party was in a position to dominate the will of the other is largely a question of fact. AIR 1927 All 44 (45) = 48 All 666 (DB).

(2) Owing to the complexities of human nature relations between parties to a transaction which would place one of them in a position of dominance over the other may arise in various ways and therefore it is impossible to lay down any general law regarding the same. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 295 (299).

(3) Any person who holds real or apparent authority over another or who stands in a fiduciary relation to the other would be deemed to be in a position to dominate his will. AIR 1958 Punj 190 (201) = ILR (1958) Punj 481 (DB)  AIR 1937 Cal 492 (494) (DB).

(4) No strict or technical fiduciary relationship is needed to establish that one person is in a position to dominate the will of the other. 1949 Trav-Co LR 172 (176) (DB).

(5) The position of a person to dominate the will of another may arise not merely because of his personal relationship with him but also as a result of the circumstances in which the contract was entered into. (1911) 34 Mad 7 (10) (DB)  AIR 1945 Cal 218 (239).

(6) Where the donor is not only an old lady of feeble health but is also entirely dependant upon the donee her nephew, even for food and cloth, there is sufficient relation between them to presume undue influence being responsible for bringing about the gift. AIR 1929 PC 3 (5, 6).

(7) A donee who was intimate with the donor, a very old man of 100 years of age, and had lent him money was held to be in a position to dominate the donor. AIR 1930 Sind 25 (29).

(8) The mere fact that the transferee was a near relation of the transferor's husband is not sufficient to hold that the former was in a position to dominate the will of the transferor when the finding is that there was no association between them and that they knew each other by appearance. AIR 1935 Cal 234 (237).

(9) The mere fact that the relationship between the parties is such that one of them relies upon the other for advice would not suffice to show that the latter is in a position to dominate the former exercising his influence unduly. AIR 1938 Mad 426 (423) (DB).

(9A) Mere fact that bequest is in favour of persons who were looking after testator at or about time of will does not by itself indicate that will was executed under undue influence. ILR (1966) 1 Cal 408 (413) (DB).

(10) A mere allegation of relationship between the parties without any suggestion even that one of them was in a position to dominate the other will not justify the Court in assuming that undue influence must have been exercised in the case. AIR 1956 Bom 569 (571).

(11) The relationship which gives the position of dominance must have commenced anterior to the transaction that is claimed to be tainted by undue influence. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 295 (299).

2 (b). Husband and wife.— (1) There is no presumption of undue influence in every case where a wife confers benefit on her husband without consideration. AIR 1945 PC 8 (9, 10) = 71 Ind App 184 = ILR (1945) Bom 189 = ILR (1945) Kar (PC) 56  AIR 1934 PC 210 (212)  ILR (1955) 2 Cal 214 (221) (DB).

(2) Where the wife is very much younger than the husband, there is no legal presumption that she is in a position to dominate the will of her husband. AIR 1930 All 169 (171) = 52 All 368 (DB).

(3) The facts that the grantee is a second wife and she is in the habit of remonstrating with her husband in a loud voice do not necessarily indicate that she has her husband in her grip. AIR 1944 All 104 (110) = ILR (1944) All 141 (DB).

2 (c). Master and servant.— (1) An ordinary servant, dependant on his master, cannot, in the usual course of things, be in a position to dominate the will of his master and hence it follows that unless there is evidence to the contrary it cannot be found that he has exercised undue influence over his master. AIR 1921 Mad 394 (397) (DB)  AIR 1925 Nag 369 (370)  AIR 1918 Oudh 313 (314).

(2) The mere fact that a person had been doing odd and sundry job to another for a few years would hardly suffice to reach a conclusion that he would have gained a position to dominate the will of the other who though an illiterate woman is found to be quite capable of managing her business. AIR 1952 Him Pra & B 20 (22).

(3) An official superior is in a position to dominate the will of his subordinate. If he obtains by the use of that position an undertaking from the subordinate it must be held that the undertaking was given under inducement by undue influence. AIR 1956 All 439 (443, 444) = ILR (1956) 1 All 24 (DB).

(4) An agent looking after litigations and also securing loans for his employer can justifiably be inferred to be in a position to dominate the will of the employer especially when he is in embarrassed circumstances. AIR 1946 Oudh 129 (138) = 21 Luck 194 (DB).

2 (d). Uncle and nephew.— (1) Where a Buddhist lady made a gift of some land to her nephew who was also acting as her agent, it was held that although there was, what may be called, a fiduciary relationship between the parties, it was not such as to lead the Court to infer undue influence. AIR 1918 Low Bur 67 (68) (DB).

(2) Where a niece living with her uncle executed a conveyance of her property to him for an apparent consideration of one dollar under an arrangement between them to the effect that the uncle should manage the property during her lifetime paying her only the rent and thereafter convey it back to her heirs their Lordships of the Privy Council expressed the opinion that the transaction was probably avoidable in a Court of equity when the relationship between the parties is taken into consideration. AIR 1915 PC 168 (169).

2 (e). Creditor and debtor.— (1) The relation between a debtor and a creditor is not necessarily one in which the former is to be taken as being situated in a position in which his will is bound to be dominated by the latter. AIR 1926 Cal 455 (457) (DB).

(2) The mere fact that a person is previously indebted to the creditor is not by itself sufficient to say that he is in the position of a person dominated by the creditor. (1910) 7 Ind Cas 286 (287) (DB) (All)  AIR 1927 All 315 (316) (DB)  AIR 1924 Oudh 118 (119)  AIR 1922 Nag 219 (220)  AIR 1914 Lah 63 (64) (DB).

(3) Urgent need of money on the part of the borrower is not, in itself, sufficient to place the lender in a position to dominate the will of the borrower. (1907) 34 Cal 150 (156) = 34 Ind App 9 (PC)  AIR 1927 PC 84 (86)  AIR 1927

(4) Plaintiff lending money at an unusually high rate of interest to the defendant who was imbecile and spendthrift to the knowledge of the plaintiff was held to be in a position to dominate the will of the latter. (1910) 5 Ind Cas 486 (486) (Cal).

(5) Creditor lending money to expectant heir on the strength of that expectancy is in a position to dominate the debtor's will. AIR 1918 PC 249 (254) = 1918 Pun Re No. 124.

(6) A money lender who has knowledge that the person who requires money is helpless because his estate is under the Court of wards must be taken to be prima facie in a position to dominate will of the borrower within the meaning of this section. (1909) 31 All 386 (393) = 36 Ind App 96 = 12 Oudh Cas 300 (PC)  (1906) 28 All 570 (576) = 33 Ind App 118 = 9 Oudh Cas 188 (PC).

(7) Where the lender is in a position to dominate the will of the borrower and the transaction on the face of it appears to be unconscionable a presumption arises that the transaction was induced by undue influence. (1910) 32 All 589 (593) (DB)  AIR 1931 Nag 63 (65) = 27 Nag LR 19  (1910) 32 All 590n (593n)  (1909) 36 Cal 493 (502)  (1909) 4 Ind Cas 1143 (1146) (DB) (Lah)  (1902) 5 Oudh Cas 256 (264)  1959 Raj LW 540 = ILR (1959) 9 Raj 319.

(8) When a person, who is already indebted to a money-lender, contracts a fresh debt, on unconscionable terms, undue influence must be presumed. AIR 1927 Lah 536 (537) (DB)  AIR 1925 Pat 326 (329) (DB)  (1911) 11 Ind Cas 198 (199) (DB) (Lah).

(9) Where a money-lender has admittedly lent money to a dissolute young minor and supplied him with large quantities of jewellery in presence of his touts and dependants and obviously gave a false colour to the transaction, undue influence is clearly to be presumed. 1902 Pun Re No. 2, p. 2 (4) (DB).

(10) Where an immoral young man, some of whose properties were already under mortgage, appointed the mortgagee to manage his property and liquidate the debts and gave possession of all his properties to the mortgagee and the mortgagee did not render any account and did not also discharge the debts but ultimately sold the properties on behalf of the mortgagor and bought them himself it was held that these circumstances showed that the mortgagor was completely under the control of the mortgagee and that the latter had used his influence unscrupulously to his own advantage. AIR 1920 PC 8 (11) = 16 Nag LR 94.

(11) The fact that in accounts between money-lenders and agriculturists balances are struck or bonds are executed periodically adding each time the interest due to the principal no doubt amounts to the charging of compound interest on the loan but that would not necessarily mean that undue influence is brought to bear upon the debtor. AIR 1914 Lah 63 (64) (DB).

(12) The mere fact that a man is indebted to another's brother does not put the other in a position to dominate the will of the debtor. AIR 1925 Oudh 535 (536) (DB).

2 (f). Landlord and tenant. — (1) Where a harsh unconscionable agreement is entered into by a tenant the presumption is that undue influence was brought to bear upon him by the landlord as he is in a position to exercise it. AIR 1916 Pat 107 (108) = 1 Pat L Jour 604 (DB).

[But see (1909) 4 Ind Cas 495 (499) (DB) (Cal).]

2 (g). Other relationship. — (1) The elder brother who is also the manager of the joint Hindu family is in a very strong fiduciary relation to his weak-witted younger brother and hence in a position to dominate his will. AIR 1931 Oudh 34 (37) (DB).

(2) Relationship of grandson to his grandfather — No presumption of undue influence on that count. AIR 1965 Ker 189 (193) = 1964 Ker LJ 724 (DB).

(3) The fact that a person has for over twenty years illicit connection with a woman as her paramour justifies the conclusion that he is in a position to dominate the will of that woman. (1955) 21 Cut L Tim 364 (368).

(4) Where the donee, the paramour of the only surviving daughter of the donor, gave up both his house and people and lived with the donor it was held that both he and the daughter were in a position to dominate the will of the donor. AIR 1948 Pat 130 (133) (DB).

(5) Where the father who was in the prime of his life and in full possession of his faculties executed, while living with his first wife's daughters, a deed settling some properties on them it was held that the fact that merely because he was found to be amenable to persuasion could not lead to the inference that the deed was obtained by the daughters by undue influence. AIR 1946 Mad 391 (2) (394) (DB).

(6) The mere fact that the plaintiff was at the time of executing a lease deed the subject of the Ruler does not lead to inference that the defendant, who is a daughter-in-law of the Ruler, was in a position to dominate over the will of the plaintiff. AIR 1953 Sau 53 (55).

3. Fiduciary relationship — (a) General.— (1) A fiduciary relationship arises between two parties when one of them stands in a position of trust to the other. AIR 1946 Oudh 129 (138) = 21 Luck 194 (DB).

(2) Where one of two persons stands in fiduciary relationship to another confidence is naturally reposed in him by the other and the influence which grows out of that confidence is possessed by him. If he abuses that confidence and exercises his influence to gain an advantage at the expense of the other that constitutes fraud of the gravest character. AIR 1947 Oudh 89 (91).

(3) A fiduciary relationship can exist regardless of the origin of the confidence and the source of influence. It is not necessary to constitute a fiduciary relationship between two that one of them should be in loco parentis to the other. It is enough if the one places his trust in the other and relies upon him even though the relation between the two cannot be classified under the category of technical fiduciary relations. AIR 1958 Punj 190 (202) = ILR (1958) Punj 481 (DB)  AIR 1938 Bom 304 (306, 307) (DB)  AIR 1928 Mad 6 (13)  (1961) 2 Mad LJ 367 = 74 Mad LW 608. (Gift of complete property by brother to his sister who had brought him from childhood and managed his property during his minority — Presumption that gift is not result of free will arises.)

(4) Relationship such as that which exists between a guardian and his ward, father and son, patient and his medical adviser, the solicitor and his client, trustee and the cestui que trust and like other persons would plainly fall within the ambit of sub-section (1) of the section. (1908) 32 Bom 37 (44) (DB)  AIR 1961 All 295 (297)  AIR 1967 SC 878 (881) = (1967) 1 SCR 331.

(5) A trustee, and executor, a partner, an agent, a director of a company, legal advisers are all instances of persons occupying a fiduciary character. 1956 Andh WR 911 (914).

(6) The existence of a fiduciary relationship does not necessarily preclude a transaction in which some advantage is given to the person holding the fiduciary position. All that the equity requires is that if he wants to hold the benefit he must make it clear that the intention on the part of the transferor was not the result of his influence. AIR 1927 PC 148 (150).

3(b). Next friend and minor party. — (1) The relationship between the next friend and the minor is a fiduciary one. Where he, even before the suit land was delivered to the minor, obtained from the guardian of the minor, who was his own dependant daughter, the sale of the land in lieu of the amount claimed to have been spent by him for the litigation and there was no independent advice to the guardian it was held that the next friend had used his fiduciary position to derive an advantage to himself. 1956 Andh WR 911 (913, 914).

3(c). Trustee and cestui que trust. — (1) The fact that two persons stand to each other in the relation of trustee and cestui que trust does not affect a dealing between them which is unconnected with the subject of the trust. (1906) 30 Bom 578 (582, 589) (DB).

3(d). Counsel and client. — (1) The relationship between an attorney and his client being one of confidence in which the attorney is in the position of a dominating party the law has always regarded that relationship as being unusually susceptible to undue influence and prone to breed unconscionable transactions. AIR 1955 Cal 319 (328)  AIR 1962 Punj 325 (329, 330) = 1962 (2) Cri LJ 92 = ILR (1962) 2 Punj 201 (SB).

(2) Presumption of solicitor's influence over his client, making gift to the solicitor, is rebuttable. AIR 1969 Cal 111 (124) (DB).

(3) A pleader who has no permanent professional relationship with a party does not fill in a position of active confidence with him merely because he had appeared for him in one or two cases. AIR 1929 Oudh 67 (69) = 4 Luck 270.

(4) Spontaneous and voluntary gift by client to his counsel's wife is not void. AIR 1969 Cal 111 (117) (DB).

3 (e). Parent and child.— (1) In considering what is or is not a "dominating position" the well known equitable principles which are applicable to the same relationship in England between the parties in question, cannot be ignored. It is well established under the English law that a special relationship of confidence exists between a parent and child notwithstanding that the latter is actually of age at the time the transaction takes place. AIR 1939 Rang 278 (283) = 1940 Rang LR 35 (DB)  AIR 1961 Mad 190 (193) = (1960) 2 Mad LJ 355 (DB).

(2) In ascertaining whether at the time of the transaction the child was independent from the influence of the father it is not its being of full age at that time that matters. That will on the other hand depend on whether the child was on that day completely emancipated from the special relationship of confidence which exists between a parent and child. AIR 1928 Mad 6 (13).

(3) The adoptive mother with whom the adopted son lives and upon whom he is entirely dependent for his maintenance and education is in a position to dominate the will of the adopted son. AIR 1938 Bom 97 (106) (DB).

(4) The mere relation of daughter to mother, in itself suggests nothing in the way of special influence or control. (1906) 33 Cal 773 (784) = 33 Ind App 86 (PC)  AIR 1956 Bom 404 (407) (DB).

3 (f). Guardian and ward.— (1) From the mere fact that a person ratified a debt incurred by his guardian immediately on attaining majority cannot raise the presumption that the ratification was due to the undue influence of the guardian. AIR 1937 Oudh 56 (57) (DB).

3 (g). Principal and agent.— (1) A person who is in charge of the estate of a purdanashin lady as her am-mukhtar and looks after her property and litigations including certain criminal proceedings between her and her husband is in some sort of fiduciary relationship with her and is in a position to dominate her will. AIR 1956 Cal 584 (586) (DB).

(2) There is nothing in law to prevent a gift being made to an agent and, therefore, where the agent is able to show that the gift was made in his favour by his principal exercising his free and unfettered judgment and with full knowledge of what he was doing the gift will be upheld. AIR 1923 Oudh 254 (263) (DB).

4. Mental incapacity.— (a) General.— (1) The law stated in Section 16 (2) (b) is based on the principle of equity that where a purchase is made from a poor and ignorant man at considerable under-value, the vendor having no independent advice, a Court of Equity would relieve against the transaction. (1935) 158 Ind Cas 973 (974) (Nag).

(2) Mere physical infirmity does not necessarily carry with it mental incapacity. AIR 1938 Nag 391 (393) = ILR (1940) Nag 149 (DB)  AIR 1946 All 85 (86) = ILR (1946) All 89 (DB)  AIR 1935 Rang 174 (177) (DB)  AIR 1923 Pat 187 (194) (DB).

(3) The facts that the mortgagor is a simpleton besides being an opium eater and the mortgagee is the father of the pleader who had assisted him on many occasions and who may be useful to him in future are not sufficient to find that there was undue influence at work inducing the execution of the mortgage. AIR 1928 Lah 601 (603) (DB).

(4) Incapacity to manage an estate for the purpose of declaring its proprietor unfit and placing the estate under the control of the Court of Wards is not sufficient for presuming for the purposes of this section a weakness or impairment of his intelligence sufficient to assume that he had been imposed upon. (1905) 8 Oudh Cas 210 (216) (DB).

(5) Where a young widow in recent bereavement and ill at the time consented to an agreement of partition the terms of which were unfair and prejudicial to her minor sons and there was no independent advice to her and the other party was her step-son who was dominating and keeping her under restraint it was held that undue influence was to be presumed. AIR 1956 Sau 89 (93) (DB).

(6) Where a lady during the pendency of the proceedings for the appointment of a guardian for her entered into an agreement with the applicant, without competent advice, and which was favourable to him it was held that the agreement was obviously induced by undue influence. (1910) 6 Ind Cas 1005 (1006) (DB) (Lah).

(7) The mere distressed state of the mind of the party to a contract cannot raise a presumption of undue influence unless the opposite party had taken opportunity to use it to gain an unfair advantage to himself. (1909) 4 Ind Cas 359 (360, 361) (DB) (Sind)  AIR 1924 Lah 337 (339) (DB).

4 (b). Ignorant persons.— (1) In transactions between an ignorant and illiterate villager and a shrewd businessman of town the latter is in a position to dominate the will of the former. AIR 1953 Madh B 32 (34).

(2) Where a gift of his entire property is made by a person of weak intelligence and incapable of understanding the nature of the transaction, to a person who is presumably in a position to dominate him, the gift must be held to be obtained by undue influence by the donee. AIR 1931 Oudh 34 (38, 39) (DB).

(3) A strong presumption of undue influence arises where a gift of her entire property is made by an old and illiterate woman to her only relative. AIR 1951 Him Pra 54 (54, 55).

(4) Where a congenital cripple, weak in intellect, entered into a compromise, the terms of which were unfavourable to him, and his maternal uncle who was representing his interest was himself interested in the terms, it was held that the agreement was vitiated by undue influence. AIR 1927 Lah 546 (2) (549) (DB).

(5) A petition writer is not incapable of understanding the legal consequences of his acts on the true import of a transaction and is not a person upon whom undue influence can be exercised. AIR 1914 Oudh 299 (301) (DB).

(6) Mere illiteracy without ignorance will not be sufficient to consider the person as being likely to be dominated by another. AIR 1953 Madh B 32 (34).

4 (c). Fear of punishment.— (1) A state of fear caused by a threat of criminal prosecution by itself does not constitute undue influence. Assuming a state of fear amounts to mental distress which enfeebles the mind, still, there must be further action of some kind, the employment of pressure or influence by or on behalf of the other party to the agreement. (1900) 22 All 224 (229) (DB)  AIR 1945 Cal 218 (239)  AIR 1940 Pat 573 (576) = 19 Pat 424 (DB)  AIR 1918 Nag 181 (184)  AIR 1916 Cal 74 (74) = 42 Cal 286 (DB)  1959 Ker LT 777 = 1959 Ker LJ 733 (DB).

(2) Where a person in fiduciary relation with another induced the latter, by falsely putting him in fear of criminal prosecution by a third party, to enter into an agreement divesting his estate in favour of a certain person and increasing the monthly allowances to another it was held that the agreement was brought by undue influence and fraud. AIR 1929 Oudh 44 (53) (DB).

(3) The fact that the prosecutor was ready to compound offence and withdraw charge if a kabuliyat was executed and the accused executed the kabuliyat on condition of the withdrawal of the charge would not lead to the inference that the prosecution was in a position to dominate the will of the executant and used that position to obtain unfair advantage. [But see (1904) 28 Bom 639 (643) (DB).]

5. Unfair advantage.— (1) The expression "unfair advantage" is used as meaning an advantage obtained by unrighteous means. (1908) 32 Bom 37 (45) (DB).

(2) Under Section 16 one person being in a position to dominate another's will is not enough. Use of such position must be proved and bargain must be in favour of influencer and unfair to the other. (3) In the absence of a finding that promisee was in a position to dominate the will of promisor, a finding that promisee had obtained an unfair advantage over promisor is not sufficient to establish a case of undue influence. AIR 1935 PC 146 (148)  AIR 1959 Mys 102 (105) = 36 Mys LJ 868 (DB).

(4) Where landlord agrees not to eject tenant for one more year on payment of enhanced rate and after expiry of that period seeks ejectment, it cannot

(5) Where it was shown that the vendor who was old, poor and ignorant and in mental distress at the time of sale owing to the bereavement of his son and the consideration for the sale was so absurdly low it was held that the case clearly came within the requirements of the section. (1938) 158 Ind Cas 973 (974) (Nag).

6. Inadequacy of consideration.— (1) Inadequacy of consideration alone is not a ground to hold that a contract was influenced by undue influence. AIR 1938 Mad 426 (428) (DB)  ILR (1955) 2 Cal 214 (219)  AIR 1919 Cal 414 (416) (DB)  AIR 1915 Mad 561 (563) = 38 Mad 850 (DB).

(2) In deciding the question whether a transaction is unconscionable inadequacy of consideration is necessarily an ingredient which must weigh with Courts. 1946 Marwar LR (Civ) 11 (14, 15).

(3) Inadequacy of consideration in conjunction with circumstances of indebtedness and ignorance of plaintiff are facts from which Courts may infer undue influence. (1901) 25 Bom 126 (128) (DB).

(4) Inadequacy of consideration where it is very gross is sufficient to raise a presumption that the party either did not understand what he was doing or was the victim of some imposition. (5) Where an immature young man whose mental faculties were clouded owing to hemp-smoking had parted with his property to his guru who had a great control over him for a very inadequate consideration it was held that the transfer could be set aside on the ground of undue influence. AIR 1936 All 672 (673).

(6) A sale by an illiterate woman of her property for an inadequate consideration should be set aside when not only she did not have any independent advice but the vendee was also one who had some influence over her. (1880) 5 Bom 450 (458).

7. Unconscionable bargains.— (1) In considering whether an unconscionable bargain should be relieved against, only the terms of Section 16 must be considered. English equitable doctrine cannot be applied. (4) A transaction may be unconscionable in many ways and Court should see in each case according to its sense of justice if it is really so. (1913) 18 Ind Cas 965 (967) (DB) (Cal).

(5) The nature of the bargain, namely whether it is an unconscionable one or not, will depend upon the answers to the question, whether it is righteous one, whether it is improvident, whether it is one which required legal advice to the party entering into it and whether the intention to enter into it originated with the party himself. 1949 Trav-Co LR 172 (176).

(6) In order to see whether a bargain is unconscionable the state of affairs at the time when the bargain was struck should be considered and not the ultimate claim made. (9) An alleged gift by a young widow with still many more years to live of all her husband's property is highly improbable and apparently an unconscionable transaction. (1949) 54 Mys HCR 451 (478) (DB).

(10) Where the creditor with the knowledge that the debtor is seeking to raise money to pay off the revenue due to the Government and for the non-payment of which he was under arrest but temporarily released, made him agree to pay compound interest at an enormous rate in spite of the security of the family property given to him, it was held that the creditor was in a position to dominate and the transaction itself was unconscionable. (1910) 7 All L Jour 591 (596).

(11) Where a Government servant facing the risk of summary dismissal from service because a warrant of attachment on his pay has issued, and therefore, in grievous necessity for money, executed a promissory note carrying a high rate of interest and it was also found that the consideration he had received was actually very much below the amount for which the note was executed and that the creditor was one to whom he was already indebted it was held that the bargain was an oppressive and unconscionable one. 1908 Pun Re No. 115, p. 522 (526).

(12) Where the tenants executed an agreement to their landlord by which they gave up their status of inamdars and bound themselves to pay as rent double the amount they were until then paying and there was no consideration for the transaction it was held that the transaction was apparently an unconscionable one. 8. High rate of interest.— (1) A debtor in order to obtain relief against high rate of interest charged to him must bring his case within the provisions of Section 16. AIR 1924 Pat 71 (74) = 2 Pat 488 (DB)  AIR 1917 Pat 536 (537) = 2 Pat L Jour 212 (DB)  (1910) 4 Sind LR 276 (277) (DB).

(2) The penal and excessive nature of the rate of interest charged to a borrower would not by itself attract the provisions of Section 16 so as to enable the Court to reduce the contractual rate agreed to by the parties. AIR 1950 Pat 379 (382) = 29 Pat 545  AIR 1927 All 538 (538) (DB).

(3) Mere fact that the rate of interest is high is not sufficient to justify Court in holding that the bargain is unconscionable one, and relieving the parties who entered into it from the liability incurred. (5) Where a contract expressly provides for interest the Court can reduce interest only if exercise of undue influence is positively pleaded or proved or if circumstances raise the presumption of undue influence. AIR 1914 Lah 344 (345) (DB).

(6) To enable the Court to give relief against excessive interest it must be shown that the creditor was in a position to dominate the will of the borrower and that he had unduly used the influence arising out of his dominating position to his own advantage. AIR 1950 Pat 379 (382) = 29 Pat 545  AIR 1936 All 611 (612) (DB)  AIR 1931 Nag 91 (92)  AIR 1928 Lah 949 (950, 951) (DB)  AIR 1927 All 315 (316) (DB)  AIR 1925 Cal 722 (723) (DB)  AIR 1920 Cal 529 (529) (DB)  AIR 1919 Cal 1033 (1033) (DB)  (1911) 10 Ind Cas 249 (250) (DB) (All)  (1911) 10 Ind Cas 37 (38) (Lah)  (1908) 32 Bom 208 (211)  (1907) 31 Bom 348 (352)  1901 Pun Re No. 96 p. 324 (326).

(8) Excessive interest in itself may not be ground for relief, but it may be evidence of the very helpless condition of the borrower and of the unfair advantage obtained over him if the circumstances show that the debtor would not otherwise have accepted those terms. AIR 1914 Mad 131 (135) = 36 Mad 533 (DB).

(9) Where a creditor, who had already lent money to another, exacted harsher terms from him in regard to the further loans made to him it was held that in regard to the later transactions the creditor was in a position to dominate the will of the borrower and hence the harsh terms could be interfered with by the Court. (13) A transaction is not unconscionable merely because it is in lieu of earlier loans carrying very high rate of interest. AIR 1927 All 44 (45) = 48 All 666 (DB).

(14) Prior dealings of short duration, resulting in a small indebtedness at the time the suit debt was incurred cannot by themselves raise any inference of undue influence, on the ground of which relief can be given against the stipulated rate of interest. AIR 1930 Lah 65 (67) (DB).

(2) It is incumbent on a party, be he plaintiff or defendant, who seeks to set aside a contract on the ground of undue influence to give in his pleadings full particulars of the circumstances on which he relies as the basis of his plea. 11. Proof of undue influence — (a) General.— (1) Courts in dealing with cases of undue influence has to consider four different questions connected with each other, namely (1) whether it is a transaction which a right minded person could be expected to enter into; (2) whether it shows so much improvidence as to suggest that the donor was not in a state of mind to weigh what he was doing; (3) whether it was a matter which required legal advice and (4) whether the intention of making the transfer originated with the transferor. (8) A charge of undue influence must be substantially proved as laid. AIR 1928 Oudh 330 (333) (DB).

(4) Where the person setting up the plea of undue influence proves the facts of the other party's dominant position and the unfair advantage secured to him by the transaction a presumption that the other party had by use of his dominant position exercised undue influence will be made. AIR 1952 Him Pra 20 (21)  AIR 1947 Oudh 89 (91).

(5) A presumption of undue influence will arise in every case where the facts are such that they will fairly lead to an inference of such influence even though the parties do not fall within any particular category of relationship such as parent and infant child, solicitor and client or spiritual adviser and the penitent. The only significance of the existence of such relationship is that in these cases undue influence may be more easily established and even assumed. (7) There is no presumption of undue influence in India as well as in England in the case of a gift to a son, grandson or son-in-law made during the donor's last illness a few days before his death. AIR 1914 Low Bur 278 (280) = 8 Low Bur Rul 235  AIR 1967 SC 878 (881) = (1967) 1 SCR 331.

(8) Merely because the parties were nearly related to each other or merely because the donor was old or of weak character, no presumption of undue influence can arise. AIR 1967 SC 878 (880) = (1967) 1 SCR 331. (A. F. O. D. No. 193 of 1954, dated 12-8-1960 (Cal), Reversed.)

(9) A presumption that the general influence and dominance which one party possesses over another had been used would be applied to every transaction between them until the relationship of confidence continues to subsist and for that purpose the dominance will be deemed to continue until the contrary is shown. AIR 1958 Punj 190 (204) = ILR (1958) Punj 481.

(10) The Court will not presume "undue influence" where it is not pleaded by the parties. (1910) 7 All L Jour 591 (595) (DB)  AIR 1925 Lah 430 (431) (DB)  AIR 1965 Ker 189 (193, 194) =

 1964 Ker LT 497 (DB). (Particulars of undue influence must be set forth in plaint in sufficient detail.)

11 (e). Burden of proof.— (1) The onus of proving undue influence ordinarily rests on the party who sets up that plea, but the circumstances of a case may make it an exception to the general rule. AIR 1937 PC 50 (50, 51)  AIR 1956 Bom 404 (407) (DB)  AIR 1946 All 121 (124) (DB)  AIR 1945 Cal 218 (238)  AIR 1939 Pat 477 (479) (DB)  AIR 1927 All 44 (44, 45) = 48 All 666 (DB)  AIR 1927 Mad 255 (258)  1882 Pun Re No. 148, page 449 (452) (DB)  AIR 1960 Bom 404 (407) (DB).

(2) Before the question of onus probandi can arise in any case, two matters have got to be determined namely whether the relations between the parties were such that one is in a position to dominate the will of the other and then whether the contract had been induced by undue influence. These questions have to be approached in the above order only, as to change the order would surely result in error. AIR 1924 PC 60 (63) = 51 Ind App 101 = 3 Pat 279  AIR 1958 Punj 190 (201) = ILR (1958) Punj 481 (DB)  1949 Trav-Co LR 172 (177) (DB)  AIR 1938 Mad 426 (428) (DB)  AIR 1967 SC 878 (880) = (1967) 1 SCR 331. (3) Even though a bargain is unconscionable a remedy under the Contract Act does not come into view until the initial fact of a position to dominate the will has been established. AIR 1924 PC 60 (64, 65) = 3 Pat 279 = 51 Ind App 101  AIR 1932 PC 202 (206)  AIR 1956 Hyd 114 (117) = ILR (1956) Hyd 328  AIR 1952 Him Pra 20 (22)  1946 Marwar LR (Civ) 11 (14)  AIR 1933 Lah 682 (684) (DB)  AIR 1921 Oudh 207 (208) = 24 Oudh Cas 313  AIR 1965 Ker 189 (193) = 1964 Ker LT 497 (DB)  1964 Ker LT 497 = 1964 Ker LJ 724 (DB)  18 Law Rep 104 = (1969) 1 Mys LJ 507.

(4) In some cases the question of domination and the question of unconscionableness of the bargain may so overlap each other that it may be necessary to consider them together and not separately. AIR 1952 Him Pra 20 (22).

(5) The burden of proving, that the relationship between the parties was such that one of them was in a position to dominate the will of the other and that the transaction secured unfair advantage to him is on the party who pleads undue influence and on proof of these two facts exercise of undue influence will be presumed. (6) It is necessary to prove the existence of both a dominating position and the unconscionable nature of the bargain: Proof of one without the other will not be sufficient. 1946 Marwar LR (Civ) 11 (14)  AIR 1931 Sind 78 (80) (DB)  AIR 1928 Lah 224 (229) = 9 Lah 470 (DB)  AIR 1925 Oudh 535 (536) (DB)  AIR 1925 Pat 326 (329) (DB)  AIR 1963 Andh Pra 72 (74, 76) (DB)  AIR 1959 Mys 102 (105) = 36 Mys LJ 868 (DB).

(7) Where circumstances which would warrant a presumption of undue influence being made, are shown to exist the burden of proving that the contract was not induced by such influence lies, in view of the combined effect of this section and Section 111 of the Evidence Act, on the party against whom the presumption has arisen. (10) Where a gift is challenged on the ground of undue influence, the donee has to prove that the deed was the result of free exercise of independent will. The most obvious way to prove it is by establishing that the gift was made after the nature and effect of the transaction had been fully explained to the donor by some independent and qualified person. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 407 (413, 414, 415) (DB)  AIR 1964 Raj 250 (253) = 1964 Raj LW 302.

(12) The independent legal advice which would suffice to rebut a presumption of undue influence must be one given with a knowledge of all relevant circumstances and must be such as a competent and honest adviser would give if acting solely in the interests of the party who is in need of it. AIR 1929 PC 3 (7).

(13) Proof of independent legal advice is not the only way by which a person, who is in a dominant position and on whom the burden of proof lies, could rebut the presumption of undue influence which arises out of his relation with the other party. (15) The fact that the mortgagor was indebted in a small sum of Rs. 134 while the amount borrowed at the time of the mortgage was Rs. 2000 does not shift the burden of proving undue influence from mortgagor to the mortgagee. AIR 1924 Oudh 118 (119).

(16) Where both parties have adduced evidence the question of onus loses its significance. 54 Mys HCR 451 (479) (DB).

12. Transactions of pardanashin ladies.— (1) In the case of transactions of pardanashin ladies the principles which are applied to determine the question whether these transactions are to be supported or discharged are not merely deductions from the law as to undue influence found in Section 16 of the Contract Act but are founded upon the wider basis of equity and good conscience which guide the Courts in the administration of justice in India. AIR 1931 PC 303 (305) = 58 Ind App 450 = 11 Pat 227.

(2) The law gives to "pardanashin" ladies protection which is analogous to that always given by Courts to persons who are weak, ignorant and infirm and hence incapable of protecting themselves and presumes, unlike in the case of others, that they are incapable of protecting themselves. AIR 1933 Pat 306 (331) = 12 Pat 359 (DB)  AIR 1963 SC 1203 (1205) = (1963) 1 SCR 456. (F. A. No. 791 of 1953 dt/- 2-12-1957 (Pat), Reversed.)  ILR (1965) Cut 695.

(3) The ground on which protection is given to a pardanashin lady is that she can be easily influenced and is very likely to be over-reached in her dealings. AIR 1939 Lah 439 (450) = ILR (1939) Lah 433 (DB).

(3-A) In case of pardanashin lady it is necessary to satisfy the Court that she executed the document with full understanding of execution and of the nature and effect of the transaction, and even in cases where she had independent advice, Court will scrutinise the transaction very closely to see that it is a fair one. AIR 1960 Madh Pra 60 (62) = 1959 MPLJ 917. (Where the document is not in her mother language, the law requires that she understood and not merely heard what was read. AIR 1939 Nag 159, Foll.)

(4) In cases of gratuitous transfers of property by a pardanashin lady to a person standing in a fiduciary relation to her there is a presumption of undue influence and hence the burden of substantiating the bona fides of the transaction would lie on the party who relies on the transfer. AIR 1916 Oudh 10 (13) (DB)  AIR 1956 Cal 584 (586) (DB)  AIR 1946 All 121 (124)  AIR 1931 Oudh 146 (155) = 6 Luck 619 (DB)  (1912) 39 Cal 933 (937)  ILR (1905)

Cut 695  AIR 1958 Orissa 62 (63, 64) = 24 Cut LT 157 (DB). (Ordinarily the Courts insist on proof that the lady had independent legal advice.)

(5) Even when intelligent understanding by a pardanashin lady has been established it is possible to presume undue influence where the relationship of the donee to her is such as to justify the presumption. AIR 1948 Cal 84 (87) (DB).

(6) In the case of a document executed by a pardanashin lady, the question is not whether the lady knew what she was doing, had done, or proposed to do, but how her intention to act was produced, whether all that care and providence was placed round her as against those who advised her which from their situation and relation to her, they were bound to exert on her behalf. AIR 1916 PC 172 (179)  AIR 1960 Mad 447 (449) = (1960) 2 Mad LJ 110 (DB)  AIR 1958 Orissa 62 (63, 64) = 24 Cut LT 157 (DB).

(7) The rule that person who rely upon a deed executed by a pardanashin woman should prove that the deed had been explained to and understood by her applies with greater force where a power of attorney had been executed by a pardanashin lady to her brother and who by reason of her illiteracy, youth and inexperience was more likely to have been influenced by him. AIR 1936 Cal 721 (722) (DB).

(8) The rule of strict proof which generally applies where claim is made under a sale or gift by a pardanashin lady does not apply where the lady in question is one capable of carrying out monetary transactions and has no hesitation to appear before comparative strangers. AIR 1925 Lah 196 (198) = 5 Lah 465 (DB)  AIR 1960 Mad 447 (449, 450) = (1960) 2 Mad LJ 110 (DB). (Muslim lady of advanced age in Tamil district — Rule of strict proof does not apply.)

(8-A) Where there is nothing on the record to show that the pardanashin lady who executed the mortgage bond was weak-minded, ignorant or incapable of understanding her affairs, though she lived in seclusion and observed pardah from outsiders, the mortgage-deed executed by her is not void. 1962 BLJR 68 (DB).

(9) Where in a case of pardanashin lady undue influence is alleged it would require to consider the questions (1) whether the transaction was one which any right minded person would contract, (2) whether the nature of the transaction suggests that the lady was not in a state of mind to weigh what she was doing, (3) whether it required a legal adviser for her and (4) whether the idea relating to it originated with her. AIR 1948 Cal 84 (93) (DB)  (1888) 15 Cal 684 (698, 701) (DB).

(10) The mere fact that person had enjoyed the confidence of the deceased husband of a pardanashin lady is not sufficient to say that he is also in a position of confidence with her or in a position to exercise undue influence. (1932) 15 Nag L Jour 101 (103).

(11) Exercise of advice by a close friend or relative of the beneficiary under the will executed by a pardanashin lady cannot amount to an exercise of undue influence by him. AIR 1937 Pat 362 (363) (DB).

(12) Bargain with pardanashin lady cannot be divided into parts or otherwise reformed by Courts so as to uphold certain portions while rejecting others. AIR 1940 PC 134 (136) = ILR (1940) 2 Cal 436 = ILR (1940) Kar (PC) 271 = 67 Ind App 309  AIR 1939 Nag 159 (160) = ILR (1940) Nag 418 (DB)  AIR 1966 Pat 342 (345). (Person executing a deed of gift of some property in favour of widow of his predeceased son, believing that he was solely entitled to the property, while in law widow was entitled to a share only — Widow, a pardanashin lady not aware of her rights — The fact that the deed was read over to her and accepted by her, will not make it binding on her — Deed of gift will not curtail her rights which she had in law.)

(13) Every case has to be fairly judged on its own facts and no undue stress should be laid either on the fact that the executant complaining is a pardanashin lady or on the mere circumstance that the transaction apparently benefited persons other than the executant. A similar cautious approach is necessary when dealing with the theory of undue influence also. ILR (1955) 2 Cal 214 (225).

(14) Whilst it is the duty of the Courts to see that pardanashin women are not imposed upon they must at the same time be careful not to apply the rules intended for their protection so strictly as to deprive them of freedom of contract and reduce them on a level with persons like minors who because of their mental deficiency are incapable of contracting. AIR 1946 All 127 (131) = ILR (1945) All 465 (DB).

(15) Where it is proved that the pardanashin lady knew the implication and effect of the documents that she was executing and that she was scrupulously kept separately advised in the independence of a free agent, the document executed by her is not void. (1965) 7 OJD 42.

17. "Fraud" defined.—"Fraud" means and includes any of the following acts committed by a party to a contract, or with his connivance, or by his agent,* with intent to deceive another party thereto or his agent, or to induce him to enter into the contract:—

- (1) the suggestion, as a fact, of that which is not true, by one who does not believe it to be true;
- (2) the active concealment of a fact by one having knowledge or belief of the fact;
- (3) a promise made without any intention of performing it;
- (4) any other act fitted to deceive;
- (5) any such act or omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent.

Explanation.—Mere silence as to facts likely to affect the willingness of a person to enter into a contract is not fraud, unless the circumstances of the case

(16) The protection offered to pardanashin ladies in respect of their transactions can be claimed only by them or persons claiming through their title to any property affected by the transaction and not by third parties. AIR 1939 Pat 477 (487) (DB)  AIR 1930 Oudh 131 (140) (DB).

(17) Protection given by law to pardanashin ladies cannot be withheld from other women on the ground that the person concerned is not a pardanashin in the technical sense of the term. (Protection equally extends to illiterate and ignorant woman though she may not be pardanashin.)

(18) The rule giving protection to pardanashin lady is not strictly applicable to cases where the pardanashin lady is not a contracting party and the case is one of fraud and not of undue influence. AIR 1932 Pat 105 (117) = 11 Pat 50 (DB).

(19) A woman who is herself not a pardanashin woman is not entitled to a like amount of protection which the law gives to pardanashin lady merely because she is close in kinship and habits to them and is similarly secluded from ordinary social intercourse. (1901) 23 All 137 (140) = 27 Ind App 168 (PC).

(20) The principles of law applicable to a pardanashin lady will not be extended to a man on the ground that he is old and not in robust health. AIR 1923 Oudh 254 (263) (DB)  (1962) 66 Cal WN 254.

(21) It is only when the document executed by a pardanashin lady is prima facie valid, proof having been given of intelligent execution that the question of undue influence arises. AIR 1941 Oudh 172 (177) (DB).

(22) Extracting harsher terms than first agreed to from a pardanashin lady just before impending sale of her property is covered by Section 16. AIR

SECTION 17 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Constructive fraud.
3. False representation of facts — Clause (1).
4. Active concealment — Clause (2).
5. Promise without intention to perform — Clause (3).
6. Other acts intended to deceive — Clause (4).
7. Act or omission declared by law to be fraudulent — Clause (5).
8. Silence amounting to fraud — Explanation.
9. Pleading and proof.

1. Scope. — (1) The illustrations to Sections 17 and 19 indicate that their principle is meant to extend to contracts which include an element of transfer, such as sales or mortgages. AIR 1940 Lah 505 (508) (DB).

(2) "Fraud" in equity has a far wider meaning than it has been given by the definition in this section and when the Court is called upon to exercise its jurisdiction in equity to set aside a decree on the ground of fraud or collusion it will not be limited by the narrow definition contained in this section in considering the question whether there is fraud sufficient for it to act. AIR 1914 Sind 28 (30) = 8 Sind LR 3 (DB).

(3) The distinction between fraud and misrepresentation is that in the case of the former the person making the suggestion does not believe it to be true while in the other case he believes it to be true — But in both cases it is the misrepresentation of fact which misleads the promisor. AIR 1931 All 154 (156) = 53 All 374 (DB).

(4) Considerations of Section 17 of the Contract Act which defines "fraud", will not be available to the parties to the Hindu Marriage. A fraud said to have been practised at the time of an agree-are such that, regard being had to them, it is the duty of the person keeping silence to speak,[†] or unless his silence is, in itself, equivalent to speech.

Illustrations

(a) A sells, by auction, to B, a horse which A knows to be unsound. A says nothing to B about the horse's unsoundness. This is not fraud in A.

(b) B is A's daughter and has just come of age. Here, the relation between the parties would make it A's duty to tell B if the horse is unsound.

(c) B says to A — "If you do not deny it, I shall assume that the horse is sound." A says nothing. Here A's silence is equivalent to speech.

(d) A and B, being traders, enter upon a contract. A has private information of a change in prices which would affect B's willingness to proceed with the contract. A is not bound to inform B.

ment to marry, which would include also a betrothal or an engagement, would not ipso facto be a ground available to an aggrieved party to avoid a marriage. ILR (1967) Guj 822 (850, 851) = 8 Guj LR 918.

(5) The word 'fraud' as a ground for annulment of marriage under Hindu Law is limited only to those cases where consent of any of the spouses at time of solemnization of marriage was obtained by some sort of deception. On every misrepresentation or concealment, marriage cannot be dissolved. AIR 1964 Punj 359 (362) = 66 Pun LR 204  AIR 1968 Pat 190 (192). (Misrepresentation as to age of the bridegroom made to mother acting as agent — Consent by daughter believing it — Consent is vitiated by fraud.)

[See also AIR 1959 Madh Pra 8 (10) = 1968 MPLJ 356. (Illegitimate son represented as 'son' — Marriage with such son can be set aside.)]

(6) Concealed unchastity of a spouse before marriage, is not, and cannot be fraud within the meaning of S. 12 (1) (c) of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. 'Fraud, spoken of as a ground for avoiding a marriage, does not include such fraud as induces a consent but is limited to such fraud as procures the appearance without the reality of consent. The simplest instance is persuasion. (1969) 73 Cal WN 751 (780, 782) (DB).

2. Constructive fraud. — (1) Merely from the fact of an exproprietary tenant executing a deed of relinquishment to the landlord, it cannot be said that there is constructive fraud on the part of the landlord where there is not even the slightest evidence of any fraud either direct or indirect, practised by him upon the tenant. AIR 1923 All 113 (114).

(2) Where a party discovering that a document already executed by him does not take effect according to his rights, executes another document in respect of the same property it cannot be said that he had thereby acted fraudulently. AIR 1954 Mad 681 (685) = ILR (1954) Mad 775 (DB).

(3) Fraud does not mean deceit or circumvention; it means an unconscientious use of the power arising out of circumstances and conditions where in respect of one contract presumption of foul play arises from position of parties, the contract can be rescinded. 1969 MPWR 485 = 1969 Jab LJ 589.

But the share-holder must rescind the contract promptly, that is within a reasonable time of his becoming aware of the fraud. AIR 1950 All 508 (513) = ILR (1951) 2 All 228 (DB).

(5) Where a creditor obtained in lieu of a time-barred debt a pronote from his debtor's widow by misrepresenting to her that it was in renewal of a pronote which never existed it was held that the widow was not liable. AIR 1935 Oudh 12 (13).

(6) Where a person, against whom a decree with costs for possession was made, and whose right of appeal was time barred, made an offer to decree-holder that he would not file an appeal from decree if costs were given up and the decree-holder accepted it, it was held that the agreement was void under S. 20, if the judgment-debtor had honestly believed that he had right to appeal when he made the representation as both the parties were under mistake of fact, but if the judgment-debtor had acted dishonestly, the agreement was voidable under Section 19 as brought about by misrepresentation. AIR 1939 Lah 511 (512) = ILR (1940) Lah 392.

(7) Even a mistake induced by innocent misrepresentation is sufficient to justify repudiation of the contract. AIR 1932 Bom 151 (153) = 56 Bom 180 (DB)

(8) Where the agreement between the insurer and the insured is that the truth of the statements made by the latter in the proposal shall be foundational to the enforceability of the contract the insurer can avoid the contract on the ground of any inaccuracy whether it was a material one which would influence his decision in accepting the risk or fixing the amount of premium or was otherwise. AIR 1958 Mys 53 (60) = ILR (1957) Mys 304 (DB)  AIR 1968 J and K 39 (45) = 1967 Kash LJ 144.

(9) Where one of the contracting parties says: "I am well known to the National Bank in your city," it is not a statement of fact, but only his own opinion as to the state of his credit, though it may be false; such statement is not one of fact, and even if false, does not avoid the contract under Section 19. AIR 1916 Mad 830 (831) (DB).

(10) Mortgage brought about by concealing, fraudulently from mortgagee the existence of prior mortgage is voidable at option of mortgagee. AIR 1915 Mad 1059 (1059) (DB).

(11) In entering into a contract or inducing another person to act, if one should misrepresent a fact, then the contract between him and the person so deceived shall be based in law upon the ground that the fact so misrepresented must be made good by the party misrepresenting it. AIR 1915 Bom 124 (128).

(12) Where both the plaintiff and the defendant are parties to the fraud, and the fraud has been successfully committed, the plaintiff is not entitled to any relief from the Court on the maxim in pari delicto potior est conditio possidentis. AIR 1933 Oudh 124 (127) = 8 Luck 233 (DB).

(13) Misrepresentation inducing consent to marry cannot upset a marriage. The position in law is that the party imposed upon must be deceived to such an extent that there is in reality, no consent at all to the marriage. AIR 1933 All 122 (126, 127) = 55 All 185.

(d) B, having discovered a vein of ore on the estate of A, adopts means to conceal, and does conceal, the existence of the ore from A. Through A's ignorance B is enabled to buy the estate at an under-value. The contract is voidable at the option of A.

(e) A is entitled to succeed to an estate at the death of B; B dies; C, having received intelligence of B's death, prevents the intelligence reaching A, and thus induces A to sell him his interest in the estate. The sale is voidable at the option of A.

[°] The words "undue influence" were repealed by the Indian Contract Act Amendment Act, 1899 (6 of 1899), S. 3.

[†] As to causing consent by fraud, see S. 14, last para, supra.

[‡] For circumstances under which specific performance can be obtained, see the Specific Relief Act (1963), Ss. 10 to 13 and as to circumstances under which the Court can refuse specific performance, though there may be no fraud or misrepresentation, see Ss. 18-20, ibid.

(14) One party to agreement in strong bargaining position — Inference of coercion, fraud or misrepresentation not warranted — Contract cannot be avoided. AIR 1959 All 639 (642).

(15) In a case where a party seeking to avoid a bond on the ground of misrepresentation, fraud and deceit practised by the other party, failed to prove either the existence of a fiduciary relationship or that he was ignorant of the accounts, it was held that the same could not be avoided. This is so notwithstanding the fact that the fraud in equity has a broader meaning than at law. (1966) 68 Pun LR 955 (DB).

(16) Acceptance to pay bonus in pursuance of demand of workers is not rendered unenforceable merely because the demand was backed by threat of strike. AIR 1966 Assam 115 (118) = (1967) 2 Lab LJ 371 (DB).

3. Inadequacy of consideration. — (1) Inadequate consideration may lead to an inference of fraud or undue influence. But the inadequacy must be apparent and not merely inferential. AIR 1926 Pat 539 (542) (DB)  AIR 1940 Lah 505 (508) (DB).

4. Exception. — (1) Exception to Section 19 applies when contracting party might, with due diligence, have discovered misrepresentation before he entered into contract. AIR 1917 Lah 173 (174).

(2) The exception to Section 19, Contract Act, applies to all cases of misrepresentation as distinguished from fraud and should not be restricted to misrepresentation, which is "fraudulent within the meaning of S. 17." AIR 1939 Cal 473 (475) = ILR (1939) 1 Cal 389 (DB)  (1888) 11 Mad 419 (439) (DB).

(3) If the executants had not the means of discovering truth with ordinary diligence, the exception to Section 19 is not applicable. (1879) 4 Bom 242 (269).

(7) There can be no estoppel where the truth of the matter is known to both parties. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (546) = 30 Ind App 114 (PC).

(8) Where there is no reason to suspect the representation as untrue, but the statement turns out to be such, the party who makes the misrepresentation cannot be heard to plead that the right to relief is gone, because the other party had the means to discover the truth by due diligence. (1900) 4 Cal WN 369 (381) (DB).

5. Explanation. — (1) Misrepresentation or fraud must have in fact materially induced contract, in order to give the right of avoidance, and such plea ought to be specifically taken in the plaint. AIR 1920 Cal 908 (909) (FB)  AIR 1932 Nag 148 (150) = 28 Nag LR 184  AIR 1915 Mad 1152 (1154) (DB).

(2) Whether a particular misrepresentation was of such a nature, that it did cause the consent of the person, to whom it was made, or whether it was of such a nature that his consent was, in no way, affected by the misrepresentation is a question of fact. AIR 1921 Mad 198 (198) (DB).

(3) Illustration (b) to Section 19 is not exhaustive of the class of cases which could come under that explanation. AIR 1921 Mad 198 (198) (DB).

(4) Where the fact of minority of one of the parties to a contract is known to the other, the misrepresentation by the minor as to his age is not such a fraud as would vitiate the contract, and the explanation would cover such a case, irrespective of the consideration whether the principles of estoppel as laid down in Section 115, Evidence Act, would apply to minors or not. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (546) = 30 Ind App 114 (PC).

(5) Explanation to the section must not be taken as meaning that any subsequent fraud will not affect the validity of the original contract as it deals with fraud only so far as it affects the free will of the parties at the time of entering into contract. AIR 1915 Mad 1152 (1154) (DB)  (1913) 37 Bom 158 (169).

(6) Where the terms of policy show that the averments made as to the state of health of the insured in the proposal form were the basis of the issue of policy, the insured person, who deliberately concealed the fact that he had been treated for serious illness few months before the policy was taken, cannot take advantage of Explanation to Section 19 in view of Section 45 of Insurance Act (1938). AIR 1962 SC 814 (820) = 1962 Supp (2) SCR 571.

6. Person entitled to avoid contract. —

(1) If a transaction which is voidable is admitted by the person, who is entitled to avoid it, it cannot be questioned by a third party. AIR 1916 Cal 924 (925) (DB)  AIR 1956 Andhra 195 (197)  AIR 1949 East Punj 277 (280) (DB)  (1912) 36 Bom 37 (41) (DB)  (1904) 28 Bom 639 (642) (DB).

[See also AIR 1929 Nag 254 (257) = 25 Nag LR 187 (FB).]

(2) The right to avoid a transfer or conveyance is not a mere personal right but can be exercised by heirs or legal representatives of person unduly influenced or defrauded, unless the person has indicated his election to stand by transaction. AIR 1918 Bom 93 (94) = 43 Bom 173 (DB).

[See also AIR 1955 Tripura 23 (25).]

(3) The person who claims a right in the property transferred, only as the successor of the transferor cannot challenge the transfer on any other ground except fraud committed on the transferor. AIR 1954 Ajmer 64 (65).

7. Remedies under the section. —

(1) There are only two remedies open to the party to a contract under the section. They are (i) to avoid the contract before the expiry of its term and (ii) to enforce it as represented. AIR 1928 Bom 17 (18) (DB)  AIR 1929 Nag 254 (257) = 25 Nag LR 187 (FB)  AIR 1957 Raj 167 (170) = ILR (1956) 6 Raj 445 (DB)  AIR 1941 Nag 111 (113, 114) (DB)  AIR 1932 Nag 148 (150, 151) = 28 Nag LR 184  AIR 1918 All 74 (76) = 40 All 619 (DB)  AIR 1917 Lah 173 (175)  (1881) 5 Bom 92 (98)  AIR 1963 All 459 (463) = 1963 All LJ 152 (FB). (It is only when the deceived party insists on the performance of the contract by the defrauding party that the latter can insist on its rights in the contract and not otherwise.)

[See also AIR 1958 Andh-Pra 605 (606, 607) (DB).]

(2) Where a party to a contract treats it as voidable and exercises his option, he cannot go back to the agreement to enforce it. When he not only states that he treats the document incorporating the agreement in suit as void but proceeds on that footing to make his demands on the other party, though the latter does not admit that the former could do so and the former party does not, at any time, give up the attitude taken by him, he cannot afterwards be permitted to enforce the agreement as a subsisting contract. AIR 1943 Sind 197 (212) = ILR (1943) Kar 49 (DB)  AIR 1962 Cal 12 (19) = ILR (1961) 2 Cal 558 (DB).

(3) Section 19 does not entitle a party to insist on the performance of different contract from the one entered into by him. AIR 1929 Nag 254 (257) = 25 Nag LR 187 (FB).

(4) Where a person is induced by the false representations of others to become a partner with them, the Court will rescind the contract of partnership at his instance and will reimburse him with amount paid. AIR 1921 Lah 130 (131) (DB).

[See also ILR (1964) 1 Mad 872 (880, 894). (The assent of the plaintiff to the partnership was not binding on him as it was obtained by false representation.)]

(5) Relief cannot be granted when fraudulent or illegal object has been carried out and both parties are in pari delicto. (1911) 15 Cal WN 408 (409) (DB).

(6) Where the parties have made an agreement and one party records it erroneously, the other party, if he knows at the time that there is an error, acts fraudulently, if he seeks to take advantage of that error, and cannot be allowed to enforce it. AIR 1934 Cal 778 (779) = 61 Cal 548.

(7) After commencement of winding up proceedings of a company, a shareholder cannot have his contract to take shares set aside on the ground of fraud or misrepresentation unless he has not only repudiated his shares, but also taken proceedings to have his name removed or asserted his right to repudiate them in an action by company to enforce calls upon him before liquidation. Even if the contract was voidable on the ground of fraud or misrepresentation if the applicant had ratified it he was debarred from questioning it. AIR 1918 Lah 94 (95) = 1918 Pun Re No. 42.

(8) A person induced by fraud to enter into a contract can obtain remedy by rescission only when restoration of the parties to status quo is possible. Otherwise he has a remedy by way of a suit for damages. (1910) 37 Cal 81 (88, 89) (DB).

(9) Misrepresentation about subject-matter of contract made not in the contract but collaterally — Remedy is claim for damages for breach of the collateral contract, if any. AIR 1915 PC 113 (114).

(10) Where both the parties to a sale and purchase of car was under a bona fide mistake that the price which was then paid was the correct controlled price, there is no question of the purchaser having been induced to buy the car by any misrepresentation. Hence, it is not necessary for the purchaser to avoid the contract, return the car and claim back the entire amount. The case would be covered by Section 72 and he can get back the excess paid. AIR 1952 Mad 779 (780, 781).

(11) The law has made a distinction between voidable transactions and void transactions based on the reason, that while in the case of the former a decree of Court rescinding the contract on the ground of fraud, coercion or undue influence is necessary to revest the title to the properties which passes to the transferee on the execution of the deed, such a procedure is not necessary in the case of void transactions because they do not vest any title at all in the transferee. AIR 1953 Mad 611 (612) = ILR (1955) Mad 398 (DB).

8. Rescission of contract — Effect.—

(1) When a voidable transaction is avoided, the avoidance is effective not from that date but from the date of the original transaction itself. One effect of the avoidance is to get rid of the transaction, with the result that in law it is as if the transaction had never taken place. AIR 1957 Mad 451 (452) (DB)  AIR 1963 All 459 (463) = 1963 All LJ 152 (FB).

(2) Section 19 does not require that an agreement shall be rescinded in a particular form. Notice of rescission of contract by the defrauded party to a bank, acting as the agent of the defrauding party, in course of its business is notice to defrauding party. AIR 1963 All 459 (462) = 1963 All LJ 152 (FB).

(3) See also under Section 64.

9. Plea of fraud.— (1) In cases of accomplished fraud if only one party acts fraudulently, he cannot be allowed, as plaintiff or defendant, to plead his own fraud. AIR 1941 Bom 274 (278) = ILR (1941) Bom 575 (FB)  AIR 1941 Nag 357 (361) = ILR (1942) Nag 564 (DB)  AIR 1936 Mad 630 (631)  AIR 1926 Mad 631 (632)  (1871) 15 Suth WR 273 (274) (DB).

[But see AIR 1959 Pat 505 (507, 508) = 1959 Pat LR 171.]

(2) Where both parties are equally fraudulent, the Courts will refuse to enforce the fraudulent transaction, with the result that — (a) where the plaintiff seeks relief on the allegation and on the basis of joint fraud, his suit will be dismissed; and (b) where he seeks relief by suppressing the fraud, the defendant can plead and prove the common fraud to defeat the plaintiff's claim. AIR 1941 Bom 274 (278) = ILR (1941) Bom 575 (FB)  AIR 1940 Pat 379 (380) (DB)  AIR 1935 All 799 (801)  AIR 1926 Nag 259 (260).

(3) A fraud cannot be pleaded successfully against an innocent person. It is only where the attempted fraud has been wholly or partially carried into effect that the Court will give effect to the fraudulent transaction as between transferor and transferee. AIR 1923 All

(15) A gift deed executed by an old and illiterate widow on the representation of the only near relation who has been living with her that it is only a deed of management in his favour is void and need not be set aside by her. AIR 1951 Him Pra 54 (54, 55)

(16) Where the suit is really one for avoiding a contract on the ground of undue influence, the plaintiff cannot evade the provisions of the law of limitation by framing the suit as one for possession alone. AIR 1934 All 507 (511) (DB).

(17) Suit in ejectment by donees — Defence that gift was not valid and did not pass any title to the donees — Held, S. 19-A of the Contract Act or Art. 91 of the Limitation Act did not apply to the defence. AIR 1962 Pat 168 (176) (DB).

2. C. P. and Berar Amendment — Champertous agreements.—(1) A champertous agreement unless it can be avoided on the ground of public policy because it is extortionate or unconscionable or inequitable is not void under the laws in India. AIR 1952 Nag 195 (196) = ILR (1949) Nag 663.

(2) After Sections 19B and 19C were added to the Act in Central Provinces and Berar by the C. P. and Berar Indian Contract (Amendment) Act of 1938 the Courts in those Provinces got the power to set aside a champertous agreement on such terms and conditions as it may deem fit to impose. AIR 1952 Nag 195 (196) = ILR (1949) Nag 663.

(3) Section 19C does not render the champertous agreements void or voidable. It only confers a power on the Courts to be judicially exercised to set aside

20. Agreement void where both parties are under mistake as to matter of fact.—Where both the parties to an agreement are under a mistake as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement, the agreement is void.

Explanation.—An erroneous opinion as to the value of the thing which forms the subject-matter of the agreement is not to be deemed a mistake as to a matter of fact.

SECTION 20 — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope.

2. Mutual mistake of fact renders contract void.

3. Mistake must be of material fact.

4. Mistake must be about existing fact.

5. Mistake of fact.

1. Applicability and scope.— (1) A plaintiff seeking the equitable remedy of rectification or cancellation or a defendant against whom an equitable remedy is sought can plead mutual mistake. AIR 1931 Mad 785 (786) = 54 Mad 973 (DB).

(2) Mistake of fact should be pleaded in the written statement and in the absence of any plea the question cannot be allowed to be raised. AIR 1943 Pat 327 (337) = 22 Pat 220 (DB).

(3) A plea of mutual mistake cannot be raised for the first time in appeal. AIR 1940 Pat 516 (533) = 19 Pat 433 (DB)  AIR 1963 Orissa 217 (219) = (1963) 5 Orissa JD 361.

(3-A) When there has been a conveyance, the plea is not available to a vendee, bound by the rule of caveat emptor, that the vendor was labouring under a mistake regarding the quantum of his rights over the property conveyed. 1963 Ker LJ 400 (DB).

(4) Where the subject-matter of the contract is substantially obtained, Section 20 will not apply. AIR 1927 Rang 90 (91).

(5) A compromise decree can be set aside under Section 20 if the agreement embodied therein was brought about by the mistake of both parties and the Court as regards its subject-matter. (1881) 6 Cal 687 (705, 706) (DB).

[But see AIR 1937 All 731 (735) (DB).]

(6) Mortgage suit — Compromise — Mortgagee agreeing to take 25 bighas of land — Commissioner by mistake induced by mortgagor giving only 10 bighas to mortgagee in partition — Suit by mortgagee to set aside decree — Decree held could be modified. AIR 1930 Pat 155 (157) = 8 Pat 726 (DB).

(7) The question whether a contract is void ab initio on the ground of mutual mistake as to a matter essential to the contract cannot be referred to arbitration by invoking an ordinary arbitration clause contained in the contract. ILR (1948) 2 Cal 171 (188).

(8) There are two types of mistakes in a contract (i) those which prevent there being a binding consent to a particular transaction; and (ii) those which consist in a failure to express correctly in a written document the intention of the parties with regard to a particular transaction. If the mistake is unilateral no relief can be granted. But in cases where one party has committed the error or mistake in reducing such terms and conditions in the written document itself, the defendant would be allowed to take the point of mutual mistake in the document in its written statement. Under such circumstances, the Courts have granted equitable relief by way of rectification of the written document without vitiating the whole contract. (1969) 1 Comp LJ 153 (Cal).

(9) A contract can certainly be avoided on the ground of mistake of fact but the same principle does not apply to a decree.

AIR 1966 J & K 45 (51) = 1966 Kash LJ 8.

(10) Mistakes in the formation of contracts may be of three kinds, namely, unilateral mistake, mutual mistake and common mistake. In a case of unilateral mistake, the contract is void. In a case of mutual mistake, the contract is void. In a case of common mistake both the contracting parties make the same mistake. AIR 1960 All 420 (422, 423) = 1960 All LJ 193 (DB).

2. Mutual mistake of fact renders contract void.— (1) In order to make agreement void both parties must be under mistake of fact. AIR 1923 Sind 25 (28).

(2) Unilateral mistake does not enable party to avoid contract. ILR (1955) Mys 154 (158)  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (539) (DB)  (1948) 52 Cal WN 858 (860)  (1904) 28 Bom 421 (426) (DB)  AIR 1966 J & K 45 (50) = 1966 Kash LJ 8  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (539) = (1958) 2 Andh WR 153 (DB).

(3) Where the absence of knowledge is all on one side and the other party is aware of the true position but refrains from communicating his knowledge to the other that is not a case which would be covered by Section 20. AIR 1950 Lah 106 (116, 117) = Pak LR (1950) Lah 1 (DB)  AIR 1936 Oudh 97 (100) (DB)  AIR 1933 Rang 79 (81) = 11 Rang 201 (DB).

(4) Where both parties are aware of the true position no question of mistake can arise. 1893 Pun Re No. 62 p. 279 (283) (DB).

(5) Where the parties to a contract for sale with full knowledge of the right of the lessee to receive value of improvements deliberately omit to provide for the same in their contract it cannot be said that the contract is vitiated by the mistake of parties. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 10 (24) (DB).

(6) An agreement entered into under a mistake and misapprehension as to the relative and respective rights of the parties thereto is an agreement which has proceeded on a common mistake. AIR 1917 Cal 786 (789) (DB)  AIR 1952 Nag 2 (3) = ILR (1952) Nag 99  AIR 1952 Pat 393 (402, 403) (DB). (Reversed in AIR 1954 SC 165 on another point.)  AIR 1937 Pat 65 (71) = 16 Pat 159 (SB)  AIR 1918 Mad 395 (395) (DB).

(7) Where a car was sold and purchased at a certain price both the seller and the purchaser believing that price to be the proper controlled price it was held that the purchaser could treat the transaction as void on the ground of mutual mistake, return the car and recover the money paid by him as its price. AIR 1955 Mad 662 (663) = ILR (1956) Mad 712 (DB). (AIR 1952 Mad 779. Reversed.)

(8) The party who complains that the price mentioned in the written agreement of sale does not represent the price which was agreed to by him may bring a suit under Section 20 to avoid the contract on the ground of mistake as to the price. AIR 1930 Rang 12 (12).

(9) Agreement whereby the lessee of a mining lease agreed to pay enhanced royalty on basis of market price is void when there was a mutual mistake in ascertaining the basis of the market price. 1960 BLJR 105 = ILR 38 Pat 1160.

(10) A compromise based on mutual mistake of facts between Government and government servant is clearly vitiated by mutual mistakes. AIR 1965 Mys 244 (248) = (1964) 2 Mys LJ 451 (DB).

3. Mistake must be of material fact.—

(1) Where there is a mutual mistake as to a fact, which goes to the root of the contract, and frustrates the object of the agreement, Section 20 will apply and the agreement is void. AIR 1933 Rang 79 (81) = 11 Rang 201 (DB)  AIR 1950 Lah 106 (116, 117) = Pak LR (1950) Lah 1 (DB)  AIR 1950 Mad 146 (148)  AIR 1936 Oudh 97 (100) (DB)  AIR 1935 Mad 287 (287)  AIR 1926 Nag 435 (439)  AIR 1920 Oudh 31 (33)  AIR 1918 Sind 41 (44) = 12 Sind LR 41 (DB)  (1963) 65 Punj LR 307.

[But see AIR 1960 All 420 (422, 423) = 1960 All LJ 193 (DB).]

(2) Where terms of contract are understood by parties in different sense, contract is void. AIR 1926 Nag 435 (439)  AIR 1933 Pat 579 (581)  1904 28 Bom 421 (425) (DB).

(3) A contract of sale and purchase of land for building purposes is void under Section 20 on the ground of mutual mistake on an essential matter where both the parties have proceeded in the belief that the land in point of its area satisfied the requirements of the municipal bye-laws while in fact it was not so. AIR 1947 All 332 (334) (DB).

(4) Where a person impersonating the real owner forged his signature to mortgage and also in the deed of transfer by mortgagee by a similar forgery covenanting good title, it was held that the transferee and mortgagee were under a mistake as to the essential fact that the real owner had executed the mortgage. AIR 1916 Bom 209 (210) = 40 Bom 638 (DB).

(5) Where parties agree to purchase or sell a specific article and it happens that at the time of the agreement the article is not in existence, there is a common mistake as to an essential fact and the agreement is void. AIR 1921 Bom 49 (51) = 45 Bom 1222 (DB)  AIR 1948 Pat 345 (348, 349) = 27 Pat 151 (DB).

(6) Where a lease is taken and granted on the wrong assumption that the land was at the disposal of the grantor it was held that lease attracted the provisions of

Section 20, Contract Act. 1949 Bur LR (HC) 625 (631) (DB).

(7) Wrong assumption of the parties as to the character of the subject-matter leading them to enter into a contract by which one of them relinquishes his claim thereto is a common mistake as to an essential matter of the agreement. (1950) 8 J & K LR 204 (211, 212) (DB).

(8) Where the parties entered into a settlement under Bombay Act 7 of 1863 under the mistaken belief that one of them was a superior holder of all lands in the village the agreement is void on the ground of common mistake on a matter essential to the agreement. (1892) 17 Bom 407 (412, 413) (DB).

(9) For an agreement between two parties that one of them would not file an appeal if the other would give up his cost the existence of the right of appeal on the date of the agreement is matter essential to the agreement. Hence if the parties enter into such an agreement in ignorance of the fact that the right had become barred by limitation there is a mutual mistake of fact as to a matter essential to the agreement. AIR 1939 Lah 511 (512).

(10) A compromise entered into without knowing that the suit had already been decided in favour of one of the parties is void under Section 20. AIR 1919 Cal 330 (330) (DB).

(11) If the parties are at mistake as to the subject-matter which is dealt with by their contract they are not ad idem as to the subject-matter and hence there can be no real agreement between them. AIR 1930 Pat 155 (157) = 8 Pat 726 (DB).

(12) A mistake not as to the subject-matter of the contract but only as to its quality does not render the contract ab initio void (1948) 52 Cal WN 858 (864).

(13) Where there is no mistake in the minds of the parties as to the identity of the subject-matter of the contract a mere misdescription of the same in the deed will not render the contract void. AIR 1924 Pat 359 (361) (DB).

(14) The subject-matter of a separate warranty in a contract is not an essential part of the contract. (1907) 30 Mad 284 (290) (DB).

(15) The existence of a notification for the acquisition of the land under the Town Improvement Act is not a material defect either in the property or the seller's title therein that the parties' ignorance of the same would in any way affect the enforceability of the contract of sale. AIR 1950 Lah 106 (115) = Pak LR (1950) Lah 1 (DB).

[But see AIR 1923 Cal 641 (643, 644) = 50 Cal 615 (DB).]

(16) In a lease of land for colliery purposes the exact extent of the land is not an essential element and therefore the fact that the parties relying on reputation wrongly assumed its extent to be greater than it really was cannot vitiate the contract. AIR 1929 Cal 547 (548) (DB).

(17) Where a loan was taken after a ship had sailed out on a voyage on the risk or security of the ship and its repayment was fixed on a date after the expiry of certain months from the date of its setting sail, it was held that the loss of the ship after a few days of its sailing and some time prior to the date of the transaction did not attract Section 20. (1902) 25 Mad 561 (566) (DB).

(18) The non-existence of the goods on the date of insurance would attract the provisions of this section only when the parties intend to cover the risk prospectively. AIR 1954 Bom 148 (151) = ILR (1954) Bom 296 (DB).

(19) Parties to a compromise cannot be said to be under a mistake of fact essential to the agreement because the muafi had been forfeited by the State before the compromise was arrived at and parties were unaware of it, when the existence or otherwise of the muafi was not a condition precedent to the execution of the compromise or otherwise essential to it. AIR 1957 Him Pra 11 (14).

(20) The essence of a compromise by which one party abandoning his plea of title agrees to hold the land as lessee from the other is the recognition of an antecedent title in the latter and the actual existence of such title in the other is not a fact essential to the agreement. Hence mistake in respect of the title would not make the agreement void. AIR 1927 Oudh 198 (199) (DB).

(21) Where the seller sold certain goods to the purchaser to be delivered at the latter's place and handed over to him a note ordering his agent at the purchaser's town to deliver the goods to the purchaser the fact that they were not aware then that the agent had already despatched all the goods back by rail to the seller was held would not amount to a mutual mistake which would entitle the seller to repudiate the contract. AIR 1927 Bom 514 (515) (DB).

4. Mistake must be about existing fact.

— (1) A contract will be rendered void only when the mistake is as to an existing fact and not if it is as to a future event. AIR 1948 Cal 257 (261) = ILR (1948) 2 Cal 297 (DB)  (1879) 3 Bom 154 (158) (DB).

(2) Where on the representation made by the Government that it had the right to cancel an existing lease and grant a fresh lease to another a party entered into a contract with it the fact that subsequently it was judicially decided that the Government had no right to cancel the prior lease would not entitle the Government to plead that the contract was void on the ground of mistake and refuse to perform that which was possible still.

21. Effect of mistakes as to law.—A contract is not voidable because it was caused by a mistake as to any law in force in [* * ] India; but a mistake as to a law not in force in [ * *] India has the same effect as a mistake of fact.

(3) Where on the date a compromise was effected between the parties on the assumption that a particular right belonged to one of them and there was every justification for that belief the compromise would not attract the provisions of Section 20. AIR 1934 Oudh 442 (444)  AIR 1948 Oudh 54 (63) = 22 Luck 93 (DB)  AIR 1927 Oudh 198 (199) (DB).

(4) Though Section 20 deals only with common mistake, as to a matter of fact essential to the agreement and does not cover cases of frustration yet the general principle of frustration may be imported into by construction so as to cover such cases also. AIR 1921 Cal 509 (514) (DB).

5. Mistake of fact. — (1) A mistake regarding the title of the contracting party is a mistake of fact. AIR 1952 Pat 393 (403) (DB). (Reversed on another point in AIR 1954 SC 165.)

(2) The question whether a particular property is liable to pay cess or not is not a pure question of law but one of fact and law. AIR 1947 Cal 70 (73) = ILR (1946) 2 Cal 420 (DB).

(3) An error arising upon the construction and meaning of a contract is a mistake of law and not fact. AIR 1943 Pat 327 (338) = 22 Pat 220 (DB).

(4) The mistake with regard to the effect of the law of registration upon the validity of an assignment deed would at the most be a mistake of law and not of a fact rendering the contract void under Section 20. AIR 1954 SC 165 (168) = 1954 SCR 958. (AIR 1952 Pat 393, Reversed on another point.)

(5) Where the position is too notorious and well known to all concerned in the locality that the tenants are entitled, as a matter of law, to pluck, gather and sell the leaves of the Kendu trees standing on their tenanted lands to whomsoever they please, it cannot be said that either party to a lease of forest produce of that area was under a misconception as to the rights of the tenants in respect of those lands. AIR 1961 Orissa 75 (78) = (1960) 2 Orissa JD 481 (DB).

(6) Mistake of law is not covered by Section 20. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 221 (222) = 1959 MPLJ 368 (DB).

SECTION 21 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Mistake as to any law.
3. Mistake as to mutual rights.
4. Compromise made in ignorance of law.
5. Payment made under mistake of law — See S. 72.

1. Scope. — (1) Section deals only with mistakes of law which cause a contract or give birth to a contract. AIR 1946 Cal 245 (249) = ILR (1945) 2 Cal 41.

(2) Section 21 is not intended to give validity to any apparent agreement which does not satisfy the conditions of real consent as laid down in Sections 10 to 13, Contract Act. AIR 1952 Nag 2 (3) = ILR (1952) Nag 99.

(3) An innocent mistake of law also is governed by Section 21. 1907 All WN 197 (198) (DB).

(4) Section 72 applies even when there is mistake of law. AIR 1956 All 383 (384) (DB)  AIR 1949 PC 297 (301) = 76 Ind App 244 = 28 Pat 913  AIR 1957 Pat 112 (115) = 35 Pat 1055.

(5) English common law rule that payment made under mistake of law is not recoverable does not apply to India. AIR 1946 Cal 245 (249) = ILR (1945) 2 Cal 41. (39 Cal WN 174, Dissent.)

2. Mistake as to any law. — (1) If a mistake of law leads to a formation of a contract, Section 21 enacts that the contract is not voidable for that reason. AIR 1949 PC 297 (302) = 76 Ind App 244 = 28 Pat 913  AIR 1967 Cal 310 (313)  AIR 1966 J and K 45 (54) =

1986 Kash LJ 8  AIR 1961 Orissa 75 (79) = (1960) 2 Orissa JD 481 (DB).

(2) The construction of a contract is a matter of law — If a party acts under a mistaken view of his rights under a contract, he is not entitled to any relief. AIR 1943 Pat 327 (338, 341) = 22 Pat 220 (DB).

(3) A mortgagee took a mortgage with notice of a previous but unregistered mortgage and got it registered, under the belief that the latter mortgage would get precedence over the first mortgage being registered first— Held that this was mistake as to law in force in British India, that Section 21, Contract Act, applied and that the contract was not voidable. AIR 1933 Lah 836 (838) (DB).

(4) The mistake with regard to the law of registration upon the validity of the assignment deed would be a mistake of law and under Section 21 the contract would not be void on that ground. AIR 1954 SC 165 (168) = 1954 SCR 958.

(5) Mortgage for an indefinite period— Provision as to period contravening Section 8 (2), Punjab Alienation of Land Act — Whole mortgage held not void by reason of Section 21. AIR 1932 Lah 630 (632) = 13 Lah 508 (DB).

(6) Where by a contract a plaintiff agreed to sell certain quantity of meste to the defendant under the common assumption that Jute Price Control Order was applicable to meste, which was erroneous held that mistake was of law and could not make the contract voidable. ILR (1948) 2 Cal 171 (177).

(7) There is neither any provision of statutory law nor any principle of equity which furnishes a cause of action to a person who enters into a partition of family property under erroneous impression of law for getting rid of that agreement. AIR 1950 FC 142 (164) = 1949 FCR 715.

(8) In certain cases, English Courts of Equity relieve against agreements induced by an error of law, but the Indian Contract Act specifically lays down that error of law does not vitiate the contract. (1887) 11 Bom 174 (176, 177) (DB).

(9) Where the mistake is so fundamental as to prevent any real agreement upon the same thing in the same sense from being formed, it is immaterial of what kind the mistake was or how it was brought about. AIR 1952 Nag 2 (3) = ILR (1952) Nag 99  (1950) 8 J and K LR 204 (211) (DB).

(10) Where a consumer of electricity pays the bill to the Electricity Supply Company under mistake that the Company had made rules, after all necessary legal preliminaries had been gone through, this is not a mistake as to any law in force in India and the consumer can recover the amount back. AIR 1939 Pesh 8 (9).

(11) If under a mutual mistake of law, one party suffered a detriment and the other derived a benefit, which would not have happened, but for the mistake, the latter cannot subsequently claim to dispel the mistake and claim a benefit thereby, unless he is prepared to surrender the benefit he already obtained under the mistake. AIR 1967 Kerala 190 (192) = 1966 Ker LT 1151.

(12) Lease of forest produce — Misconception as to whether tenants could be compelled to sell Kendu leaves from out of tenanted lands to lessee of forest produce — Position that they could not be so compelled too notorious and well known — Mistake is one of law. AIR 1961 Orissa 75 (78) = (1960) 2 Orissa JD 481 (DB).

3. Mistake as to mutual rights. — (1) Where mutual mistake is one of law as to the legal rights of any party. S. 21 would apply. AIR 1921 Bom 93 (102).

(2) The existence of particular private rights is a matter of fact though depending on rules of law, and for most civil purposes ignorance of civil rights is ignorance of fact. (1950) 8 J and K LR 204 (211) (DB).

(3) Ignorance of particular rights however, excusable, is on the same footing as ignorance of general law — Money paid voluntarily with a full knowledge of all the facts, cannot be recovered. (1936) 164 Ind Cas 732 (739) (DB) (Cal).

(4) If the mistake of law which is common to both the parties to an agreement is of such a kind that it is mixed up with certain specific facts relating to a particular individual so much so that it may be said that as the combined effect of the parties' view of law and facts they made a mistake at the time of entering into the transaction as to the nature of their pre-existing private rights, it may be said that such a mistake is not a pure mistake of law and the agreement is liable to be set aside as having proceeded upon a common mistake. AIR 1950 Mad 146 (148, 149).

(5) Where certain property is included in a partition under a mistaken view that the cosharers were entitled to inherit it and it is claimed by the lawful heir, the partition can be set aside and shares re-adjusted as private right of ownership is a matter of fact though it may be result of law and the parties were under a mutual mistake and misapprehension as regards their respective and relative rights in effecting the partition. AIR 1952 Nag 2 (3, 4) = ILR (1952) Nag 99.

(6) Mistakes of parties about right of the defendant municipality to acquire land under Section 92, Bombay District Municipalities Act, is one of fact and not of law. AIR 1920 Sind 59 (60) = 14 Sind LR 22 (DB).

(7) Where widows in a joint Hindu family agreed to share estate equally on

22. Contract caused by mistake of one party as to matter of fact.—A contract is not voidable merely because it was caused by one of the parties to it being under a mistake as to a matter of fact.

23. What considerations and objects are lawful and what not.—The consideration or object of an agreement is lawful, unless—it is forbidden by law;* or is of such a nature that, if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law; or is fraudulent; or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another; or the Court regards it as immoral, or opposed to public policy.

5. Payment made under mistake of law — See S. 72.

Section 22 — Note 1

(1) A mistake made by a party to a contract or by his counsel would be unilateral and would fall under S. 22 and cannot be used to avoid the contract. ILR (1955) Mys 154 (158)  AIR 1970 Manipur 16  AIR 1967 Ker 15 (16) = 1966 Ker LT 494  AIR 1963 Orissa 217 (220) = (1963) 5 OJD 361.

(2) The mere circumstance that the contract was caused by one of the parties to it being under a mistake as to a matter of fact, will not make the contract voidable. (1885) 9 Bom 358 (361) (DB).

(3) Any proceeding or order cannot be reopened on the ground of mistake of fact of one of the parties to it. AIR 1929 Cal 670 (672) (DB).

(5) When a written contract has been signed by the parties, the party alleging that it has been erroneously recorded and that he signed it under a mistake, must establish that fact beyond all doubt. AIR 1934 Cal 778 (779) = 61 Cal 548.

(7) The plaintiffs required a steamer to sail from Jedda 'fifteen days after the Haj' to convey pilgrims to Bombay. They chartered steamer from the defendants. The defendants contracted only with respect to English date. The plaintiffs were under the belief that the date corresponded with fifteenth day after the Haj. On finding the mistake, the plaintiff brought a suit to rectify an alleged mistake — Held that as the mistake was on the plaintiff's part there could not be rectification. (1892) 16 Bom 561 (566).

(8) A kabuliat, at an enhanced rate of rent was executed under a mistake of fact as to the title of the executant. It was acted upon and on the basis of it a claim for ejectment was resisted successfully — Held, as there was no fraud or misrepresentation the kabuliat was binding upon the heir of the executant. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 343 (344) (All).

(9) Party signing a contract written in unknown language cannot plead ignorance of its terms. AIR 1928 Sind 97 (98) = 22 Sind LR 286.

(11) Where the party assailing the contract does not seriously suggest that it was vitiated by mutual mistake but alleges that he was labouring under mistake as to the nature of work to be done under the contract that would not under the section entitle him to avoid the contract. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (539).

1. Scope and applicability. — (1) The section would apply only if the consideration or object of the agreement is unlawful or is fraudulent or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another or in the opinion of the Court is immoral or opposed to public policy. 1958 Andh LT 960.

(1-A) The section imposes a restriction on the absolute freedom of the citizen in the matter of entering into contracts and subjects his rights to the overriding considerations of public policy and the others enunciated under it. AIR 1954 Bom 478 (483) = ILR (1955) Bom 11 = 1954 Cri LJ 1531 (DB).

(1-B) Section 23, speaks of three matters: it speaks of consideration for the agreement, the object for the agreement and the agreement. AIR 1966 Mys 154 (162) = (1965) 1 Mys LJ 442 (DB).

(2) Section 23, Contract Act, deals with contracts which are illegal in the strict sense and which would be affected by the doctrine of ex turpi causa oritur non actio. 1957-2 Andh WR 226 (231).

(3) Anything which is not lawful within Section 23 is unlawful for the purposes of an agreement or compromise and a decree incorporating such an agreement or compromise is a nullity. (1909) 2 Ind Cas 865 (873, 874) (All).

(4) The provisions of Section 23 would apply to all contracts, even to those entered into by a person in the sphere of

(h) A promises B to drop a prosecution which he has instituted against B for robbery, and B promises to restore the value of the things taken. The agreement is void, as its object is unlawful.

(i) A's estate is sold for arrears of revenue under the provisions of an Act of the Legislature, by which the defaulter is prohibited from purchasing the estate. B, upon an understanding with A, becomes the purchaser, and agrees to convey the estate to A upon receiving from him the price which B has paid. The agreement is void, as it renders the transaction, in effect, a purchase by the defaulter, and would so defeat the object of the law.

(j) A, who is B's mukhtar, promises to exercise his influence, as such, with B in favour of C, and C promises to pay 1,000 rupees to A. The agreement is void, because it is immoral.

(k) A agrees to let her daughter to hire to B for concubinage. The agreement is void, because it is immoral, though the letting may not be punishable under the Indian Penal Code.†

(7) Where a statute prohibits a thing not merely for the purpose of revenue but also for protection of the public, a contract in contravention of such prohibition shall be void. AIR 1968 Cal 146 (150) (DB)  AIR 1968 Andh Pra 315 (319) = (1968) 2 Andh WR 267  AIR 1960 Andh Pra 39 (42) = (1959) 2 Andh WR 550 (DB).

(9) Section does not apply to a contract entered into by the Managing Director of a public company with another private company in which the said Director has interest. AIR 1959 Cal 715 (728) = (1960) 30 Com Cas 582.

(10) Where a statute seeks to control contractual obligations such a statute must always be strictly construed. Courts will not be astute to construe an Act so as to avoid a contract, or a contract so as to bring it within the prohibition of a statute. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 108 (110) = 1958 Andh LT 870 (DB).

2. Unlawful consideration or object. —

(4) Section 23 is not concerned with motive. It confines the Court to the object of the transaction and not to the reasons or motives which prompted it. AIR 1940 Nag 305 (311, 312) = ILR (1940) Nag 573 (FB)  1946 Jaipur LR 327 (329) (DB)  AIR 1930 All 357 (360, 362) = 52 All 406 (DB)  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 151 (165) = 1960 MPLJ 334 (FB)  1960 Raj LW 23 = ILR (1959) 9 Raj 905.

(5) In determining validity of contract the object of the agreement and not action actually taken under the agreement should be considered. AIR 1941 Pat 349 (350).

(12) Where a cantonment board contracts to confer "old grant" tenure upon a person in the cantonment land the consideration or object of the agreement, even if it is in excess of the powers of the board under the Cantonment Act and the rules thereunder, cannot be said to be unlawful. (17) Where a pronote is executed by a tenant in return for the withdrawal of the suit for ejectment by the landlord under compromise the consideration for the pronote is not an unlawful one. AIR 1914 All 533 (533).

(18) Promise of pension for giving up practice as a lawyer and payments to various persons to use their influence with Government in connection with private or quasipolitical concerns are not illegal or immoral considerations. AIR 1917 Pat 92 (98) (DB).

(19) Contracts whose consideration becomes void have to be distinguished from other contracts where the consideration is unlawful or illegal. In the former class of contracts the mere fact that the earlier or the collateral contracts might be void cannot preclude a plaintiff from maintaining an action on a novated contract which is perfectly legal. But this principle would not apply to the latter class of contracts. AIR 1963 Madh Pra 329 (328, 329) = 1963 MPLJ 325 (DB).

AIR 1966 Raj 163 (164) = 1966 Raj LW 195.

(23) The word "lawful" in Order 23, Rule 1, Civil P. C. means lawful within meaning of contract Act. AIR 1959 Pat 17 (20) = 1958 Pat LR 343 (DB)  AIR 1963 Raj 63 (68, 69) = 1962 Raj LW 651 (DB).

(3) There is a clear distinction between an agreement which may be forbidden by law and which is merely declared to be void. In the former case the Legislature penalises it or prohibits it. In the latter case it merely refuses to give effect to it. AIR 1930 All 1 (3) = 52 All 338 (FB).

SECTION 24 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Indivisible contracts.
3. Divisible contracts.
4. Mortgage transactions.

1. Scope and applicability.— (1) Section 24 lays down no principle at variance with the English common law. It is declaratory in its nature. AIR 1940 Rang 45 (47) = 1939 Rang LR 711.

(5) Section 24 has no application to promises which are offered in the alternative. AIR 1931 All 589 (592) (DB).

(1875) 15 Beng LR (App) 5 (7).

2. Indivisible contracts.— (1) When a contract consists of a number of terms and conditions each condition does not form a separate contract but is an item in the one contract of which it is a part. The consideration for each condition in a case like this is the consideration for the contract taken as a whole. AIR 1954 SC 236 (242) = 1954 SCR 817.

(2) Where a part of the consideration is unlawful, then general rule is that when you cannot sever the illegal from the legal part of a contract, the contract is altogether void. AIR 1933 Bom 132 (134) = 57 Bom 278 (DB)  ILR (1963) 1 Ker 522.

(3) Where each part of contract is an inducement to every other part of it, there is an entire contract for a single consideration and there is no warrant to divide the contract into distinct parts. AIR 1938 Mad 982 (985, 992) (DB).

(10) Defendant agreed, by a kabuliati, to pay the plaintiff an enhanced rent by more than two annas in the rupee, thus contravening provisions of Section 29 (b), Bengal Tenancy Act. The contract was not severable and, therefore, was void. (1897) 24 Cal 895 (896) (DB)  1947 All WR (HC) 11 (12).

In a rent suit by a plaintiff: Held, that agreement was indivisible agreement; part of a single consideration for one object was unlawful and therefore, whole agreement was void under Section 24. (1908) 32 Bom 449 (453, 454) (DB).

(12) Where the finding of the Court was to the effect that the consideration for the promissory notes was, at least in part, losses to the plaintiffs in respect of gambling debts and the Court could not ascertain the exact proportion of such consideration: Held, the whole of the suit was properly dismissed. (9) Where a person had paid money to another not at his request and also not voluntarily but because he was bound under an agreement to do so, it was held that a promote executed by the person to whom the money was paid was without consideration. In the circumstances the promote did not fall under Section 25 (2) and, therefore, could not be enforced at all. AIR 1948 PC 150 (155) = ILR (1949) Mad 300.

(10) Where a son without expecting any compensation for the same sent several amounts of money to his father and the latter also had never treated them as loans it was held that a sale executed by the father for these amounts in order to defraud his creditors was not a transaction which could be rendered valid by Section 25 (2). AIR 1948 Bom 265 (267) = ILR (1947) Bom 807 (DB).

(11) A cheque drawn by a customer on his bank was presented for payment through another bank. The first bank which dishonoured the cheque on the ground of absence of sufficient credit for the customer failed to communicate the fact within the prescribed time to the presenting bank. Consequently it found itself compelled to pay the presenting bank which had already paid the value of the cheque. Subsequently it took an undertaking from the customer to pay the amount back. It was held that as there was no question of the bank having paid upon the cheque to preserve the credit of the customer there had been no services voluntarily rendered to the customer to bring the case within Section 25 (2). death and was against the rule of Muhammadan law: Held, that the agreement was without consideration and it did not fall under Clause (2) of Section 25 as it was not a promise to compensate one who had voluntarily done something for the promisor. 1893 Pun Re (Cri) No. 61 page 272 (272) (DB).

(14) X agreed to pay Y Rs. 5 per mensem for life in consideration of Y having trained X in the art of singing and dancing at his own cost. It was found that Y's sister and not Y himself had rendered those services for X. In a suit by Y it was held that, as Y himself had done nothing for defendant, there was no consideration for the agreement and, therefore, it was unenforceable. AIR 1916 Pat 80 (81).

(15) A contract entered into by a minor is null and void and any consideration received by the minor cannot be a good consideration for a fresh promise by him after attaining majority. (16) Where a person executed a mortgage after attaining majority in consideration of the mortgagee paying off certain debts due to a third person which the mortgagor had incurred during his minority: Held, payment by mortgagee to creditor was valid consideration. AIR 1933 All 659 (660) (DB).

6. Clause (3) — Contract to pay time-barred debts. — (1) Under Section 25 (3) a debtor can enter into an agreement in writing to pay the whole or part of a debt of which the creditor might have enforced payment but for the law of limitation. AIR 1954 Pepsu 44 (45).

(2) A suit on a written promise to pay a barred debt under Section 25 (3) lies as it is valid contract. (4) A mortgage deed obtained in lieu of the amount due under a preliminary decree passed in a suit on a prior mortgage which had abated on the failure of the deceased plaintiff's heirs to obtain their substitution within the prescribed time is not void for want of consideration inasmuch as it is covered by S. 25 (3). AIR 1931 All 154 (155) = 53 All 374 (DB).

(5) A barred debt is a valid consideration for a promise to pay under S. 25 even if the promisor did not know it to be barred on the date of the promise. [But see 1941 Nag L Jour 363 (364).]

(7) Where actual consideration was something different from that recited in document, effect must be given to real consideration and this rule is equally applicable to contracts falling under Section 25 (3). AIR 1936 Lah 1016 (1018)  AIR 1943 Bom 447 (450)  (1910) 33 Mad 159 (160, 161) (DB).

(8) A promise to pay a part of a barred debt would render the promisor liable to pay only that part not the whole debt. AIR 1940 Mad 678 (679).

(9) Where a debt is not binding on the defendant, and consequently not enforceable against him, there is no question of applicability of Section 25, Clause (3), because the barred debt is not one which would be enforceable against the defendant, but for the law of limitation. AIR 1934 Mad 549 (551) (DB)  AIR 1937 Oudh 300 (301) (DB)  AIR 1933 All 175 (176)  AIR 1928 Bom 539 (542)  AIR 1967 Mad 189 (190).

(10) A contract entered into by a guardian is voidable by the minor on attaining majority but not void. Subsection (3) of Section 25 applies to the case of a minor who executes a promise in writing to pay a debt incurred by his guardian. AIR 1922 Nag 250 (252) = 19 Nag LR 135.

(11) A promise to pay time-barred debt referred to in this clause constitutes novation of the contract which can form the basis of a suit independently of the original debt. AIR 1930 Oudh 287 (289) = 6 Luck 7 (DB)  AIR 1938 Rang 134 (136) = 1938 Rang LR 6 (DB)  AIR 1967 Orissa 158 (158) = 33 Cut LT 193 (DB).

(12) What Section 25 (3) does is not to revive a dead right but to resuscitate the remedy to enforce payment by suit. The right of lender to receive payment and the obligation of borrower to repay never dies by lapse of time. AIR 1947 Cal 267 (268) = ILR (1946) 2 Cal 209 (DB).

(13) Where a promise to pay a time-barred debt is made for some consideration though inadequate the agreement falls outside the ambit of Section 25 (3) which applies only when there is a wholly gratuitous promise. Such an agreement constitutes an entirely new valid contract executed for a fresh consideration. AIR 1943 All 63 (65, 66) = ILR (1943) All 171 (DB)  AIR 1936 All 160 (161, 162) = 58 All 382 (DB)  (1910) 5 Ind Cas 418 (419) (DB) (All).

[See also AIR 1921 Pat 29 (30) = 6 Pat L Jour 121 (DB).]

(14) The debts or items of claim may be barred by limitation and yet they can be taken into account while arriving at account stated and be treated as paid off or discharged by the debts on the other side. The account stated thus results in an agreement by one party to pay to the other the balance found due on account stated and it furnishes a new cause of action to the party in whose favour the balance found is due. (1962) 3 Guj LR 574. (Overruled on another point in AIR 1967 SC 1078.)  AIR 1968 Cal 292 (295) = 72 Cal WN 416.

(15) Where a promissory note contained a promise made in writing and signed by a person as karta, manager and representative of joint family in lieu of father's antecedent debt to be charged therewith to pay any part of the debt of which the creditor might have enforced payment but for the law of limitation of the suit, the agreement though without consideration was not void. ILR 42 Pat 704 (730, 731) (DB).

7. Agreement by acceptance of offer necessary. — (1) Applicability of Section 25 (3) depends upon there being an agreement by the acceptance of offer. Hence where the offer is rejected by the creditor and there is no agreement the creditor gets no right of suit merely on basis of the offer. AIR 1946 Mad 72 (73)  AIR 1964 Orissa 111 (113) = ILR (1963)

(2) Section 25 (3) requires that there must be an agreement by the acceptance of a proposal before or at the time when the writing is made and signed in accordance with its provisions. AIR 1952 Cal 443 (446).

(3) In order to bring a deposition within the meaning of a fresh contract, the necessary ingredients of proposal and acceptance with the consciousness of the purpose for which the contract is being entered have to be clearly brought out. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 337 (339) = (1963) 1 Andh WR 416.

8. Promise to pay is an essential ingredient. — (1) A promise to pay the time barred debt is a condition precedent to the applicability of the section. AIR 1958 All 313 (316)  AIR 1952 Sau 79 (79)  AIR 1938 Lah 155 (156)  AIR 1936 Lah 164 (165)  AIR 1930 Nag 236 (237)  AIR 1929 Oudh 529 (529) (DB)  AIR 1929 Pat 258 (260) = 8 Pat 706 (DB).

(2) The promise to pay may be conditional or absolute. (1912) 14 Ind Cas 133 (134) (Cal).

(3) The promise necessary to attract the operation of Section 25 (3) is a promise to pay at sometime in the future. AIR 1949 Oudh 48 (51) = 23 Luck 47 (DB)  (1954) ILR (1954) Patiala 306 (308).

(4) The promise necessary to bring a case within Section 25 (3) must be such as what is contemplated under Section 9 of this Act. AIR 1953 Punj 28 (30).

(5) Under Section 25 (3) a promise to pay a debt barred by limitation must be express promise to pay and not merely an unconditional acknowledgment involving an implied promise to pay. AIR 1938 Bom 460 (461) (DB)  AIR 1958 Ker 31 (33) = ILR (1957) Ker 983 (FB)  AIR 1949 Oudh 48 (51) = 23 Luck 47 (DB)  AIR 1942 Nag 92 (94) = ILR (1942) Nag 369  AIR 1941 Nag 100 (101, 102) = ILR (1941) Nag 144 (DB).

(6) An acknowledgment in which there is no express promise implying new contract to pay the debt must be made before the debt is barred by time and in this respect an acknowledgment under Section 19, Limitation Act, differs from a promise to pay a barred debt under Sec. 25 (3) of the Contract Act. (7) An acknowledgment of the liability which contains an express promise to pay the debt even though made after the debt has become time barred would constitute fresh promise to pay within the meaning of Section 25 (3) of this Act. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 21 (22)  AIR 1938 Lah 234 (237) = ILR (1938) Lah 199 (FB). (8) Whether there is an express promise to pay or not in a given document will depend upon its language. ILR (1954) Patiala 306 (308).

(9) The distinct or express promise which is necessary for Section 25 (3) must be so in the sense that the language indicates that payment would be made in the future. AIR 1949 Oudh 48 (51) = 23 Luck 47 (DB)  AIR 1954 Madh B 11 (12)  AIR 1939 Lah 466 (467)  AIR 1935 Nag 221 (222)  AIR 1932 All 461 (464) = 54 All 506 (DB)  AIR 1929 Cal 444 (444, 445) = 57 Cal 394 (DB)  AIR 1925 Cal 338 (338) (DB)  ('84) 8 Bom 405 (407) (DB).

(10) The words in each case should be weighed on their merits and with reference to the circumstances of the case to arrive at a decision on the question whether they do import or do not import a promise to pay. AIR 1942 Lah 50 (54, 55) = ILR (1942) Lah 282 (FB). (AIR 1932 Lah 470; AIR 1934 Lah 835; AIR 1938 Lah 503; AIR 1938 Lah 511 and AIR 1939 Lah 486, Overruled.)

(11) There is no difference between an endorsement written in the hand of the creditor that a certain amount is receivable by him and an entry made by the debtor himself stating that a certain amount is payable by him. In either case the entry signed by the debtor implies a promise to pay on the part of the debtor within the meaning of Section 25 (3). AIR 1955 Ajmer 59 (60).

(12) The defendant's Munim, duly authorised by the defendant, acknowledged in writing a certain time-barred sum due to plaintiff and there was also a written promise to pay within the month. Held, it was not a mere acknowledgment but an express promise, which was enforceable. AIR 1932 All 38 (40).

(13) Where there are both barred debts and others that are not barred a promise to pay the latter debts cannot be interpreted as a promise to pay the former also. AIR 1941 Cal 449 (451).

9. Writing and signature of party to be charged with, necessary. — (1) Unless a promise to pay is in writing it cannot fall within the purview of S. 25 (3). AIR 1941 Nag 100 (101) = ILR (1941) Nag 144 (DB)  AIR 1938 Nag 180 (181) = ILR (1940) Nag 441  AIR 1937 Lah 382 (383) = ILR (1937) Lah 562 (DB)  AIR 1925 Mad 1147 (1148)  (1900) 23 Mad 94 (97, 98) (DB).

(2) A statement which is not signed by the person to be charged with or by his agent, generally or specially authorised, cannot constitute a valid contract under S. 25 (3). (3) As a promise to pay which falls within S. 25 (3) is a contract, it must be expressed, if the Governor-General is the person to be charged under it to have been made on his behalf and executed on his behalf by such persons and in such manner as directed or authorised by him. AIR 1952 Cal 443 (446).

(4) An acknowledgment of the liability to pay an amount found due on a particular day although it is a contract is not with reference to a time-barred debt. Therefore S. 25 (3) would not be attracted to the case and writing is unnecessary. AIR 1930 Nag 298 (299) = 26 Nag LR 320.

10. "Person to be charged therewith."—

(1) The words "by the person to be charged therewith" in S. 25 are wide enough to cover the case of a person who agrees to become liable for the payment of a debt due by another, and need not be limited to the person who was indebted from the beginning. AIR 1940 Mad 678 (678, 679)  AIR 1957 Mad 14 (16).

(2) The liability to be proceeded against in an action for the debt by reason of the possession of the property of the debtor is sufficient to put a person, even though he himself is a third party to the transaction between the creditor and the debtor under an obligation to pay the debt under Section 25 (3). AIR 1957 Mad 14 (16).

(3) As the son under the Hindu Law cannot be made personally liable for the debts of his father he does not become by the operation of Section 25 (3) personally liable by his execution of a promissory note for a time barred debt of his father. (8) Pleader's statement in Court, promising payment of time-barred debts on certain conditions, does not bind his client in absence of special authority. AIR 1924 All 12 (15) (DB).

(9) A power of "mookhtarnama" to pay debts, or to secure debts, or otherwise to deal with debts, is prima facie a power to deal with existing debts, and it does not authorize the agent to revive time-barred debts. (1882) 11 Cal LR 581 (584) (DB).

(5) A promise to pay amount which might be found due by arbitrator on taking accounts of the partnership between parties does not amount to a promise to pay debt under this section. AIR 1918 Mad 1145 (1146) = 40 Mad 31 (FB).

(6) In order to attract the provisions of S. 25 (3) there must be an existing debt before the promise to pay. AIR 1952 Cal 443 (446, 447).

Exception 1.—One who sells the good-will of a business may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business, within specified local limits, so long as the buyer, or any person deriving title to the good-will from him, carries on a like business therein, provided that such limits appear to the Court reasonable, regard being had to the nature of the business.

[*] Exceptions 2 and 3 relating to agreements between partners upon, or in anticipation of, dissolution of partnership and during continuance of partnership, respectively were repealed by the Indian Partnership Act, 1932 (9 of 1932), S. 73 and Sch. II—see now Ss. 11(2) and 36(2) of that Act.

(3) Section 26 is not restricted to the case of first marriage only but also applies to a person already married. Hence, an agreement for repayment of money spent on the boy's education if he married another during the lifetime of his wife is void. AIR 1914 Low Bur 156 (1) (156) = 7 Low Bur Rul 304 (DB).

[But see (1908) 4 Nag LR 86 (89).]

(4) Though a stipulation not to take another wife is illegal as being in contravention of Section 26, yet promises to live in wife's house and to work and support her, are good and lawful and therefore enforceable. (1913) 15 Ind Cas 915 (916, 917) = (1912) 1 Upp Bur Rul 108.

(5) Agreement to pay woman certain annual allowance only "until death or remarriage" or "during widowhood" is not illegal. (1912) 10 All L Jour 185 (186, 187).

(6) Compromise between co-widows in mutation proceedings — Both to be entered in equal shares — Either on remarriage to forfeit her share: Held, compromise was not in restraint of marriage as no direct prohibition to remarry was imposed by it. AIR 1942 All 351 (353) = ILR (1942) All 810 (DB).

(7) A Kabinmah by a Muhammadan husband authorising his wife to divorce him in the event of his marrying a second wife, is not void under Section 26. AIR 1916 Cal 761 (762) (DB).

(8) Wakf deed giving share of profits to widows contained condition forfeiting such share on widow's remarrying — Held condition was neither illegal nor improper and did not offend Section 26. AIR 1932 Oudh 108 (112) (DB).

(9) Promise to pay a bride price, while marrying a major girl, cannot be enforced as being immoral and in restraint of marriage. AIR 1920 Lah 357 (359) = 1 Lah 574 (DB).

(10) Contract restricting major girl's right of marrying according to her own choice is void. AIR 1934 Pesh 22 (22).

(11) The application of Section 26 must be governed by considerations connected with the country and the personal law of the parties concerned in each case as it comes up for decision of the question whether or not a particular agreement or condition is in "general" restraint of marriage, and therefore void under the section. (1908) 4 Nag LR 86 (89).

(12) Where a direction in the will was that if any person entitled to benefit under will married a non-Zoroastrian, interest going to him would lapse and go over to others, it was held that it could not be said that not marrying a non-Zoroastrian was contrary to law or public policy. AIR 1948 Bom 319 (320, 321) = ILR (1948) Bom 509 (DB).

SECTION 27 — SYNOPSIS

1. Agreement in restraint of trade.
2. Agreement for mutual benefit.
3. Service contracts.
4. Sale of goodwill — Exception.

1. Agreement in restraint of trade. —
(1) Section 27 aims at contracts by which a person precludes himself altogether for a limited time or over a limited area from exercising his profession, trade or business and not at contracts by which in exercise of his profession, he enters into ordinary agreements with persons dealing with him which are necessary for carrying on his business. (1890) 13 Mad 472 (475).

(2) Restraint on trade, whether general or partial may be good if shown to be reasonably necessary for freedom of trade. A restraint reasonably necessary for the protection of the covenantee must prevail unless some specific ground of public policy can be clearly established against it. AIR 1967 SC 1098 (1102) = (1967) 2 SCJ 317  (1967) 1 Mad LJ 117 = 79 Mad LW 676.

(3) The test as to reasonableness of restraint is whether the primary object of the parties was in restraint of trade or was one to have a restrictive covenant in a sale. The reasonableness of the restriction must be judged by the character and the nature of the business or its customers. (1967) 1 MLJ 117 = 79 Mad LW 676.

(4) A covenant of restraint is designed to protect the legitimate proprietary interests of the covenantee. In no case will the law allow a covenant merely to avoid competition. Nor will law allow a restraint wider than the protection of the proprietary interests requires. AIR 1962 Cal 61 (65).

(5) Where a claim is founded on tort, S. 23 and S. 27 do not apply. AIR 1931 All 83 (85) = 53 All 316 (DB).

(6) Every person has a right to a free course of trade and to conduct his business upon his own lines even though it results in an interference with the business of another person to his detriment. AIR 1931 All 83 (89) = 53 All 316 (DB).

(7) Whether an agreement is in restraint of trade within the meaning of S. 27 is a question of law. AIR 1934 Lah 110 (111).

(8) Whether contract is in restraint of trade within the meaning of S. 27, Contract Act, is question to be determined on construction of contract in each case (1890) 13 Mad 472 (474).

(9) Where the restrictive clauses appear in the formal document of dissolution of partnership and no local limits are at all specified, it is not permissible to enter upon a consideration of what the parties were likely to have contemplated. As the place of restriction is not nominated in the bond limitation should not be imported which the parties have not seen fit to express in order to aid so unprecedented a contract. AIR 1943 Sind 197 (210) = ILR (1943) Kar 49 (DB).

Burden of proof.

(10) To succeed under S. 27 one must establish that suit is one to enforce agreement whereby some one is restrained from exercising a lawful profession, trade or business of any kind. (1905) 29 Bom 107 (118) (DB).

(11) Burden of justifying covenant in restraint of trade lies on the party upholding it. AIR 1934 PC 101 (104)  AIR 1967 SC 1098 (1102) = (1967) 2 SCJ 317. (Once, this onus is discharged, onus of showing that restraint is nevertheless injurious to the public is upon party attacking contract.

Law applicable.

(12) Agreement in restraint of trade is governed not by lex loci contractus but by the law of the place of performance. ('76-78) 1 Mad 134 (143).

Restraint of trade.

(13) Bare agreement in restraint of competition cannot be upheld — Restrictive clause must be ancillary to main transaction and necessary in interest of both parties — Restriction on outgoing partner not to do business, in which he had specialised in the whole world held not valid. AIR 1943 Sind 197 (210, 211) = ILR (1943) Kar 49 (DB).

(14) Defendants agreeing to remain subject to the orders of the head of their caste and not to carry on their profession of working in lead with assistance of any other persons than the caste people — Agreement cannot be enforced for want of consideration and being against public policy. (1878-1880) 2 Mad 44 (44, 45) (DB).

(15) Agreement not to set up a business in consideration of promise to pay a sum for life is void as in restraint of trade though partly executed. AIR 1916 Low Bur 51 (54) = 8 Low Bur Rul 389 (FB).

(16) Defendant carrying on business as a carrier of passengers by boat agreed to pay large sum to the plaintiff in consideration that the latter should abstain from carrying on similar business. Held, that the contract was void and did not fall within the Exception 1 to Sec. 27 as the plaintiff had no goodwill in his rival business. AIR 1918 Cal 546 (551) (DB).

(17) Covenant giving person exclusive right to convey passengers to and from on road between Ootacamund and Metupalaya is not contract in general restraint of trade and can be enforced. (1868, 69) 4 Mad HCR 77 (DB).

[But see AIR 1938 Pat 473 (475, 476) = 17 Pat 255 (DB). (Contract purporting to be license granting defendant exclusive right to collect hides of animals in particular area in plaintiff's Zamin-dari amounts to granting monopoly to defendant and is therefore unenforceable.)]

(18) Contract between licensee for manufacture of salt with buyer whereby former agrees to sell all salt manufactured by him to buyer and not to any other and at fixed price is void in so far as it restrains the former from selling to any other. (1890) 13 Mad 475 (476, 477).

(19) In a contract between a manufacturer and a purchaser of salt a stipulation that the former should not sell to other people than the latter is not in restraint of trade. But the stipulation that the former should not manufacture more than the quantity specified amounts to restraint of trade but if it is separable from the rest it does not affect the validity of the other condition. (1892) 15 Mad 79 (80, 81) (DB).

(20) Agreement not to supply coolies to one of the rival cooly suppliers is void. AIR 1914 Mad 673 (674).

(22) Agreement to supply silica sand for one year, with stipulation not to supply sand, during that period to four specified factories, is void only to the extent to which it restrained trade or business. AIR 1931 All 539 (540).

(23) If an agreement confers or amounts to a recognition of a party's exclusive right to perform religious services for the whole village it is in restraint of a trade, profession or calling. It can be enforced only if the restriction is reasonable. AIR 1951 Kutch 56 (58).

(24) It is impossible to treat the obtaining of a license from Government as in the nature of a trade or calling. AIR 1946 Mad 289 (290).

(25) A and B who were bus owners submitted tenders to the Government for securing license to carry mails. A withdrew the tender in pursuance of an agreement with B that B would, in consideration of the withdrawal, make a monthly payment of a certain amount. It was held that A was entitled to enforce the agreement which was not void under Section 27. AIR 1946 Mad 289 (290, 291).

(26) An agreement between two bidders whereby one agrees not to bid at an auction sale of the right to recover market dues, in consideration of Rs. 500 can be enforced, when such an agreement does not result in restraint of trade and it is not suggested that these two were the only bidders. AIR 1949 Nag 113 (113, 114) = ILR (1948) Nag 431.

(27) Where a partnership contained a clause "that on termination of selling agency business, neither of the parties to the agreement shall take up the selling agency from the mills", it was held that the clause was one in restraint of business and the restriction was not enforceable under Section 27 of the Contract Act and Section 54 of the Partnership Act. AIR 1956 Punj 49 (54).

(28) Condition at auction among members of Senayar community to sell their betel leaves only to highest bidder at auction and to none else held valid. (1967) 1 Mad LJ 117 = 79 Mad LW 676.

Partial restraint.

(29) Section applies even when the restraint is for a limited period only or is confined to a particular area. Such matters of partial restriction have effect only when the facts fall within the exception to Section 27. AIR 1942 Sind 114 (115) = ILR (1942) Kar 25 (DB)  (1951) ILR (1951) 2 Cal

386 (383, 389). (Agreement between two sugar factories allocating zones for each for procuring sugar-cane — Undertaking not to appropriate canes from zones allotted to the other is in restraint of trade.)  AIR 1937 Oudh 445 (445) = 13 Luck 405 (DB). (Contract to sell hides only to plaintiff is partial restraint and is void.)  AIR 1922 Upp Bur 9 (10) = 4 Upp Bur Rul 110. (Clause preventing each party from carrying on business for long periods at a time makes an agreement in partial restraint of trade and is void.)  (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 216 (225) (DB). (Agreement by plaintiff with 29 out of 30 manufacturers of combs in a city whereby latter agreed to supply to plaintiff alone the goods manufactured by them and no others held was void, being in restraint of trade and being an attempt to suppress competition.)  (1892) 19 Cal 765 (770) (DB)  (1890) 13 Mad 472 (474)  (1874) 22 Suth WR 370 (375) (DB). (Contract between Hindus whereby one of them agreed to cease to carry on his business in certain locality in Calcutta in consideration of receiving certain sum of money from other is void.)

(When restraint is only partial in respect to time or place, and there is good consideration given to party restrained the restraint is not unlawful.)  (1882) 8 Cal 809 (818, 819) (DB). (Stipulation in contract against sale of goods of certain description to any others till fixed date is not one in restraint of trade.)]

2. Agreement for mutual benefit. —

(1) Agreement for a fixed period between two millers not to charge less than certain price for milling other people's rice and to work their respective mills during alternate weeks, and providing for fixed sum as penalty in case of breach, is not contract in restraint of trade. (1913) 18 Ind Cas 183: (184) (Low Bur).

(2) Rules framed for regulating use of market amounts to restraint of trade, if they are unreasonable and stifle trade. Restraint is reasonable if it affords fair-protection to the parties and does not interfere with public interests. AIR 1944 Nag 73 (77) = ILR (1943) Nag 740- (DB).

(6) Where two branches of the legal profession (Barrister and Solicitor) are amalgamated in a particular place, a person who carries on both branches and is a legal practitioner in that place, may enter into an agreement not to practise for a reasonable time and such an agreement is valid. (1913) 17 Cal WN 215 (218) (PC).

(7) Agreement between ice factory owners to work one factory alone and to divide profits — Agreement is not "in restraint of trade." AIR 1934 Lah 110 (111).

(8) The abandonment of a bona fide claim is good consideration for a compromise even though the agreement on which the claim was based was void as being in restraint of trade. AIR 1914 Mad 673 (674).

3. Service contracts.— (1) Section 57 of the Specific Relief Act extends to agreements of negative character such as are necessarily implied from the contracts for whole time service and the operation of such contracts as contracts for service appear to prevent the application of Section 27 of the Contract Act to such negative agreements so far as they purport to impose restriction only during the period of affirmative agreement for service. (1903) 5 Bom LR 878 (882)  AIR 1946 Bom 423 (425) = ILR (1946) Bom 89 (DB). (Question whether particular covenant is unreasonably wide has to be decided on the nature of the agreement, the qualifications of employee, and service he has to render considered along with places where employer can get alternative service of the same nature.)  AIR 1966 Guj 189 (192) = (1966) 7 Guj LR 493 (DB)  AIR 1964 Guj 115 (119, 121) = (1963) 4 Guj LR 795.

(2) Negative covenant that employee would not, during contract period, engage in trade or business or would not get himself employed by any other master for whom he would perform similar or substantially similar duties is not restraint of trade and hence not hit by Section 27, unless contract is unconscionable or excessively harsh or one sided. AIR 1967 SC 1098 (1104) = (1967) 2 SCJ 317  AIR 1964 Guj 215 (217) = (1963) 2 Lab LJ 522  AIR 1966 Guj 189 (192) = (1966) 7 Guj LR 493 (DB).

(3) Courts have a wide discretion to enforce by injunction a negative covenant. AIR 1967 SC 1098 (1105) = (1967) 2 SCJ 317.

(4) The master is entitled to be protected in regard to his interests in trade secrets and secret process of manufacture. That protection is secured by restraining the employee from divulging those trade secrets or putting them to the use of the servant. The master is also entitled to be protected against invasion of his customers or clientele but the master is not entitled to be protected against competition. AIR 1962 Cal 61 (66).

(5) There is distinction between restraints applicable during the term of the contract of employment and those that apply after its cessation. AIR 1967 SC 1098 (1102, 1104) = (1967) 2 SCJ 317.

(6) Contracts by which persons are restrained from competing after term of their engagement is over, with their former employers within reasonable limits, fall under the general prohibition contained in Section 27. (1885) 11 Cal 545 (549) (DB)  AIR 1921 Low Bur 19 (22) = 11 Low Bur Rul 26 (DB). (Contract restricting employee from serving for specified period in other firm in a certain territory is valid.)  ('76-78) 1 Mad 134 (142). (Stipulation that after the expiration of the term of service the employee was not to carry on the same business within 800 miles of Madras, held, amounted to an agreement in restraint of trade the limit as to space being unreasonable.)

(8) Physician agreeing to serve as assistant stipulating not to practice as physician and surgeon for three years — Agreement is not void. (1899) 23 Bom 103 (117, 118) (DB).

(9) Where it is proved that the employer is justified in apprehending that the employee may, on joining the service of his competitor, divulge the special knowledge and secrets in business gained by him while in employer's service, after receiving special training, injunction to enforce negative contract which is restricted as to time, nature of employment and area, can be issued in order to protect employer's interests. AIR 1967 SC 1098 (1105) = (1967) 2 SCJ 317.

(10) Where W having contracted with C to play for C and not to play in any other theatre on his own or on somebody else's behalf, until after the expiration of the period contracted for and until after his return to England, performed in another theatre after the expiration of the period for which he was under contract with C but before his return to England, it was held that the agreement being in restraint of a lawful profession, trade or business, was void. (1912) 16 Cal WN 534 (535, 536).

(11) Agreement not to sell products in specified area after termination of service of employee working with plaintiff as sales representative — Agreement held went beyond the scope of protecting plaintiff's goodwill inasmuch as employee was precluded from selling to those who were not potential customers of plaintiff — If agreement included potential customers it was bad for uncertainty. 1968 Lab IC 819 (823) (Ch. D).

(12) Section 26 (2) of Bihar Shops and Establishments Act (8 of 1954) is not repugnant to existing law relating to contract of service. AIR 1958 Pat 442 (444) = 1958 BLJR 223 (DB).

4. Sale of goodwill — Exception.—

(1) Contract selling real goodwill in the trade of plying ferry-boats between certain landing places — Contract does not amount to agreement contravening Section 27. AIR 1922 PC 167 (168) = 48 Ind App 508 = 48 Cal 1030.

(2) Restraint in a contract selling a goodwill can be said to be injurious to public if it is calculated to produce pernicious monopoly, prohibiting other persons to trade in the line, so as to enhance prices to unreasonable extent. AIR 1941 PC 75 (84).

(3) A bare covenant not to compete cannot be upheld, unless it is ancillary to main covenant and necessary to make it effective. It can be upheld only if it is reasonable and is consistent with interests of public. AIR 1934 PC 101 (104).

(4) When the Court is satisfied that restraint was reasonable as between the parties it must always be very difficult to prove in a case connected with the goodwill that public interest was affected. AIR 1941 PC 75 (84).

(5) Vendor company carrying on business in Canada transferring same to another company — Covenant restraining vendor from doing any similar business whatsoever in Dominion of Canada — Restriction as to space, held, not unreasonable — Holding of small shares by vendor company in another company, carrying similar business was not a breach of agreement. AIR 1941 PC 75 (80, 84).

(6) Where the vendor of a goodwill contracts not to "directly or indirectly engage" in similar business, the phrase is not void for uncertainty. AIR 1941 PC 75 (80).

(7) Where a person merely buys the whole or any part of the tangible assets of any person who has been using the same in his business the purchaser cannot be said to acquire any interest of any sort in the old business of the vendor nor can he be regarded as a successor of the old business nor is he entitled to any of the intangible privileges. But by purchase of the goodwill, he acquires the right to use the same or a similar name for his business or to canvass the old customers as against the vendor and becomes the successor in interest of the old business. AIR 1957 Bom 111 (113) = ILR (1958) Bom 8.

(8) The goodwill of a business is inclusive of positive advantages such as carrying on the commercial undertaking at a particular place and in a particular name and also its business connections, its business prestige, and several other intangible advantages which a business may acquire. AIR 1957 Bom 111 (115) = ILR (1958) Bom 8  AIR 1970 Raj 34 (41) (DB).

(9) Goodwill must always be understood in relation to facts. It represents business reputation which is a complex of personal reputation, local reputation and objective reputation of the products of the business. Except where the reputation of a business and where the product of the business more than its proprietor have won widespread popularity and universal approval and except in the case of well-known patents and manufacturing processes in which event the personal and objective reputation predominate, it is the local reputation or the attribute of locality which forms the largest content of goodwill in almost every other business. Specially is the attribute of locality the most important consideration in the business of an ordinary trader or a dealer. AIR 1957 Cal 280 (282).

(10) Contract for payment of goodwill money need not always be express but there may be oral contract or a contract may be implied by law, which may be inferred from acceptance of payment and other circumstances. AIR 1968 Raj 278 (280) = 1968 Raj LW 163.

(11) Goodwill of a business depends upon a variety of circumstances or a combination of them. The location, service, the standing of business, the honesty of those who run it, and the lack of competition and many other factors go individually or together to make up the goodwill. AIR 1968 Raj 278 (281) = 1968 Raj LW 163.

(12) Plea of D that P had transferred to him only tenancy and not goodwill of business — When business run by P and D is same and premises are located in business locality, conclusion is that goodwill must have necessarily passed. AIR 1968 Raj 278 (281) = 1968 Raj LW 163.

28. Agreements in restraint of legal proceedings void.—Every agreement, by which any party thereto is restricted absolutely from enforcing his rights under or in respect of any contract, by the usual legal proceedings in the ordinary tribunals, or which limits the time within which he may thus enforce his rights, is void to that extent.

Saving of contract to refer to arbitration dispute that may arise.

Exception 1.—This section shall not render illegal a contract, by which two or more persons agree that any dispute which may arise between them in respect of any subject or class of subjects shall be referred to arbitration, and that only the amount awarded in such arbitration shall be recoverable in respect of the dispute so referred.

[ * * *]

Saving of contract to refer questions that have already arisen.

Exception 2.—Nor shall this section render illegal any contract in writing, by which two or more persons agree to refer to arbitration any question between them which has already arisen, or affect any provision of any law in force for the time being as to references to arbitration.†

[*] The second clause of Exception 1 was repealed by the Specific Relief Act, 1877 (1 of 1877). Act 1 of 1877 has now been repealed by the Specific Relief Act, 1963 (47 of 1963) (1-3-1964). This new Act extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

SECTION 28 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.

2. Agreements affecting jurisdiction of Courts.

3. Agreements affecting limitation for enforcing rights under contract.

4. Agreements restraining enforcement of rights.

5. Exception 1.

1. Scope and applicability.— (1) No man can exclude himself from the protection of Courts by contract. AIR 1917 PC 116 (118) = 42 Bom 380 = 45 Ind App 61.

[See also AIR 1925 Pat 487 (488). (Agreement by servant not to sue for wrongful dismissal is invalid.)]

(2) Agreement by which one party thereto is restricted absolutely from taking usual legal proceedings is void to that extent. AIR 1934 Sind 1 (3) = 27 Sind LR 280  AIR 1951 Sau 83 (85)  AIR 1950 Lah 174 (176) = Pak LR (1950) Lah 323  (1876) 1 Cal 466 (468, 469) (DB)  (1967) 10 Law Rep 342 = (1967) 1 Mys LJ 521.

(3) Section 28 cannot be construed so as to exclude agreements to refer to arbitration without order of Court in a pending suit. AIR 1927 Bom 565 (576) = 51 Bom 908 (FB)  AIR 1953 Cal 690 (692) = ILR (1955) 1 Cal 12.

(4) Section cannot be applied to rights under a decree. (1885) 7 All 124 (125, 131) (DB).

(5) Compromise of doubtful rights arising out of a previous contract is not void. It is outside the scope of Sec. 28. AIR 1926 Sind 202 (206).

2. Agreements affecting jurisdiction of Courts.— (1) It is a well settled proposition of law that litigants cannot, by private agreement, confer jurisdiction upon a Court which it does not possess nor can they divest a Court of jurisdiction which it possesses under the ordinary law. AIR 1955 Cal 161 (162, 163, 164) (DB)  AIR 1954 Bom 176 (177) = ILR (1954) Bom 334 (DB)  AIR 1954 Mad 845 (847) = ILR (1954) Mad 855 (DB)  (1947) ILR (1947) 1 Cal 412 (418) (DB)  AIR 1935 Nag 48 (49)  AIR 1930 Bom 185 (186, 187) = 54 Bom 278 (DB). (Words "to that extent" means that only the stipulation which ousts the Court's jurisdiction is void and not the whole agreement.)  AIR 1960 Cal 155 (156) = 1960 Cal LJ 18 (DB).

(2) The principle that parties cannot by consent confer jurisdiction on Court or deprive Court of jurisdiction only applies to cases of inherent jurisdiction of a Court over the subject-matter of a suit, but the question of territorial jurisdiction is not a question of inherent jurisdiction. AIR 1946 Lah 57 (60) = ILR (1945) Lah 281 (FB)  AIR 1955 Madh B 145 (145)  AIR 1947 Pesh 48 (50).

(3) Section 28 makes void only those agreements which "absolutely" restrict a party to a contract from enforcing the rights under that contract in ordinary tribunals. It has no application when a party agrees not to restrict his right of enforcing his rights in the ordinary tribunals but only agrees to a selection of one of those ordinary tribunals in which ordinarily a suit would be tried. Accordingly, an agreement between the parties to a contract, where a suit can be tried within the territorial limits of several Courts, to the effect that it will only be tried in one of the Courts having territorial jurisdiction and that the parties will be limited to have recourse to one of the several competent Courts is not within the mischief of the section and is valid and enforceable. (6) Parties cannot make agreement that suits relating to disputes will be brought only in a particular Court even if cause of action arose outside its jurisdiction. (1909) 3 Sind LR 45 (47) (DB).

(7) Where a receipt executed by A for the price of articles entrusted to him at X and to be returned at Y contained a printed note that all disputes were subject to the jurisdiction of the Courts at Z but the acceptance of that term by B was not proved or even alleged by A, held that the agreement as to jurisdiction was not binding on B and that the cause of action arose either at X or at Y and Courts at Z had no territorial jurisdiction over the dispute. AIR 1957 J and K 7 (7).

(8) Agreement that another Court to the exclusion of Court having jurisdiction shall have jurisdiction to adjudicate upon the disputes arising under the agreement of the parties, is illegal. 3. Agreements affecting limitation for enforcing rights under contract.— (1) Section 28 contemplates the suspension permanently of the usual remedies for the enforcement of legal rights. It aims at the prohibition of agreements which could only operate so long as rights were in existence. Section 28 is aimed only at covenants not to sue at any time and covenants not to sue for a limited time. AIR 1914 Bom 225 (2) (228) = 38 Bom 344 (DB).

(2) It is only when a period of limitation is curtailed that Section 28 of the Contract Act comes into operation. It does not apply when the term spells out an extinction of the right of the plaintiff to sue or spells out the discharge of the defendant from all liability in respect of the claim. (9) Article III, Cl. (IV) of the schedule to Carriage of Goods by Sea Act does not limit time within which holder of bill of lading may enforce his rights against carrier. (10) It is not open to the Railway Administration to repudiate its liability if the claim is not made immediately to the clerk in charge and is not forwarded to the Traffic Manager forthwith in spite of the rule printed at the back of the Railway receipt to that effect. SECTION 29 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Contracts void for uncertainty or vagueness.
3. Contracts not void for uncertainty or vagueness.
4. "Capable of being made certain".

1. Scope.— (1) Section 29 contemplates that the meaning of an agreement shall be clear on the face of it. AIR 1945

Section 29 — Note 1 (contd.)

Mad 10 (10) = ILR (1945) Mad 521 (DB).
(An agreement to pay certain amount "after deductions as would be agreed upon" between the parties, held void for uncertainty.)

(2) It is impossible for a Court of justice to give effect to a contract, the meaning of which it is unable to find out with reasonable clearness. AIR 1915 Lah 328 (329) (DB).

(3) Where a reasonable meaning can be construed into the contract, the contract is not void for uncertainty. 1913 Pun LR No. 305 p. 1027 (1031) (DB).

(4) The construction of an ambiguous stipulation in a deed may be governed or qualified by a recital, but on the other hand, if the intention of the parties is clearly to be collected from the operative part of the instrument, that intention is not to be defeated or controlled because it may go beyond what is expressed in the recital. (1880) 2 Mad 239 (257) = 7 Ind App 83 (PC).

(5) Considerable latitude is allowed to parties in the construction of commercial documents; and phrases, which would be sufficiently vague and uncertain in other forms of contract to render them unenforceable, are frequently given effect to in commercial contracts. AIR 1951 Cal 10 (18) = ILR (1950) 2 Cal 656 (FB).

2. Contracts void for uncertainty or vagueness.— (1) Where a contract is uncertain, performance of which would never be enforced, then it must be held that the contract is void for uncertainty. AIR 1951 Cal 10 (17) = ILR (1950) 2 Cal 656 (FB)  AIR 1967 Cal 168 (172) (DB).

AIR 1950 Pat 445 (447) (DB).

(4) A contract for pre-emption entered into by the co-sharers for an unlimited period is unenforceable against the heirs and representatives of the co-sharers as being too vague and uncertain. But a contract for pre-emption between the co-sharers entered into at the time of the settlement, held must be presumed, in the absence of anything to the contrary, to have been intended to hold good for the whole period of the settlement and not longer and therefore not uncertain. AIR 1924 All 400 (403) = 46 All 333 (DB).

(5) Certain persons describing themselves as residents of X, giving a bond for payment of money in which as collateral security they pledged "Kul haq haquk" (their properties) Held, that the general hypothecation was too indefinite to be acted upon and no charge on their property situated in X was created. (10) Although an agreement may otherwise be definite if an essential element is reserved for future agreement of both parties, the promise can raise no legal obligation until such future agreement. Thus if a party agrees to pay a sum of money "after deductions as may be agreed upon" the essential element of the agreement viz., the determination of the amount to be deducted is left to future agreement. An agreement of this nature has been described as an agreement to enter into an agreement and declared to be too vague to create a legal obligation. AIR 1953 Sau 122 (124, 125) (DB).

Contracts not void for uncertainty or vagueness. — (1) Where an arbitration clause in a contract provided that "all disputes between the parties arising out of contract shall be referred to the sole arbitration of A/B," it was held that in the absence of any provision with regard to the choice to be made between A and B, the clause was invalid as being vague and uncertain. AIR 1956 Punj 205 (205) = ILR (1956) Punj 488.

(2) Where a contract provides for arbitration by the Superintendent Engineer for the time being the meaning of the said clause is that it must be the arbitration of the Superintending Engineer holding that office at the time when the dispute arose and had to be referred. That being so, it cannot be said that such an arbitration clause is void for uncertainty. ILR (1952) 1 Cal 324 (326)  AIR 1958 Punj 19 (23) = ILR (1957) Punj 1760.

(6) Though the actual figure of the rent has not been determined, if there is no uncertainty regarding the way in which it should be fixed throughout the lease, the lease cannot be said to be unenforceable for uncertainty and would be a binding lease. (12) A term in the contract of sale of goods which gives a party power to alter or postpone deliveries or to cancel any balance which might remain undelivered at the end of the contract period, does not render the contract uncertain and void under S. 29. ILR (1951) 1 Cal 420 (429).

(13) Where a Nattukotai Chetty impliedly agreed to give something extra to his agent as remuneration for the collection of outstandings left uncollected by the agent's predecessor, but did not fix a rate of percentage: Held, that in view of the nature of the business of Nattukotai Chetties, the contract was enforceable and the agent was entitled to a reasonable amount as remuneration. (18) Agreement to refer disputes to arbitration in accordance with Rules of Mill-Owners' Association Bombay — There being provision for reference of dispute in the rules, objection that agreement was void for uncertainty was held not maintainable. (19) A term in agreement to reconvey property on deposit of costs of execution of deed and 'other necessary and indispensable expenses', besides purchase price — Held, that the words 'other necessary and indispensable expenses' did not make the contract void for uncertainty — Such necessary and indispensable expenses having regard to expression 'other' should be construed 'ejusdem generis' and related to execution of deed. AIR 1963 Cal 325 (329) = 67 Cal WN 110 (DB).

(20) An agreement in compromise decree to the effect that "each party has to sell to the other, respective portions of the properties which have come to their share as above at a price fixed by two members of the panchas when either party wants to sell its share" is arbitration agreement and is not void for uncertainty as to the identity of Panchas. (3) The non-fixation of the price and the time for the execution of a sale deed in a contract of sale of land, does not make the contract void for uncertainty under Section 29 if the parties have consensus ad idem with reference to any essential term of the contract. AIR 1951 Orissa 291 (294, 295) = ILR (1949) 1 Cut 593 (DB).

(4) In arbitration agreements the actual points of dispute are seldom stated. Generally, references are made to arbitration where disputes arise and the parties thereafter formulate, when necessary, their disputes before the arbitrators and seek their decision on those points of differences. The meaning of such agreements is not in any sense uncertain, and even if there is any slight uncertainty, that is capable of being made certain at the time of hearing. AIR 1957 All 406 (408).

20. Pakka adatiya transactions.

1. Scope.— (1) There is no distinction between the expression “gaming and wagering” in the English Gaming Act 1845, and the earlier Indian Act XXI of 1848, and the expression “by way of wager” used in Section 30 of the Indian Contract Act (9 of 1872). (1902) 29 Cal 461 (467) = 28 Ind App 239 (PC)  AIR 1917 Low Bur 18 (20).

(2) Section 30 makes a wagering contract void ab initio and to such a class of contracts Section 65 has no application. AIR 1918 Mad 163 (163) (DB)  1966 Jab LJ 399 = 1966 MPLJ 379  ILR (1961) 11 Raj 390 (DB)  AIR 1959 SC 781 (792) = (1959) Supp (2) SCR 406. (Though wagering contracts are void they are not forbidden by law.)

(3) Section 30 requires that there must be at least two parties, the agreement between them must be by way of wager and further both sides must be parties to that wager. (1904) 28 Bom 616 (621) (DB)  AIR 1925 Bom 79 (83) (DB).

(4) Section 30 is open to the reproach that it has in fact encouraged the precise evil it would strike at, for as long as the dishonest gambler knows that he can evade payment when he loses, he is certain to go on gambling with utmost recklessness. (1910) 7 Ind Cas 665 (668) (Bom).

2. Wagering contracts.— (1) A wager is a promise to give money or money's worth upon the determination or ascertainment of an uncertain event. There must be mutual chances of gain and loss and the parties must contemplate the determination of an uncertain event, as the sole condition of their contract. AIR 1935 Mad 135 (136, 137). (Quoted from Ansari's Contract.)  AIR 1926 Oudh 202 (207, 208)  (1913) 15 Bom LR 85 (93)  (1910) 8 Ind Cas 500 (500) (Oudh).

(2) The essence of gaming and wagering is that one party is to win and the other to lose upon a future event, which at the time of contract is of an uncertain nature. AIR 1923 Nag 291 (292) = 19 Nag LR 21  ('51) 1951-2 Mad L Jour 393 (394)  (1904) 28 Bom 616 (621) (DB).

(3) The essence of wagering contract is that neither of the parties should have any interest in the contract other than the sum which he will win or lose. AIR 1935 Mad 135 (136)  1966 Jab LJ 399 = 1966 MPLJ 379  AIR 1960 Punj 471 (473) = (1960) 62 Pun LR 442 (DB).

(4) To constitute a wager, the transaction between the parties must "wholly depend on the risk in contemplation" and neither must look to anything but the payment of money on the determination of an uncertainty. (1885) 9 Bom 358 (363) (DB).

(5) The test as to true character of a transaction is comparison between magnitude of transaction and capacity of person who seeks to have it declared a wager. (1910) 12 Bom LR 1062 (1066).

(6) To bring a contract under Sec. 30, it is necessary that the common intention of both parties was that no delivery or acceptance shall take place and that the mere difference in price shall be paid; but if only one of the parties intends that no delivery shall take place, the contract is not vitiated. (11) If a contract is wagering in its inception the mere fact that in certain contingencies delivery could be asked for would still not render the contract enforceable. AIR 1926 Mad 326 (331) (DB).

(12) The fact that in respect of some of the contracts goods were actually delivered is no ground for assuming that the other contracts were real transactions and not mere agreements to adjust differences. AIR 1926 Mad 326 (329) (DB).

(13) The mere fact that, on settlement of some contracts the differences were entered in the books does not establish that it was the intention of the parties not to call for and give delivery. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 427 (434) (DB).

(14) Where it appeared that the sale price was far beyond the means of the parties, and that no attempt was made to complete the transaction by delivery of goods; Held, that parties intended, not an actual transfer of goods, but a mere adjustment of prices according to fluctuation of market rate, and that the agreement was a wagering contract. AIR 1916 Lah 329 (330).

(15) That there has been no delivery but only payment of differences in numerous other transactions between the parties is not enough to rebut the evidence against the contract being a wagering one. AIR 1924 Nag 290 (291).

(16) The mere fact that during the course of dealings between the parties no delivery was actually made is not alone sufficient for holding that contracts were wagering. AIR 1953 Sau 141 (142, 143)  AIR 1957 Madh Pra 138 (142) (DB).

(17) Where the terms of the contract between the parties have not been proved the mere fact that in the past delivery was never demanded is not a circumstance from which a necessary inference can be drawn that the differences only should become payable. AIR 1960 Punj 471 (472, 473) = (1960) 62 Pun LR 442 (DB).

(18) The mere fact that delivery was in fact not given in numerous other transactions, or in a particular case does not prove that it was not given because of an agreement to that effect or that there was a term in the original contract to that effect. In every case the terms of the contract or of the agreement have to be proved. AIR 1956 Madh B 38 (39).

(19) Where there is no evidence in the case that the parties did not intend to give or take delivery of specific goods sold, and where during a number of transactions the parties had actually given delivery and taken delivery and if towards some part of the goods there was no actual delivery but adjustment of claims — these circumstances would not vitiate the transactions as being by way of wager. AIR 1952 Hyd 95 (97) = ILR (1952) Hyd 188.

(20) The parties will not be allowed to 'camouflage' their transaction by getting it up as 'delivery' transaction when, in fact, it was never their intention that it should be such. AIR 1954 All 789 (795) (DB)  AIR 1960 Punj 471 (473) = (1960) 62 Pun LR 442 (DB).

(21) The mere fact that the parties unnecessarily proceeded to provide for the consequence of the breach namely, payment of loss by one party to the other in the case of fluctuations in the market price would be no indication that there was a wagering transaction. 1951-2 Mad L Jour 393 (394).

(22) Where the terms of a contract establish that delivery of goods was contemplated and in fact the buyer was called upon to take delivery of the goods and it was only when he failed to comply with that demand that the goods were sold at his risk and compensation claimed by way of difference between the prices, the contract cannot be held to be a wagering contract. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 216 (217) (DB).

(23) A subsequent agreement to the effect that buyer has no right to demand delivery and the seller is no longer obliged to give delivery does not make the contract a wagering one. AIR 1930 Nag 111 (113) = 26 Nag LR 125  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 438 (440) (DB).

(24) There is no authority for the proposition that because under the terms of a contract an obligation to pay or receive differences may arise on the happening of a particular event, the contract is void as a wager if that event does not happen. Such a result would be inconsistent with the principle underlying Section 57 of the Contract Act. (1910) 34 Bom 519 (533) (DB).

(25) Persons in a position to carry out contract at the time of making contract or at the time of performance — Contract is not necessarily wagering contract even if contract provides for alternative of receiving or paying on differences instead of actual delivery. AIR 1922 All 360 (361) = 43 All 585 (DB)  AIR 1925 Bom 115 (117) (DB).

(26) A contract containing a condition that one of the parties becoming unable from pecuniary circumstances to perform the contract shall not put an end to it but if contract be beneficial to that party, damages shall be ascertained and paid then and there to the party, is not of the nature of gambling transaction. (1905) 7 Bom LR 154 (156).

(27) Although a contract may have the appearance of a wagering contract, if there was an intention on the part of one party to make delivery of the goods and an intention on the part of the other party to accept that delivery, they clearly bring themselves out of the mischief of Section 30. AIR 1944 All 196 (197) = ILR (1944) All 397.

(28) Seller may, technically speaking, be said to deliver goods to his buyer by giving him a delivery order on a certain person but just as mercantile contracts for payment of differences so also delivery orders may be used and passed from hand to hand amongst persons who have no other intention than that of adjusting differences amongst themselves. (1913) 15 Bom LR 750 (760, 761).

(29) There must be actual delivery or transfer of the commodity itself in order to take the transaction out of the definition of speculative transactions in Explanation 2 of Section 24 (1) of the Income-Tax Act (1922). AIR 1968 Cal 253 (256) = (1968) 1 ITJ 684 (DB).

3. Burden of proof and evidence.—

(1) The burden of proving that a particular contract was a wagering contract lies on the party which alleges the contract to be a wagering contract. AIR 1954 Raj 24 (25) (DB)  AIR 1957 Madh Pra 138 (141) (DB)  AIR 1956 Madh B 38 (39)  ILR (1954) 4 Raj 346 (351). (Absence of defendant is not enough for dismissal of case put forward by him, if Court is satisfied that transaction was of wagering nature.)  1951-2 Mad L Jour 393 (394)  AIR 1937 Nag 345 (352) = ILR (1938) Nag 308 (DB)  AIR 1934 Nag 129 (130)  AIR 1924 Nag 290 (291)  AIR 1923 Bom 458 (459) (DB)  AIR 1922 Bom 81 (81) (DB)  AIR 1920 Sind 29 (30) = 14 Sind LR 227 (DB)  (1910) 7 Ind Cas 665 (666) (Bom)  (1906) 30 Bom 83 (89)  (1894) 17 Mad 480 (491) (DB)  1961 Andh LT 901 = (1961) 2 Andh WR 304  AIR 1961 Raj 52 (57) = ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1304 (DB)  AIR 1960 Punj 471 (472) = (1960) 62 Pun LR 442 (DB).

(2) Person alleging a transaction to be a wagering contract must show that under terms of arrangements no goods were to be taken or delivered under the forward contracts but that the contracts were to result merely in the payment of differences. (1939) 182 Ind Cas 416 (417) (PC)  AIR 1921 Sind 99 (99) = 15 Sind LR 193 (DB).

(3) To determine whether a contract is a wagering contract or not the substance of the matter is to be regarded and if there is no other purpose in the contract than that of wagering or gaming it is void. AIR 1935 Mad 135 (137)

 AIR 1925 Mad 330 (330, 331) (DB).

(4) In order to deduce the existence of wagering contract the proved or admitted facts must be of such a nature as to show that they are incompatible with a lawful contract. AIR 1934 Nag 129 (130).

(5) The whole transaction and its nature have to be looked at for the purpose of determining the question whether the contract is one by way of wager. 1951-2 Mad L Jour 393 (394)  ILR (1961) 11 Raj 390 (DB).

(6) Court should lean towards a construction favouring the validity of the contract rather than its illegality. AIR 1925 Bom 115 (118) (DB).

(7) The Courts must look to surrounding circumstances besides the terms of original contracts indicating the original agreement between the parties. Common intention to wager must be established, as also the common intention that there was to be no actual delivery but only payment of differences. AIR 1934 Nag 129 (130)  AIR 1954 Raj 24 (25) (DB)  AIR 1942 All 170 (174) = ILR (1942) All 289 (DB)  AIR 1938 Bom 44 (46) (DB)  AIR 1936 Lah 215 (215). (Intention may be gathered from oral evidence.)  AIR 1933 Cal 759 (766) = 60 Cal 856  AIR 1921 Cal 362 (362) (DB). (Court is bound to scrutinize with suspicion the defence of wagering contract set up by defendant, who has accepted payments in successful dealing but has recourse to plea of wagering contract when transactions end in loss.)  AIR 1914 Bom 319 (320) = 38 Bom 204 (DB)  (1906) 30 Bom 83 (89). (The Court must examine all surrounding circumstances including parties' conduct.)  (1903) 5 Bom LR 503 (505, 506) (DB). (Court must look into the contract itself, also at dealing of parties immediately before and after transaction and into the circumstances of persons dealing in commodities under dispute.)  (1898) 22 Bom 899 (903). (Court can even go behind written agreement.)  AIR 1965 AP 136 (141) = (1965) 1 Andh WR 60 (DB)  1961 Andh LT 901 = (1961) 2 Andh WR 304  AIR 1960 Punj 471 (473) = (1960) 62 Pun LR 442 (DB)  AIR 1960 Raj 296 (301) = ILR (1960) 10 Raj 412.

(8) The party who sets up that an agreement is void by way of wager, should be allowed to let in oral evidence to prove that it is so. (1905) 32 Cal 437 (442) (FB)  AIR 1938 Bom 44 (46) (DB)  (1894) 17 Mad 480 (491) (DB).

(9) Court will not allow party, setting up defence of wagering, to interrogate his opponent generally as to his business transaction apart from the one in question. (1913) 37 Bom 347 (351).

(10) The Court must for itself find out what were primary intentions of the parties when they entered into transaction in question before it and must not be misled by the mere protestation of one of the parties as to his real intentions. (1907) 9 Bom LR 125 (137)  (1913) 37 Bqm 264 (277).

(11) If the terms of the contract have been proved and they show on their face that delivery was to be given or taken and it is alleged by the defendant that it was agreed that the term about delivery was not to take effect but that differences alone were to be paid, then the fact of non-delivery, coupled with certain other facts, may induce the Court to believe the defendant instead of the plaintiff. AIR 1950 All 352 (354)  AIR 1954 All 789 (795) (DB).

(12) Where Court on consideration of entire evidence records clear finding that transaction was by way of wager question of burden of proof remains no longer material. AIR 1967 Cal 25 (29) (DB).

4. Speculative contracts.— (1) There is no law against speculation as there is against gambling. AIR 1922 Bom 66 (68)  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 438 (440) (DB)  1947 Jaipur LR 283 (284, 285)  AIR 1938 Bom 44 (46) (DB).

(2) Mere speculation, where it does not amount to wager, is not apart from special legislation, illegal. AIR 1954 Mad 699 (702) = ILR (1954) Mad 966 (DB).

(3) A speculative contract is not necessarily a wagering contract. AIR 1923 All 273 (276) (DB)  AIR 1917 PC 101 (102) = 45 Ind App 29 = 42 Bom 373  AIR 1938 Lah 781 (783) (DB)  AIR 1922 Pat 220 (222).

(4) The mere fact that contracts are highly speculative is not sufficient in itself to render them void as wagering contracts; to produce that result there must be proof that the contracts were entered into upon the terms that performance of the contracts should not be demanded but that differences only should become payable. AIR 1928 PC 30 (32) = 55 Ind App 32 = 51 Mad 96  AIR 1956 Madh-B 38 (39)  (1953) 1953 Raj LW 110 (112)  AIR 1952 Trav-Co 435 (436, 437) (DB)  AIR 1934 Nag 129 (131)  AIR 1929 All 890 (893) = 51 All 1027 (DB)  AIR 1929 All 134 (138) (DB)  AIR 1961 Raj 52 (57) = ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1304 (DB)  ILR (1961) 11 Raj 390 (DB).

(5) Speculation forms sometimes an element in many transactions relating to the sale and delivery of goods at a certain rate owing to market fluctuations. But existence of such an element does not make the contract void; as it may be accompanied by a real desire by vendor to sell and buyer to purchase. Where such an intention exists the contract is not a wagering contract. AIR 1924 Oudh 186 (186).

(6) Even if one party to a contract were a speculator who never intended to give delivery and that fact was known to the other party, yet in the absence of any bargain or understanding express or implied that the goods were not to be delivered, that would not convert a contract otherwise innocent into a wager. AIR 1956 Madh B 38 (39)  AIR 1938 Lah 781 (783) (DB).

(7) As far as the distinction between speculation and gaming is concerned, it makes but little difference whether the commodities are actually paid for and held with a view to selling again at a profit or whether the matter is arranged by a resale before the time of delivery. Such dealings are perfectly legitimate. Gaming and wagering contracts, on the other hand, are not really dealings at all. They may take the form of purchases and sales but they are in fact mere bets on the market prices on commodities at a future date. 1951-2 Mad L Jour 393 (394)  AIR 1937 Nag 345 (351) = ILR (1938) Nag 308 (DB).

(8) The distinction between contracts which are legitimate and genuine trading transactions of a speculative character and contracts which are simply gaming and wagering transactions, is frequently a narrow one and difficult of determination even after the examination of the parties concerned, the course of the business and the nature of the contracts. AIR 1931 PC 136 (140) = 53 All 190 = 58 Ind App 173  AIR 1921 Sind 99 (99, 100) = 15 Sind LR 193 (DB).

(9) If there existed an agreement between the parties at the time when the contract was brought about between them by the broker, the broker is the best person to give the best evidence as to what exactly were the terms of the contract, whether it was speculative or merely a wagering. 1951-2 Mad L Jour 393 (395).

(10) Every forward contract is to some extent speculative, but merely on that account it is not necessarily a gambling one. AIR 1956 Madh B 38 (39)  (1955) 7 Sau LR 172 (175)  AIR 1961 SC 268 (270) = (1961) 1 SCR 668  ILR (1961) 11 Raj 390 (DB).

(11) Forward contracts for purchase and sale of goods are legitimate commercial transactions though speculative. They may be wagering or gambling transactions. When there is bargain for differences they are wagering contracts, even if one party has option to demand delivery. In spite of the terms of the contract, extrinsic evidence may establish the common intention of both parties that there was to be no delivery but only to take differences according to rise or fall in prices on date of delivery.

But when it is established that substantial parts of goods were actually taken delivery of, the transaction may be taken to be genuine commercial transaction. AIR 1941 Cal 341 (344, 345) (DB)  AIR 1956 Madh B 38 (39)  AIR 1956 Mad 110 (111)  AIR 1925 Rang 234 (285) (DB)  AIR 1965 AP 136 (139) = (1965) 1 Andh WR 60 (DB)  AIR 1962 Andh Pra 350 (354) = (1962) 2 Andh LT 41 (DB)  AIR 1961 Madh Pra 57 (60) = 1960 MPLJ 1217. (If it is intended and is possible that the goods can be delivered, then the mere fact that in certain circumstances either party would be liable to make good to the other the difference in price, will not make the contract a wagering contract.)  AIR 1960 Punj 471 (473) = (1960) 62 Pun LR 442 (DB)  AIR 1960 Ker 122 (123) = 1959 Ker LT 927 (DB). (Transaction in nature of forward contract — Delivery of goods to pass under each sale and purchase — Held, transactions were not merely in nature of speculation on difference in prices.)

(12) An agreement of a forward sale containing a provision for delivery and resale to the first party of the same quantity as that of the previous transaction before the date of that transaction and at the rate prevailing on the date of the resale though highly speculative does not amount to a wagering contract. AIR 1936 Rang 319 (323) = 14 Rang 347 (DB). (Contract held highly speculative.)  (1966) ITR 154 (169) (Cal).

(13) Vendor agreeing to sell what he has not and may never have — Price fixed upon calculation of risk taken by purchaser for sum for below real value. Contract is eminently speculative, not to say gambling one. (1967-69) 12 Moo Ind App 292 (308) (PC). (Purchaser retaining part of price until risk is determined — Risk contracted is pro tanto diminished and contract becomes incapable of being performed.)

(14) Pakka Adatia entering into forward contract which is banned by law — Amounts to breach of Section 15 of Forward Contracts (Regulation) Act (1952). AIR 1967 SC 986 (990) = 1967 Cri LJ 946 = (1967) 1 SCR 138.

5. Satta transactions.— (1) The transactions of the nature where parties speculate on the varying rate of the goods are not satta. AIR 1956 Hyd 131 (133) = ILR (1956) Hyd 477 (DB).

(2) A satta transaction need not be a gambling transaction if either of the parties intends to make delivery of the goods in case of breach of contract. It can be a gambling transaction only if it is the common intention of both the parties that in no event would delivery take place and that only differences would be settled between them. AIR 1956 Hyd 131 (133) = ILR (1956) Hyd 477 (DB).

6. Teji Mandi transactions.— (1) Teji Mandi contracts are not presumed to be wagering contracts in the absence of evidence to the contrary. AIR 1926 PC 119 (120) = 53 Ind App 241 = 51 Bom 1  AIR 1938 Lah 825 (826). (Defendant at Delhi placing with plaintiff, pakka ahritia of Bombay order for forward transaction of certain amount of cotton bales and undertaking to pay mandi as soon as a telegram was received — Contract held complete between parties — Defendant failing to pay amount of mandi on demand — Plaintiff selling bales at loss — Defendant held liable for mandi and loss suffered by plaintiff.)  AIR 1937 Nag 345 (352) = ILR (1938) Nag 308 (DB)  AIR 1925 Bom 79 (82) (DB)  AIR 1922 Bom 408 (409) = 47 Bom 263 (DB)  AIR 1922 Bom 66 (70).

[But see (1913) 37 Bom 264 (272). (Teji Mandi transactions must be regarded as wagering ones. The onus of proving the contrary lies heavily on party alleging so.)  (1910) 7 Ind Cas 665 (666) (Bom). (Teji Mandi transactions are in nature of gambling transactions).]

(2) The transaction may be a bet on the rise of the market and if the intention of both parties was not to deliver but merely to pay the difference between the teji and the market rate on be void under Section 30. AIR 1914 Low the day of settlement the contract would Bur 183 (184, 185).

7. Badni transactions.— (1) In absence of common intention to wager there can be no badni or wagering transactions. Liabilities incurred on badni transactions are unenforceable. AIR 1928 Lah 420 (422) (DB).

(2) Where transactions included sales and purchases by the same dealers for a fixed date coupled with failure to deliver in practically all cases: Held that the transactions were badni. AIR 1928 Lah 420 (421, 422) (DB).

(3) Where the contract for sale of goods specifically provides that the goods would be delivered after weighing them and the purchaser asks for delivery and is not replied that delivery was not contemplated, the mere fact that the contract involved very large quantities of the goods does not make the contract a badni transaction though they are highly speculative forward contracts. AIR 1929 Lah 689 (690) (DB).

(4) Where the transactions which parties entered into are beyond their means and there is no intention on the part of either contracting party from the very beginning to give or to take delivery, the transactions are badni and so void. AIR 1929 Lah 375 (376).

8. Lotteries.— (1) Transaction between definite number of persons — Each to contribute rupee 1 for first week—On week end prizes drawn — A prize winner getting gramophone out of transaction — Remaining subscribing 4 annas more for next week and drawing made next week end — Prize winner getting gramophone and dropping out — Similar drawings continuing for 20 weeks — Remaining subscribers each then getting one gramophone — Held that no offence under Section 294-A, Penal Code was committed and since each one got his money's worth, though some got less and some more by lot and since there was no invitation to public to join, the transaction did not amount to wager. AIR 1934 Mad 136 (137).

(2) An agreement to decide a suit by lottery is void ab initio as being one by way of wager and opposed to public policy. (1909) 5 Nag LR 107 (110).

(3) Effect of Government sanctioning lottery is that no prosecution would lie in respect thereof. But the sanction does not affect civil law relating to lotteries — Agreement to purchase ticket of such lottery is void. AIR 1917 Bom 138 (140) = 42 Bom 676.

(4) Lottery and wagering contracts are two distinct things. A scheme may amount to a lottery though none of the competitors is a loser. If the subscribers have purchased a chance of winning a prize the scheme would be a lottery, whether the prizes are paid circuitously from the interest earned on the subscribers' contributions or are paid directly from those contributions. A lottery is not in British India unlawful in the sense that it is prohibited by law. It is only in relation to Section 294-A, Penal Code, that it becomes illegal. AIR 1936 Mad 225 (227, 228, 229, 244) = 59 Mad 562 (FB). (The chit fund held amounted to lottery and the promoters of the kuri by keeping place for conducting it and by its publication committed offence under Section 294-A, Penal Code.)

(5) Sale of a share in sweepstake ticket after that ticket has drawn a horse, for a definite amount, is not a wager and is not opposed to public policy and the vendee can enforce the payment of his share in the prize money. AIR 1914 Lah 72 (73) (DB).

9. Chit funds.— (1) Where an agreement provides that winners are to get prizes and subscribers to get refund of contribution without interest in the end and the promoter to retain only interest, it was held the chit fund is not a wagering agreement. AIR 1927 Mad 583 (585) = 50 Mad 696 (FB).

(2) Though kuri, as ordinarily conducted in Malabar is not lottery, yet if some subscribers obtain as prizes amounts which are in excess of the amounts subscribed by them, it comes within definition of lottery and suit to recover money paid for such lottery is not enforceable. AIR 1919 Mad 139 (139).

(3) Chit fund with arrangement for payment of prize every month by casting lots, was held illegal as lottery. AIR 1925 Mad 281 (282) (DB).

(4) Kuri transaction — Successful bidder executing mortgage under terms of kuriwari, for due payments of remaining instalments — Liability on mortgage, incurred on date of its execution — The mortgage bond cannot be regarded as only affirming the pre-existing liability of the successful bidders as subscribers to the kuri chit to pay their subscriptions according to the instalments fixed in the Kuriwari. AIR 1941 Mad 231 (233) = ILR (1941) Mad 486 (DB).

10. Patta patti contracts.— (1) The patta and patti contracts are highly speculative but not opposed to public policy as wagering contracts. AIR 1934 Nag 129 (130)  AIR 1928 PC 30 (32) = 55 Ind App 32 = 51 Mad 96. (In absence of proof that contracts were entered into upon the terms that their performance should not be demanded but the differences only should be payable if the seller was unable to give delivery and buyer was not agreeable to take delivery through third parties so as to exonerate seller, making of patta patti resulting in agreement to pay differences only would not make the transaction a wagering one.)

11. Sale and purchase of shares.— (1) Quick purchase and sale of shares and commodities on the exchange market and earning or losing the difference is not itself illegal. There should be proof that there were actual particular commodities and shares to be purchased and sold. As long as there are particular shares to be transacted in, there was nothing illegal in that business. AIR 1950 Kutch 24 (27).

(2) A pronote for amount advanced by the share brokers on behalf of the defendants in the transactions of purchases and sales of shares which they made for the defendants is not for an illegal consideration although the purpose for which the advances might have been utilised may be unlawful. AIR 1950 Kutch 24 (27).

12. Insurance contracts.— (1) In India an insurance for a term of years on the life of a person in which the insurer has no interest is void as wagering contract under Section 30. ('99) 23 Bom 191 (210)  AIR 1941 Lah 33 (35, 36) (DB). (Person effecting insurance on his younger brother's life, held had no insurable interest, and hence the insurance contract was void under Section 30 and Section 23.)  AIR 1966 All 474 (477).

(2) Section 30 is applicable to insurance policies. AIR 1966 All 474 (477).

13. Nazarana transactions.— (1) The Nazarana or Gali transactions are by themselves not necessarily wagering transactions. They are similar to the Teji-mandi contracts. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 138 (140, 141) (DB).

(2) What are known as nazarana contracts in the Punjab are not necessarily wagering contracts. AIR 1932 Lah 356 (358) = 13 Lah 766 (DB).

(3) The party who pleads that Gali and Nazarana transactions are wagering in nature has to prove this fact. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 194 (198) (DB).

14. Other illustrative cases.— (1) Where under a contract for purchase of rubber coupons the buyer was entitled to delivery of coupons purchased and formal tender of coupons purchased was in fact made to him: Held that the contract was not a wagering contract. AIR 1946 PC 63 (64).

(2) K owed money to N in respect of betting transaction. N demanded the money and on K's refusal threatened to post him under Rangoon Turf Act. K then gave N a cheque post-dated and requested him not to present it and promised to make the payment on a certain date. N did not post K as he could have done. Held that there had been good consideration for the passing of the cheque in the fact that N refrained from posting K and that there was nothing in Section 30 which made a promise based on such consideration illegal. AIR 1929 Rang 241 (242) = 7 Rang 263  AIR 1923 Cal 445 (448, 449). (Where consideration for hundis was that plaintiff would not report the defendant as defaulter to the Turf Club, the consideration was held to be legal.)

(3) The sale of a growing crop for cash is not gaming or wagering. AIR 1923 Nag 291 (292) = 19 Nag LR 21.

(4) The tenant of a field agreed to allow another to pick the cotton crop of that field in exchange for a promise to deliver $2\frac{3}{4}$ khandis of cotton at the time of picking. Held, that this was not wagering contract. AIR 1923 Nag 291 (291) = 19 Nag LR 21.

(5) Contract to deliver certain documents to a party to a suit for a certain amount if the suit were compromised, but if the party won the suit, four-times the amount was agreed to be paid. Held, the transaction was not a wager but only a contingent contract and was enforceable. AIR 1935 Mad 135 (137).

(6) Where under a contract for purchase of rubber coupons the buyer was entitled to delivery of coupons purchased and formal tender of coupons purchased was in fact offered to him. Held that the contract was not a wagering contract. AIR 1946 PC 63 (64). (Case from Ceylon.)

(7) Merchant buying goods in Japan and desirous of paying for them in Rupees and not in Yen, entered into contract with Bank — Contract taking form of purchase of Yen to be delivered during specified period at fixed rate — Bank covering itself by Yens purchased against Yens sold. It was held that transactions were genuine and not wagering contracts. AIR 1936 Rang 269 (271) (DB).

(8) Where two wrestlers agreed to play match on condition that party not appearing was to forfeit a certain sum and that winner was to receive certain amount out of gate money, the contract held was not wagering one. AIR 1931 Bom 264 (265) (DB).

(1) When the transactions are made through brokers who are mostly interested in earning their commission and are not concerned with the ultimate result the element of wager is absent. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 194 (199) (DB).

(2) In transactions entered through brokers according to usage of particular market, there is a strong presumption against intention to wager which can be rebutted by evidence of common intention to wager. AIR 1932 Lah 273 (274) (DB).

(10) If commission and losses are agreed to be paid to broker, presumably the transaction is not a wagering one. AIR 1920 Sind 29 (30) = 14 Sind LR 227 (DB).

(11) Where broker acts on behalf of his customer and the customer gambles, the customer cannot set up a plea of gaming and wagering against the broker's claim. AIR 1941 Cal 125 (127) = ILR (1940) 2 Cal 385  (1963) 65 Pun LR 1054.

(17) Where the documents show an ordinary commercial transaction, and in conformity with them one of the parties incurs personal obligations on a genuine transaction with third parties so that he himself is not a winner or loser by the alteration of price, but can only benefit by his commission, the inference of betting is irresistibly destroyed. In such cases, the fact that no delivery is required or tendered is of practically no value. Ordinary speculation conducted on the stock exchange through a broker who makes himself by the rules personally liable to the other members of the stock exchange for the performance of the contract cannot be a bet. AIR 1942 PC 19 (21).

20. Pakka adatiya transactions. — (1) Pakki Adat dealings are legitimate modes of conducting commercial business in Bombay market. (2) Adatia does not make contracts with third parties as agent but as principal, the constituents having no right to be brought into contract with third parties. Thus in a suit against his constituents for recovery of losses incurred by pakka adatia — on contracts entered by him with third parties for his constituents — in order to win, the defendants must prove that there was an understanding between them and the plaintiff, (i) that they were not only speculating but gambling, (ii) that there was no intention of effecting any delivery of goods, (iii) that if the plaintiff incurred losses he would be indemnified, (iv) that differences would be received and paid. AIR 1921 Bom 238 (243) = 45 Bom 386 (DB).

(3) Pakka adatia contracts as principal, his constituent having no right to be brought into contract with third parties, while broker contracts agent for client who himself is personally responsible to person with whom broker contracts. AIR 1921 Bom 238 (242) = 45 Bom 386 (DB).

(4) In the case of 'Pakka arhat' transaction the real question is to ascertain what, as between the parties, was the real intention when they entered into the contract. AIR 1954 All 789 (795) (DB).

(5) The contract of Pakka Adatia may, like any other contract, be shown to be

(7) Wagering contracts between pakka adatia and his constituents are not valid if pakka adatia has entered into other contracts to shield first contract. AIR 1920 Bom 88 (89) (DB).

(8) Where the correspondence between the parties showed that the plaintiff who was pakka adatia knew that defendant was gambling and not merely speculating and where he assisted the defendant in carrying on the wagers and delivery was never intended to be given or called for and where even the constituents of plaintiff knew that the transactions were to be closed either before or at the 'vaida' by payment of differences only, the transactions were held to come within the purview of S. 30. AIR 1921 Bom 238 (243) = 45 Bom 386 (DB).

(9) Pakka adatia incurring personal obligations on the transactions with third parties — He himself not a winner or loser by the alteration in price but getting only the benefit of commission — Though delivery has not been actually taken or given and the transaction had been squared up by adjustment of claims that fact will not vitiate the transactions. AIR 1954 Sau 99 (102, 103) (DB).

(10) If the contract between pakka adatias and their constituents is a contract of employment it is not wagering contract and the pakka adatia must win unless constituent brings contract within the provisions of Bombay Act, III of 1865. AIR 1921 Bom 238 (239) = 45 Bom 386 (DB).

(14) Mere use of words "pakka Adat" is not enough to attract incidents of Pakka Adat business so as to found plea of wager. AIR 1960 Raj 296 (300) = ILR (1960) 10 Raj 412.

(1) Person contracting to buy shares if appointed sole agent of company — Contract is contingent. AIR 1925 All 658 (661, 662).

(3) Guardian of minor entering into agreement to sell land for fixed price contingent upon leave of Court — Court sanctioning sale but at higher price — Held, contract was never completed contract at any time as it was contingent upon Court's permission which did not extend to whole contract as agreed. (1886) 12 Cal 152 (155) (DB).

(4) A contract of insurance is a contingent contract within the meaning of Section 31 of the Contract Act. AIR 1957 SC 669 (673, 676) = 1957 SCR 1002.

(5) Life insurance in a broader sense comprises any contract in which one party agrees to pay a given sum upon the happening of a particular event contingent upon the duration of human life in consideration of the immediate payment of a smaller sum or certain equivalent periodical payments by another party. AIR 1967 SC 816 (818) = (1967) 1 SCR 921.

(6) Where under a compromise decree the plaintiff agreed to recover by suit a certain property transferred by him pendente lite and relinquish it to the defendant it was held that the defendant under these terms got only contingent and not a vested right in the property and therefore, no claim at all to the property when the plaintiff's suit for recovery failed. AIR 1954 Hyd 185 (189, 190) = ILR (1954) Hyd 250.

(7) Where an agreement provided that the agent appearing in the case in the Supreme Court would be paid the taxed costs if the case was successful it was held that the obligation which was contingent would ripen into an absolute obligation in the event of the success of the case. AIR 1954 SC 26 (28). (Such an agreement is not a champertous one where the client is bound in the alternative to pay the out-of-pocket expenses of the agent and a fixed remuneration in any case.)

(8) An agreement to sell a property within a specified time coupled with a separate oral agreement to the effect that the former agreement is subject to the condition that the vendor is able to persuade the lessee to surrender possession within the specified time constitutes a contingent contract and hence if the vendor fails to secure the agreement of the lessee the contract fails to create any obligation. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 10 (19, 24) (Such oral agreement is capable of being proved under Section 92, third proviso.)

(9) A wrote a letter to B as security for the repayment of a loan of Rs. 1½ lakhs advanced to him. The letter ran as follows "in consideration of your having at my request acceded to the proposal to advance Rs. 1½ lakhs, I hereby bind myself to procure a loan, within two weeks, of Rs. 11 lakhs on the first mortgage of the Mill property and to pay to you thereout the said sum of Rs. 1½ lakhs agreed to be advanced by you". B sued A for breach of contract contained in the letter. Held, that the contract was not a contingent contract but it amounted to a substantial undertaking by A that a loan of Rs. 11 lakhs should be procured and that out of the loan Rs. 1½ lakhs would be repaid to B. (1912) 36 Bom 387 (395) = 39 Ind App 152 (PC).

(10) Where a contract provides that the goods are to be delivered when they arrive, the word "when" cannot be read as "if" and the contract was not a contingent contract but an absolute one, the obligation undertaken by the seller not being conditioned by or contingent upon the arrival of the goods in India. (b) A makes a contract with B to sell a horse to B at a specified price, if C to whom the horse has been offered, refuses to buy him. The contract cannot be enforced by law unless and until C refuses to buy the horse.

(c) A contracts to pay B a sum of money when B marries C. C dies without being married to B. The contract becomes void.

goods have been purchased by me as for January delivery and will be shipped to your friends 'as soon as delivered to us.' it was held that the obligation was not conditional but also absolute, and the mode of performance consisted of the fact that delivery could be given as soon as the goods were delivered to the seller, and that partial shipments could be made. AIR 1956 Bom 151 (153, 155).

(12) Where a stipulation in a sale-deed in respect of certain property in the Punjab provided that the amount of Rs. 25,000 which remained payable out of consideration money would be paid by the vendee to the vendor 'as soon as possible but at a time when the former is in a position to make the payment' the true import of the stipulation was that the balance consideration would be payable within a reasonable time by virtue of S. 46. The agreement to pay Rs. 25,000 could not be regarded as contingent contract within the meaning of S. 31. AIR 1964 Punj 123 (125, 127) = ILR (1964) 1 Punj 143 (DB).

(13) A term in the lease that the lessee could not transfer his interest without the previous consent of the landlord would cease to operate against the lessee when there is a further condition that the landlord cannot withhold his consent unreasonably and that condition has not been complied with by the landlord. (1949) 53 Cal WN 329 (334) (DB).

(13-A) Where by a statute property is not transferable without the permission of the authority, an agreement to transfer the property must be deemed subject to the implied condition that the transferor will obtain the sanction of the authority concerned. AIR 1970 SC 546 (547) = (1970) 1 SC WR 175. (AIR 1930 PC 287 and AIR 1964 SC 978, Rel. on.)

(14) Where a contract for sale of leasehold in khas mahal contained a provision that application for sanction for transfer should be presented to authorities in due course it was held that such a contract was as between the lessor and lessee not a contingent contract but a concluded one and the alienation was valid until terminated by the Collector who alone had the option to terminate the lease and eject the lessee. AIR 1951 Orissa 291 (294) = ILR (1949) 1 Cut 593 (DB).

(15) The conditional transfer of a business with the police permit necessary for carrying on the same becomes an unconditional and irrevocable transfer when the police permission stipulated for is given. Even if the police subsequently refuse to alter or reissue the permit in the name of the transferee unless and until another distinct condition relating to the issue of permits is complied with, the completed contract of transfer would in no way be affected. AIR 1949 PC 118 (120).

(16) A clause in a contract, which, instead of providing for contingencies subject to which alone it could be enforced, confers an absolute and arbitrary power on one of the parties to say that it is unenforceable is void. AIR 1957 Mad 82 (85) = ILR (1957) Mad 315 (DB).

(17) A licensee may take the risk of putting a huge sum as a license fee with the Government on the assumption that certain quantity of liquor will be regularly supplied to him and on that basis he is likely to make huge profit; but the license fee even if calculated on the basis of certain estimated supply and even though payable monthly, cannot be said to be the price of the liquor supplied to him. It cannot be said that the contract is a contingent one inasmuch as the payment of fee depended on the continuance of supply. AIR 1959 Assam 75 (91).

(18) Agreement for sale of evacuee property on condition that execution of sale deed to take place after obtaining certificate from Custodian under Section 40 of Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950) is a contingent contract. AIR 1970 Guj 12 (23) = 1970 Cri LJ 32 (DB).

Section 32 — Note 1

(1) There is a clear difference between a contract under which a present obligation is created but the performance is postponed to a future date and a contract under which there is no present obligation at all and the obligation arises by reason of some condition being complied with or some contingency occurring. A promise by a person to buy certain shares himself in the event of his not being able to sell those shares on behalf of its owner within a stipulated time creates no present obligation to buy the shares but only an obligation contingent upon the failure to sell the shares within the stipulated time and therefore falls under the second category of contracts. AIR 1956 Bom 74 (75) = ILR (1955) Bom 1083.

[See also AIR 1952 Kutch 27 (29). (Agreement creating absolute and unconditional obligation to pay debt — Clause stating that payment was to be made from specified source which would become available on accounts being made merely indicated mode of performance — Non-making of accounts and hence non-availability of source cannot render suit for enforcing the absolute liability untenable.)]

(2) The law allows the enforcement of a contingent contract after the event upon which it was contingent has happened. (1932) 33 Pun LR 207 (208) (DB).

(3) A conditional obligation is a quasi-obligation consisting in the chance or possibility that a real obligation may already exist or may come into existence in the future. The fulfilment of the condition is the transformation of that potentiality into actuality. Conversely the failure of the condition is the failure of that chance to become a fact. AIR 1956 Bom 74 (76) = ILR (1955) Bom 1083.

(4) Where the execution of a further contract is a condition or a term of the bargain, there cannot be an enforceable contract unless the condition or the term is fulfilled. AIR 1942 Pesh 33 (34, 35) (DB).

(5) Co-sharer in undivided land contracting with person to sell certain land adjoining person's land — Co-sharer promising in sale-deed to get specified land measured out and to hand it over to purchaser — Purchaser's suit for specific performance on failure of promise — Contract held depended on contingency not yet happening, hence suit premature — Contract held within Section 32 — Hence purchaser not entitled to compensation. AIR 1936 Sind 26 (28) (DB).

(6) Clause in agreement that in event of vendor not being in possession of goods, contract to be deemed to have been cancelled does not render the contract void. AIR 1964 Punj 230 (231).

(7) Ante-nuptial agreement to give land in consideration of marriage is contingent contract and becomes enforceable on marriage. AIR 1928 Rang 286 (287).

(8) Where the buyer agreeing to buy goods as might be ready for delivery or as might arrive and be deliverable, the use of the words "as might arrive" rendered the performance of the contract conditional upon the arrival of the goods. Hence if the goods do not arrive the seller would be absolved from delivering the goods. AIR 1949 Cal 407 (413) = ILR (1945) 1 Cal 391.

(9) Sale of property in Punjab — Stipulation in sale deed that balance of consideration would be paid "as soon as possible but when vendee would be in position to make payment" cannot be regarded as contingent contract. AIR 1964 Punj 123 (126) = ILR (1964) 1 Punj 143 (DB).

(10) Merely because a contract is "for forward delivering" of goods ordered from a foreign country it cannot be said that the performance of it will depend upon the arrival of the goods at the port in India. Hence even if the goods have not been shipped from the foreign country the seller cannot avoid the consequences of his failure to supply according to the terms of his contract by raising a plea of impossibility of performance. AIR 1948 PC 217 (220).

(11) The question whether the obligation of the seller to perform under an F. O. R. contract for sale of goods is absolute or contingent upon the availability of wagons must be decided upon the facts of each case. Where at the time of entering into the contract itself the happening of the contingency of the non-availability of wagons must have been present to the minds of the parties and yet they have not expressly provided for such contingency the Court should not imply any such condition into the contract. AIR 1949 Cal 472 (473, 474).

(12) Where a contract to supply certain bales of cloth within a stipulated time contained a statement that the supply of goods under the contract would go on as soon as the bales were delivered by the mill to the seller it was held that the statement was intended only to indicate a mode of delivery and not a condition on which the delivery to the buyer was made contingent. Hence the seller cannot escape the consequences of his failure to supply the goods according to his contract by pleading that the mill had failed to deliver the bales in sufficient time. AIR 1952 SC 9 (11) = 1952 SCR 36.

(13) Although the law would not permit implying into a written contract or grant a condition which would alter or modify the written terms of the contract or grant there is nothing in it to prohibit implying a condition that the contract or the grant would cease to operate if a pending litigation goes a particular way. In such a case the contract or the grant is not left to operate subject to any modification or alteration introduced by the condition but the whole contract or grant is struck down as a result of the happening of the event contemplated. AIR 1957 SC 489 (493) = 1957 SCR 663.

(14) Law of frustration has been incorporated in Sections 32 and 56 of Contract Act and Courts cannot go beyond them on analogy of principles of English Common Law or otherwise. AIR 1963 Punj 49 (63) = 1962 Cur LJ 196 (FB). (Overruled on another point in AIR 1968 SC 1024.)

(15) Where the contract itself, as a matter of construction, contains impliedly or expressly a term according to which it would stand discharged on the happening of certain circumstances the question of dissolution of the contract according to its terms falls to be determined under Sec. 32 or other similar provisions and not under Section 56. AIR 1954 SC 44 (48) = 1954 SCR 310  AIR 1968 SC 522 (527) = (1968) 1 SCR 821  AIR 1959 Assam 75 (95) (DB). (Held on facts that contract was not contingent.)

(16) If the performance of contract is rendered unlawful either for determinate or indeterminate period of time, the contract would not stand discharged unless the ban on its performance existed on the day or during the time in which it has to be performed. AIR 1965 SC 1523 (1526) = (1965) 2 SCR 630  AIR 1959 Cal 576 (579) = 63 Cal WN 549 (DB).

(17) The doctrine of discharge by frustration cannot be available where the contract makes full and complete provision, so intended, for a given contingency. The reason is that where there is an express term the Court cannot find, on construction of the contract, an implied term inconsistent with such express term. AIR 1968 SC 522 (528) = (1968) 1 SCR 821.

(18) A party suing to enforce an obligation which is conditioned upon the occurrence of an event has to establish that the event had occurred in the manner contemplated by the contract for the obligation to arise. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 297 (299) = 1958 Jab LJ 235. (Insurance against loss during transit — Goods not put in transit at all — No obligation to pay value of goods can attach to the Insurance Company.)

(19) A plea that contract is a contingent contract has to be alleged and proved by the party who sets it up and it is futile to argue that it is bounden duty of the trial Court to go into a matter like this suo motu. AIR 1965 Raj 132 (138) = 1964 Raj LW 428.

Contract void if future event becomes impossible:

(20) Contingent contract depending upon future event is void if the event becomes impossible. AIR 1915 Nag 15 (16) = 12 Nag LR 69.

(21) So far as India is concerned the law relating to avoidance of contract on the ground of impossibility is embodied in Sections 32 and 56 and the doctrine of frustration will be of no avail to a party in default when neither of the sections is applicable to his case. AIR 1952 SC 9 (11) = 1952 SCR 36  AIR 1957 All 143 (146, 151) (DB).

(22) Where by an agreement or compromise a party undertook to pay a certain sum of money to another and created a charge for the debt on an estate in his possession as a mode of discharging the liability and there was nothing in the transaction to show that the obligation was conditioned on the continued existence of the estate it was held that the acquisition of the estate by the Government under the Zamindari Abolition Act did not in any way render the agreement impossible of performance. 1955-2 Mad L Jour 339 (355) (DB).

(23) Pleader retained by plaintiff to appear in certain suit — Plaintiff paying fees in advance — One S agreeing to pay further fees if plaintiff obtained decree — Suit compromised without pleader's advice and in his absence — Held that case was of contingent contract within Section 32 and event having become impossible contract was void. (1879) 1879 Pun Re No. 155, p. 440 (441) (DB).

(24) Where the forward contracts in respect of cotton were not void ab initio but become void and unenforceable due to prohibition of law (Cotton Control Order, 1945), there is no bar to its enforcement when the inhibition is lifted by the repeal of that law. AIR 1961 Raj 52 (59) = ILR (1960) 10 Raj 1304 (DB).

(25) An agreement to sell land held on restricted tenure the performance of which is contingent on sanction of revenue authorities being obtained under Section 73-A of the Bombay Land Revenue Code, cannot, on refusal of such sanction, be enforced specifically or an action for damages maintained for breach thereof. AIR 1928 Sind 63 (65, 66) = 22 Sind LR 396.

(26) Where the possibility of completing a contract is dependent on the will of a third person, a defendant who has entered into the contract to the performance of which such consent is necessary will not, if such consent cannot be procured, be decreed to obtain it and thus

33. Enforcement of contracts contingent on an event not happening.—Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if an uncertain future event does not happen can be enforced when the happening of that event becomes impossible, and not before.

Illustration

A agrees to pay B a sum of money if a certain ship does not return. The ship is sunk. The contract can be enforced when the ship sinks.

34. When event on which contract is contingent to be deemed impossible, if it is the future conduct of a living person.—If the future event on which a contract is contingent is the way in which a person will act at an unspecified time, the event shall be considered to become impossible when such person does anything which renders it impossible that he should so act within any definite time, or otherwise than under further contingencies.

A agrees to pay B a sum of money if B marries C. C marries D. The marriage of B to C must now be considered impossible, although it is possible that D may die and that C may afterwards marry B.

perform an impossibility. AIR 1915 Nag 15 (17) = 12 Nag LR 69.

(27) An agreement entered into by the parties on the clear understanding that some other party should also become a party to the contract cannot become a perfect agreement until and unless the third party joins the agreement. AIR 1949 FC 211 (217) = 1949 FCR 379. (It is necessary in such cases that there should be a clear understanding between the parties as to the condition. It is not sufficient to say that the parties acted in the 'faith' that the third party would join the agreement.)

(28) Where the parties to a contract for the sale of a property within a specified time stipulated by an oral agreement that the performance of the contract by the vendor will abide by the result of his efforts to persuade the lessee in possession to surrender the property within the specified time it was held that the vendor's failure to obtain possession from his lessee within the time made the contingent contract for sale fall through. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 10 (19, 24) (DB). (The oral agreement itself could be proved under the 3rd proviso to Section 92, Evidence Act as it was only a condition precedent on the happening of which alone the contract could be enforced and not one in defeasance of the contract.)

(29) Contract to purchase shares on being made sole agent of Company — Company going into liquidation before appointing purchaser as sole agent — Latter is not liable as a contributory. AIR 1925 All 658 (661, 662).

(30) Where a contract stated that certain conditions therein would be void if there should be any fluctuation in the rates issued by a certain syndicate: Held, that the non-issue of the rates by the syndicate due to its ceasing to exist did not bring into operation the condition rendering the contract void. AIR 1921 PC 46 (47).

(31) Agreement for sale of evacuee property on condition that execution of sale deed to take place after obtaining certificate from Custodian under Section 40 of Administration of Evacuee Property Act (1950) — Held, since condition of obtaining certificate became unnecessary in view of property being restored free from any such restrictions under Section 16 (1) of Act of 1950, contract did not depend upon condition which could not be enforced by law or which had become impossible of performance so as to render it void. AIR 1970 Guj 12 (23) = 1970 Cri LJ 32 (DB).

(1) Acceptance by telegram with condition that it would be confirmed by post if mistake found in telegram — Condition is, what is known as condition subsequent — Contract is complete subject to the "uncertain future event" which is possible discovery of telegraphic mistake. AIR 1922 All 219 (221, 222) = 44 All 472 (DB).

Section 35 — Note 1

(1) In contracts under Section 35 the specified event as a rule is independent of will of either party. There is no question of breach of any agreement. AIR 1923 Rang 26 (26) = 4 Upp Bur Rul 99.

(2) Where in surety bond surety undertook to get judgment-debtor to deposit decree amount before certain date or to pay amount himself in case of default, and judgment-debtor died before thing if a specified uncertain event happens within a fixed time become void if, at the expiration of the time fixed, such event has not happened, or if, before the time fixed, such event becomes impossible.

When contracts may be enforced which are contingent on specified event not happening within fixed time.—Contingent contracts to do or not to do anything if a specified uncertain event does not happen within a fixed time may be enforced by law when the time fixed has expired and such event has not happened or, before the time fixed has expired, if it becomes certain that such event will not happen.

(b) A promises to pay B a sum of money if a certain ship does not return within a year. The contract may be enforced if the ship does not return within the year, or is burnt within the year.

36. Agreement contingent on impossible events void.—Contingent agreements to do or not to do anything, if an impossible event happens, are void, whether the impossibility of the event is known or not to the parties to the agreement at the time when it is made.

(a) A agrees to pay B 1,000 rupees if two straight lines should enclose a space. The agreement is void.

specified date: Held, that Section 35 (2) applied to case and not para. (1). Specified uncertain event was the payment of the decretal debt by the judgment-debtor and as that event did not happen before the specified event, the contingent contract became enforceable. (1910) 8 Ind Cas 985 (986) (Low Bur).

(3) Sale contingent on not repaying amount within certain time is contingent contract and becomes void if payment is made within that time. AIR 1926 Bom 107 (107, 110) (DB).

(4) Where in a contract for purchase of plot of land containing a term 'subject to purchaser's lawyer's approval of title there is no reference to the time within which the lawyer's approval had to be obtained, it is fair to both sides to assume that the intention was that the approval should be obtained within a reasonable time. It has been held that even where a particular time is fixed for the completion of a contract of sale of land, the Courts of equity may ignore the time and give relief where justice requires it. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 256 (262).

(1) Section 37 of the Indian Contract Act, covers also cases of partial performance. AIR 1946 Nag 336 (339) = ILR (1946) Nag 334.

(2) A concluded and completed contract, though it is deficient in some requirement as to form, will bind the parties in equity when they have acted upon it and some material terms of it have been performed. AIR 1934 Cal 235 (238) = 60 Cal 1372 (DB)  ILR (1969) 2 Ker 95 (111, 112) = 1969 Ker LT 587. (Party cannot avoid contract retaining benefit under it — Contract must be avoided as a whole.)

(3) It is not obligatory under Sec. 37 to make a decree according to the terms of the contract and on no other terms. AIR 1939 Pat 55 (60) = 18 Pat 13 (FB).

(4) The tenant of a house, who, under the rent deed executed by him, deposited a certain sum as rent in advance for the last month of the tenancy and also agreed to pay the rent of the other months by a specified date in each month, cannot without paying the rent of any such previous month in the agreed manner and by merely unilateral-

(5) A party to an agreement who has failed to perform his part of the agreement is not entitled to the performance under the agreement by the other party. AIR 1924 Oudh 425 (426) = 27 Oudh Cas 60. (Usufructuary mortgagee not paying off creditors of mortgagor as agreed cannot require mortgagor to give him possession.)

[See also AIR 1933 Pat 579 (581). (Suit for rejection — Defendant in default of agreement — He cannot rely on the agreement which was for granting him permanent lease against ejectment).]

(6) Contract to institute a suit to prevent waste of properties due to a reversioner — Suit filed — Contract not unconscionable or champertous — Premature termination of suit does not disentitle the party who has filed the suit from claiming benefits under the contract. ILR (1960) 2 Cal 538 (DB).

(6-A) Agreement permitting defendant reimbursement of 130 paraahs of paddy for payment of Rs. 50 as revenue — Price of paddy increasing seven-fold — Agreement becomes unconscionable and extortionate — Plaintiff can be relieved from it. 1967 Ker LT 607 = 1967 Ker LJ 882.

(7) The parties are bound by the terms of the agreement and when there is nothing in the contract which provides for a contingency in the party cannot claim extra consideration on the ground that because of the contingency he had to expend more money. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 216 (221) = (1963) 1 Andh WR 31 (DB).

(8) Where two parties to a contract settle accounts and release each other from mutual obligations, the point of time at which such settlement and release take place would be the time at which the contract terminates. AIR 1960 Mys 150 (153) = 37 Mys LJ 135 (DB).

Waiver.

(9) Where before goods were delivered under a contract to sell which can be said to contain only an assurance that the goods supplied would be of marketable quality the buyer wrote to the seller intimating his determination to refuse acceptance of the delivery if a guarantee that the goods contained in the package were according to sample shown was not forthcoming, it was held that he had thereby excused performance of the promise made to him by the seller. AIR 1950 Orissa 42 (46) = ILR (1949) 1 Cut 453 (DB).

(10) Where a vendee, who had leased back the property for a specified number of years, stipulated by a separate agreement to reconvey the property if the vendor paid the annual rent on the stipulated dates each year regularly but subsequently accepted the belated payments on the clear understanding that the agreement to reconvey had however become inoperative owing to the default of the vendor it was held that there was no waiver on his part of the default by his acceptance of belated rent. AIR 1946 Mad 47 (48) = ILR (1946) Mad 470 (DB). (Vendor held not entitled in the circumstances to specific performance of the agreement to reconvey.)

(11) A new promise made by the obligor and accepted by the obligee in lieu of the promise contained in the original contract between them discharges the obligor from his liability to perform the promise under the original contract. AIR 1951 Pat 621 (623) = 30 Pat 703 (DB).

"Other law" excusing performance.

(12) As S. 37 of the Contract Act itself sanctions and recognises the existence of laws which might dispense with or excuse the performance of an act which is binding or valid under the Contract Act it cannot be postulated that the U. P. Agricultural Tenants (Acquisition of Privileges) Act, 10 of 1949, which is one such law, could fail on the ground of it being in conflict with or repugnant to the Contract Act which is an earlier Central law. AIR 1957 All 644 (646).

(13) Any law which dispenses with or excuses performance under an agreement relating to tenancy of premises will also be treated as supplementary to the T. P. Act and the parties to the agreement can take advantage of that law. Such a law cannot, in view of the provisions of Section 37 of the Contract Act which envisages interference with agreements by validly made law, be struck down on the ground of repugnancy with the provisions of T. P. Act. AIR 1954 Raj 252 (256) = ILR (1954) 4 Raj 958. (Sections 6 and 8 of the Rajasthan Premises (Control of Rent and Eviction) Act, 17 of 1950 which empower Courts to scale down agreed rent are not invalid as the Act must be treated as supplementary to the T. P. Act.)

(14) Section 13 of the Rajasthan Premises (Control of Rent and Eviction) Act 17 of 1950 must be deemed to be "any other law" excusing the performance of the terms of the contract of tenancy relating to ejection. (1955) ILR (1955) 5 Raj 575 (580). (Hence Rajasthan Act cannot be struck down as being inconsistent with the provisions of the Contract Act.)

(15) The Hindu law rule of "damdupat" is "other law" within the meaning of Section 37 and that section therefore does not affect the operation of the rule of damdupat. AIR 1946 Nag 210 (212) = ILR (1946) Nag 407 (DB).

Legal representatives.

(16) Legal representatives have right to require specific performance or are bound by promise to perform contract in absence of contrary intention. AIR 1926 Bom 97 (100) = 49 Bom 862 (DB)  AIR 1967 SC 744 (746, 747) = (1967) 1 SCR 293.

(17) Under Section 37 promises bind representatives of promisors before performance. Hence registered contract of lease by Hindu father would bind his son, especially if he has possession of property, subject of lease, during the period for which rent is claimed. 1902 Pun Re (Rev) No. 4, p. 7 (8).

(18) A contract for pre-emption can be enforced against the representatives of the parties to the contract and also against a person who has taken the property affected by the contract with notice of the contract. AIR 1924 All 657 (658) = 46 All 514 (DB)  AIR 1967 SC 744 (746) = (1967) 1 SCR 293  AIR 1961 Cal 152 (154) = (1961) 64 Cal WN 416 (DB).

(19) Partition between two brothers — Agreement that if share of one is sold, the other would be entitled to buy for certain price is enforceable against sons of parties. Section 14, Transfer of Property Act, does not invalidate agreement. AIR 1944 Nag 187 (187, 188) = ILR (1945) Nag 174.

(19-A) A universal legatee is the legal representative of the deceased testator and is liable for the debts of the testator to the extent of property of the testator in his hands. AIR 1936 Oudh 7 (9) = 12 Luck 1 (DB).

(20) Covenant for good title cannot be enforced against persons who are in possession of part of property of deceased vendor as legatees from universal legatee of vendor. AIR 1961 Andh Pra 29 (31) = (1960) 1 Andh WR 282.

(21) Where certain co-sharers agree to divide profits in particular manner, the agreement is binding on their heirs until it is terminated. AIR 1934 All 139 (141) (DB).

(22) Vendee undertaking to pay off mortgage — On default sale of mortgaged property effected — Mortgagee becoming owner after final foreclosure decree — There is breach of contract and after vendee's death sons are liable. AIR 1928 Oudh 148 (151) (DB).

(23) Section 37 applies to an agreement to pay a certain sum of money to a near relation out of natural love and affection as it is a contract under Section 25. Hence, it would in the absence of any contrary intention appearing from it bind the legal representatives of the promisor also. AIR 1952 All 564 (576) = ILR (1952) 2 All 421 (DB).

(24) Where the contract is one which has relation to the personal conduct of both the contracting parties, the death of either of them puts an end to the contract. AIR 1954 Orissa 241 (243) (DB). (Contract of personal service.)

(25) Personal contract by manager of joint Hindu family — Other members are not his representatives and cannot enforce it after his death. AIR 1923 Pat 589 (589, 590) (DB).

(26) Lease for building and residential purposes does not fall within the class of personal contracts contemplated by Section 37. Upon death of lessee tenancy is not determined, but vests in his legal personal representatives who are entitled to give or receive the usual notice to quit. (1910) 37 Cal 377 (381) (DB).

Assignees.

(27) In contracts, except where they depend on personal factors of the contracting parties or the like, assignability is the rule and the contrary is exception. AIR 1961 Cal 152 (153) = (1961) 64 Cal WN 416.

38. Effect of refusal to accept offer of performance.—Where a promisor has made an offer of performance to the promisee, and the offer has not been accepted, the promisor is not responsible for non-performance, nor does he thereby lose his rights under the contract.

Every such offer must fulfil the following conditions:—

- (1) it must be unconditional;
- (2) it must be made at a proper time and place, and under such circumstances that the person to whom it is made may have a reasonable opportunity of ascertaining that the person by whom it is made is able and willing there and then to do the whole of what he is bound by his promise to do;
- (3) if the offer is an offer to deliver anything to the promisee, the promisee must have a reasonable opportunity of seeing that the thing offered is the thing which the promisor is bound by his promise to deliver.

An offer to one of several joint promisees has the same legal consequences as an offer to all of them.

A contracts to deliver to B at his warehouse, on the 1st March 1873, 100 bales of cotton of a particular quality. In order to make an offer of a performance with the effect stated in this section, A must bring the cotton to B's warehouse, on the appointed day, under such circumstances that B may have a reasonable opportunity of satisfying himself that the thing offered is cotton of the quality contracted for, and that there are 100 bales.

(28) As a rule obligations under a contract cannot be assigned except with the consent of the promisee, and when such consent is given, it is really a novation resulting in substitution of liabilities. On the other hand, rights, under a contract are assignable unless the contract is personal in its nature or the rights are incapable of assignment either under the law or under an agreement between the parties. AIR 1962 SC 1810 (1817) = (1963) 3 SCR 183. (AIR 1960 Cal 86, Reversed.)

(29) Assignment contract — Parties may agree that one of them should drop out and third person assume benefit and liabilities of contract — Third party's consent need not be express. AIR 1940 Cal 466 (469) = ILR (1940) 2 Cal 53.

(30) Only privy to a contract has a right to sue for breach of the contract. The benefits of a contract are assignable but the assignee of the benefits does not get a right to sue the other contracting party for breach of the contract itself except in the case of a person who is claiming through a party to the contract by operation of law. AIR 1966 Guj 6 (13) = (1964) 5 Guj LR 879 (DB). (The proposition that the transferee of a benefit under the railway receipt will have a right to sue the railway administration cannot be accepted absolutely. (AIR 1957 Nag 31, Dissented from.))

(31) Where there is an assignment of the rights of a mortgagee under the mortgage and the assignment deed contains a stipulation to indemnify the assignee in case of dispute, the stipulation for indemnity can be enforced by the transferee from assignee under Sec. 37 of the Indian Contract Act. AIR 1950 Kutch 84 (86).

(32) A person who wishes to obtain decree on the basis of assignment must allege and prove a valid assignment in order to show that he has a cause of action. AIR 1958 Punj 52 (53) = ILR (1957) Punj 1555. (There is valid assignment where it is supported by consideration, and is not contrary to law or public policy or tainted by fraud or illegality and is also not a champertous agreement.)

(33) An arbitration clause does not take away the right of a party to a contract to assign it if it is otherwise assignable. AIR 1962 SC 1810 (1818) = (1963) 3 SCR 183. (AIR 1960 Cal 86, Reversed.)  AIR 1962 Cal 441 (442) = ILR (1962) 2 Cal 371.

SECTION 38 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Tender.
3. Tender by cash.
4. Tender in part.
5. Tender must be unconditional.
6. "Able and willing."
7. Reasonable opportunity of inspection.
8. Tender to one of joint promisees.
9. Refusal or acceptance of offer.
10. Waiver of tender.

Section 38 (contd.)

1. Scope.— (1) Section 38 requires, in case of payment, a genuine and unconditional offer to pay unconditionally at a proper place, made by person in a position to pay. (1880) 5 Cal LR 105 (107).

(2) Section does not apply to a case of principal and agent. AIR 1923 Pat 464 (465) = 2 Pat 585 (DB).

(3) In construing Section 38, rule of English law as to tender should not be relied on. AIR 1939 Cal 131 (133) = ILR (1938) 2 Cal 337.

(4) Section 38, deals with consequences which flow from an offer of performance which has been refused, but does not deal with the legal consequences of the offer which has been accepted. The section is therefore not helpful in deciding the question whether payment to one of joint creditors is binding on the other creditors. AIR 1948 Nag 279 (282) = ILR (1947) Nag 553 (DB). (Opinion of White, C. J. in 36 Mad 544. Followed.)

2. Tender.— (1) If the amount due is validly tendered to the creditor by the debtor or by his agent, on the debt becoming payable, the creditor is bound to accept the money. AIR 1955 All 350 (351) (DB).

(2) According to the law of contract, the performance is said to be complete when there is a legal tender on the part of the promisee. It may sometimes happen that a person who is to perform a promise has been ready and willing to perform and has also offered to perform his promise at the proper time and proper place. In such a case, the contract is discharged. It is so discharged even in the case of a wrongful refusal to accept the performance. A valid tender satisfies all the requirements of performance. AIR 1958 Orissa 125 (130) (DB).

(3) A tender to be valid under Sec. 38, Contract Act, should be open, unconditional and should be made under circumstances giving the promisee opportunity to know that the tender is real and bona fide. A plea of tender need not be followed by deposit in Court. A tender as such is valid and complete as soon as the party who has entered into a contract to pay money to another tenders the same to the party to whom it is to be paid. AIR 1947 Pat 208 (212) = 25 Pat 451 (DB).

(4) There must be either an actual offer of the money by one party or a dispensation of such offer by the other. But the mode of payment is also determined by the previous conduct of the parties. AIR 1958 Orissa 125 (130) (DB).

(5) Where the course of conduct between the parties has evolved a different mode of payment than that contemplated by a statute, the obligor cannot be held to be defaulter if for no fault of his the obligee refuses to accept payment when payment is offered according to that mode. 1950 Trav-Co LR 434 (436) (DB).

(6) It cannot be laid down as a general rule that in order that it may be legal tender actual money must be produced under all circumstances. If the creditor by his conduct dispenses with the production of the money, he cannot afterwards object that there was no valid tender. AIR 1952 Raj 72 (73).

(7) A tender may be of a greater sum of money than the amount due. It is open to the creditor, in such case, to accept so much of it as is due and reject the rest. AIR 1949 Mad 535 (538) = ILR (1949) Mad 657 (DB).

(8) A valid tender on a contract of debt is as much a performance and discharge of a debtor's duty as an actual payment. AIR 1928 Cal 68 (79) = 55 Cal 624 (DB).

(9) A bona fide tender amounts to payment unless there is a suggestion that the applicant was not in a position to make the payment at the time when he filed the tender in Court. 1966 All LJ 1108.

(10) Offer of performance is not discharge of obligation. (1910) 20 Mad L Jour 709 (713) (DB).

(11) Where payee does not agree to accept payment to third party as equivalent to payment to himself there is no proper tender. AIR 1925 Lah 180 (181).

(12) A formal tender is unnecessary when its refusal is quite evident. AIR 1923 PC 26 (28) = 50 Ind App 41 = 46 Mad 108  1949 Bur LR (HC) 58 (61)  AIR 1962 SC 77 (78) = (1961) 3 SCR 579. (Sale with an agreement to repurchase — Offer of repurchase by vendor — Purchaser repudiating agreement to reconvey — Formal tender of price by vendor not necessary. — AIR 1955 Cal 101, Affirmed.)

(13) Where condition in contract that notice should be given of arrival of goods is not essential part of it, failure to give such notice or mistake in notice given, is not breach of contract entitling one party to avoid it — Nor can that notice by itself be deemed to be offer of performance within meaning of Sec. 38. Where on receipt of notice of arrival of goods, one party has to apply for delivery of goods but fails to do so, he commits breach and is liable in damages. AIR 1916 Mad 1066 (1067) (DB).

(14) Promisor, after he makes a tender is not responsible for non-performance and will not be required to pay interest from date of tender. (1910) 20 Mad L Jour 709 (713) (DB).

(15) It would make no difference in principle whether the contract itself fixed a particular date as the date for performance or whether it gave the option to one of the parties to fix the date for the performance. When once the option is exercised and a date is fixed it is as if the contract itself has fixed that date as the date for performance. AIR 1953 Mad 380 (387) = ILR (1953) Mad 488 (DB).

(16) Where, according to the Rent Controller's Order the arrears of rent have to be paid to the landlord on or before a particular date, a mere remittance of money order within the time limit would not be a proper tender. The tenant must prove that the amount was actually taken to the landlord and offered to him for payment within the time limit. 1954 Ker L Tim 599 (601).

(17) Where the vendor agrees to execute a conveyance, without specifically agreeing also to have the conveyance registered, even in such a case the agreement would not be fully performed until the vendor has done all that he is required to do to have the document duly registered. This is because an agreement to execute a conveyance necessarily implies an agreement to execute a valid conveyance. AIR 1960 Mad 33 (36) = (1959) 2 Mad LJ 324 (DB).

3. Tender by cash.— (1) The currency in any particular country must be determined by the law of that country and that law is naturally in terms limited to defining what is legal tender in that country. But when that is fixed by the local law, it determines what is the legal tender of that country for purposes of transactions in any other country, so that a foreign Court will, when such questions come before it, give effect to the proper law of legal tender so determined. AIR 1938 PC 26 (32).

(2) Agreement entered into in London — One party employed by the other in New Zealand on certain remuneration of £ 700 sterling. The word, "sterling" held, referred to English Currency and not to New Zealand one. AIR 1938 PC 136 (138).

(3) Where there is an obligation to pay a foreign unit of account, the form must be regulated by the municipal law of the country whose unit of account is in question and what would be a legal tender must depend upon the law in force at the time when the tender should have been made. AIR 1939 PC 74 (77).

(4) Mortgage in one country covenanting repayment of given number of notes of different country — Tender of equivalent of such notes in currency of former country according to market rate in such country held proper. AIR 1943 PC 69 (71).

(5) In the case of money claims, in order to stop the running of interest a tender before suit must be followed by payment into Court. AIR 1932 Mad 109 (111) = 55 Mad 458 (DB).

(6) The tender of a cheque for the amount due is not a valid tender, especially when the cheque tendered could not be accepted by reason of the defects therein. (1950) 28 Mys LJ 36 (61) (DB).

(7) Tender by cheque will be valid tender if the person to whom it is tendered is willing to receive payment by a cheque. AIR 1929 Mad 230 (232) = 52 Mad 322 (DB)  AIR 1950 Bom 166 (170) = ILR (1950) Bom 750 (DB).

(8) A payment by cheque to the Rent Controller to the credit of the landlord is not payment in current coins of the realm, till the cheque is actually cashed into current coins and the cash is put into the landlord's account. AIR 1951 Cal 459 (459).

(9) Debtor sending hawala to creditor to be presented to debtor's debtor and get payment — Creditor not presenting it due to his own laches — Debtor's debtor becoming insolvent — Debt can be deemed satisfied. AIR 1936 Rang 164 (165) (DB).

(10) Payment by voucher — Creditor accepting voucher and presenting it at treasury — Voucher not cashed due to mistake of creditor in endorsing it — Tender held valid. AIR 1938 All 15 (16) (DB).

(11) Valid tender of a debt can only be in the currency of the country which is recognised as legal tender. An insured cover cannot be treated as legal tender. The creditor is not bound to accept the insured cover merely because it is insured for a sum larger than the debt due. AIR 1955 All 350 (351) (DB).

4. Tender in part.— (1) Creditor is not bound to reduce costs of proceedings by accepting tender of part payment and thereby bringing suit within pecuniary jurisdiction of less costly tribunal. AIR 1939 Cal 131 (134) = ILR (1938) 2 Cal 337.

(2) Rule treating tender of part of debt as nullity applies only when tenderor admits that more is due than is tendered. (1892) 16 Bom 141 (150).

(3) Part payment is no valid tender — Its acceptance will not preclude a creditor from claiming the residue unless under a condition of tender, he accepted it in full discharge — If there are several distinct debts, the tenderer should make appropriation specific or it will not be good for any debt. AIR 1923 Cal 527 (530) (DB).

(4) Refusal of cheque on the ground that it was for less amount and not that it was not in cash is wrong — The tender is valid. AIR 1931 Bom 118 (120) = 55 Bom 525 (DB).

(5) Where tender made by the lessee is not for the full amount which was due and the name of the sender is not disclosed, the tender is invalid. AIR 1940 Nag 140 (141).

(6) Tender to be proper must be of whole amount due — This applies to mortgages also. AIR 1923 Oudh 241 (242) = 26 Oudh Cas 59 (DB).

(7) Tender of principal only where interest is expressly stipulated is not a proper tender. AIR 1916 Mad 1040 (1040).

(8) Mortgage deed providing for payment by yearly instalments and also delivery of possession — Mortgagee held could not refuse tender of the yearly instalment on the ground of the breach of the condition for delivery of possession. AIR 1923 PC 26 (28) = 50 Ind App 41 = 46 Mad 108.

(9) Where only for one consideration, a party to contract undertakes to do number of things which constitute only one contract, contract cannot be enforced piecemeal. AIR 1943 Nag 266 (269) = ILR (1943) Nag 643.

(10) Plaintiff, employee of defendant, claiming arrears of his remuneration Defendant stating that amount due was much less than claimed and sending cross-cheque for amount found due in full satisfaction of his claim — Plaintiff accepting cheque in part satisfaction and suing for balance — Held that if plaintiff was not willing to accept on terms proposed by defendant he should have returned cheque. 1948 Oudh WN 357 (358) (DB).

5. Tender must be unconditional.— (1) A tender to be effective must be unconditional and of the full amount due. AIR 1954 Mys 168 (169) = ILR (1954) Mys 423 (DB)  1968 MPLJ 451 = 1968 Jab LJ 556 (DB).

(2) Incomplete or conditional tender is not equivalent to payment. AIR 1922 PC 347 (349).

(3) Deposit in Court not good if made with condition — But if accepted by Court and upon objection by decree-holder, petitioner withdrew condition, it cannot be held as invalid. AIR 1923 Pat 418 (419, 420) = 2 Pat 534 (DB).

(4) If the offer is accompanied by a condition which prevents it from being perfect or complete in itself, it is not equivalent to payment, and the promisee is under no obligation to accept it. Where the plaintiff sends a single cheque for two items, only one of which was due at the time while the other was payable after some time the cheque being one and indivisible can be accepted as a whole or not at all, and hence the tender of one of the items by that cheque is not good and the promisee is therefore within his rights in rejecting it. AIR 1936 Lah 168 (175, 176) (DB).

(5) Conditional tender of rent demanding receipt that tenant paying rent was kaimi raiyat is not good tender. AIR 1919 Cal 332 (333).

(6) Debtor tendering portion of debt and asking creditor to take that in full satisfaction — This is tender with condition — Creditor is entitled to reject it. AIR 1924 Bom 264 (272)  AIR 1954 Mys 168 (169) = ILR (1954) Mys 423 (DB).

(7) Sending of a cheque for a smaller amount than the amount claimed by creditor along with a letter to the effect that it was in full settlement does not amount to a discharge of the entire debt, nor does it amount to payment or tender of the amount on any condition that acceptance of that amount is in full and complete discharge of the entire debt. Further, the fact of keeping the cheque is not conclusive in law. AIR 1965 Cal 541 (545).

(8) Where tenant tendered reduced amount of rent and interest on arrears, on plea that not having been in possession of entire area he was entitled to abatement of rent, but no ground was made out for such abatement, tender is not good tender. (1914) 41 Cal 493 (513) = 40 Ind App 223 (PC).

(9) Tender is not valid pro tanto if larger sum is in fact due and if tender is accompanied by demand for cancellation and delivery of mortgage deed. AIR 1915 Mad 402 (404).

(10) Tender of goods priced higher than at the contract price cannot be a performance of the contract. AIR 1922 Mad 28 (30) (DB).

(11) There cannot be tender or agreement to waive tender of unascertained sum. Offer to pay amount found due on settlement of accounts if payee undertook to execute indemnity bond, is not valid tender. (1911) 34 Mad 320 (322) (DB).

(12) A tender made "under protest" is not bad in law. Similarly the tender of more than what is due is also good. AIR 1936 Lah 168 (175) (DB).

[See however AIR 1953 Punj 70 (71) (DB).]

(13) However ready and willing to pay a party may have been, there will not be a tender in law unless there is, following the offer outside Court an unconditional deposit into the Court of money due. AIR 1957 Trav-Co 216 (217).

(14) Where a party insists that before performance of his part of contract the other party complies with the condition which does not form part of the terms of contract, there is no free and voluntary tender. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 178 (181) (DB).

(15) It is always a question of intention of parties whether a bill or note taken on account of a debt, operates as an absolute discharge of the debt or only as a conditional payment of it.

Generally speaking, bill or note can never go in discharge of a debt, unless it is part of the contract that it shall be so; for, a mere promise to pay cannot be regarded as an effective payment. (1962) 1 Ker LR 616 (618, 619) = 1962 Ker LT 316.

6. "Able and willing."— (1) One of the requisites of a valid tender is that the party making the tender must always be ready and willing to fulfil the obligation whenever called upon, or, as it is otherwise expressed, a tender in order to be valid must be kept good in accordance with the requirements of the law. AIR 1928 Cal 874 (875) (DB). (Plea of tender is good only if it accompanied by deposit in Court. It must not only allege that person raising plea is still ready.)

(2) A person cannot be said to be able and willing to do what he has promised when he is not in position to do the same. 1968 MPLJ 451 = (1968) Jab LJ 556 (DB).

(3) Offer made by promisor through solicitor to pay debt with interest due thereon on date of offer does not of itself afford reasonable opportunity to promisee of ascertaining whether promisor is able and willing to perform his promise — Offer to representatives of creditors stands on same footing. AIR 1939 Cal 131 (133) = ILR (1938) 2 Cal 337.

(4) Mere offer by postal letter to tender expenses of sale and registration by vendee is not legal tender. AIR 1915 Mad 546 (547) (DB).

(5) Offer to perform — Must fulfil all requirements regarding delivery. AIR 1918 Low Bur 97 (100).

(6) In order to be considered to be ready and willing to deliver, a seller need not be in physical possession of the goods. AIR 1925 Mad 971 (972) (DB).

(7) Vendor to notify on arrival of goods from Mills and vendee to take delivery at vendor's godowns — Vendor need not prove presence of goods at godowns. AIR 1925 Mad 1290 (1291) (DB).

(8) Contracts of purchase — Defendants offering to deliver goods to plaintiff though they themselves had not taken delivery from their own vendors — Plaintiff refusing though repeatedly asked — Tender held valid and plaintiff held committed breach. AIR 1925 Mad 888 (889).

(9) Mere expression by letter of willingness or readiness to deliver is not proper offer nor willingness to execute release deed without having document ready for delivery. AIR 1915 Mad 210 (216) = 38 Mad 959 (DB).

(10) If a party is in a position to perform his part of the contract and express his willingness to perform it, either personally or through his agent, or representative, that is sufficient evidence of readiness and willingness, though the offer of performance may not amount to tender. AIR 1954 Cal 179 (186).

(11) Before decreeing claim for specific performance of contract for sale, it must be established that buyer was ready and willing to carry out his part of contract. 1954 All WR (HC) 446 (448).

(12) Where an employee is ever ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, his services cannot be terminated before the expiry of the contract period unless the employee is at fault. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 144 (145) = ILR (1957) Madh Pra 40 (DB).

7. Reasonable opportunity of inspection.— (1) Section 38 only requires reasonable opportunity to be given to buyer to examine goods sold. AIR 1918 Low Bur 144 (144)  AIR 1927 Mad 62 (65) (DB)  AIR 1925 Mad 1168 (1171) (DB). (Promisor is under no obligation to prove identity of goods.)

(2) Natural place of inspection is place of delivery unless such place of inspection is postponed to another destination to vendor's knowledge and inspection at that place is unsuitable or unreasonable. AIR 1932 Cal 879 (883) = 59 Cal 928.

(3) Though joint survey would be, by itself, reasonable opportunity, yet it is not essential element to constitute reasonable opportunity. Also it cannot be taken that purchaser is entitled to continue inspecting and examining goods until expiration of period for delivery. Reasonable opportunity afforded for examination is reasonable limit alike for vendor and purchaser. (1881-82) 6 Bom 692 (698, 699). (Period of twenty-four hours held to be reasonable opportunity.)

(4) Vendor not bound to see that purchaser takes delivery in time when he has accepted tender of delivery and drawn samples. AIR 1916 Sind 35 (36) = 9 Sind LR 160 (DB).

(5) Tender of money locked up in box or of goods enclosed in case, which other party is not allowed to open is not sufficient tender and plea of tender as an answer to action is incomplete unless accompanied by tender in Court. AIR 1915 Mad 210 (216) = 38 Mad 959 (DB).

8. Tender to one of joint promisees.— (1) Co-heirs of a single promisee are not joint promisees within the meaning of Section 38. (1909) 1 Ind Cas 219 (219) (DB) (Mad).

(2) Assignees of mortgagee are not joint promisees within Sec. 38 — Receipt by co-assignee of his share of mortgage debt, is not on behalf of others — His liability to account for amount realised cannot be enforced. AIR 1939 Mad 818 (822) (DB).

39. Effect of refusal of party to perform promise wholly.—When a party to a contract has refused to perform, or disabled himself from performing, his pro-

(3) Mortgagees must be regarded, unless contrary is shown, as to be in position of tenants-in-common. Payment to one of two mortgagees is not discharge of mortgagor's liability to the other. AIR 1921 Pat 27 (28) = 5 Pat L Jour 376 (DB)  AIR 1918 Low Bur 19 (21) = 3 Upp Bur Rul 42.

(4) Section 38 deals with the consequences which flow from an offer of performance which has been refused but does not deal with the legal consequences of the offer which has been accepted. The section is, therefore, not helpful in deciding the question whether payment to one of joint creditors is binding on the other creditors. AIR 1948 Nag 279 (282) = ILR (1947) Nag 553 (DB)  ILR (1953) 3 Raj 318 (327)  AIR 1945 All 311 (315, 316) = ILR (1945) All 165 (DB). (Particularly so if it is not bona fide and is either collusive or fraudulent.)  AIR 1917 Lah 443 (445, 446) = 1917 Pun Re No. 68 (FB). (Payment of mortgage money to one of several co-mortgagees, without consent of other mortgagees is not discharge that will bind all mortgagees. Section does not deal with case of offer accepted by one of several joint promisees but refers only to case of offer which has been rejected.)  AIR 1914 All 518 (518) (DB).

[See also AIR 1928 Bom 420 (421) (DB). (Collusive and fraudulent payment of rent to one does not mean payment to whole body of landlords.)  (1912) 35 Mad 685 (687) (DB). (Do.)]

[But see ('13) 36 Mad 544 (545) (FB)  AIR 1957 Madh Pra 5 (6)  AIR 1954 Mad 473 (475) (DB)  AIR 1937 All 527 (527). (Payment of rent to one co-sharer gives valid discharge.)  AIR 1925 Mad 261 (263) = 48 Mad 693 (DB)  ('23) 73 Ind Cas 682 (687) (Pesh). (In absence of fraud or intention to defeat rights of other mortgagees payment to one of the several joint mortgagees discharges the mortgagor.)  (1909) 1 Ind Cas 219 (219) (DB) (Mad). (5) Remedy in Section 39 is not only remedy to party who has done his part of contract; he can also sue other party to recover debt, arising from part of contract done by him. (1910) 34 Bom 192 (198) (DB).

(5) Where a party to a contract complains about delay in carrying out the contract and protest against the other party's right to put an end to it, it cannot amount to a refusal to perform. AIR 1924 Cal 427 (431) (DB).

There was also proviso in agreement by which plaintiffs were excused from monthly shipments if space in ships sailing for Madras was not available. Second shipment was not made within one month from first, though ship was available few days earlier for such shipment. Defendant having rescinded contract, plaintiffs sued him for damages for non-acceptance: Held, reasonable construction was that interval contemplated by parties to agreement was not precisely one month or 30 days, but one month more or less, regard being had to time which it may be reasonable to allow to plaintiff to find steamer available for required shipment and that, plaintiffs having failed to make second shipment by steamer which was available, defendant was entitled

(23) An agreement can be repudiated either by words expressive of an intention not to perform the contract or the conduct from which the said intention can be gathered. (30) If a contract is validly cancelled by the lessor, the motive behind the action even if bad would not convert it into an illegal act and furnish a cause of action to the lessee under the contract to sue for damages or compensation for breach of contract. Motive is absolutely irrelevant. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 551 (554) (DB). (1892 AC 25 and 1942 AC 435, Rel. on.)

(31) It is open to canvass the grounds urged in justification of a cancellation of a contract in a Court of law. It is quite competent for a Court to review bona fides, go into the motive underlying such an action and if the Court is satisfied that they are inadequate or insufficient it will set them aside. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 551 (559) (DB).

(32) Bailee mixing his own goods — Offer to return goods without sorting out such goods — Bailor is entitled to refuse delivery in toto and claim compensation for conversion. (1961) 27 Cut LT 340.

4. "Promisee may put an end to the contract." — (1) Repudiation by promisor before time of performance — Promisee may at once accept repudiation and bring his action as on a breach of it, or he may treat notice of intention as inoperative and await the time for performance and then hold the other party responsible for all the consequences of non-performance — Contract is not necessarily broken by the mere notice of intention to break the contract. AIR 1926 Mad 778 (781) = 49 Mad 681 (DB)  ILR (1955) Mad 528 (546) (DB)  ILR (1948) 2 Cal 11 (47). (2) Where the promisee treats the notice of intention of promisor not to perform the contract as inoperative, the promisee keeps the contract alive for the benefit of the other party as well as his own, he remains subject to all his own obligations and liabilities under it, and enables the other party not only to complete the contract, if so advised notwithstanding his previous repudiation of it, but also to take advantage of any supervening circumstance which would justify him in declining to complete it. AIR 1926 Mad 778 (781) = 49 Mad 781 (DB)  AIR 1922 Bom 303 (312) = 46 Bom 489 (DB)  1911-1 Mad WN 265 (266) (DB).

(4) Repudiation before time of performance — Acceptance determines the contract — Party repudiating cannot turn round and insist on performance or sue for damages for non-performance. AIR 1925 Lah 217 (220) = 5 Lah 497 (DB).

(4a) Per A. P. Sen, J. — An employee submitting his resignation from service — Resignation, unless accepted by the employer, does not operate as discharging the contract by bringing it lawfully to an end. 1969 MPWR 807 = 1969 MPLJ 879 = 1969 Jab LJ 868 (902). ((1900) 2 Bom LR 790, Relied on.)

(5) Where one party to contract has not merely offered to cancel the contract but has definitely expressed an unalterable resolve to refuse to perform it, the other party to the contract may accept the termination several months after the offer after making vain efforts to induce the buyer to change his mind. This is to be distinguished from the case where one party to a contract makes a definite offer to put an end to the contract and that offer has been definitely rejected by the other party, in which case it will not be open to the latter party to cancel the contract several months afterwards by merely accepting the offer to terminate the contract. AIR 1925 Lah 217 (220) = 5 Lah 497 (DB).

(6) On renunciation of a contract by one party, the other party will be justified in regarding himself as discharged from all liability. AIR 1916 Cal 136 (147) = 43 Cal 790 (DB).

(7) A, party to contract informing his intention not to perform contract to B, the other party to contract — Contract terminates when B exercises his option of treating the contract as cancelled, and so, breach takes place when A receives letter of cancellation. AIR 1934 All 740 (764) = 56 All 828 (DB). (Reversed on a different point in AIR 1938 PC 165.)

AIR 1933 Mad 704 (706).

(10) Per Scott C. J. — The fact that party to contract under Section 39, when other side has refused to perform it, may put an end to it and sue for compensation for breach, does not oblige him to take that course at his peril; he may, if he prefers it, sue to recover any debt due to him which has arisen from his execution of his part of contract. (1910) 34 Bom 192 (198) (DB).

(11) Repudiation of the contract by one of several joint promisors entitles the promisee to rescind the contract as against others. (1909) 19 Mad L Jour 28 (31) (DB).

(12) The renunciation of a contract by one of the parties before the time of performance does not of itself put an end to the contract; there must be two parties to a rescission. AIR 1952 Bilaspur 6 (8)  AIR 1965 Ker 187 = 1964 Ker LT 546  AIR 1963 Andh Pra 370 (373) = (1962) 2 Andh WR 442  AIR 1963 Pat 254 (260) (DB).

(13) Failure to fulfil an obligation under Clause (1) of Section 55, Transfer of Property Act amounts to a refusal to perform the contract for sale within the meaning of Section 39 and will entitle the other party to repudiate or to put an end to the contract. AIR 1957 Madh B 23 (26).

(14) Where a seller agrees to sell a certain property at price agreed to by the buyer and the buyer is put in possession of the property and the buyer fails to execute a sale deed, a notice given by the seller to the effect that if the buyer fails to pay the price within eight days the seller will put an end to the contract entitles the seller to rescind the contract and resell the property. ILR (1952) Madh B 410 (415, 416).  AIR 1960 Andh Pra 178 (182, 184) (DB).

(15) Breach of the substituted agreement does not revive what has been discharged. Further complaint must be founded on the substituted agreement and not on the original contract. If the substituted agreement is put an end to under Section 39 of the Act on account of such breaches, the original contract is not thereby revived. AIR 1953 Cal 642 (645).

(16) New agreement substituting old one — Agreement not relating merely to mode of payment — First part of agreement acted upon by promisors — Second part not fulfilled — Promisee cannot repudiate whole agreement. AIR 1969 Raj 278 (279) = 1969 Raj LW 343.

(17) The Film distributors agreed to release a picture for exhibition to one theatre on a particular date. But later on the distributors wanted to postpone the exhibition of that picture at the said theatre. They informed the theatre by a letter that it was not possible to exhibit the picture at the theatre on the date agreed. It was held that the letter amounted to repudiation of the contract and the other party had a right to cancel the contract. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 90 (97, 98) = ILR (1952) Trav-Co 823 (DB).

(18) Where a contract is repudiated, it survives for the purpose of measuring the claims arising out of the breach and the arbitration clause contained in it survives for determining the mode of settlement of the claims. The repudiating party is not prevented from invoking the arbitration clause in the contract for the purpose of settling all questions to which his repudiation has given rise. It is not correct to say that the arbitration clause will not be given effect to when the contract is ended by something de hors the agreement. AIR 1947 Sind 57 (58).

(19) In a C. I. F. Contract the buyer must accept the documents which represent the goods. Refusal to accept documents amounts to a breach of the contract. The seller, on refusal can treat the contract as at an end and sue for damages. AIR 1954 Mad 268 (270) = ILR (1953) Mad 1159 (DB).

(3) Contract to pay debts of another — Breach — Starting point of limitation for suit for damages for breach — Time does not begin to run against the promisee from the date of repudiation of agreement by the promisor — Fact that promisee himself paid the debts in itself gives him no cause of action — If the promisee paid them before the expiry of a reasonable time after the agreement, the defendant may plead want of reasonable time to perform and that consequently there was no breach — If the plaintiff (promisee) waited till the expiry of a reasonable time, defendant's breach of contract would give him cause of action, whether he himself paid the debts or not. (1912) 22 Mad L Jour 207 (210, 211) (DB).

(2) It cannot be said that the earnest money is a benefit under the contract for sale within the meaning of Section 64. Illustrations

(a) A promises to pay B a sum of money. A may perform this promise, either by personally paying the money to B or by causing it to be paid to B by another; and if A dies before the time appointed for payment, his representatives must perform the promise, or employ some proper person to do so.

(b) A promises to paint a picture for B. A must perform this promise personally.

(4) Where in an executory contract the plaintiff has performed his part of the contract and the defendant repudiates the contract itself, the plaintiff is entitled to treat the contract as void within the meaning of Section 65. It becomes void when the plaintiff exercises his right to rescind it under S. 39. The defendant's liability then is to restore to the plaintiff any advantage the defendant has received under that contract or to make compensation for that is independent of the statutory right accrued to the plaintiff under S. 75. The rights are not necessarily alternative, they can be cumulative. ILR (1955) Mad 528 (547) (DB).

(4A) Discharge of temporary servant without due notice — Servant is only entitled to pay for notice period — Discharge is not rendered invalid. AIR 1959 Pat 192 (194) = 1958 BLJR 593.

(4-C) Contract of service by P with X company — X was being managed by Y company under managing agency agreement — Termination of service of P by Z, who was director of X company and managing director of Y company — Held, Z could not be made liable either in tort for procuring breach of contract with managed company, his position in relation to managed company being that of an agent or for breach of contract, by terminating service of P. 1968 MPLJ 846 = 1969 Jab LJ 37.

(4D) Once the contract is repudiated it ceases to have any legal effect from the date of repudiation but there is no reason why a party to it cannot bring a suit for a period prior to the termination of contract. (1959) 25 Cut LT 376 = ILR (1959) Cut 56.

(1) When one of the persons liable under a mortgage has acquired the interest of others, the liability for the repayment of the mortgage debt cannot be said to be transferred by contract to one who is not already liable. Hence a suit for accounts on a usufructuary mortgage at his instance is maintainable. AIR 1948 All 55 (56).

(2) A contract in the absence of contrary intention express or implied, will be enforceable against parties and their legal heirs and representatives including assignees and transferees. AIR 1967 SC 744 (746) = (1967) 1 SCR 293.

(3) In contracts of personal service the question of performance of the contract is one of ascertaining the true intention of the parties. AIR 1954 Orissa 241 (243) (DB).

(4) It is an implied condition of an agreement for personal service that the death of either party will dissolve it. AIR 1954 Orissa 241 (242) (DB)  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 643 (649) (DB).

(5) A contract to sell goods can be assigned by the seller so as to enable assignee to sue for damages for breach of contract on tender of performance by him. AIR 1947 Mad 258 (258)  AIR 1954 Mad 87 (87).

(6) Assignment of a contract to sell goods is not transfer of mere right to sue for damages but a transfer of the rights under a contract which is still to be performed on both sides. AIR 1947 Mad 258 (259).

(7) Buyer's rights under a contract to get goods on payment of price is capable of being assigned. AIR 1954 Mad 87 (87).

(8) Benefits of a contract are assignable subject to a contrary intention which may be express or arising by necessary implication. AIR 1955 Cal 621 (622).

(9) Where in a contract of re-sale of land there is no contrary intention against the assignability of its benefits the mere absence of the phrase "heirs, assignees, administrators" is not sufficient to raise any such implication. The benefits of such contract are therefore assignable. AIR 1955 Cal 621 (622). (AIR 1918 Bom 158 and 35 Bom 258, held no longer good law.)

41. Effect of accepting performance from third person.—When a promisee accepts performance of the promise from a third person, he cannot afterwards enforce it against the promisor.

(10) In order that an assignee of seller, to a contract to sell goods, can sue for damages on breach of the contract by the buyer, the contract must have been contemplated by the parties as capable of being performed on both sides by their assigns or representatives. AIR 1947 Mad 258 (258).

(11) Specific performance regarding contract for purchase of immovable property can be claimed against legal representative. AIR 1929 Rang 274 (274) = 7 Rang 423 (DB).

(12) On death of banker liability of his sons to pay sums to customers is not changed. AIR 1940 Pat 129 (131) (DB).

(13) Under Section 40, except in very special circumstances, a person agreeing to purchase a property is not bound to purchase it himself and he may arrange for the purchase of the property by some other person as his nominee in the terms of the agreement entered into by him. AIR 1967 All 253 (257) = 1968 All LJ 725.

Section 41 — Note 1

(1) The section applies only where a contract has been in fact performed by some person other than the person bound thereby. AIR 1916 PC 68 (70) = 39 All 178 = 44 Ind App 60  AIR 1942 Cal 87 (90) = ILR (1942) 1 Cal 237 (DB).

(2) Part performance being not enough it should be performed in full. AIR 1966 Mys 84 (85) = (1965) 2 Mys LJ 338.

(3) What is required by Section 41 is actual performance and not a substituted promise. According to the section, performance by a stranger, accepted by the promisee produces the result of discharging the promisor, although the latter has neither authorized nor ratified the act of the third party. AIR 1928 Mad 972 (974).

(4) Where in a suit on subsequent mortgage which was executed in lieu of prior mortgage, the subsequent mortgage is found invalid, the right of suit on the prior mortgage becomes revived and Section 41 has no application to the case since it applies only where a contract has been in fact performed by some person other than the person bound thereby. AIR 1916 PC 68 (70) = 39 All 178 = 44 Ind App 60.

(5) A instituted suit against B and C. The plaintiff averred that the amount in suit was due to A by B and that C was liable for the reason that he had undertaken to make the payment. It was alleged that C had intimated this fact to A whereupon the debit and credit entries had been made in accounts but subsequently C informed in writing that inasmuch as B had failed to pay him he withdrawal his undertaking to pay to A. Subsequently A withdraw his case against C and proceeded only against B. The lower appellate Court applied S. 41 and dismissed the suit. On appeal held that there was no novation within meaning of Section 62 and that Section 41 did not apply to the case. AIR 1933 Lah 335 (335, 336).

(6) Just like Section 63, Section 41 also enables a promisee not only to release a debt at the instance of a third party, but also to enable the promisor whose debt has been released at the instance of the third party to take advantage of that release. The intention is that release need not be made in favour of the person liable. AIR 1931 Bom 123 (124) (DB).

(7) Where P, as adopted son of Q, renewed pronotes executed by Q, but his adoption was set aside, it was held that the creditor could fall back on the original notes as P could not be regarded as "third person" within Section 41. AIR 1928 Mad 972 (974).

(8) A was the cashier and accountant of a company and B was the auditor of the company. A misappropriated large sums of the company and executed a promissory note for Rs. 50,000 in favour of the company for the amount misappropriated by him. B was liable to the company for his negligence and paid Rs. 60,000 to the company in full discharge of that liability. It was contended that by reason of payment by B, A's liability under the pronote was discharged under Sec. 41 of the Contract Act. Held, that Section 41 had no application as A's liability was a contractual one while B's liability was one in tort. AIR 1945 Cal 218 (226) (DB).

(9) Where pre-emption decree proved abortive, after payment by pre-emptor of the unpaid purchase money to vendor, the vendor cannot enforce his lien for unpaid purchase money, against vendee, till he has reimbursed the pre-emptor, money paid by him. (1913) 16 Oudh Cas 1 (3, 4).

(10) Plaintiff having accepted payment from a third person in full satisfaction of his claim is not entitled to sue the defendant for the balance. AIR 1963 SC 250 (255) = (1963) 2 SCR 168.

(11) Consignee accepting performance of the promise to pay compensation from the insurer cannot enforce the same claim against the carrier. AIR 1964 Cal 362 (365).

42. Devolution of joint liabilities.—When two or more persons have made a joint promise, then, unless a contrary intention appears by the contract, all such persons, during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, his representative jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, the representatives of all jointly, must fulfil the promise.

43. Any one of joint promisors may be compelled to perform.—When two or more persons make a joint promise, the promisee may, in the absence of express agreement to the contrary, compel any *[one or more] of such joint promisors to perform the whole of the promise.

Each promisor may compel contribution.—Each of two or more joint promisors may compel every other joint promisor to contribute equally with himself to the performance of the promise, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract.

[But see AIR 1966 Mad 381 (384) = (1966) 2 Mad LJ 16 (DB).]

(12) Suit for damages against (1) Union of India, (2) Railway Administrations and (3) several insurance companies — Insurance companies settling suit claim by paying full amount on condition that plaintiff would prosecute suit against defendants 1 and 2 and pay to them whatever he would recover from defendants — Held, on reading clause in policy of Insurance, that settlement was conditional and Section 41 of Contract Act had no application. (1968) 2 Mys LJ 240 (242).

Section 42 — Note 1

(1) Under Section 42, the obligation to perform the promise of the promisor devolves jointly on all his representatives and on the death of one of them, his heirs are not discharged but take their place with reference to the liability. 1896 Pun Re No. 53, p. 148 (151) (DB).

(2) Under the English common law the rule of survivorship applies to the case of joint creditors as well as to the case of joint debtors, but under Section 42 and S. 45 of the Indian Contract Act the rule of survivorship is not recognised and the devolution of joint liabilities and rights is governed by the provisions of Sections 42 and 45 respectively. AIR 1948 Nag 279 (282) = ILR (1947) Nag 553 (DB).

(3) The rule of survivorship among joint tenants is modified by Sections 42 and 45, Contract Act which puts the representative of the deceased joint tenant in his place so long as there is such a representative. On failure of such a representative the rule of survivorship among joint tenants applies. AIR 1930 All 350 (352) = 52 All 548 (DB)  AIR 1935 All 975 (976).

(4) It is clear from Sections 42, 43 and 44 of the Contract Act, that where there are joint promisors there is an implied contract amongst them, inter se, to contribute equally towards the performance of the joint promise. That implied contract of contribution is independent of the contract as between the joint promisors and the promisee. The promisee cannot in any way absolve a joint promisor from his liability to contribution so far as his other joint promisors are concerned who may have performed the promise. AIR 1949 Cal 242 (243) = ILR (1949) 2 Cal 325.

(2) Where subsequent to the acceptance of a joint tender for the right to vend liquor the Government permitted one of the persons who made the tender to withdraw it was held that in view of the principle underlying Sec. 43 of the Contract Act there was nothing in law which prevented the Government from allowing the withdrawal and accepting performance from the other. 1958 Andh LT 696 (698).

2. Enforcement of joint contracts.— (1) Joint and several liability may arise from contract or for a tort but for such liability to come into existence there must be a joint contract or a tort committed jointly as the case may be. So far as the conditions of such liability are concerned they are identical against persons whose liability may be joint and several. ILR (1954) 6 Assam 53 (57).

(2) Whether a sale-deed is joint transaction making all vendees jointly liable or is really several transaction making each vendee responsible for his own share only is a question of fact depending on the intention of the parties. AIR 1930 Lah 806 (807) (DB).

Sharing of loss by default in contribution.—If any one of two or more joint promisors makes default in such contribution, the remaining joint promisors must bear the loss arising from such default in equal shares.

(5) Unlike English law, the Indian law makes all joint liability, joint and several in the absence of any agreement to the contrary. It is therefore open to the promisee to sue any one or some of the joint promisors and it is no defence to such a suit that all the promisors must have been made parties. The fact that the earnest money was accepted by the other directors who passed a receipt for it, was immaterial, those directors being the joint promisors. AIR 1959 All 29 (31) (DB).

3. Contribution.— (1) The relief of contribution contemplated under Sec. 43 is distinct from the relief of reimbursement provided for by Section 69 of the Act. (8) Payment by one of the co-debtors which does not exonerate other co-debtors from liability does not give a right of contribution to the co-debtor making such payment. AIR 1924 Mad 279 (280) (DB).

(9) The fact that the promisor claiming contribution made the payment without consulting his co-promisor does not in any way affect his right to the contribution. AIR 1933 Mad 382 (383).

(11) The liability of the joint promisors to contribute equally to the performance of the promise is based on a presumed implied contract amongst them and that liability cannot be affected by any act of the promisee absolving one joint promisor of his liability to him for the debt. AIR 1949 Cal 242 (244) = ILR (1949) 2 Cal 325  AIR 1957 Raj 267 (273) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 616. (12) Where a joint debtor sues for contribution against his co-debtor alleging that he has paid up a decree debt due by them jointly, it is open to him to enforce the defendant's liability on the strength of the original liability, even if the decree as such is bound to be not binding on the defendant. (Right of judgment-debtor discharging entire joint decree — Payment of decretal amount is condition precedent to right to sue — Judgment debtor fully satisfying decree — He can sue co-promisors for contribution.)

(13) Where a joint decree was scaled down under the C. P. and Berar Relief of Indebtedness Act, 14 of 1939, at the instance of two of the judgment-debtors and the third judgment-debtor was compelled to pay the full decretal debt it was held that he was entitled to recover from the other two their contribution towards the debt unaffected by the discharge in the relief Court before which he was no party. AIR 1948 Nag 292 (293) = ILR (1947) Nag 881.

(14) There is no provision in the Administration of Evacuee Property Act empowering Custodian to determine a claim made against an evacuee by a co-debtor who has paid off a joint decree and wants to compel the evacuee to contribute his share of the decretal amount — Jurisdiction of Civil Court to entertain such a claim is not barred. 1967 All LJ 799.

(15) Barring provisions to the contrary in the contract itself the right of a promisor who pays more than his share of a joint liability to compel contribution from his co-promisors is an absolute right and Courts have no option in the matter of giving effect to the right. AIR 1934 Pat 411 (413) (DB).

(16) In a suit for contribution all persons whose presence would be necessary to ascertain satisfactorily the liabilities of the parties must be impleaded. If any such necessary party is not so impleaded the suit would fail in limine. AIR 1940 Pat 119 (121) (DB).

(17) All partners must be joined in suit for contribution by one or more partners if partnership has come to an end and no adjustment has been made. AIR 1916 Lah 9 (9).

(18) For contribution, a prima facie case is made by the production of the judgment and the certificate of satisfaction. AIR 1934 Oudh 437 (439).

(19) Where on the facts set out by a plaintiff it is clear that he is entitled to contribution the method of computation is a matter of law and it is for the Judges to apply the law to the facts stated and give such relief as is appropriate to the case. AIR 1952 SC 47 (51) = 1952 SCR 179.

(20) Where one of the joint promisors liable to contribute does not or cannot pay his proportion of debt his amount of debt has to be divided between other contributories only in the proportion of the benefits which each one of them has received at the time of the original contract and not in equal proportion. AIR 1951 Mad 239 (242) (DB).

(21) No doubt the question of contribution is dealt with both by Section 43 of the Contract Act and Sec. 82 of the Transfer of Property Act but when that question arises in connection with a mortgage it will be governed only by Section 82, T. P. Act. AIR 1952 SC 47 (50) = 1952 SCR 179. (Section 43, Contract Act being only the general law will be excluded by Section 82, T. P. Act which is the special law dealing with the matter.)

(22) As to liability of co-sureties to contribute equally as between themselves, see Section 146.

4. Joint decree for costs — Contribution.— (1) Where a decree for costs does not indicate the proportions in which the costs are to be borne by the judgment-debtors, the rule is that such a decree imposes a joint and several liability on all the judgment-debtors. AIR 1933 Pat 24 (25) (DB).

(1-A) Prima facie a right of contribution exists between persons against whom a joint decree for costs has been passed, and it is for the defendant seeking to avoid the liability to show some equity which entitles him to exemption.

(2) Section 43, Contract Act, does not generally apply to recovery of contribution in respect of costs imposed by a Court of law, on the principle that the liability arises out of a joint wrong. AIR 1950 Pat 212 (215) (DB).

(3) A co-defendant paying the full amount of costs cannot claim contribution unless some equity exists in his favour. In this respect a decree for costs stands on a different footing from a decree for payment of money arising out of a joint liability. AIR 1932 Mad 146 (147)  AIR 1961 Pat 103 (105).

(4) On broad grounds of justice and equity there appears no reason why a decree for costs should be excepted from the doctrine of contribution. The only ground on which such an exception could possibly be based would be the doctrine that no contribution lies between joint tort-feasors. AIR 1921 Oudh 128 (129) = 24 Oudh Cas 148 (DB)  AIR 1950 Pat 212 (215) (DB). (Section 43 does not exclude contribution in the case of costs imposed by Courts on equitable grounds.)

(5) Where in a suit in which both the defendants were equally delinquent in taking up the defence and a decree for cost is passed against them and one of them pays the same, he is entitled to contribution from the other. (6) M borrowing sum on simple mortgage from N and S — Portion of amount paid by N and rest by S — Mortgage decree passed and property put to sale — Suit by R against N and S for declaration of title to half property — Decree with costs — Costs recovered only from S — Suit by S against N for contribution — S and N held liable for costs only in proportion to their interest in property affected by R's suit and not equally. AIR 1938 All 631 (632) = ILR (1938) All 950.

(7) Defendants neither taking interest nor defending suit are equitably entitled to exemption from contribution for costs in joint decree against them. AIR 1929 All 654 (655)  AIR 1946 Cal 63 (65)  AIR 1937 All 227 (228)  AIR 1963 Pat 227 (228, 229).

(8) Mere execution of mortgage to satisfy the joint decree for costs does not entitle a defendant to claim contribution from other — Suit for contribution is premature until he redeems mortgage or mortgaged property is sold in satisfaction of mortgage. AIR 1936 Oudh 253 (255) = 12 Luck 45 (DB).

(9) If the decree awarding costs renders one of the defendants alone responsible for the payment of the costs awarded he cannot claim contribution from his co-defendants. If however the decree had made the costs the joint liability it would be otherwise. AIR 1955 Mad 721 (721).

5. Co-heirs of a promisor.— (1) Section 43 applies only where two or more persons have made a joint promise and not where two or more persons have become jointly interested by inheritance in a contract made by a single person. AIR 1929 Lah 783 (784) (DB)  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 688 (690)  AIR 1918 Cal 512 (514) (DB)  AIR 1917 Cal 829 (829) (DB)  AIR 1967 Orissa 158 (160) = 33 Cut LT 193 (DB). (3) Heirs of joint tenants are not each of them liable for whole rent. (1910) 12 Cal L Jour 642 (644).

6. Co-tenants. — (1) In view of Section 43, a landlord can sue some of his tenants for the whole rent of a holding. (2) Where one of the two co-tenants dies, a suit by the landlord against all the heirs of the deceased tenant for the entire rent is maintainable without making the other tenant a party thereto. AIR 1923 Cal 615 (618) (DB)  AIR 1924 Cal 165 (166) = 50 Cal 737 (DB).

(3) It is true that in the case of a joint contract the cause of action for a suit to enforce the promise is exhausted by a judgment obtained against one of the promisors only and hence no second suit against the co-promisor could be brought thereafter. But as arrears of rent when they fall due furnishes a separate cause of action in respect of each year the above rule would not affect the second suit of the landlord against certain co-tenants for the recovery of arrears of rent pertaining to subsequent years merely because in the previous suit against another co-tenant he had obtained a judgment for the arrears of a previous year. AIR 1947 Cal 11 (13, 14) = ILR (1946) 2 Cal 605 (DB).

(4) Where the plaintiff and the defendant are in the position of joint tenants and are therefore joint promisors as regards the rent payable to the landlord, the plaintiff who has paid the entire rent is entitled under Section 43, Contract Act, to contribution from the defendant. AIR 1950 Pat 212 (214) (DB).

(5) A sharer in a patni lease discharging the decree for rent obtained against him by the landlord is under Section 43 entitled to recover by way of contribution from his co-sharer his share of the rent even though the claim of the landlord for rent against such co-sharer was barred by limitation. AIR 1955 Cal 62 (63).

(6) Joint lessees — Decree against for arrears of rent — Two groups having equal rights in the lease — One group making payments not exceeding their half share before Madras Act IV of 1938 came into force — Subsequent scaling down reducing the balance due — Contribution cannot be claimed from joint lessees for the amount paid before the Act came into force by the other lessees. AIR 1945 Mad 266 (266) = ILR (1946) Mad 167.

7. Partners. — (1) Section 43 applies as much to partners as to other co-contractors. (5) The remedy of a partner who has been compelled to pay the whole or more than his share of the partnership debt is to sue for account and his suit for contribution against his co-partners is not maintainable. [But see AIR 1942 Nag 72 (72, 73) = ILR (1942) Nag 340  AIR 1921 Nag 45 (46).]

(6) A claim for contribution against the co-partners based on the contract of partnership would be excluded by the general doctrine that as between partners there can be no claim for contribution. AIR 1939 Mad 508 (508)  AIR 1946 Oudh 118 (120) = 21 Luck 295. (No contribution is allowed by reason of the contract of partnership between parties in respect of individual transaction ignoring other partnership transactions — But a claim based on equity and not on any statutory provision has to be distinguished from such claims.)

(7) Where a partner had to pay under a decree passed for a partnership debt after the dissolution of the firm but by then his right to claim general accounting had become barred it was held that his suit for contribution against the other partners was not maintainable. (8) Where a partner who contested in his suit for dissolution the binding nature of a mortgage of the partnership assets agreed under a compromise to recognize the validity of the mortgage and pay a certain amount to have his share of the assets released from the mortgage claim it was held that the other partner who had to pay off the entire mortgage was entitled to recover contribution upto the amount promised under the compromise even though subsequent to the compromise the mortgage had been declared by the Court to be not binding on the partner who disputed it. (3) Where joint debtors (who were joint tort-feasors in the suit) have under compromise in Court contracted to pay a sum to plaintiff and some of them pay the sum and sue the rest for contribution, their claim cannot be resisted on the ground that all of them were joint tort-feasors before the compromise. 9. Accord and satisfaction by one. —

(1) Under the English Law, accord and satisfaction made by one of several parties jointly liable or jointly and severally liable to the same creditor for the same debt, discharges the claim of the creditor against all. There is no reason why this principle would not apply to cases of joint and several liability under Section 43, Contract Act. AIR 1942 Cal 87 (91) = ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB).

SECTION 44 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Co-mortgagors.
3. Co-heirs.

4. Co-judgment-debtors.

5. Decree against one co-promisor — Effect.

6. Contribution, right of.

1. Scope and applicability. — (1) English law doctrine that release of one of several joint debtors releases all from liability has no application to India. (1911) 14 Cal L Jour 354 (357, 358) (DB).

(2) Section 44 applies as much to partial discharge as to complete discharge. (1942) 46 Cal WN 234 (237, 238) (DB)  AIR 1948 Nag 279 (282) = ILR (1947) Nag 553 (DB).

(3) Section means generally, that release to one of several contractors does not discharge co-contractors, and applies as well to a discharge after breach as to a release before breach. (1879) 4 Cal 336 (338).

(4) The provisions of Section 44 are applicable to the co-parceners of a joint Hindu family in spite of the dissolution of the joint family unless the creditor has agreed to the arrangement between the co-parceners that one of them alone would pay the debt. 1949 Bur LR (SC) 46 (50).

2. Co-mortgagors. — (1) Release by the creditor of one of the mortgagors jointly and severally liable, has not the effect of releasing others. AIR 1917 Cal 502 (505) = 44 Cal 162 (DB).

(2) The qualified release of a part of the mortgage security in favour of some of several joint mortgagors, resulting from the mortgagee not seeking to enforce his right as against any surplus sale proceeds of such part when sold in satisfaction of a prior mortgage, ought not to affect the mortgagee's right. (1903) 30 Cal 953 (958) (DB).

(3) Where five brothers had made themselves jointly liable for a sum of money under a bond and mortgaged certain village as security for the debt and the mortgagee having subsequently taken a separate bond from each of the two brothers for one-fifth of the whole amount, sought to recover the remaining three-fifths of the said amount from remaining three brothers: Held that any one of the five might be sued for the whole amount and the promisee was entitled to recover the three-fifths from the remaining three brothers. (1876) 25 Suth WR 419 (419) (DB).

(4) Mortgage suit — Preliminary decree against joint owners — Plaintiffs applying for final decree — B, one of joint owners, applying to Debt Relief Court for determination of debt — Final

45. Devolution of joint rights.—When a person has made a promise to two or more persons jointly, then, unless a contrary intention appears from the contract, the right to claim performance rests, as between him and them, with them during their joint lives, and, after the death of any of them, with the representa-decree proceedings stayed — Debt scaled down by such Court and B allowed to pay same in instalments — Plaintiffs applying for revival of final decree proceedings — Relief Court's order held did not release other defendants from liability. AIR 1947 Nag 61 (67) = ILR (1947) Nag 1 (FB).

3. Co-heirs. — (1) Claim for rent barred against some co-heirs — Remaining heirs not separately liable for entire rent. AIR 1919 Cal 861 (862) (DB).

4. Co-judgment-debtors. — (1) The release of a joint judgment-debtor does not operate as a release of the others. AIR 1944 Cal 328 (330) (DB)  AIR 1933 Lah 505 (507)  AIR 1924 Cal 209 (211) = 50 Cal 718 (DB)  AIR 1915 Mad 934 (936) = 39 Mad 548 (DB)  (1880) 6 Cal LR 212 (214)  1965 Cur LJ 485 (Punj).

[See also AIR 1927 All 830 (831). (Joint decree against father and son — Father becoming insolvent and compounding with decree-holder — Son is liable only for such portion of decretal amount as had not already been realised by decree-holder in pursuance of the composition.)]

(2) Where some of the original defendants against whom joint decree for costs was passed died during the pendency of a Privy Council appeal and no substitution was made it was held that it did not amount to a release by the decree-holder of the interests of those judgment-debtors and the interests of all the other judgment-debtors were not also released from all liability under the decree. AIR 1933 Pat 24 (25) (DB).

(3) Release granted to one of several judgment-debtors without any intention to release others will discharge others only pro tanto and not in respect of the entire amount decreed. AIR 1918 Cal 51 (53) (DB).

5. Decree against one co-promisor — Effect. — (1) Where a promisee chooses to proceed against one co-promisor, and obtains a judgment, he has no right to proceed against the other co-contractors or co-promisors. AIR 1936 Bom 344 (345) = 60 Bom 954 (DB).

(2) Where in case of a joint promissory note one of the executants makes certain payment and the promisee agrees to discharge him from his liability, only reserving his right to sue the co-executant for the balance the co-executant is liable for the balance subject to his right to sue his other co-executant for contribution. AIR 1937 Rang 137 (137, 138).

(3) In absence of contract to the contrary, joint executants of pro-note, who have undertaken unconditionally to discharge obligations under pro-note, are jointly and severally liable to discharge liability under pro-note — Some of them cannot maintain the position that they are only sureties. AIR 1966 Ker 303 (304) = 1966 Ker LT 1145 (DB).

6. Contribution, right of. — (1) Where the promisee releases one or more of the joint promisors, the liability as between joint promisors to contribute equally does not end. (1941) 45 Cal WN 357 (361)  AIR 1957 Raj 267 (274) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 616.

(2) A case may not be covered by Section 69 of the Contract Act, but that is not to say that the claim for contribution can be negated on this score if it otherwise arises under Sections 43 and 44. AIR 1957 Raj 267 (274) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 616.

(3) Decree for arrears of putni rent against co-sharers — Execution of decree postponed against one co-sharer by reason of Section 10-C, Bengal Court of Wards Act — Such co-sharer is not absolved from liability to contribute to other co-sharer who pays entire amount. AIR 1949 Cal 242 (244) = ILR (1949) 2 Cal 325.

(4) A case for contribution arising out of excess payment — could and would come into existence only when such excess payment had been made and the limitation would begin to run from the date of such payment. AIR 1957 Raj 267 (275) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 616.

SECTION 45 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.

2. Discharge given by one joint promisee alone.

3. Suit by joint promisees.

4. Devolution of joint rights.

5. Partnership cases.

1. Scope. — (1) It is doubtful whether Section 45 applies to claim for possession of land. Where, however, suit is really for specific performance of contract, defendant may plead Section 45 as bar. 1912 Pun LR No. 49 p. 150 (158) = 1911 Pun Re No. 57, p. 220 (DB).

(2) The words "as between him and them" in Section 45 signify that as between the debtor and original body of creditors, the right to claim payment would rest with the body, but if by part-payment the number of creditors is reduced, the right to claim payment will be a right arising as between the debtor and the remaining creditors. Where a partner of a dissolved firm collects his share of debts, impleading others, the tives of such deceased person jointly with the survivor or survivors, and, after the death of the last survivor, with the representatives of all jointly.*

A, in consideration of 5,000 rupees, lent to him by B and C, promises B and C jointly to repay them that sum with interest on a day specified. B dies. The right to claim performance rests with B's representative jointly with C during C's life, and after the death of C with the representatives of B and C jointly.

other partners can sue for their share of debts. AIR 1919 Lah 14 (15) = 1919 Pun Re. No. 128, p. 317.

(3) A promise can be made to two persons either jointly or severally but not both ways. A promise to two or more persons unless there is something to show that the intention of the parties was otherwise is only a joint promise made to them. AIR 1954 Cal 303 (304) = ILR (1956) 1 Cal 102.

2. Discharge given by one joint promisee alone. — (1) Payment to one of two joint promisees is not a discharge of the entire debt. AIR 1952 Mys 68 (69)  ILR (1953) 3 Raj 318 (326) (DB)  AIR 1917 Sind 71 (72) = 10 Sind LR 203 (DB)  (1913) 17 Cal L Jour 372 (375) (DB).

(Payment to one promisee so as to have the effect of discharging the debt as against all joint promisees must be an actual payment and not merely an undertaking to pay in future.)  AIR 1917 Pat 82 (84) = 2 Pat L Jour 520 (DB). (A joint creditor, in equity, can give a valid receipt to a debtor in full discharge of the claims of himself and of the other joint creditors.)  (1913) 36 Mad 544 (549, 552) (FB). (One of two or more payees of negotiable instrument can give valid discharge of entire debt without concurrence of other payees.)]

(2) A discharge given by one of the co-promisees is valid only to the extent of his own share in the debt. ILR (1951) 1 Raj 187 (189)  AIR 1952 Mys 68 (69).

(3) In the absence of any evidence or circumstances which would justify a contrary inference it will be presumed notwithstanding the form of an obligation that a debt due to joint creditors is due to them in severality. AIR 1919 Cal 593 (596)  AIR 1969 Raj 278 (280) = 1969 Raj LW 343. (Where debts are due in severality, each creditor can bring a suit for recovering his share of the debt after impleading the remaining creditors as defendants irrespective of whether they were asked to join as plaintiffs and they declined to do so.)

(4) The presumption in the absence of any proof as to the proportion in which the loan was advanced by the co-creditors is that the money was advanced by them in equal shares and on that presumption each of them is entitled to receive his share of the total advances and give a valid discharge qua his share. ILR (1953) 3 Raj 318 (327)  ILR (1951) 1 Raj 187 (189). (Payment made to one cannot discharge debt due to others.)

(5) One of the promisees jointly entitled with another to a debt cannot when sued upon by the debtor for the recovery of a debt which was due from him alone, set off the joint debt. AIR 1954 Cal 303 (305) = ILR (1956) 1 Cal 102.

(6) A decree-holder holds such a legal character as to be able in law to give discharge on behalf of his co-decree holders. AIR 1924 Cal 710 (713) (DB). (Where succession certificate is taken by all decree-holders, adult certificate holders are not competent to give a valid discharge without the concurrence of the minor decree-holders.)

(7) See also Section 38.

Mortgages.

(8) Mortgagees taking a joint security for the money advanced must, in the absence of anything shown to the contrary, be regarded as tenants-in-common having separate interest in the money advanced and not as joint tenants. AIR 1921 Pat 27 (28) = 5 Pat L Jour 376 (DB).

(9) Co-mortgagees being tenants-in-common their interests are severable or partible among themselves; so that one of them can sue on the mortgage provided those who are unwilling to be joined as plaintiffs are made defendants. Similarly, if some of the co-mortgagees are estopped from suing, Court can sever debt and give decree to others for their share. AIR 1918 Cal 411 (412) (DB).

(10) Where several mortgagees advance money on a joint security without specifying their respective shares the presumption is that they had contributed equally to the raising of the amount advanced. AIR 1918 Oudh 91 (92).

(11) Payment to one co-mortgagee without consent of others does not give discharge of debt due to others. AIR 1930 All 98 (98, 99) (DB)  AIR 1928 Mad 933 (935) (DB). (One mortgagee accepting smaller amount in full satisfaction of mortgage and agreeing to pay share of co-mortgagor. Latter not consenting to arrangement is entitled to enforce against whole property his share of debt.)  AIR 1927 Cal 425 (429) (DB)  AIR 1922 Lah 64 (64) (DB). (Consent is necessary.)  AIR 1921 Pat 27 (28) = 5 Pat L Jour 376 (DB)  (1921) 3 Lah L Jour 502 (504). (Consent is necessary.)  AIR 1920 Pat 464 (468) = 5 Pat L Jour 151 (DB). (Release given by one co-mortgagee is not a discharge of entire mortgage much less a release given by one of heirs of a deceased mortgagee.)  AIR 1919 Cal 593 (596) (DB)  AIR 1915 Cal 528 (528) (DB)  (1911) 14 Oudh Cas 45 (47). (Consent of others is necessary.)  (1910) 32 All 164 (167) (DB).

[But see AIR 1957 Mad 191 (192). (Arrangement with co-mortgagee that he must remain in possession and appropriate income towards mortgage-debt — Income so appropriated amounts to actual payment and discharges mortgage against all mortgagees though there is no payment of a lump sum.)  AIR 1925 Mad 261 (263) = 48 Mad 693 (DB). (Payment made to one joint-mortgagee is valid discharge of mortgage liability. But a mere undertaking to pay the amount at some future date is not payment.)  (1909) 1 Ind Cas 219 (219) (DB) (Mad). (A release of a mortgagor by one of several joint mortgagees, on payment to him of the mortgage-debt, discharges the mortgagor from all liability under the mortgage to the other mortgagees, inasmuch as the mortgagor had made a promise to two mortgagees jointly and the right to claim performance rested with both mortgagees jointly.)]

(11) The principle that payment to one of several joint creditors does not operate as a discharge of the debts in so far as the other creditors are concerned is not applicable to a case where the payment is to a joint mortgagee who was the manager and agent of the others. AIR 1928 Cal 125 (126) (DB)  (1937) 169 Ind Cas 531 (531, 532) (Lah). (One co-heir cannot give valid discharge without consent of other — Payment to one is valid to the extent of his share; other's right to recover from the debtor is not affected.)  AIR 1918 Mad 29 (29, 30) = 41 Mad 637 (DB)  AIR 1916 Mad 1128 (1128) (DB).

(12) Where money was lent on joint account by two brothers who were appointed executors of the deceased testator by his will, the mortgagor in making repayment must see that he made the payment to and obtained a receipt from a person entitled to give him a discharge. AIR 1916 Cal 568 (568, 569) (DB).

(13) Payment to one of heirs of mortgagee does not bind the other heirs.

AIR 1915 Oudh 29 (30) = 18 Oudh Cas 154 (DB).

Payment of rent to one of co-lessors.

(14) Payment by tenant of the rent to one of two co-lessors will not discharge him from liability to pay the share of the other co-lessor unless there is an agreement between the co-lessors that the rent received shall be held by them jointly or a mutual grant of authority between them to receive the rent. AIR 1952 Mys 68 (69).

(15) Where a tenant pays off the entire rent due from him to one of two co-sharers, he can escape liability to the other, if he shows that his payment to that co-sharer was one made bona fide. But if the payment by him was made to defeat the claims of the other co-sharer, the latter's right to recover his share of rent is not affected. AIR 1916 Mad 208 (208, 209) (DB).

(16) Where under a rent-deed its executant describing A as the owner of the property stipulated to pay the rent only to her he cannot elect to pay it to B whose name also has been included in the deed on the ground that she is an elderly member of the family. Neither the mention of B's name in the deed nor the description of the property as "your property" is sufficient, in the face of the express recognition of A alone as the owner, to constitute B a joint lessor so as to entitle the executant to claim that the payment to her has discharged his liability for the rent. AIR 1952 Raj 115 (121, 122) = ILR (1952) 2 Raj 58 (DB).

Debt due to Hindu joint family.

(17) In the case of a debt due to a joint family, the payment made to the manager of the family would discharge the debt so as to bind the junior members of the family as well. AIR 1952 Mys 68 (69). (Even a junior member can be treated as a manager for the purpose where it is clear that he had been so treated by the other members of the family and allowed to receive payments due to the family.)

(18) Transaction of mortgage really entered into by joint Hindu family but executed in favour of minor member. Tender of mortgage money to managing member of family is good and valid tender in law. AIR 1922 All 355 (356) = 44 All 64 (DB).

(19) Payment made to junior member of joint Hindu family during lifetime of its manager in whose favour the bond was executed does not discharge the promisor. AIR 1918 Mad 29 (29) = 41 Mad 637 (DB).

(20) The payment of a debt due to a joint Hindu family to a member other than the karta of the family will not bind the other members of the family and discharge the debt unless the member receiving the payment had authority to do so from the karta himself. AIR 1951 Ajmer 11 (11, 12)  AIR 1933 Bom 245 (247) (DB).

(21) Where after mortgage to one member on behalf of family, partition had taken place, payment to one of divided members is not valid discharge. (1910) 20 Mad L Jour 709 (715) (DB).

(22) Order 36, Rule 6, Civil P. C. would certainly restrict the Hindu law powers of a father or manager of a joint Hindu family when he has been appointed as the next friend of the minor members to give a discharge but not when a different person is the next friend. (1949) 27 Mys LJ 74 (80, 82, 83) (DB).

(23) Though the right of a deceased person vests in his legal representatives in several shares, so far as the ancestor's debtor is concerned, they take as one unit and a suit to enforce the right must be instituted by all of them. The right can be exercised even by one also by producing in Court up to date of decree a succession certificate in his favour. 1964 Ker LJ 676.

(24) If a document is executed in favour of two persons who are members of the joint Hindu family, and concerns the business of that joint Hindu family, and one of them is the karta of the family, the karta alone can bring a suit, for he effectively represents the joint Hindu family. The other member of the family may be a proper party to the suit, but not a necessary party to the suit. The case is not at all covered by Section 45. 1960 Raj LW 129.

3. Suit by joint promisees. — (1) Under Section 45 of the Contract Act, it is not open to one of two or more joint promisees to sue alone either for performance of the promise in its entirety or to the extent of his share. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 688 (690) (DB)  AIR 1927 Mad 84 (84, 85)  1889 Pun Re No. 156 p. 518 (540, 541) (FB). (Defendant can object to frame of suit on the ground of non-joinder when all co-promisees have not been impleaded and if plaintiff proceeds with suit without adding all co-promisees even after objection suit must be dismissed. But defendants objection must be made in proper time.)  ('86) 10 Bom 32 (34) (DB). (All co-owners must join in suit to recover their property — Defendant cannot be deprived of his right to insist on the other co-owners being joined on the record by reason of there being evidence to show that they approve of the suit being brought by the plaintiff alone.)

[See also (1911) 33 All 327 (331) (DB). (As one of several heirs of a deceased cannot sue for his share of debt due to deceased it is also not permissible to give him a succession certificate to enable him to collect a part of the debt due to the deceased.)]

(2) All the joint promisees are necessary parties to a suit to enforce a joint promise and the omission to implead any would render the suit liable to be dismissed. 1946 Jaipur LR 130 (131)  AIR 1928 Sind 16 (16) (DB). (Two brokers employed in respect of single transaction — Suit by one for his own share of commission without impleading other broker as co-plaintiff or defendant is liable to be dismissed.)  AIR 1969 Raj 278 (280) = 1969 Raj LW 343. (Debts of 56 creditors to same debtor — Specified separately in joint agreement relating to debts — Suit by one creditor — Some creditors not impleaded — Suit not maintainable.)

(3) If, when a co-promisee is impleaded as a co-plaintiff, by an amendment of the plaint, the enforcement of the claim by him is barred by limitation, the suit by the other co-promisees should also fail in view of Section 45 of the Contract Act. AIR 1957 Raj 298 (299) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 613.

(4) Joint promisees have joint right of suit and consequently of appeal which would vest on the death of any one of them in the surviving promisees and the legal representatives of the deceased. Therefore the whole appeal would abate when these representatives are not substituted in the place of the deceased. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 89 (90) = ILR (1957) Madh Pra 21.

(5) One of several joint promisees may sue alone if other promisees refuse to join in action in which case they may be added as co-defendants and notice may be given to them. (1909) 9 Cal L Jour 331 (334) (DB)  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 688 (690) (DB)  (1908) 35 Cal 331 (345) = 35 Ind App 73 (PC).

(6) Where a hatchita was executed by a person in favour of himself and three others each having a definite share, it was held that a suit by two of the three promisees for their shares under the hatchita against the executant and the other promisee who refused to join with plaintiffs was maintainable. AIR 1941 Cal 595 (597, 598) (DB).

(7) One co-promisee may sue on his own account. Section 45 does not prohibit this and one plaintiff must not be held to have lost his rights to enforce an obligation because others entitled to share in that right have lost their remedy only by the expiry of the period of limitation, and have been joined as defendants. (1905) 1905 Pun Re No. 57, p. 192 (198) (FB).

(8) Section 45 does not govern the case of co-trustees and therefore, a surviving co-trustee can file a suit for rent from tenants without impleading the legal re-representatives of the deceased co-trustee. AIR 1949 Mad 654 (655, 656).

(9) Where one of the two joint promisees sues to enforce the claim for debt making the co-promisee defendant, the claim cannot be split up in the absence of facts to show that the co-promisee has abandoned his claim. AIR 1959 Raj 254 (256) = ILR (1958) 8 Raj 850.

Co-promisees under promissory note.

(10) One of the co-promisees under a promissory note is not entitled to bring a suit without making the other promisee also a party to it under S. 45 of the Contract Act, claim right to claim performance of the promise rests with them jointly. AIR 1936 Pat 274 (275) = 37 Cri L Jour 848.

(11) Although the plaintiff claims a money decree alleging himself to be the sole promisee the Court is justified in dismissing his suit on the ground of non-joinder of necessary parties where it finds that the debt in fact was not solely due to him but only jointly with two others who have not been impleaded. 1891 Pun Re No. 86, p. 422 (426, 427) (FB). (Where appellate Court finds itself in agreement with the lower Court on the question of non-joinder it has to simply confirm the lower Court's decree of dismissal and refrain from considering the question as to whether plaintiff should be allowed or not to amend the plaint.)

Joint mortgagees.

(12) The rule that all the promisees should combine to enforce a promise which is jointly in their favour applies to mortgages also. Therefore, a suit by a co-mortgagee by himself, without impleading the other mortgagees either as plaintiffs or defendants for the whole or part of the mortgaged property should be dismissed as being not maintainable. AIR 1950 All 598 (599, 603) = ILR (1951) 2 All 475 (FB)  AIR 1919 PC 24 (26) = 47 Cal 175 = 46 Ind App 272  (1913) 20 Ind Cas 151 (151) (DB) (All). (Suit by one co-mortgagee for sale of entire property to recover his share of debt due.)  1882 Pun Re No. 175, p. 519 (520) (DB). (Mortgage executed in favour of three persons — Suit by representative of one mortgagee alone — No indication in the bond to show an intention of the parties that right to demand performance was not to rest in all mortgagees — Suit as filed held was not maintainable.)  AIR 1968 All 201 (202).

(13) Mortgage — Several mortgagees — Suit by one mortgagee to enforce part of security — All mortgagees made parties — Allegation that other mortgagees had received their share of mortgage money — Plaintiff undertaking to increase amount of claim and pay court-fee if other mortgagees' claim not satisfied — Suit as framed competent — Suit as framed cannot possibly be defeated when all the mortgagees are parties thereto and plaintiffs seek to recover whatever is due in the security. AIR 1914 Cal 788 (789) (DB).

Suits relating to sale.

(14) One only of the several persons in whose favour an agreement to sell a certain property has been made cannot sue to claim specific performance of the agreement. (1912) 11 Mad L Tim 192 (193) (DB).

(15) The defendants sold a certain village to the plaintiff and his brother, fixing the price on the basis of the net income which the defendants stated at the time of the contract to be a certain amount. The plaintiff later on discovered that the defendants had overstated the income and made certain other fraudulent representations, and sued for compensation for the fraud of the defendants at the time of the sale, alleging that on a partition entered into subsequent to the purchase between himself and his brother the village fell to his share. Held, that the suit was not one of pure tort, but was one for a wrong arising out of a contract, and that the suit was bad for non-joinder, it having been brought only by one of the joint promisees; Held also, that the fact that there was subsequent partition between the plaintiff and his brother did not confer on plaintiff the right to sue the defendants for compensation. AIR 1932 Mad 583 (584) (DB).

Joint leases.

(16) Joint lease entered by co-promisees — Some suing for possession — Others impleaded as defendants on their refusal to join — Suit held maintainable 1912 Pun LR No. 49 p. 150 (158) = 1911 Pun Re No. 57, p. 220 (DB).

(17) A suit for ejectment can be brought against a tenant by sufferance by one co-sharer landlord alone. With regard to realisation of arrears of rent, however, all the co-owners must join as the property belongs to them jointly and the liability arises out of the contract of tenancy. AIR 1956 Madh B 35 (37). (Suit for ejectment and recovery of arrears of rent and mesne profits is not wholly a suit to enforce the contract of tenancy. It can be maintained by one of the co-owners as a suit for possession against a trespasser.)

[See however (1964) All LJ 465 (DB). (When a lease is granted jointly by two persons, one of them cannot bring a suit for ejectment and arrears of rent, as he cannot terminate the tenancy and the rent is also payable jointly.)

collusively and not bona fide pays the rent to one of the co-lessors, the payment operates as a discharge of that co-lessor's share only and the other co-lessor can maintain a suit for his share of rent without making the other co-lessor, who has received the money, party to it. AIR 1945 All 311 (315, 316) = ILR (1945) All 165 (DB).

(19) A suit for enhancement of rent under the Bengal Tenancy Act, 8 of 1885, being an action in which all the landlords are required to act together by the Statute itself the rule which permits one of the landlords to bring a suit by himself provided he makes the other joint landlords parties-defendant to the suit will not apply to such suits. Suits by Joint Families.

(20) Joint cause of action by members of an undivided Hindu family against defendant — Suit in name of only one member not maintainable. (1895) 18 Mad 33 (35, 36) (DB).

(21) Where the right of a person to recover certain debt has devolved upon his sons jointly and the sons constitute a joint Hindu family, they can file only one suit against their debtors for the recovery of the whole amount. Some of them cannot split up the claim and institute a suit for a part thereof on their own behalf on the ground that others did not join with them as co-plaintiffs. In such a case, it would be incumbent upon those instituting suit to claim the whole amount on behalf of themselves and their brothers on payment of the full court-fees and to make their brothers who refused to join as co-defendants. AIR 1939 Sind 173 (176) = ILR (1939) Kar 602 (DB).

(22) Plaintiff alone suing defendant for joint debt due to him and three brothers in a joint Hindu family — Defendant can insist on all the contractors being made co-plaintiffs when there is a joint cause of action notwithstanding an expression of willingness by the other members of the family that the plaintiff should sue alone. (1883) 7 Bom 217, (219) (DB).

(23) Members of joint Hindu family firm having a joint cause of action against defendant — Defendant has a right to ask to join all members in suit for enforcement of claim, though plaintiff may afterwards adjust sums recovered with his co-contractors. (1881) 6 Cal 815 (826) (DB).

(24) Suit for recovery of debt, secured or unsecured, due to Hindu Joint family — Some members refusing to join as plaintiffs can be made defendants. (1912) 9 All L Jour 410 (417) (DB).

(25) Manager of joint Hindu family can enforce contract made with family — Junior members not necessary parties. (1911) 33 All 272 (277, 278) = 38 Ind App 45 (PC).

4. Devolution of joint rights. — (1) The rule of survivorship which according to the English common law applies in the case of devolution of joint rights has no place in India inasmuch as Section 45 has not recognised the rule. AIR 1948 Nag 279 (282) = ILR (1947) Nag 553 (DB).

(2) Where the agreement between the parties does not specify any shares and it is impossible to say in what shares the consideration was to be paid by or the land to be divided between the parties, the right to enforce the contract, on the death of one of the parties, vests in his legal representative along with others and not in others alone. AIR 1935 Lah 478 (479) (DB).

(3) Where one of several joint tenants is liable for the whole rent, on the death of one of such joint tenants leaving a number of heirs, the liability is joint and not several because the bundle of rights and liabilities which was in one such joint tenant is, by operation of law transferred to number of co-parceners who constitute in law one heir. AIR 1924 Cal 165 (166, 167) = 50 Cal 737 (DB). (Following 25 Mad 26.)  AIR 1960 Cal 187 (189). (On the death of original promisee, a single individual, his heirs do not become themselves several joint promisees.)

(4) Where a person solely entitled to a certain amount in deposit with a party wrote to that party asking him to convert the account into a joint account in the name of himself and his wife payable to either or survivor and upon which both of them could operate and that letter was not signed by the wife as well it was held that the wife who was merely a volunteer did not thereby become a joint creditor of that person. Hence where the person entitled to the amount closes the account the amount becomes a part of his own estate and simply because the amount continues to remain with the debtor due to his death before payment could be made it cannot confer any right on the wife towards that amount. AIR 1957 Cal 585 (589).

(5) Mortgage in favour of B and D — Suit by B alone — D dying during course of suit — B acquiring D's rights of recovering debts — Non-joinder of D held immaterial — B, although he had no right to sue on the day when he instituted the suit, had acquired the full and exclusive right when D died. AIR 1939 Nag 242 (244) = ILR (1939) Nag 515 (DB).

Time and place of performance

(6) Appeal by all plaintiffs in suit by several co-sharers — Common cause — One appellant dying during pendency of appeal — No legal representative brought on record — Court can pass any decree as the case required even though no legal representative is brought on record — Section 45, Contract Act, does not apply. AIR 1941 Oudh 155 (158) = 16 Luck 382.

(7) Part-assignment of debt is valid in law, and action can be maintained thereon by the transferee provided he makes both the transferor and other assignees that may be concerned parties to the suit. AIR 1941 Lah 337 (340) (DB).

(8) In a case of a joint debt, an assignment by one of the joint creditors does not enable the assignee to enforce the payment of the whole debt. AIR 1937 Cal 532 (533).

5. Partnership cases. — (1) Section 45 of the Act has no application to debts due to trading partnerships. Although the right of the deceased partner devolves on his executors, the remedy survives to his co-partners, who alone must enforce the remedy by action. AIR 1923 Lah 197 (200) = 4 Lah 142 (DB)  AIR 1929 Rang 306 (307) = 7 Rang 806  (1894) 17 Mad 108 (117) (DB).

[But see (1897) 21 Bom 412 (421, 422) (Representative of deceased partner alone may sue for recovery of debt to the firm, even where the business of the firm is continued by the surviving partner.)]

(2) Right of suit on death of partner — See Order 30, Rule 4, Civil P. C.

(3) The representatives of a deceased partner are not necessary parties to a suit for the recovery of a debt which accrued due to the partnership in the lifetime of the deceased partner. (1893) 17 Bom 6 (14) (DB)  (1913) 17 Cal L Jour 648 (651)  AIR 1961 Madh Pra 314 (315) = 1961 MPLJ 538.

(4) Although one partner alone cannot sue for partnership debt, yet he can use name of firm and of co-partners so as to be able to sue, and unwilling partner can only claim indemnity for costs. AIR 1917 Pat 246 (246) (DB).

(5) If surviving partners refuse to sue for recovery of debts due to firm the remedy of the legal representative of deceased partner lies in suit against others for winding up, for accounts and for appointment of receiver. AIR 1914 Low Bur 58 (61) = 8 Low Bur Rul 130 (DB).

(6) Where a partner of a dissolved firm collects his share of debts, impleading others, the other partners can sue for their share of debts. AIR 1919 Lah 14 (15) = 1919 Pun Re No. 128 p. 332.

(7) Where firm is dissolved, suit by one partner for individual share of a debt, owing to the firm, is not maintainable even if other partners are made co-defendants. AIR 1924 Nag 196 (197).

(8) Payment to one of two partners constituting firm operates as discharge. AIR 1920 Lah 53 (54).

(9) Section 45 has not been modified by the Civil Procedure Code, save as appears in Order 30, which is confined to cases where suits are brought not by individuals but in the name of firms. AIR 1927 Lah 115 (117) = 8 Lah 1 (DB).

(10) Rule 4, Order 30, Civil P. C., is enacted to set at rest doubt in connection with Section 45, Contract Act, regarding suits by or against firms. AIR 1927 Bom 581 (591) = 51 Bom 986 (DB).

(11) It is true that Order 30, Civil P. C. constitutes an exception to Section 45, Contract Act, but to press that provision into service the plaintiff must disclose that the suit or application has been brought by the firm and the partners signing the same have done so only as partners. A suit in which the plaintiff makes no mention of the firm at all is nothing but a suit brought by an individual partner to enforce a contract entered into by the firm and would therefore be bad for non-joinder of necessary parties if all the other partners are not impleaded. AIR 1958 Punj 260 (262, 263) = 60 Punj LR 27 (DB)  AIR 1969 Guj 178 (191) = 10 Guj LR 457 (DB).

(12) The suit on behalf of the firm can be filed equally by all the partners who are co-promisees and all of whom are under Section 45 of Indian Contract Act joined together in enforcing a promise against a third party promisor. AIR 1969 Guj 178 (185).

(1) When no time is fixed for completion of sale, it must be implied that it is to be completed in a reasonable time. AIR 1930 PC 165 (169)  AIR 1951 Orissa 291 (294) = ILR (1949) 1 Cut 593 (DB)  AIR 1967 Guj 130 (137) (Loss or deterioration of goods consigned — Damages for — Question of delay in conveying goods — Test is reasonable time and not the normal time.)

(2) Though "normal" or "usual time" is not always equivalent to the "reasonable time" in determining the question whether the contract is performed in "reasonable time" or not one of the important circumstances that requires to be considered is what is the usual or normal time taken for the performance promise without application by the promisee, and no time for performance is specified, the engagement must be performed within a reasonable time.

Explanation.—The question “what is a reasonable time” is, in each particular case, a question of fact.

of such contracts. Even the question whether it should be taken into consideration or not will depend upon the particular facts of each case. AIR 1967 Guj 130 (137).

(3) Where an agreement to convey land provides that the vendee would be bound to reconvey the land to the vendor it must be taken that the parties contemplated the performance of contract within reasonable time as implied by law and the agreement cannot be challenged on the ground of vagueness. AIR 1951 Mad 767 (768).

(4) The law engrafts on the contract a condition that reasonable time, in the absence of any specific time provided in the contract, will be of the essence of the contract and if the contract is not performed within that reasonable time by any of the parties, that party will be deemed to be guilty of breach of duty or breach of contract. AIR 1958 Punj 111 (115) = ILR (1958) Punj 294 (DB).

(5) Even if time be not of the essence of the contract, under Section 46, it has to be performed within reasonable time. So if there is unnecessary delay on the part of the plaintiff it would be open to the other party to put an end to the contract by giving a notice before its termination. AIR 1950 Nag 238 (240) = ILR (1950) Nag 386 (DB).

(6) The question as to what is a reasonable time is a question of fact. (11) 22 Mad LJ 207 (211) (DB)  1967 All LJ 323  AIR 1967 Guj 130 (137). (What is “reasonable time” depends upon the circumstances of each case.)

(8) In a contract of purchase of shares, reasonable period for its completion held would be two months. AIR 1950 PC 90 (96) = 77 Ind App 76 = ILR (1950) Bom 606.

(9) B agreeing with A to pay certain debts owing by A — Three years from date of contract held was reasonable time for performance. (1912) 22 Mad LJ 207 (211) (DB).

(10) Contract for sale of goods — Goods to be delivered in instalments — Dates of delivery of instalments not fixed — Instalments must be deemed to be rateably distributed over period appointed for delivery of whole quantity of goods. AIR 1917 Cal 721 (727) = 43 Cal 305 (FB).

(11) Person borrowing ornaments for use in ceremony — It is unreasonable for him to detain them after completion of ceremony and demand by their owner. AIR 1930 Oudh 395 (396, 397) = 6 Luck 80 (DB).

(12) Subsequent mortgagee to redeem prior mortgages — Time not fixed for such redemption — Puisne mortgagee must redeem within reasonable time, i.e., by the first date when redemption is obtainable. AIR 1918 Oudh 331 (332)  AIR 1925 Oudh 132 (134)  (1900) 23 Mad 441 (443, 444) (DB).

(13) Mining leases not containing time for payment of royalty — Royalty must be paid within reasonable time of coal being raised and three months held reasonable. AIR 1940 Pat 609 (609, 610) (DB).

(14) Where no time for performance of contract is specified and the contract is not performed by a party within reasonable time, the other party is not bound to give a prior notice to perform the contract within a specified time before treating the contract as revoked or rescinded. AIR 1962 Pat 155 (157) = 1962 BLJR 225 (DB).

(15) There is no difference in law between a contract where the time is fixed by the act of the parties and a contract where no time is fixed and by implication of the law the contract is to be performed within a reasonable time. AIR 1962 Pat 155 (158) = 1962 BLJR 225 (DB).

(16) Time will be of the essence of the contract if it is so provided in the contract or if one of the parties after unreasonable delay on the part of the other party gives a reasonable notice to the other party making time as of the essence of the contract. If none of the two has happened, reasonable time will be deemed to be the time which will be of the essence of the contract. If the contract is not performed within that reasonable time by any of the parties that party will be deemed to be guilty of breach of duty or breach of contract. AIR 1958 Punj 111 (115) = 60 Pun LR 97 (DB).

(17) Ordinarily, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, time is not of the essence of a contract for sale of immovable property and there is nothing wrong if the plaintiff exercises his right to claim specific performance within the period of limitation prescribed by the law. AIR 1965 Raj 115 (118) = 1965 Raj LW 37.

Time and place for performance of promise, where time is specified and no application to be made.—When promise is to be performed on a certain day, and the promisor has undertaken to perform it without application by the promisee, the promisor may perform it at any time during the usual hours of business on such day and at the place* at which the promise ought to be performed.

48. Application for performance on certain day to be at proper time and place.—When a promise is to be performed on a certain day, and the promisor has not undertaken to perform it without application by the promisee, it is the duty of the promisee* to apply for performance at a proper place and within the usual hours of business.

Explanation.—The question "what is a proper time and place" is, in each particular case, a question of fact.

(1) Section 47 applies only when a certain day is fixed for performance. (1907) 9 Bom LR 903 (909).

(2) Under a contract governed by the rules of the Bombay Cotton Trade Association the vendor is bound to tender a delivery order backed by the goods before 1 p.m. of due date. (3) Acceptance by mortgagor of part of mortgage money after agreed period does not amount to new contract but is mere acquiescence in late payment. AIR 1924 Pat 825 (829) (DB).

(4) Electric supply company -- Discount to be allowed for prompt payment—Consumer receiving bill after expiry of date fixed for payment with discount is not entitled to fresh bill fixing fresh date for payment. AIR 1934 Lah 292 (292, 293) = 15 Lah 729.

(5) The instalment due in 1947 was payable on the 1st May, 1947. Held, that the remittance of the money order from a different place on 1-5-1947 could not be said to be payment to the creditor on or before the 1st May, 1947. It was not suggested that the remittance reached the creditor on the same day. So the creditor was not bound to accept the remittance towards the instalment due on the 1st May, 1947. AIR 1954 Nag 270 (271) = ILR (1954) Nag 452 (DB).

(1) Sections 48 and 49 clearly indicate that the mode of performance of a contract is a question of fact in a particular case. AIR 1944 Nag 330 (332) = ILR (1945) Nag 252.

AIR 1944 Nag 330 (332) = ILR (1945) Nag 252.

(3) The plaintiff took a licence from the defendant to take wood from the defendant's forest and deposited a certain amount as security in the treasury maintained by the defendant. the place where the treasury was maintained. In the suit by the plaintiff to recover the security deposit, the defendant contended that he was justified in insisting on the plaintiff's personal attendance at the place of the treasury for payment and should not, therefore, be made liable for costs of the suit. It was not established by the defendant that personal attendance by the plaintiff was a term to be annexed to the contract to refund: Held, that though the matter may not be governed directly by Section 48, the plaintiff in applying for refund must be taken to have applied at a proper place in circumstances where performance could be made within usual hours of business by remittance of the amount. SECTION 49 — SYNOPSIS

1. Rule that debtor must seek creditor.
2. Place of performance.
3. Place of repayment of deposit.
4. Place of payment of rent.
5. Place of payment in case of contract of agency.
6. Place of delivery of goods.
7. Promissory note payable on demand.

1. Rule that debtor must seek creditor. — (1) It is a common law rule that where no place of payment is specified, either expressly or by implication, the debtor must seek out his creditor. (1905) 7 Bom LR 993 (994) (DB)  AIR 1955 Cal 413 (414)  AIR 1950 Madh B 72 (75) (DB)  AIR 1960 Mad 64 (69) = 1960 Cri LJ 242 = (1959) 2 Mad LJ 521 (FB).

(2) The common law rule is a reasonable rule and is in conformity with justice and equity as it recognises the obligation of the debtor to pay his debt by going to his creditor and imposes this obligation only when there is no express contract to the contrary. AIR 1956 Bom 111 (112) (DB)  AIR 1968 Guj 276 (279) = 9 Guj LR 932  AIR 1966 Cal 259 (264)  AIR 1965 Andh Pra 231 (234) = (1965) 2 Andh LT 16  AIR 1964 Cal 418 (421) (DB)  AIR 1961 Raj 93 (97) = 1960 Raj LW 397. (If it is not possible to establish such agreement, the court can apply the rule. If, however, on a consideration of the various circumstances, it is not possible to arrive at a finding as to an express or implied agreement, other factors cannot be considered along with the rule for determining place of performance.)

(3) In applying the general rule regard must be had to the proper place at the time when the money is payable. AIR 1955 Cal 413 (415).

(4) By British law the duty of a debtor to find and pay his creditor is only imposed upon him when the creditor is within the realm. AIR 1925 PC 290 (292) = 53 Ind App 58 = 53 Cal 88  1953 BLJR 626 (627). (This principle is applied in India where both the debtor and creditor are within one realm.)

(5) Section 49 does not preclude the application of the rule of English Common Law that the debtor must seek out his creditor and pay his debt where the creditor happens to reside, unless there is an arrangement to the contrary and does not get rid of the inference which should justly be drawn from the terms of the contract itself or from the necessities of the case. AIR 1941 Mad 695 (696) (DB)  AIR 1956 Bom 111 (111) (DB)  AIR 1936 Cal 97 (99) = 63 Cal 726  AIR 1936 Rang 251 (252)  AIR 1915 Nag 65 (67) = 11 Nag LR 189  (1913) 20 Ind Cas 683 (683) (Low Bur)  ILR (1960) 10 Raj 43.

[But see AIR 1961 Raj 93 (97) = 1960 Raj LW 397. (AIR 1936 Cal 97 and AIR 1950 Bom 111, Dissented from.)]

(6) There has been a pronounced disinclination on the part of the Indian Courts to apply to this country unreservedly the English Common Law that a debtor should find and pay his creditor and that generally speaking that place of payment has to be determined, independently of any such general maxim, with reference to the terms of the contract, the circumstances attending on it, the necessities of the case and having regard also to the statutory provision contained in the Code of Civil Procedure and in Section 49 of the Contract Act. AIR 1957 Mad 201 (205, 206) * AIR 1946 Mad 300 (304).

(7) The rule of debtor seeking the creditor is not applicable in India for the purpose of determining the local jurisdiction of the Courts. AIR 1951 Punj 33 (42) (DB)  ILR (1961) 2 Ker 664 (DB).

(8) Assuming that in regard to the recovery of the amount of deposit or advance upon breach of contract the principle of law is that unless the right is excluded by the terms of the contract, money paid for consideration which fails becomes money received by one party to the use of the other party and is recoverable as a debt, the rule that the debtor must find his creditor would apply only if the suit is confined to a return of the advance and nothing more and then the forum would be the place where the plaintiff resides. AIR 1957 Mad 201 (206).

(9) Where the plaintiff is suing on the basis of a contract and the breach thereof, the question of jurisdiction has to be decided on the determination of the question of the breach of contract and not on the relationship of debtor and creditor and hence the Common Law rule that debtor must find the creditor does not apply. AIR 1957 Mad 201 (206).

(10) In the case of a wife claiming maintenance from her husband and claiming return of ornaments against her father-in-law: Held, that neither the husband nor the father-in-law were debtors and the English rule had no application to the case. Even if they were debtors, the common law rule did not apply inasmuch as in the case of husband, his liability, if any, did not arise out of contract. It arose, if at all, because he maltreated his wife to such a degree that she could not live with him any longer and in the case of the father-in-law, it was reasonable to infer that the parties contemplated re-payment and delivery of the cash and articles at the family house or at the place where the wife was residing with her husband. AIR 1941 Mad 695 (696) (DB).

(11) Neither Section 49 nor the English rule of debtor seeking creditor applies when the obligation to be discharged is not the obligation to fulfil a promise express or implied but is different as for example, liability arising out of breach of contract or out of tort or agency. AIR 1960 Ker 188 (190) = 1960 Ker LT 1.

2. Place of performance.— (1) The Contract Act makes no provision for place of performance when no time or place is fixed and where there is no provision to perform without application (1907) 9 Bom LR 903 (910).

(2) The creditor's place of residence at the time when contract was made will often be deemed, by fair implication of fact, the place of performance contracted for. AIR 1959 All 612 (613) = 1957 All LJ 423  AIR 1960 Punj 450 (453, 455) = 62 Punj LR 462 (FB). (AIR 1955 Punj 128, Approved.)

(3) It is only where the contract does not stipulate the place of performance, that Section 49 will come into play. AIR 1957 Mad 201 (204)  AIR 1959 All 612 (614) = 1957 All LJ 423.

(4) The rule as to the place of performance, whether it be payment or any other mode of performance, is to be determined by Section 49. AIR 1927 PC 156 (158) = 54 Ind App 265 = 5 Rang 451  (1905) 7 Bom LR 993 (994) (DB).

(5) Strictly, Section 49 only comes into operation when there is an application by the promisor to the promisee. Where it is not suggested that the promisor made any application to the promisee for the performance of the contract Section 49 would have no application. AIR 1956 Bom 111 (111) (DB).

(6) The promise to pay the creditor implies that the debtor will find the creditor to pay him and will pay where the creditor is; under Section 49, Contract Act, it is reasonable to suppose that if the debtor applies for a place to be appointed the creditor will appoint the place where he himself resides, at any rate, he has the power so to appoint. AIR 1935 Bom 283 (284) = 59 Bom 365.

(7) The duty having been cast on the promisor by Section 49 to apply to the promisee to appoint a place for the performance of his obligation he cannot improve his position by neglecting to perform that duty. AIR 1946 Mad 300 (301)  AIR 1935 Bom 283 (284) = 59 Bom 365.

(8) Where place of performance is not mentioned in the contract, a Court is not precluded from finding out implied intention of the parties in regard to the place of performance. (1941) 22 Pat L Tim 282 (283)  AIR 1961 Pat 198 (199) = 1960 BLJR 697 (DB).

(9) Contract silent as to place of payment of liability — Payment should be made where creditor is — Intention of parties to the contract must be seen. AIR 1927 PC 156 (158) = 54 Ind App 265 = 5 Rang 451  AIR 1956 Orissa 147 (151) (DB)  AIR 1946 Mad 300 (301, 304)  AIR 1933 Sind 62 (64) (DB)  AIR 1930 Nag 207 (208) = 26 Nag LR 300  (1906) 30 Bom 167 (171).

(10) Section 49 clearly indicates that the mode of performance of contract is a question of fact in a particular case.

When the manner and the place of repayment of money are not the subject of express contract it is the duty of the Court to gather what, by necessary implication, having regard to the nature of the contract and the circumstances in which it was entered into, the parties must have meant. AIR 1944 Nag 330 (332) = ILR (1945) Nag 252  AIR 1964 Cal 418 (421)  AIR 1961 Pat 198 (199) = 1960 BLJR 697 (DB).

(11) If from the circumstances in which the contract in question was entered into it is reasonable to infer that the intention of the parties was that performance was to be in a certain place, that inference should be drawn whether the rule of the English Common Law which requires the debtor to seek the creditor applies or not to India. AIR 1938 Mad 977 (978, 979).

(12) Where A, a trader at Karachi had business with B in India who contracted to pay A at Karachi and on partition A came to India as displaced person and settled at place X, B was not bound to seek his creditor A at place X. AIR 1960 Raj 243 (244) = 1960 Raj LW 185.

(13) The rule that a debtor must seek his creditor does not entitle the creditor in the absence of contract to the contrary to claim payment beyond the jurisdiction of the country, where the contract was made. The contract was made in Pakistan (the date of the contract being after the partition of India), and the creditor was not entitled on shifting to India to say that the payment should be made at his new place of residence. AIR 1959 All 612 (613, 614) = 1957 All LJ 423.

(14) Neither Section 49 nor the English rule of debtor seeking creditor applies where the obligation to be discharged is not the obligation to fulfil a promise express or implied but is different as for example, liability arising out of breach of contract or out of tort or agency. AIR 1960 Ker 188 (190) = 1960 Ker LT 1.

3. Place of repayment of deposit.—(1) The general rule that debtor must seek the creditor which may be applicable to the case of private money-lender and a borrower, has no application to the case of a fixed depositor in a Bank which is a limited company. AIR 1944 Nag 330 (331) = ILR (1945) Nag 252.

(2) In the absence of any specific contract to that effect, it cannot be said that a fixed deposit with a bank is repayable at any place where the depositor resides. The plaintiff depositor must prove that the money was repayable at the place where he resides. AIR 1940 All 243 (244) = ILR (1940) All 207.

(3) When there is no indication in the contract or otherwise of the intention of the parties where, on breach of the agreement, the deposit has to be returned, it is the duty of the defendant to return the deposit to the plaintiff at the plaintiff's residence. ILR (1957) Ker 932 (939)  ILR (1960) 10 Raj 187.

(4) Government not refunding security deposit — Security money became debt due from Government — Rule that debtor must seek creditor applicable. AIR 1966 All 159 (160) = (1966) 2 Lab LJ 365.

(5) Bilticut transaction between defendant and plaintiff — Suit for recovery of amount deposited with seller as advance for transactions which did not materialise — Deposit is in nature of debt — Defendant bound to pay to plaintiff at latter's place. AIR 1962 Raj 122 (126) = 1961 Raj LW 606.

4. Place of payment of rent.—(1) Where a lease is silent as to the place where the rent is to be paid, the question as to where it is payable is to be decided with reference to Section 49. AIR 1938 Mad 977 (978).

(2) Where the contract of lease does not fix a place for the payment of rent and the lessee does not apply to the lessor to fix a place for payment, under Section 49 of the Contract Act, the duty of the lessee is to pay the rent where the lessor is. This duty is not dependent on a demand being made by the lessor. AIR 1955 Nag 202 (203) = ILR (1955) Nag 977  AIR 1933 All 147 (148).

(3) The principle of law that a debtor has to find his creditor and discharge his debt to him if the contract does not provide for the place of payment is applicable in case of a tenant who has covenanted to pay rent to his landlord and the covenant does not provide for the place of payment. AIR 1953 Bom 280 (281) = ILR (1953) Bom 633 (DB).

5. Place of payment in case of contract of agency.—(1) In cases where the relationship is one of agency, the place of payment has to be determined independently of the general rule of English common law with reference to the terms of the contract, the circumstances attending on it and the necessities of the case. AIR 1946 Mad 300 (304)  AIR 1960 Ker 188 (190) = 1960 Ker LT 1.

(2) In the absence of specific terms in a contract the general law that the debtor must find the creditor, will apply in deciding the place where the profits and losses were to be paid in a contract of agency. AIR 1952 Raj 81 (83) = ILR (1951) 1 Raj 531 (DB).

(3) Where certain persons staying at R enter into a contract of agency with a person staying at M, undertaking to sell his goods on commission at R, there is an implied obligation on them, arising from the necessities of the case, that they should pay their principal at his place of residence M. AIR 1936 Rang 251 (253)

(4) In the case of Pakki Adat agency primarily the place of payment is the place where the constituent resides but where the constituent has chosen to give directions to the effect that the payment should be made at any other place, it should be so done — Per Chandavarkar J. (1909) 33 Bom 364 (368) (DB).

(5) A firm A carried on the business of commission agents both at Indore and Jodhpur. B from Jodhpur entered into contracts for purchase and sale of bullion through the firm at Indore. These transactions proved unprofitable to B and the amount of loss was paid to third parties at Indore by A on behalf of B. B paid part of the dues to A and for the balance he was sued at Jodhpur. It was held that it was the statutory right which flowed from the contract of agency that A was seeking to enforce against B and the suit had been brought in the Jodhpur Court as the defendant resided within the jurisdiction and the fact that in case of Pakki Adat the place of payment was normally where the constituent resides was immaterial. AIR 1954 SC 500 (502) = 1955 SCR 439.

(6) Insurance company at Lahore appointing certain person working at Meerut as its chief agent for Rajputana and Bundelkhand area — Appointment made at Lahore and all payments to be made at Lahore — Appointment subsequently cancelled — Suit by agent at Ajmer for damages for cancellation of the appointment — Subsequent suit by the company at Lahore for recovery of certain amount due by agent: Held, that the cause of action arose at Lahore and that Section 49 was not applicable to the case. AIR 1940 Lah 85 (86, 87).

(7) If by an agreement, express or implied, by the creditor, the debtor is authorised to pay the debt by a cheque and to send the cheque to the creditor by post the post office is the agent of the creditor to receive the cheque and the creditor receives the payment as soon as the cheque is posted to him. AIR 1966 SC 1466 (1469) = (1966) 2 SCR 651.

(8) Where money was deposited by the plaintiff resident of Sibi in Pakistan, with the defendant at Meerut, who was a commission agent to be utilised by the latter at Meerut for purchasing Jaggery, there was an implied agreement for repayment at Meerut and not at Sibi and hence the rule that 'debtor must find creditor' did not apply. AIR 1961 Raj 93 (98) = 1960 Raj LW 397.

(9) Bank at Madras transferring customer's amount, upon customer's instructions standing in his name at Bank's Head Office at London, to Karachi Branch — Bank's Agency comes to an end as soon as amount is transferred — It is not under obligation to repatriate the amount from Karachi to Madras. AIR 1965 Mad 266 (274) = (1965) 1 Andh WR 351.

6. Place of delivery of goods.— (1) Section 49 applies to promises for payment of money as well as to promises for delivery of goods. AIR 1933 All 147 (148)  AIR 1927 PC 156 (158) = 54 Ind App 265 = 5 Rang 451.

(2) Section 49 is only a general provision and in the case of a contract for sale of goods is modified by Section 93 of the Contract Act. (1911) 10 Ind Cas 18 (19) (Oudh).

(3) Where a contract provided for delivery of the goods 'at any place in Bengal' and the place of delivery was to be mentioned thereafter and accordingly the buyer specified the place of delivery in a letter sent to the seller it was held that the contract resembled what was contemplated in Section 49. (1897) 24 Cal 8 (17) = 23 Ind App 119 (PC).

(4) Even in a case where goods are sent by V. P. P. the contract is intended to be performed at the place where the goods are to be received and the Court at that place has jurisdiction to try the suit arising out of the contract. AIR 1934 Mad 581 (582).

(5) When a seller takes goods to the buyer without any order from him and negotiates and effects a sale it must be taken, in the absence of anything to the contrary, that, from the very nature of and circumstances of the transaction, the intention of the parties was that payment should be made at the buyer's place. AIR 1960 Ker 188 (190) = 1960 Ker LT 1.

(6) In case of Bilticut transactions delivery of the railway receipt to the buyer after endorsing it in his favour is necessary to give him title to the goods. The place where it is to be delivered is the place where the performance of the contract is to be completed and the place of payment of money is the place where the buyer resides. The Court of that place has therefore, jurisdiction to try a suit arising out of such a contract. AIR 1962 Raj 122 (125) = 1961 Raj LW 606.

7. Promissory note payable on demand.— (1) Section 49 deals with a contract between a promisor and a promisee and has no application to matters governed by the law merchant, which is contained for the most part, in the Negotiable Instruments Act. AIR 1942 Bom 251 (255) = ILR (1942) Bom 620 (DB)  AIR 1954 Madh B 184 (188, 189) = ILR (1954) Madh B 343 (FB)  (1963) 4 Gui LR 305. (Sections 49 and 50 apply to a document which is not negotiable instrument but amounts to a promise to pay the stated amount together with interest.)  AIR 1961 Cal 321 (328) = 65 Cal WN 113 (DB). (AIR 1940 Cal 443, Dissented from.)

50. Performance in manner or at time prescribed or sanctioned by promisee.—The performance of any promise may be made in any manner, or at any time which the promisee prescribes or sanctions.

(a) B owes A 2,000 rupees. A desires B to pay the amount to A's account with C a banker. B who also banks with C, orders the amount to be transferred from his account to A's credit, and this is done by C. Afterwards, and before A knows of the transfer, C fails. There has been a good payment by B.

(b) A and B are mutually indebted. A and B settle an account by setting off one item against another, and B pays A the balance found to be due from him upon such settlement. This amounts to a payment by A and B, respectively, of the sums which they owed to each other.

(c) A owes B 2,000 rupees. B accepts some of A's goods in reduction of the debt. The delivery of goods operates as a part payment.

(d) A desires B, who owes him Rs. 100, to send him a note for Rs. 100 by post. The debt is discharged as soon as B puts into the post a letter containing the note duly addressed to A.

(10) Where money is due to a person from another, then the liability to pay that money can be discharged only by repaying it in cash unless the parties expressly agree to some other mode of discharging that liability. If there is an agreement that the liability has to be discharged not by paying cash but by a bank draft this agreement has to be pleaded and proved. In the absence of this, it must be taken that the liability has to be discharged by payment of cash. 1958 Nag LJ 364 = (1959) 29 Com Cas 41 = ILR (1958) Bom 1386 = AIR 1959 Bom 267 (268) = 61 Bom LR 1127  AIR 1957 All 293 (293).

(11) The illustration attached to S. 50 clearly indicates that the direction by the drawer of the cheque to the bank to put the amount in the credit of the payee amounts to payment by the drawer to the payee. If the payee deposits the cheques in his current account, it is as good as a payment of cash to the bank unless the drawer had no funds in the bank to meet the amount of the cheque. AIR 1960 Assam 191 (202) = (1961) 31 Com Cas 91 (DB).

SECTION 51 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Simultaneous performance.
3. Readiness and willingness.
4. Burden of proof.
5. Pleadings.

1. Scope. — (1) Where promises are reciprocal each party has always the option to perform his part of the contract but one party cannot insist on the other performing his promise without himself performing what he has agreed to do. AIR 1925 Mad 1029 (1030)  1967 Raj LW 498 = ILR (1967) 17 Raj 917. (Contract on behalf of minor for purchase of immovable property.)

(2) Where the agreements between the parties are reciprocal one of them cannot be enforced if the other is void and unenforceable. (1928) 106 Ind Cas 823 (823) (Lah)  AIR 1962 Assam 41 (46) = ILR (1961) 13 Assam 357 (DB).

2. Simultaneous performance. — (1) Unless otherwise agreed delivery of goods and payment of price are concurrent conditions in a contract for sale of goods. AIR 1925 Mad 971 (971) (DB)  (1870) 2 NWPB CR 60 (61)  AIR 1962 Cal 103 (108) (DB).

(2) In a c.i.f. contract payment of price for the goods has to be made simultaneously with the delivery of documents. Promise by the buyer to pay on or before the arrival of the steamer cannot be construed as a stipulation to pay even before the tender of documents. AIR 1958 Mad 43 (51) = ILR (1957) Mad 1108 (DB).

taneously performed, no promisor need perform his promise unless the promisee is ready and willing to perform his reciprocal promise.

(3) Where a decree for maintenance provided inter alia, that from out of the amount of past maintenance to be paid by the defendant, the plaintiff should get a reconveyance in her favour in respect of the property she had sold, it was held that the obligations of the plaintiff and the defendant were concurrent obligations. 1947-2 Mad LJ 361 (363).

(4) Where a consent decree in substance provided that on the defendant paying a certain sum of money the plaintiff company should transfer some shares to the defendant, it was held that the promises were not reciprocal promises to be performed simultaneously. AIR 1950 FC 8 (10, 11) = 1949 FCR 501  AIR 1963 Cal 583 (585) = 67 Cal WN 947 (DB).

(5) Where on payment by RD the costs of receiver and on his writing certain letters to receiver F was to pay £5000 to RD it was held that the reciprocal promises were incapable of simultaneous performance within Section 51. AIR 1933 PC 233 (236) = 60 Ind App 368 = 58 Bom 101.

(6) The obligation of a vendee retaining part of consideration to pay off previous mortgage and the undertaking by the vendor to compensate vendee for the defect of title in the property, being wholly independent promises, will not come under Section 51, Contract Act. Therefore, if the vendee does not pay off the mortgage and is subsequently dispossessed of a portion of the property, he cannot, in a suit for damages brought by the vendor, take advantage of the indemnity clause on the ground that the vendor had failed to give him title with respect to that portion of property. AIR 1946 Pat 263 (266) (DB).

(7) Apart from any special contract it is not the law that the consideration money must be tendered as a condition precedent by the party aspiring for specific performance of a contract of reconveyance. AIR 1962 Cal 103 (108) (DB).

3. Readiness and willingness. — (1) Where consideration for contract consists of promise, the party bound to do act promised, fully performs his part of contract if he is ready to do the act when required. AIR 1914 Cal 166 (166) (DB).

(2) The question whether a party to the contract was ready and willing to perform his obligation is one of fact. AIR 1950 PC 90 (96) = 77 Ind App 76  AIR 1970 SC 546 (547) = (1970) 1 SCWR 175.

(3) Actual tender of the purchase money or of goods sold is not necessary. Capacity to tender these is sufficient. ILR (1955) 1 Cal 63 (71)  AIR 1928 Lah 834 (836) = 10 Lah 143 (DB)  AIR 1927 Lah 176 (177) = 8 Lah 198 (DB)  AIR 1926 Lah 318 (319) = 7 Lah 442 (DB)  AIR 1923 Sind 50 (52) = 16 Sind LR 278 (DB)  (1903) 30 Cal 865 (871).

(4) Contract for sale of Government Securities— Seller in a position to transfer securities by due date and informing purchaser of this by going to his place of business — In absence of evidence to the contrary, this constitutes readiness and willingness. (1883) 9 Cal 791 (797) (DB).

(5) Contract to sell shares — Ability of vendor to constitute vendee the legal owner of shares amounts to "readiness and willingness" on his part. (1864-66) 2 Bom HCR 246 (249).

(6) Tender presupposes a person to whom one can tender. If the buyer closes his usual place of business and absconds, it is clear that he is not ready and willing to perform his part. Tender will be dispensed with in such case. AIR 1932 Sind 9 (14) = 26 Sind LR 167.

(7) Where, before the date fixed for the delivery of goods, the buyer filed an application for insolvency and the interim receiver also did not act within a reasonable time, it was held that from the conduct of the buyer and the interim receiver it could be taken that the contract was abandoned by the buyer, absolving the seller performing his part. AIR 1953 Nag 345 (349, 350) = ILR (1953) Nag 201 (DB).

(8) Where the buyer is in acute financial embarrassment on the date of the delivery of goods, there cannot be any readiness on his part to pay the price and the seller is absolved from the performance of his part. AIR 1940 Rang 284 (285) = 1940 Rang LR 593 (DB).

(9) The readiness and willingness has to be proved continuous from the date of the contract to the time of the hearing and it must be to perform the contract as it really was and not in the way the plaintiff thought. AIR 1932 Lah 265 (267) (DB).

(10) In a contract of sale where the term as to payment was cash on delivery, the seller made some of the deliveries and the buyer paid certain amount on the account leaving a large balance due to the seller. The seller refused to deliver the remainder of goods as the balance was not paid and the buyer set up some cross-claims to be adjusted. It was held that the neglect to pay was after delivery, when reciprocity of obligation had ceased. It was no reason for refusing to make all further deliveries. (1879) 4 Cal 252 (257) (DB).

(11) Where the promisee had agreed to reduce the rate of interest provided that the promisors pay it regularly and pay the principal within certain time but later on the promisee persistently refused to be bound by the agreement and thus prevented the promisors from performing their part of agreement within time, it was held that the promisors were entitled to reasonable time to perform their part after the promisee has performed his part of the agreement. (13) Contract for sale of immoveable property — Time not essence of contract — Failure to find money or prove possession of money before time for performance arrives cannot be taken as breach entitling vendor to resile from the contract — Vendor is bound to give reasonable notice requiring performance within definite time. 4. Burden of proof. — (1) In a suit for damages for a breach of one of two

(2) Ordinarily it must be presumed that the goods are to be paid for at delivery. The onus will be on plaintiff who pleads a special contract contrary to this usual practice and very strong and cogent evidence would be required from him. AIR 1923 Lah 363 (365) (DB).

(3) Where the defendant did not repudiate the contract but contended that if the plaintiff had offered money the defendant could have secured the goods from the open market, it was held that it was for the plaintiff to allege and establish that he was in possession of the entire money payable under the contract. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 427 (435).

(7) Section 52 lays down the order in which parties have to perform reciprocal promises and does not in any way affect the application of the principle in suits for specific performance of contracts for sale which enable the buyer to obtain relief, provided he could satisfactorily explain the delay in performing his part of the promise and where time is not the essence of the contract. Section 53 — Note 1

(1) Wrongful repudiation by one party does not end the obligation unless other party elects to treat it so — Such repudiation by itself does not absolve the other party suing on the contract from proving his performance of a condition precedent. AIR 1933 PC 233 (236) = 60 Ind App 368 = 58 Bom 101.

(2) A sued the obligees to enforce a bond hypothecating immoveable property, the discharge of which he had agreed by the sale of the property. 54. Effect of default as to that promise which should be first performed, in contract consisting of reciprocal promises.—When a contract consists of reciprocal promises, such that one of them cannot be performed or that its performance cannot be claimed till the other has been performed, and the promisor of the promise last mentioned fails to perform it, such promisor cannot claim the performance of the reciprocal promise, and must make compensation to the other party to the contract for any loss which such other party may sustain by the non-performance of the contract.*

(b) A contracts with B to execute certain builder's work for a fixed price, B supplying the scaffolding and timber necessary for the work. B refuses to furnish any scaffolding or timber, and the work cannot be executed. SECTION 54 — SYNOPSIS

1. "When a contract consists of reciprocal promises."

2. "Such that been performed."

3. "Fails to perform it."

4. "Such promisor cannot claim performance of the reciprocal promise."

5. "Must make compensation to the other party."

1. "When a contract consists of reciprocal promises."— (1) Section 54 relates to a contract consisting of reciprocal promises such that one cannot be performed or its performance cannot be claimed till the other has been performed. In a contract for sale where the passing of title is completely independent of the payment in full of the consideration money, the seller cannot invoke the aid of Section 54 and contend that the purchaser having failed to perform his part cannot claim title to the property under contract. AIR 1949 Orissa 14 (17).

(2) Property mortgaged — Part of property along with other property subsequently sold — Part of consideration left with vendee to pay off mortgage — Vendee not paying off mortgage — Vendee dispossessed of portion of property by third person later on — Mortgagee obtaining decree for sale — Mortgaged property sold and purchased by mortgagee — Suit by vendor for damages, and compensation for breach of contract by vendee — Section 54, Contract Act, held, did not apply, as there was no promise, by vendors, on which payment of mortgage money depended — Section 73, held, applied and plaintiff was entitled to compensation. AIR 1946 Pat 263 (266, 267) (DB).

(3) Where the agreement has been embodied in a compromise decree the judgment-debtor cannot say that, because the decree-holder committed the default first, he was entitled to avoid his own obligations under the terms of the decree; especially, when those terms were independent of each other. AIR 1929 Nag 164 (168) = 25 Nag LR 110.

(4) Where by a deed of compromise the parties relinquished a claim in respect of some property in dispute and recognised the right of the other to a portion of it on the assumption that they had an antecedent title and the agreement acknowledged and defined what that title was. Held, that the deed was a family arrangement and Section 54 was not applicable. AIR 1949 Oudh 1 (5, 6) = 23 Luck 231 (DB).

2. "Such that been performed."

(1) Where the letter of acceptance stated that the acceptance of the proposal for an insurance was conditional upon the continued good health of the applicant and laid upon him the same obligation as at the time of the proposal to inform the Insurance Company of any adverse circumstances connected with his general health which might occur till the date of the issue of acceptance and the applicant failed to inform the company of his illness which occurred just before and after the date of acceptance: Held, that there was a warranty of continued good health up to the date of the issue of acceptance and as the applicant committed a breach thereof by his failure to disclose, the Company was absolved from all liability under the policy; the circumstance that the failure to disclose was after the letter of acceptance was sent made no difference at all. AIR 1948 Mad 182 (183, 184).

(2) When a shipowner has contracted to give a certain notice to a charterer or to do any other act, with a view to inform the charterer when the ship will be ready, the charterer is not bound to ship his goods until the ship owner has given him that notice or has done that act. (1879) 4 Cal 237 (248, 251).

(3) Vendor, desiring to enforce contract for sale, with condition that title adduced should be approved by purchaser's solicitor, must prove that solicitor did approve of title or that such title was tendered, as made it reasonable to approve of it. (1911) 35 Bom 110 (120).

3. "Fails to perform it." — (1) When promisor fails to perform his part of the contract, promisee can rescind the whole contract; but, if the promisee treats it as a subsisting contract, he must do his part fully to entitle him to insist on the promisor's carrying out the contract. AIR 1925 PC 188 (189, 193)  AIR 1930 Lah 979 (982) (DB). (Contract to sell certain timber — Vendor insisting on payment of full price before vendee could be allowed to remove timber — Vendor selling part of contract timber to third party — Vendee keeping contract alive but claiming credit for value of timber sold — Vendee cannot be said to be willing to make full payment and could not, therefore, sue vendor for damages.)

(2) Where contract consisted of twelve parts, non-performance of one does not necessarily indicate an intention to put an end to contract. AIR 1914 Bom 312 (315) (DB).

(3) Sale of property — Part of consideration left with vendee to pay off mortgage by vendor — At time of sale vendor failing to put vendee in possession of very small portion of property — Still vendee cannot refuse to redeem mortgage. (Obiter.) AIR 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB).

(4) Breach of essential term of contract alone, entitles the other party to repudiate contract — Breach of non-essential term entitles the other party to damages only. AIR 1924 Sind 105 (105) (DB).

(5) Seller agreeing to send "delivery telegram" but failing to do so — Buyer is entitled to rescind contract as being broken and to sue seller in damages; for a covenant as to delivery is as much an essential part of a contract for sale as a covenant for payment of price. AIR 1923 Mad 103 (107) (DB).

(6) Shipowner contracting with charterer to give notice of arrival of ship "after completion of two counter-voyages for London" — Notice given after vessel had completed one voyage only — Charterer refusing to ship goods — Clause "after completion of two counter-voyages" held was essential part of contract and charterer was justified in refusing to perform his promise. (1879) 4 Cal 237 (247, 248) (DB).

(7) The plaintiff who had taken a contract from the P. W. D. for clearing the forest produce entered into an agreement with the defendants for sale of the felled timber. Some disputes having arisen regarding payment, the forest authorities attached the timber. Eventually the parties settled their disputes and entered into an agreement with regard to the payment of money. The plaintiff was held responsible to get the attachment of timber vacated within a week but in spite of his best efforts he could not do so. Held that the condition in relation to raising of the attachment could not be deemed to be essential to the main purpose of the contract the breach of which might give rise to a right to treat the contract as repudiated. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 784 (794) (DB).

(8) In a contract with Government for supply of bhusa to its several military farms, the Government agreed to arrange for railway wagons but did not guarantee the supply. Non-supply of wagons was not to be the ground for non-performance of the contract. At the same time there was an oral agreement that Government would supply wagons. R contractor was ready and willing to supply goods and was left under the impression that the wagons would soon be made available and acted under the belief. But wagons were not made available. Held that it could not be said that contractor had failed to perform his part of the contract and therefore his security was not liable to forfeiture. AIR 1957 Punj 141 (144) = ILR (1957) Punj 783 (DB).

(9) The plaintiff contracted with the defendant company to ship cargo in their ship at C. The ship arrived at M enroute for C. The defendant repeatedly asked the plaintiff to advise them if he was ready to make the shipment. The plaintiff intimated to them that owing to war conditions and other causes he was not ready and the ship proceeded to another destination. It was held that the plaintiff having dispensed with the ship's coming from M to C and the defendants having performed their part of the contract the defendants were not liable in damages to plaintiff. AIR 1917 Mad 294 (296) (DB).

(10) Defendants at Mirzapur to despatch goods to plaintiffs at Madras, F. O. R. Mirzapur at earliest booking day, railway receipt to be negotiated through Bharat Bank Ltd. — Defendants not sending goods in spite of fact that booking could be had — Plaintiffs held justified in repudiating contract and defendant was liable in damages. AIR 1949 Mad 858 (859).

4. "Such promisor cannot claim performance of the reciprocal promise." —

(1) A, the lessee of a Government forest transferred his lease rights to B. Under the terms of the agreement it was obligatory on the part of B to pay the second instalment of the lease premium to the Government. Without this payment the agreement with the Government could not be signed by A. B incurred expenses to cut down the forest but in the meanwhile the Government cancelled the lease, because no second instalment was paid and refused to issue export permit. B instituted a suit against A for recovery of the money spent: Held, that it was B who failed to perform his part of the contract by not paying the 2nd instalment without the payment of which A could not sign the agreement which led to the cancellation of the lease. Consequently, it was not open to him to turn round and accuse A of breach of contract. The provisions of Section 54 were attracted. AIR 1957 Him Pra 70 (72).

(2) Where contract loan is for consolidated sum of money to be paid from time to time, and lender refuses to lend small portion remaining due to borrower, lender by his conduct, put an end to contract and cannot claim interest at contract rates. AIR 1914 Mad 210 (215).

(3) A and B were both chelas of C, the late mohunt of a muth. According to custom and practice of the muth, there was one mohunt only and two chelas could not become mohunts at the same time. Both the chelas had become mohunts with the result that dispute had arisen between them. They therefore executed an ekrarnama. They agreed that A should be declared to be the mohunt and B adhikari of the said muth to the end of their lives and that in the event of difference between the parties A would give to B Rs. 40 a year for maintenance. Notwithstanding this agreement B brought a suit against A claiming the mohuntship — Held, that B, by his action, in bringing a suit for mohuntship, broke his promise and defeated the whole intention of the agreement, and that he could no longer hold A to his part of the contract to pay B the maintenance. AIR 1925 Pat 496 (497) (DB).

(4) Hundi given on consideration of execution by A to B of a mortgage for money due on accounts — Mortgage not executed — B suing on hundi — Suit must be dismissed under Section 54, Contract Act — No decree can be passed on consideration other than shown in hundi. (1908) 3 Mad LT 405 (405).

(5) Agreement to sell house for consideration to be paid — Consideration converted into cash debt, evidenced by three bonds — Contract of sale not carried through — Suit for money on bonds — Held, that bonds were without consideration as the contract of sale was not carried through and that the remedy of vendor was to sue for specific performance of contract or for damages for breach. (1936) 19 Nag LJ 232 (236).

(6) A party, cancelling a contract without any justification, is precluded from making any defence, which would have been open to him in an action for damages by the other party. AIR 1920 Bom 181 (182).

(7) M conveyed certain property to S. It was agreed that an account would be made of arrears of rent due from raiyats to M and on such account being made S would have a deed of assignment executed by M in respect of the arrears. The accounts were not made and S did not get the deed of assignment. M filed a suit against S for an amount on the footing of what would be payable by S if the deed of assignment had been exe-

55. Effect of failure to perform at fixed time, in contract in which time is essential.—When a party to a contract promises to do a certain thing at or before a specified time, or certain things at or before specified times, and fails to do any such thing at or before the specified time, the contract, or so much of it as has not been performed, becomes voidable at the option of the promisee, if the intention of the parties was that time should be of the essence of the contract.*

Effect of such failure when time is not essential.

If it was not the intention of the parties that time should be of the essence of the contract, the contract does not become voidable by the failure to do such cuted by M. It was held that M not having performed his part of the contract he was not entitled to maintain the suit. AIR 1929 Pat 395 (397).

(8) Mortgagor mortgaged his property for 15 years and the condition was that mortgagee should pay decree-holder of the mortgagor regularly by instalments. Mortgagee failed to pay after some instalments and it was held that mortgagor was entitled to redeem his property before the expiry of the period of 15 years. AIR 1927 Oudh 12 (13, 14) = 2 Luck 279 (DB).

(9) Where vendee could not complete sale due to the vendor's defective title and the broker was helping the vendor, it was held that the broker had in effect committed breach of Contract and was not entitled to any brokerage. AIR 1925 Sind 220 (221) (DB).

(10) Where defendants agreed to charter a ship, of which the tonnage was guaranteed by the plaintiff, and the ship actually was found to weigh more, it was held, that the defendants were justified in repudiating the contract and thus refusing to charter that ship. (1891) 15 Bom 389 (396, 399) (DB).

5. "Must make compensation to the other party." — (1) Where parties to a contract consisting of reciprocal promises failed to perform their respective promises, one wilfully, and the other, because he was not bound to perform his part until the other had fulfilled his, the contract is broken by act of both parties and a suit for specific performance will not lie, though the latter is entitled to compensation for breach of contract. AIR 1915 Mad 210 (216) = 38 Mad 959 (DB).

(2) Where the plaintiff agreed to sell "entire stock of coal or 7 to 8 hundred tons of coal" the words were not only words of estimation but descriptive of the stock; and, therefore, the plaintiff was liable to pay damages to the defendant when the entire stock sold was only 469 tons. (1910) 37 Cal 334 (337, 338) (DB).

(3) Where in a mortgage, the mortgagee does not pay prior mortgagee as per agreement, the mortgagor is entitled, in a separate suit, to claim damages from the mortgagee resulting from non-performance of the contract by him. (1907) 10 Oudh Cas 69 (75).

(4) A contracting to supply B bricks upon B's supplying coal for purposes of manufacturing bricks — Kutcha bricks prepared by A — Failure of B to supply coal in time for baking — Kutcha bricks destroyed by monsoons — B held liable in damages for loss suffered by A on account of breach of contract by B. 1964 All LJ 1092.

SECTION 55 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Time whether of essence of contract.
3. Time when of essence of contract.
4. Mercantile contracts.
5. Agreement to lease.
6. "Becomes void, at the option of the promisee."

12. Effect of non-performance.

1. Scope and applicability. — (1) Section 55 provides for a special rule in regard to the performance of a promise to do a certain thing at or before a specified time namely that (unlike terms of contracts generally) the Court is not to enforce such a promise in accordance with its term but is to enforce it subject to the provisions of Section 55. AIR 1937 Bom 417 (421) = ILR (1937) Bom 782 (DB).

(2) Section 55 does not enable a promisee to keep alive a broken contract in the hope of being able to recover heavier damages for its breach. AIR 1914 Mad 573 (574, 576) = 37 Mad 412 (DB).

(3) Section 55 applies to cases where property in the goods passed by the contract, as much as to contracts where the property did not pass. (1881) 6 Cal 64 (69) (DB).

2. Time whether of essence of contract. — (1) The general rule is that contracts for the performance of which no definite time is specified must be carried out within a reasonable time, and contracts for the performance of which a definite time has been fixed must be completed within the time limited. thing at or before the specified time; but the promisee is entitled to compensation from the promisor for any loss occasioned to him by such failure.

Effect of acceptance of performance at time other than that agreed upon.

If, in case of a contract voidable on account of the promisor's failure to perform his promise at the time agreed, the promisee accepts performance of such promise at any time other than that agreed, the promisee cannot claim compensation for any loss occasioned by the non-performance of the promise at the time agreed, unless, at the time of such acceptance he gives notice to the promisor of his intention to do so.†

possession on the date agreed upon — The Transfer of Property Act and the Contract Act have to be read together, and under Part 1, Section 55, Contract Act the lessee can rescind the contract. AIR 1928 Nag 328 (328).

(2) Renewal of a lease is a privilege and if the tenant wishes to claim the privilege he must do so strictly within the time limited for the purpose. Delay in exercising option of renewal can be condoned only when delay is due to any unavoidable accident; excusable ignorance, fraud or surprise. Delay arising from mere neglect is not sufficient. AIR 1969 SC 405 (407) = (1969) 1 SCJ 783.

(3) Where no time for renewal of lease is fixed, application for renewal of lease may be made within reasonable time before expiry of the term. AIR 1969 SC 405 (407) = (1969) 1 SCJ 783.

(5) Where the parties agree that a contract of lease for twenty years should commence on a certain date, to ask for a lease of twenty years from a subsequent date is to substitute a different lease for the original one which the Court have no power to do. The doctrine that equity does not ordinarily regard time as essence of contract does not apply to such a case. AIR 1952 Pat 393 (400) (DB).

6. "Becomes void, at the option of the promisee." — (1) Under Section 55, the right of the promisee to avoid the contract after breach is not circumscribed by any chronological limitations. AIR 1946 Bom 429 (435) (DB).

(2) Section 55 read with Section 2 (i) of the Act means that on the promisor's failure to perform within the contract time the promisee loses the power to enforce the contract. It is true the promisee has the option of enforcing the contract or not as may suit him. He may drop it altogether, but if he chooses to enforce it, he can only claim damages as provided for in Section 73 of the Act. ILR (1949) 2 Cal 530 (535).

(3) Under Section 55 where in a contract time is the essence of it and a party who is bound to perform his promise within the time fixed fails to do so the contract becomes voidable at the option of the other party. AIR 1959 Madh Pra 30 (33) = 1959 MPLJ 823 (DB).

(4) The mere mentioning of the fact that time should be deemed to be of the essence of the contract does not make it voidable at the instance of one of the contracting parties. Under Section 55 the contract becomes voidable after the lapse of the specific time if the intention of the parties was that time should be of the essence of the contract. AIR 1955 Cal 298 (300) (DB)  (1969) 1 Andh WR 344 (DB).

(6) Where time is of the essence of the contract and the contract is not performed within stipulated time, it does not get automatically determined. AIR 1968 Andh Pra 190 (192).

(7) The expression "voidable at the option of the promisee" occurring in Section 55 does not confer upon the promisee, although the promisor may have broken the contract by non-fulfilment thereof within the specified time, the discretionary right of tacitly treating the contract as subsisting for as long as he, the promisee, likes until it suits him to formally rescind it. ILR (1949) 2 Cal 530 (534, 535).

(8) It is open to the promisee not to exercise the option or to exercise the option given to him under Section 55 at any time. AIR 1934 Mad 135 (136).

7. Extension of time. — (1) Under Section 55 the right of the promisee to avoid the contract after breach is not circumscribed by any chronological limitations. AIR 1946 Bom 429 (432) (DB).

(2) If the time is originally of the essence of the contract, it does not cease to be of the essence of the contract because a party agrees to grant a short extension. AIR 1940 Oudh 443 (445) = 16 Luck 357  AIR 1964 Punj 375 (380) = 1965 Punj LR (Supp) 511 (DB)  AIR 1961 Patna 107 (109).

(3) When the purchaser seeks to have damages for breach of contract, assented to at a later date than that fixed by the contract for delivery, the effect of Section 55 is to put an end to the agreement, come to, after the original date of performance of a contract has expired, on the same footing as the original agreement. Mere forbearance from suing or giving a formal notice of rescission does not amount to extension of time for the performance of contract so as to alter the relevant date on which damages are to be assessed. AIR 1946 Bom 429 (431) (DB). (AIR 1922 PC 178, Relied on.)  AIR 1946 Bom 1 (5) (DB)  ILR (1960) Mys 1079 (DB).

(5) Parties by consent fixing date for payment of decretal amount — Sale to be cancelled on payment — Time being of the essence of the contract could not be extended by Court. AIR 1925 Pat 691 (692).

(6) Contract for delivery of goods within specified time — Failure to perform — Several agreements extending time for performance — There need not be continuous and unbroken chain of extension — Final agreement of extension is necessary. AIR 1946 Bom 429 (432, 435) (DB).

(7) Though time is of the essence of the contract, a default by payee such as renders proper tender by the purchaser by due date impracticable would be interpreted as extending time when purchaser was prepared with ready and willing tender. AIR 1924 Rang 57 (60) = 1 Rang 472.

(8) Where the compromise decree itself has provided for an automatic dismissal of the suit if the conditions mentioned therein regarding the filing of the draft sale deed within 15 days are not performed, the terms as to the filing of the draft sale deed was an essential term of compromise and the Court cannot extend the time for the filing of the draft sale deed. AIR 1962 Mad 489 (490).

8. Time when not of essence of contract.— (1) Where the defendant avails of the benefits of the contract even if there was default on the part of the plaintiff, it cannot be said that time was of the essence of the contract. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 784 (794) (DB).

(5) Where there is an express provision that time is of the essence of the contract and at the same time the contract provides for extension of time in certain contingencies, and provides for the payment of a fine or penalty for every day or week the work undertaken under the contract remains unfinished on the expiry of the time provided in the contract, such provision is inconsistent with time being of the essence of a contract, and would be calculated to render ineffective an express provision in a contract to that effect. It cannot be said in such a case, that it was intended that time should be of the essence of the contract. The principle applies equally to P. W. D. contracts. AIR 1940 Sind 1 (7) (DB)  AIR 1923 Nag 140 (140).

(6) Where an agreement to cut timber stipulated for payments in instalments and against any area being cut until the corresponding portion of the consideration money had been paid, held the clause about payment of the instalments every quarter did not show that time was of the essence of contract. (10) A consent decree or order is only the order of the Court carrying out the agreement between the parties and consequently no greater sanctity can be placed upon a consent decree than upon the agreement itself and if such an order names a specific time by which a particular term embodied in order has to be performed unless the language shows unmistakably that it was the intention of the parties to make the right of the parties depend on the observance of the time limit prescribed, the stipulation as to time is tantamount to this, that the term shall be carried into effect within a reasonable time. AIR 1930 Pat 234 (235).

(11) Consent decree providing for exchange of houses of plaintiff and defendant, after plaintiff had constructed well in his house — Exchange to be effected by a certain date — Plaintiff failing to construct well but applying for execution of decree — Defendant contending that time being of essence of decree it was voidable — Time, held, was not of essence as conduct of defendant in not protesting against the delay showed that he did not regard time as of vital importance. (4) Agreement to sell leasehold property — Vendee given possession on payment of money — Pucca documents to be executed and registered within six months after obtaining the consent of the lessor — Time, held, was not essence of contract. AIR 1933 Bom 71 (73) = 57 Bom 292 (DB).

(5) Where A contracted to purchase a plot of land from a company, but when A by letters enquired as to when he might expect to be called upon to complete the conveyance, the Company did not reply to the letters: Held, that the omission of the company to answer the letters would not constitute a waiver on its part, but it was a significant piece of conduct which would tend to show that the company had never intended that the contract would automatically come to an end if it was not performed within the time specified. AIR 1955 Cal 298 (301) (DB)  AIR 1963 Madh Pra 31 (32) = 1962 MPLJ 517 (DB). (Contract cannot be cancelled unilaterally and without giving reasonable notice.)

(6) Defendant agreeing to sell property to plaintiff — Plaintiff to pay consideration within three years with interest — Plaintiff in possession executing rent note in favour of defendant on same day — Held, defendant's amount was carrying interest in form of rent — Hence, time not of essence of contract. (7) Contract for sale of land— Circumstance that price of land is rising is no ground for holding that time was essence of contract. AIR 1955 Punj 189 (190) (DB).

(8) In the case of a contract for the sale of a house, the circumstances that the house was required for the personal residence of the purchaser and he wanted vacant possession, that a period was specified within which vacant possession was to be given, that the purchaser had given on previous occasion one extension and that liquidated damages had been settled upon in case of default are not sufficient to make time as the essence of the contract. AIR 1950 East Punj 278 (280) (DB).

(9) The presumption that, time is not the essence of a contract to sell land is rebuttable, when sale is arranged to meet expenses of a marriage taking place on a certain date. AIR 1915 Mad 546 (547).

(10) There were penal clauses binding on both parties. If the purchaser failed to complete the purchase before the 10th January 1942 the vendor was to forfeit the deposit of Rs. 5,000 in his hand. On the other hand, if it was the vendor who had been delaying the completion of the transaction he had entered into he would be liable not only to refund the deposit of Rs. 5,000 but also to pay a compensation of another sum of Rs. 5,000. Held that the very fact that there were reciprocal agreements to compensate each other would make it clear, within the ambit of Section 55 of the Contract Act, that the intention of the parties was that time should be the essence of the contract. 1950 Bur LR (SC) 98 (104).

(11) Agreement to sell property — Purchaser to pay part of purchase-money on or before 20-10-1117 — Balance to be paid within certain time — Purchaser further agreeing that in case he was ready with money on or before 20-10-1117 to take sale-deed seller would get compensation of certain amount — Compensation to be charged on purchaser's property — Time held was essence of contract and that sale-deed was to be executed on or before 20-10-1117. (12) Contract of sale of real property expressly stating that seller would be entitled to dispose of property on expiry of period fixed for effecting conveyance and buyer would have no right left — Time held essence of contract. 1954 All WR (HC) 446 (447).

(13) The doctrine that time was not of the essence of the contract is not applicable to contracts for resale, within a time limit, of the property conveyed. The reason is that in the case of an option of repurchase there is no mutuality; the purchaser cannot compel the repayment of the consideration money and the power of purchase is only a privilege. (14) Contract of reconveyance — Payment of considerations to be simultaneous with execution of deed in absence of special contract — Time essence of contract — Delay in performance largely due to defendant's attitude — Plaintiff held not disentitled to relief of specific performance. (15) Where time is not of the essence of the contract of resale, reconveyance should be within reasonable time. AIR 1964 Mad 304 (305) = (1963) 2 Mad LJ 386.

10. Performance within reasonable time — Delay.— (1) Section 55 of Contract Act does not lay down any principle which differs from law of England as to contracts for sale of land. In such cases, equity looks at substance and not at letter of agreement in order to ascertain whether parties notwithstanding that they named specific time within which sale was to be completed really and in substance intended more than that it should take place within reasonable time. Prima facie equity treats importance of such time limits as being subordinate to main purpose of parties. AIR 1915 PC 83 (84, 85) = 40 Bom 289 = 43 Ind App 26. (AIR 1914 Bom 233, Reversed.)  AIR 1952 Sau 88 (89)  ILR (1952) 2 Raj 1 (3)  AIR 1934 Pat 518 (519, 520) (DB)  AIR 1933 Bom 71 (76) = 57 Bom 292 (DB)  AIR 1927 Sind 49 (50) = 19 Sind LR 41  (1926) 98 Ind Cas 890 (891) (DB) (Lah)  AIR 1924 Lah 151 (153, 154) = 4 Lah 327  AIR 1921 Cal 356 (360) (DB).

(2) In the case of contracts for the sale of land, the presumption is that the parties intended that performance should take place within a reasonable time even though the time was mentioned. ILR (1955) Nag 236 (247) (DB)  AIR 1953 All 529 (529) (DB)  AIR 1960 Mad 203 (205) = (1960) 1 Mad LJ 380 (DB).

(3) The maxim on which the rule of equity is based that time shall not be of the essence of the contract, can have no application where the agreement contains a plainly expressed stipulation that time shall be of the essence of the contract or the Court can hold that the implied intention of the parties was that time should be of the essence of the contract. In such a case and also in cases where, having regard to the general circumstances of the case, the Court cannot disregard the stipulation as to time, the special jurisdiction that can be exercised by the application of the rule of equity stands excluded. ILR (1960) Mys 96 (DB).

(3) In the case of contracts to sell immovable property, specific performance can be compelled if a tender is made within a reasonable time. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 295 (297) = ILR 1957 Madh Pra 330 (DB).

(4) Even where time is not essence of contract, purchaser must show his readiness and willingness to perform his part of contract within reasonable time. AIR 1917 Mad 8 (9)  (1969) 1 Andh WR 344 (DB).

(5) In the absence of express stipulation on other circumstances, the date fixed in the contract to sell land is not of the essence of contract, but it can be made so by serving notice by either party to complete within reasonable time. AIR 1926 Cal 339 (342, 343) (DB)  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 307 (328) = ILR (1955) Andhra 170  AIR 1957 Pat 586 (596) = 36 Pat 633 (DB)  1955 Andh WR 609 (610)  AIR 1952 Nag 220 (234) = ILR (1949) Nag 581 (DB)  AIR 1951 Mys 59 (62) = ILR (1951) Mys 196 (DB)  AIR 1924 Bom 473 (474) = 49 Bom 1  AIR 1924 Bom 357 (358) = 48 Bom 368  AIR 1920 Cal 651 (654) (DB).

(6) Where the nature of the property intended to be sold requires that time should be of the essence as for instance, if the contract is for sale of a life interest or a mining lease given for a fixed period, the parties can make it so by express agreement in the contract itself or subsequently giving reasonable notice to complete on a certain day. AIR 1936 Cal 51 (52, 53) = 63 Cal 804.

(7) The time specified by notice demanding performance must be reasonable in the sense that enough time should be given to the other party for the doing of the things required in a proper manner. If the period fixed is not reasonable, the notice will be inoperative. 1955 Andh WR 609 (611).

(8) The Court can enforce contract beyond time fixed, if notice is unreasonably short. AIR 1922 Bom 14 (16, 17).

(9) Even if time was not of the essence originally, a much shorter time for performance would be considered reasonable when a demand for performance within a fixed space of time is made in a case where a commercial element is involved. AIR 1952 Nag 220 (234) = ILR (1949) Nag 581 (DB).

(10) The reasonableness of time is determined by the Court with reference not merely to what remains to be done at the date of the notice, but all circumstances of the case, including the previous delay of the party in default and attitude of the other side in relation to it. AIR 1920 Cal 651 (654) (DB)  AIR 1957 Pat 586 (596) = 36 Pat 633 (DB)  1955 Andh WR 609 (611).

(11) A party who is ready and willing to perform the contract can alone complain of the unreasonableness of the time engrafted into the contract by the subsequent notice. If he refuses to receive notice and to take advantage of the opportunity given by the party not in default he cannot subsequently complain that the time was unreasonable and therefore, the notice should be treated as inoperative. 1955 Andh WR 609 (611).

(12) The presumption that contracts of sale in respect of real property are intended to be carried within a reasonable time may be displaced by the clear language of the agreement of sale itself. 1954 All WR (HC) 446 (447).

(13) Where the contract has to be completed within a fixed period and, therefore, time is of the essence of the contract, to require of the vendor that he should allow reasonable time beyond the fixed period to enable the purchaser to do what he was required to do by the terms of the contract, would amount to making a new contract for the parties. AIR 1948 PC 192 (194).

(14) Although in a contract for sale of land, time may not be of the essence of the contract, yet unreasonable delay by the vendee will entitle the vendor to terminate the contract. AIR 1921 Mad 141 (142).

(15) Equity will not come to rescue where there has been undue delay in performance by a party. AIR 1953 Orissa 105 (107) (DB)  AIR 1947 Nag 193 (199) = ILR (1947) Nag 60 (DB).

(16) It is not every delay which will give the other side a right to rescind, and each case must be decided on its own facts. AIR 1952 Nag 220 (235) = ILR (1949) Nag 581 (DB).

(17) In certain circumstances the Court of Equity will condone the delay and enforce the contract. The Court has no power, however to make a new contract between the parties. AIR 1952 Pat 393 (400) (DB).

(18) Where there has been inordinate delay on both sides, it may be inferred that the contract has been abandoned although no notice fixing a reasonable time has been given. AIR 1950 Nag 238 (240) = ILR (1950) Nag 386 (DB).

11. Acceptance of performance after time fixed — Paragraph 3.— (1) Acceptance of payment after the expiry of the time fixed operates as a waiver of limitation as to time in the contract. AIR 1917 Pat 82 (83) = 2 Pat LJ 520.

(2) Acceptance of performance of contract in which time is of essence after expiry of time without notice to claim compensation forfeits right to such compensation. (1910) 8 Mad L Tim 40 (46)  AIR 1930 Oudh 417 (420) (DB).

(3) Time made expressly of the essence — Equity Court will not decree specific performance unless parties have waived the provision as to essence. AIR 1915 PC 94 (95).

(4) Purchaser may by his conduct waive although time is made the essence of the contract and where the time is once allowed to pass and, parties continue to negotiate for completing the purchase then time no longer remains the essence of the contract. But simple extension of time without anything more amounts only to a waiver to the extent of substituting such extended time for the original time and does not destroy the essential character of the time. AIR 1925 Cal 324 (326) (DB)  AIR 1964 Bom 76 (81) = 65 Bom LR 516 (DB).

(5) Mere delay on the part of a party to the contract should not be taken to amount to waiver or abandonment by him, unless the parties have expressly or impliedly by their conduct made time the essence of the contract, delay is no valid plea in a suit on contract. Undue delay on the part of one party to a contract coupled with reasonable notice given to him by the other party will disentitle the party delaying from claiming any relief in equity. AIR 1925 Nag 58 (58)  AIR 1929 Nag 164 (168) = 25 Nag LR 110.

(6) Sale — Time as essence of contract — Earnest money paid and balance to be paid within thirty days — Balance paid by instalments extending beyond such period and accepted by vendor — Right to recover entire money within thirty days is waived — He cannot contend that time was essence of the contract. (7) Time fixed for delivery but no delivery called for — Subsequently plaintiffs manufacturing goods and defendants taking delivery in small quantities for long time — Plaintiffs giving notice to defendants to take delivery of remaining goods and on defendants' default selling by auction and claiming difference — Written contract had come to an end and there being no second contract plaintiffs were not entitled to relief. (1922) 24 Bom LR 142 (147, 148).

(8) Contract to deliver goods within a specified time — Time essence of contract — Breach of contract — Promisee not avoiding contract but extending time — Failure to deliver within extended time—Held there was breach of contract at the extended dates, and plaintiff was entitled to damages — Section 55 (3) means that the promisee cannot claim damages for non-performance at originally agreed time, not that he cannot claim damages for non-performance at the extended time. 12. Effect of non-performance.— (1) Specific performance of contract to sell land will be granted although there has been failure to keep dates assigned to it, if justice can be done between parties and if nothing in express stipulations of parties, nature of property or surrounding circumstances make it inequitable to grant relief. (2) Where time is not of the essence of the contract, the expiry of the time limit given in the agreement does not make the agreement impossible of performance — The agreement can still be specifically enforced. AIR 1949 Cal 510 (511) = ILR (1951) 1 Cal 331.

(3) Where time is not the essence of the contract for the purchase of immovable property, the failure to pay a portion of the purchase money within the stipulated period will not ipso facto, disentitle him to get a decree for specific performance. AIR 1950 Cal 526 (527) = ILR (1951) 2 Cal 198.

(4) Where the purchaser does not complete the contract within time which is of the essence of the contract, the remedy is to claim specific performance. ILR (1949) 2 Cal 530 (534).

(5) Where in a contract for the sale of land time is expressly made of the essence of the contract in all respects, specific performance cannot be decreed in favour of the party in default and the default, though trivial, will entitle the other party to stand on the letter of the agreement — Time being of the essence of the contract, the vendor is entitled to rescind it on the expiry of the prescribed period. (6) Where an express stipulation as to payment of entire consideration before execution and registration exists between the purchaser and the seller and the latter by his conduct in accepting a part of the consideration when the sale deed could not be registered clearly indicates that the stipulation was not of the essence of the contract, the purchaser is entitled to specific performance of the contract when the seller sells the property to a third party. Section 56 — Synopsis (contd.)

4. Contract containing arbitration clause.

5. Decree for specific performance.

6. Refund and compensation.

1. Scope.— (1) Section 56, Contract Act, clearly does not apply to a case, in which, although consideration of contract is lost, performance of promise on other side is still possible. (1880) 2 Mad 187 (190).

(2) Section 56, contemplates that a contract may be void under its provisions and yet compensation may be payable by the person, who is unable to perform it, whether the impediment is impossibility or unlawfulness, and whether the impediment existed at the time of the contract or supervened. The real question that must be considered, when it has to be determined whether Section 56 is applicable or not in any suit, except where the contract is sought to be specifically enforced, is not whether the contract was or became void, but whether the promisor has to make compensation for non-performance. The substance of Section 56 (viz., the payment of compensation being excused can only apply when there is no contract to the contrary. AIR 1928 Sind 21 (24).

(3) Part of compromise decree, directing payment direct out of Court, to minor's next friend can be ignored on analogy of Section 56 as unlawful. AIR 1939 Mad 814 (816) (DB).

(4) Maintenance given under compromise in settlement of disputed claim to taluqdari — Profits of taluqdari dwindling — Held, that the maintenance rate can be reduced on principles of justice, equity and good conscience, rules of which can be applied, if they are not in conflict with the provisions of Contract Act. AIR 1937 Oudh 82 (84, 86) = 13 Luck 65 (DB).

(5) Co-sharer zamindar contracting to sell 800 acres of his undivided share to P — Land specified adjoining to P's — Sale-deed written crudely — Two postscripts— Co-sharer promising in sale deed to get land measured out and handed over to P — Held, that postscript could not be cut off from agreement and that P could not give general character instead of specific to his claim — Contract was contingent and Section 32 applied. Section 56 did not apply. AIR 1936 Sind 26 (28) (DB).

(6) Contract impossible of fulfilment owing to supervening condition can be relied on in defence. AIR 1926 Sind 27 (30)  AIR 1918 Cal 830 (834) = 45 Cal 28 (DB).

(7) It is not accurate to say that impossibility excuses breach, without further qualification. It would be more correct to say that precisely opposite is the rule (Obiter.) AIR 1919 PC 85 (90).

2. Becomes impossible. — (1) In English law, a contract to do act which becomes impossible in law after contract is made, becomes void when act becomes impossible, but contract to do act which becomes impossible in fact does not become void, unless according to true intention of parties, agreement was conditional on its performance being or continuing possible in fact. Indian Contract Act makes no distinction of this kind. In second paragraph of Section 56, so far as contract to do act which becomes impossible in fact are concerned, it lays down as general rule what was English law only in certain exceptional cases. 1910 Upp Bur Rul 2nd Qr 22 (24 and 25).

(2-3) Performance of a contract may become impossible because of the destruction of the subject-matter or of anything essential to the performance of the contract or in case of contracts of service by death or illness of the party concerned. A contract may become impossible by change in law which has the effect of rendering a contract unlawful which was lawful at the time it was made. A contract may also become impossible of performance because a state of things which was the basis of the contract had ceased to exist and finally a contract may become impossible of performance in the sense that circumstances have intervened which render the performance within the time, in the way contemplated, impossible. AIR 1954 Tripura 17 (20).

(4) Test of impossibility is whether it was practically impossible for party to perform the contract within specified time. AIR 1917 Mad 509 (510).

(5) 'Impossible' includes what has become impracticable but it does not include what has become more onerous and burdensome. 1910 Mad WN 686 (687).

(6) A security bond is, in essence a contract for the due performance of a certain thing, and a party is entitled to have that contract enforced by the Courts, unless it cannot be enforced due to some reason, viz., if the latter falls ill. AIR 1928 Lah 61 (62).

(7) What is reasonable time for performance of contract is to be decided by circumstances of particular case. AIR 1919 Mad 287 (291, 292).

(8) In commercial contracts, where the contract becomes impossible of performance by reason of a state of war or by an act of the executive Government, or the contract which would otherwise be expected to be ordinarily performed, is delayed by reason of certain regulations imposed by the Government making the performance of such contract dependant upon the grant of licence or permit, the parties need not wait for an indefinite period in the hope of the relaxing of the control orders or the granting of licence and permit. AIR 1954 Mad 119 (123) = ILR (1955) Mad 302 (DB).

(9) Section 13 of the Specific Relief Act, 1877, provides that notwithstanding anything contained in Section 56 of the Contract Act, a contract is not wholly impossible of performance because a portion of its subject-matter, existing at its date, has ceased to exist at the time of the performance.

Frustration.

(10) Section 56 does not cover every case of frustration. It applies only to cases of physical impossibility. A subsequent unforeseen event or contingency, for which neither of parties is responsible and for which they have not provided, may sometimes operate to avoid the contract. Regard must be had to the nature and circumstances of the transaction and the implied terms. But no Court has power of absolution and special care must be taken to avoid making a new contract for parties. AIR 1921 Cal 509 (513, 514)  AIR 1960 SC 588 (594) = (1960) 2 SCR 793  AIR 1960 J and K 91 (94)  AIR 1959 Cal 576 (580) = 63 Cal WN 549 (DB).

(11) In a suit on the basis of a contract it is open to the defendant to admit the contract and the contractual liability and to avoid the effect of that admission on the pleas of frustration or of performance. AIR 1969 All 571 (581) = 1968 All LJ 1079 (DB).

(12) The doctrine entrenched in S. 56 can come into operation only when the performance of a contract becomes impossible or unlawful by an event that intervened subsequently. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 71 (72).

(13) In order that the doctrine of frustration as embodied in Section 56, Contract Act, may apply the following three conditions must be satisfied, viz.—

- (a) a valid and subsisting contract between the parties,
- (b) there must be some part of the contract yet to be performed,
- (c) the contract after it is made, becomes 'impossible.' AIR 1961 Cal 70 (73).

(14) The doctrine of frustration known to English law has been statutorily recognised under the Indian law, in this section. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 10 (20)  1965 All LJ 689 = ILR (1965) 2 All 458. (It is not permissible to import the principles of English law 'dehors' statutory provisions of Section 56.)  AIR 1964 Raj 205 (212) = 1964 Raj LW 313 (DB)  AIR 1960 J and K 91 (94). (Section 56 is exhaustive and it is not necessary to import principles of English law into it.)

(15) Section 56 lays down a rule of positive law and does not leave the matter to be determined according to the intention of the parties. AIR 1968 SC 522 (526, 527) = (1968) 1 SCR 821  AIR 1969 SC 110 (116) = (1969) 2 SCJ 31.

(16) The real question is whether the event which has occurred is such and whether its relation to the contracts is such that a Judge considering the contract and the surrounding circumstances must hold that it would not be just and reasonable to hold the parties any longer to the terms of the contract. AIR 1952 Cal 397 (402) (DB).

(17) The doctrine of frustration is really an aspect or part of the law of discharge of contract by reason of supervening impossibility or illegality of the act agreed to be done and hence comes within the purview of Section 56 of the Indian Contract Act. AIR 1954 SC 44 (47) = 1954 SCR 310  AIR 1969 SC 110 = (1969) 2 SCJ 31. (Appeal No. 367 of 1958, D/- 16-3-1962 (Mad), Reversed.)  AIR 1968 SC 522 (527) = (1968) 1 SCR

821  AIR 1961 Raj 277 (279) = 1961 Raj LW 563  ILR (1961) 11 Raj 390 (DB)  AIR 1959 Assam 75 (93) (DB)  AIR 1959 Cal 576 (580) = 63 Cal WN 549 (DB).

(18) Before the doctrine of frustration can be invoked, it must be shown that the event which has produced frustration was an event which the parties to the contract did not foresee and could not with a reasonable diligence, have foreseen. AIR 1955 Pepsu 51 (56) = ILR (1954) Patiala 563 (DB)  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 576 (580) (DB) = 1958 Andh LT 163 (DB).

(19) If the contract is absolute in its terms and covers the frustrating event parties are bound by the contract. ILR (1949) Nag 718 (734) (DB).

(20) "Force majeure" clause should be construed with a close attention to words which precede or follow it and with due regard to the nature and general terms of the contract. Therefore, the words "any other happening" in such a clause must be given ejusdem generis construction so as to engulf within its fold only such happenings and eventualities which are of the nature and type illustrated in the same clause with close attention to the nature of terms of the contract and would not reasonably be within the power and control of the party. AIR 1969 Orissa 152 (162) = ILR (1969) Cut 93 (DB).

(21) The expression "force majeure" includes strikes, break down of machinery and such things which are normally not included in the expression "vis major". Where reference is made to "force majeure", the intention is to save the performing party from the consequences of anything of the nature stated above or over which he has no control. AIR 1969 Orissa 152 (162) = ILR (1969) Cut 93 (DB).

(22) If the adventure survives as a reasonable and recognisable whole with only a little damage here and there if a very small portion of the contract becomes impossible or difficult of performance, performance is not excused. ILR (1949) Nag 718 (736) (DB).

(23) Contract performed in part — Principle of compensation on account of frustration of contract could not come in aid. AIR 1955 Mad 606 (607).

(24) The doctrine of frustration is applicable to contracts for sale of land in India. AIR 1954 SC 44 (49) = 1954 SCR 310  1955-2 Mad LJ 339 (355) (DB)  AIR 1951 Cal 332 (337) (DB).

(25) Doctrine of frustration — Provisions of S. 56 are exhaustive— S. 56 lays down a positive rule relating to frustration of contracts and it is not permissible for the Courts to travel outside the provision of that section and import the principles of English law de hors the statutory provisions. AIR 1954 SC 44 (47) = 1954 SCR 310  AIR 1968 SC 1024 (1026) = (1968) 3 SCR 339. (AIR 1949 E. P. 301, Overruled.)

(26) Doctrine of 'frustration of venture' is based not upon existence of any actual impossibility in fact but upon existence in the circumstances of the case, of an implied condition, which must be absolutely necessary to give effect to the transaction which parties must have intended. AIR 1942 Cal 291 (292) = ILR (1941) 2 Cal 78  AIR 1934 Mad 85 (86) (DB).

(27) Where at the time contract was entered into there were in fact some uncertainties and subsequently those uncertainties become realities, the commercial venture gets frustrated and both parties are excused from performing the contract. AIR 1966 Madh Pra 145 (150) = 1966 MPLJ 120 (DB).

(28) Where it has not become impossible for a party to perform his obligation under contract, but merely burdensome to him, doctrine of frustration can have no application. AIR 1945 Pat 300 (303, 304) = 24 Pat 197 (DB)  AIR 1960 SC 588 (593, 594) = (1960) 2 SCR 793. (Contract is not frustrated merely because of a wholly abnormal rise or fall in prices, a sudden depreciation of currency, or an unexpected obstacle to execution or the like.)  AIR 1964 J and K 26 (28) = 1964 Kash LJ 49  AIR 1962 Mad 122 (125, 126) = 74 Mad LW 716  1961 Ker LT 449  AIR 1961 Orissa 75 (78, 79) = (1960) 2 Orissa JD 481 (DB).

(29) Disappointed expectations do not lead to frustrated contracts. AIR 1964 Punj 482 (485) = 66 Pun LR 943. (Company agreeing to pay bonus to its employees — Ratification of agreement even after company incurred losses — Subsequent refusal of company to pay bonus on grounds of losses cannot be justified on the doctrine of frustration.)

(30) Whether frustration occurs or not depends on the nature of the contract and on the events which have occurred. The doctrine of frustration may apply to a contract of unascertained goods. Where the specification of goods to be supplied does not define what was to be the source of the goods, the contract cannot be said to have frustrated if only one of the many ways of performing it has become illegal or impossible. AIR 1945 PC 144 (145, 146)  AIR 1952 Cal 335 (338).

(31) If the seller has no goods at all ready for shipment, he cannot take advantage of the circumstance that shipment was impossible; that defence should be available only to a person who, but for the impossibility of shipment by reason of circumstances beyond his control, was in fact in a position to fulfil his engagement. AIR 1921 Cal 305 (306, 307, 308).

(32) When there is frustration the dissolution of the contract occurs automatically. It does not depend, on the choice or election of either party. AIR 1954 SC 44 (49) = 1954 SCR 310  AIR 1957 Pat 586 (597) = 36 Pat 633 (DB)  AIR 1954 Mad 119 (124) = ILR (1955) Mad 302 (DB)  AIR 1964 Raj 205 (212) (DB) = 1964 Raj LW 313 (DB).

(33) The doctrine of frustration is applicable only where the frustrating event is outside the contemplation of the contracting parties. It is not applicable to an express contract to repay money in case of supervening impossibility of performance of a major obligation. AIR 1947 Bom 98 (104)  AIR 1964 Pat 250 (251) = 1963 BLJR 426 (DB)  AIR 1961 Raj 277 (279) = 1961 Raj LW 563  1958 Andh LT 960.

(34) Contract Act does not enable a party to a contract to ignore the express covenants thereof, and to claim payment of consideration for performance of the contract at rates different from the stipulated rates, on some vague plea of equity. AIR 1960 SC 588 (594) = (1960) 2 SCR 793.

Implied term.

(35) Sections 56, 73 — Contract between A and B that B should manufacture certain goods for A who was to sell them in Australia — A accepting delivery of goods for some time — Subsequent prohibition of import of such goods in Australia — A losing market for goods and asking B to cancel his orders — B ceasing to manufacture goods but claiming damages for breach of contract — Contract, held, did not contain implied term as to its enforceability depending upon A's finding customers and did not become impossible of performance and could be fulfilled — A, held, guilty of breach and liable to pay damages. AIR 1945 Mad 291 (293, 294) = ILR (1946) Mad 192 (DB).

(36) Contract to sell Penang tin "for forward delivery" — Contract held did not imply term that tin already ordered by sellers should arrive in Calcutta before delivery to purchasers — It was not such a necessary term that both parties must have intended it to be a term of the contract — Onus was on sellers to prove that contract became impossible of performance due to outbreak of war with Japan — Burden was not discharged. AIR 1948 PC 217 (220).

(37) Even if the parties had made a provision in their contract for the event which has frustrated, the law would imply for them what it assumes they would have agreed had they contemplated this unforeseen contingency at the time they entered into contract. 1958 Andh LT 960.

(38) It is not permissible to imply a term which is not consistent with the express terms of the contract. Even if such a term could be implied, it must at least be proved that the common intention of both the parties was that in the event of non-fulfilment of the implied term the defendant would be excused from performance of his obligations under the contract. AIR 1952 Cal 397 (400) (DB).

(39) In contract for delivery of goods, buyer is not entitled to claim damages on sinking of goods, in the absence of any condition in contract specially providing for a contingency. AIR 1930 Lah 193 (195).

(40) Hire-purchase — Covenant that hirer to make good loss by fire is valid and the stipulation cannot be avoided under Section 56, hirer being liable as bailee under Sections 151 and 152, Contract Act. AIR 1937 Sind 207 (207) (DB).

(41) Contract to supply tapestries manufactured to specification given by vendee for selling them in Australia — Australian Government prohibiting import of such goods — Market having been lost vendee informing vendor to cancel order — Sale to clients in Australia held was no term of contract — Vendee held liable for damages. AIR 1945 Mad 291 (293, 294) = ILR (1946) Mad 192 (DB).

Commercial impossibility.

(42) Impossibility must be physical or legal impossibility and not impossibility in reference to ability or circumstances. "Commercial impossibility" i.e., extreme or unforeseen cost or difficulty of performance is no excuse. AIR 1921 Cal 305 (307, 308)  AIR 1923 PC 105 (111) = 50 Ind App 142 = 47 Bom 563  AIR 1957 Pat 256 (258, 259) (DB)  AIR 1956 Hyd 190 (191) = ILR (1956) Hyd 646  AIR 1952 Punj 34 (38) (FB)  AIR 1951 Ajmer 65 (66)  1949-1 Madh BLR 244 (248) (DB)  (1947) 52 Mys HCR 41 (45) (DB)  AIR 1945 Pat 300 (303, 304) = 24 Pat 197 (DB)  AIR 1931 Lah 347 (348, 349) (DB)  AIR 1927 Mad 89 (89, 90)  1910 Mad WN 686 (687)  AIR 1921 Nag 42 (45)  AIR 1920 Nag 161 (163) = 17 Nag LR 1  AIR 1915 Bom 232 (236) = 40 Bom 301  AIR 1967 All 253 (255) = 1968 All LJ 725. (43) The word "impossible" has not been used in the sense of physical or literal impossibility. The performance of an act may not be literally impossible but it may be impracticable and useless from the point of view of the object and purpose which the parties had in view; and if an untoward event or change of circumstances totally upsets the very foundation which the parties rested their bargain it can be said that the promisor finds it impossible to do the act which he promised to do. AIR 1954 SC 44 (46) = 1954 SCR 310  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 71 (72, 73)  ILR (1957) Andh Pra 382 (387)  1955-2 Mad LJ 339 (355) (DB)  AIR 1963 All 201 (203)  AIR 1963 All 194 (197)  1963 Raj LW 621 = ILR (1963) 13 Raj 1188  AIR 1961 Mys 29 (33) = 38 Mys LJ 106 (DB)  AIR 1961 Pat 41 (55) = ILR 38 Pat 1007 (DB)  AIR 1960 J and K 91 (94).

(44) The Court will not apply the doctrine of impossibility to assist a party which does not want to fulfil its obligations under the contract and relies on literal impossibility to back out of it. The doctrine of impossibility, which is based on equity and common sense cannot be permitted to become a device for destroying the sanctity of contract. AIR 1963 All 201 (203).

(45) Any and every change of circumstance would not justify a Court in declaring a contract to be inoperative. The principal thing to be considered in each case is how far the altered circumstances affect the contract itself and the working of it. The change of circumstance must be such as would remove the very foundation of the contract itself. ILR (1951) 2 Cal 386 (394) (DB)  AIR 1965 Mad 400 (402) = (1965) 1 Mad LJ 227 (DB)  1961 Ker LT 449.

(46) Commercial men must not be asked to wait till the end of a long delay to find out from what in fact happens whether they are bound by a contract or not; they must be entitled to act on reasonable commercial probabilities at the time when they are called upon to make up their minds. ILR (1948) 2 Cal 11 (32).

(47) Where there is a positive contract to do a thing, not itself unlawful, the contractor has to perform it or pay damages for not doing it, although in consequence of unforeseen accidents the performance of contract may become unexpectedly burdensome or even impossible. AIR 1957 Madh B 53 (55) = ILR (1956) Madh B 182 (DB).

(48) The change must be of a fundamental and sweeping character which kills the contract itself and not merely one of a temporary nature which leaves the contract alive and capable of being performed at a future date. That question is a question of fact to be determined on a consideration of all the facts. AIR 1953 Mad 300 (304) = ILR (1953) Mad 831 (DB)  1967 Ker LR 774 = 1968 Ker LJ 31  AIR 1964 Raj 205 (212) = 1964 Raj LW 313 (DB)  AIR 1962 Mad 132 (136) = (1962) 2 Mad LJ 452 (DB). (49) Lease of dry dock — Lessee covenanting to insure — Insurance Company not insuring at current premium — Covenant containing no limitation that insurance must be at current premium only — Covenant is not impossible of performance. AIR 1919 PC 85 (90).

(50) Strike of workmen employed by lessee of salt pans does not of itself make performance of contract impossible, when the strike was not unforeseen and there was no condition that in such contingency the parties were to be excused from further performance. The lessee is liable for rent and costs of repairs to the salt pans. AIR 1928 Bom 61 (62) = 52 Bom 142.

(51) Where the specification of goods to be supplied does not define what was to be the source of the goods, the contract cannot be said to have frustrated if only one of many ways of performing it has become illegal or impossible. AIR 1945 PC 144 (145, 146).

Default of party.

(52) Section does not apply to cases of impossibility due to the default of contracting party himself. AIR 1924 Pat 586 (589) = 3 Pat 581  AIR 1952 SC 9 (11) = 1952 SCR 36  AIR 1935 PC 128 (131)  AIR 1957 All 143 (146) (DB)  AIR 1954 Tripura 17 (20, 21)  AIR 1953 Mad 300 (308) = ILR (1953) Mad 831 (DB)  AIR 1952 Cal 397 (403) (DB)  AIR 1949 Cal 510 (514) = ILR (1951) 1 Cal 331  AIR 1948 Pat 311 (312)  (1907) 4 All LJ 778 (802)  AIR 1965 Mad 400 (402) = (1965) 1 Mad LJ 227 (DB)  AIR 1963 Cal 163 (174) = 1963 Cal LJ 43. (55) Sections 56 and 2 (d) — Original patti divided into sub-pattis — Owner of one sub-patti agreeing to be responsible for rents of whole original patti — Agreement is for consideration and he is responsible for failure to realize amount — Section 56 does not apply. AIR 1944 Nag 307 (308) = ILR (1944) Nag 412.

(56) Contract for sale becoming impossible by act of defendant-seller — He is liable to refund advance paid by plaintiff purchaser. AIR 1963 Ker 247 (247) = 1963 Ker LT 73.

Act of third party.

(57) Contract to sell goods on getting them "as and when" from a third party but third party failing — Original contract is not frustrated — "As and when" did not mean "if and when". AIR 1923 PC 54 (56) = 50 Ind App 9 = 47 Bom 344.

(58) Vendor agreeing to supply goods "under manufacture by mill" — Contract anticipating supply — Mill failing to supply goods to vendor — Neither party held liable to the other. AIR 1920 Bom 187 (188) = 44 Bom 907.

(59) Agreement to refer dispute to three named arbitrators — One arbitrator dying before reference — Agreement held impossible of performance. 1936 Mad WN 407 (408).

(60) Where plaintiff, who had contracted to cultivate indigo for defendant in different lands, lost possession of some of such lands, on account of failure of his immediate landlord to pay rent, the case falls under Section 56 and the mere possibility of plaintiff paying rent due and retaining possession is not enough to take the case out of section. Plaintiff therefore is entitled to have that portion of contract which related to such lands cancelled on ground of impossibility of performance through no neglect on his part. (1881) 7 Cal 474 (478, 479).

(61) Where a sub-lease is entered into in the belief that the original contract will be subsisting during the period, the cancellation of contract terminates the sub-contract as well. AIR 1916 Mad 619 (619)  (1909) 6 Mad LT 375 (375) (DB).

(62) Where the elder brother agrees to execute sale deed along with his younger brother he cannot plead that the contract has become impossible of performance due to refusal of his younger brother to join. (1907) 17 Mad LJ 37 (38, 39).

(63) First part of 2nd para of Section 56 does not speak of act having become impossible by reason of the act of promisors. The Legislature did not intend to depart from general common law rule, which is that where party has not qualified his obligation under contract he is liable to make compensation in damages for non-performance although the performance has been rendered impracticable by some unforeseen cause beyond his control (such as failure to return hired lights due to damage caused by rioters.) AIR 1941 Pat 429 (429, 430).

Act of Government.

(64) Contract on C. I. F. terms to ship certain goods of a certain brand to a certain port in a certain period — Contract containing a force majeure clause — The steamer commandeered by the Government for purposes of war — Accommodation for that cargo on any other steamer not obtained — Force majeure clause held applicable — Contract is avoided and damages cannot be claimed. AIR 1925 Mad 626 (630) = 48 Mad 538.

(65) Contract for sale of goods — Parties aware of restrictions imposed by Government on the supply of waggons but expecting normal conditions by date of performance — Waggon restriction still existing at date of performance — Failure to supply — Contract held void being impossible of performance — Parties relieved of their liabilities. AIR 1920 Cal 1021 (1024) = AIR 1952 Cal 335 (338).

(66) Flower garden acquired by the Government under the Land Acquisition Act, during the continuance of a lease — Contract having become impossible of performance becomes void and the lessor is bound to compensate the lessee. AIR 1922 All 6 (6, 7) = 44 All 229.

(67) Parties not liable if contract for delivery of goods becomes impossible of performance owing to Government requisitioning ships. AIR 1928 Sind 21 (24).

(70) A requisition by Government of the subject matter of a contract made during the period of performance creates a supervening impossibility and frustrates the contract unless the parties by express terms contemplated such an event and provided against it. AIR 1952 Cal 397 (402) (DB).

(71) Held, on the facts that having regard to the nature and terms of the contract (for sale of house sites by a development company) the actual existence of war conditions at the time when it was entered into, the extent of the work involved in the development scheme and the total absence of any definite period of time agreed to by the parties within which the work was to be completed it could not be said that the requisition order as to the lands in question under the Defence of India Rules vitally affected the contract or made its performance impossible. AIR 1954 SC 44 (50) = 1954 SCR 310. (AIR 1951 Cal 332, Reversed.)

(72) Defendant contracting to supply jaggery by rail — Delivery by rail becoming impossible by issue of Government notification controlling movement of jaggery by rail — Plaintiff refusing to bear additional expenditure entailed by change in mode of transport — Held that even assuming that contract had not become impossible of performance, defendant did not commit breach of the contract. AIR 1952 Mad 670 (670).

(73) Where the goods were imported for sale, but its sale became prohibited by law by the time the goods arrived, there is no self-induced frustration and the contract to supply goods becomes void. (80) Temporary interruption followed by the possibility of proceeding with the contract does not avoid the contract. But unconditional contracts are, as a general rule, not dissolved by their performance becoming impossible owing to war. AIR 1917 Cal 411 (415).

(81) Where the requisition of a part of land comprised in a tenancy is not expected to last for a very long period of time and is in respect of less than half the area covered by the tenancy with the result that the tenant is left in possession of the greater part of the tenanted lands, the doctrine of frustration cannot be invoked. (89) Doctrine of frustration does not apply where there is a lease as the estate vested in the lessee by the lease is not extinguished by the order of requisition under R. 75 (a) of the Defence of India Rules (1939) which is of a temporary nature. AIR 1950 Bom 89 (92).

(90) The doctrine of frustration, even if it may be applicable to a contract for a lease, does not apply to a case where the contract had already been executed and the tenant had been put in possession of the land in question when the military authorities on whose behalf the Government requisitioned the land during the currency of the lease occupied it. AIR 1952 Cal 567 (570).

(91) A lease is something more than a mere contract or agreement in so far as it results in the creation of an estate in favour of the lessee. This additional feature present in a lease cannot by itself rule out the applicability of the doctrine of frustration to a lease transaction. At any rate, the applicability of this doctrine to a lease at least to a limited extent has been given statutory recognition in India as is clear from Cl. (e), S. 108, Transfer of Property Act. SECTION 59 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Distinct debts.
3. "With express intimation."
4. Circumstances implying appropriation.
5. "Must be applied accordingly."

1. Scope and applicability. — (1) Single debt payable by instalments — Section 59 of the Contract Act has no application. (1906) 3 All L Jour 430 (431)  AIR 1927 Bom 479 (479, 480).  1965 Pun LR (Supp) 86. (Decretal amount directed to be paid by instalment — Payment to be adjusted towards which instalment not specified — Decree-holder can adjust amount towards payment of time barred instalments.)

(2) Sections 59 to 61 do not deal with cases in which principal and interest are due on a single debt or where a decree has been passed on such debt. AIR 1941 Lah 386 (388) = ILR (1941) Lah 740 (FB)  AIR 1954 Madh B 151 (152)  AIR 1951 Nag 155 (157) = ILR (1952) Nag 172  AIR 1951 Trav-Co 80 (81) = 1950 Trav-Co LR 472 (DB).

(3) Section 59 applies to payments of Government revenue. AIR 1926 Cal 866 (871) = 53 Cal 886 (DB)  AIR 1951 Nag 155 (157) = ILR (1952) Nag 172  (1950) 54 Cal WN 946 (950) (DB)  AIR 1928 Cal 68 (71) = 55 Cal 624 (DB)  (1964) 15 STC 335 (338) (All). (Deposits made towards sales tax, tax due on sales made inside State — Sales Tax Authorities have no power to appropriate those deposits towards liability under S. 8-A (4).)

(4) Sections 59 and 60 of the Contract Act apply to a debt under the Public Demands Recovery Act. (1910) 14 Cal WN 607 (610) (DB).

(5) The law as to appropriation of payments is the same both under Sec. 55 of the Bengal Tenancy Act and also under the more general Contract Act (Sections 59 and 60) and in this respect, the same basic principle underlies both the statutes. AIR 1956 Cal 570 (573) (DB).

(6) There is nothing in law under which a Court can order an appropriation. Appropriation is a matter which arises when payment is made and accepted. Where payment is not accepted by the decree-holder the appropriation towards an earlier debt or a later debt does not really arise, and there is no law under which a Court could force a decree-holder to accept payment against his wishes, particularly when the judgment-debtor is in default. AIR 1945 Nag 277 (280) = ILR (1945) Nag 885.

(7) Statement made by tenant regarding payment of amount in terms of proviso to S. 13 (2) (i) of East Punjab Urban Rent Restriction Act (3 of 1949)—Tenant is not debarred by S. 59 of Contract Act from subsequently showing that there was mistake and that he had fully complied with the proviso. 1966 Cur LJ 530. (Overruled on another point in AIR 1969 Punj 367.)

2. Distinct debts. — (1) Sections 59 to 61, Contract Act, embody the general rules as to appropriation of payments in cases where a debtor owes several distinct debts to one person and voluntarily makes payment to him. AIR 1941 Lah 386 (388) = ILR (1941) Lah 740 (FB)  AIR 1965 Punj 375 (375) = 67 Pun LR 192. (Interest cannot be regarded as debt distinct and separate from the principal.)

(2) Arrears due in respect of separate kists are distinct debts. AIR 1926 Cal 866 (871) = 53 Cal 886 (DB).

(3) Appropriation — Separate debts — Debtor can make payment towards any of them unless there is an agreement regulating the order of payment. AIR 1938 Pat 8 (10) (DB).

(4) The test to determine whether the dues to the plaintiff was one debt or several distinct debts within the meaning of S. 59, Contract Act, is whether he could sue for such dues under O. 2, R. 2, Civil P. C. AIR 1961 Orissa 148 (150). (The salary payable to the plaintiff being a monthly pay became due for one month's work at the end of the month and accordingly each month's salary was a several and distinct debt for which the plaintiff could sue under O. 2, R. 2, Civil P. C.)

(5) Arrears of rent constitute a debt. The provision of S. 59 apply to the payment of rent. AIR 1965 All 189 (190).

3. "With express intimation." — (1) Section 59 provides that the debtor has, at the time of making payment, a right to intimate that the payment is to be applied towards the liquidation of a particular debt. AIR 1954 Madh B 151 (152)  1966 All LJ 588 = ILR (1966) 2 All 382. (Creditor is not entitled to appropriate payment by debtor to any debt he likes unless debtor fails to indicate appropriation.)

(2) The words used in Section 59 are with express intimation. These words imply that the intimation should synchronise with the payment. An intimation made after the creditor has demanded the dues is not an intimation of the nature contemplated by the section. 1958 All L Jour 311 (311, 312)  AIR 1926 Pat 330 (333) = 5 Pat 326  AIR 1926 Lah 183 (183, 184) = 7 Lah 17.

[But see AIR 1962 Mys 190 (191) = 40 Mys LJ 858. (Debtor can direct appropriation in a particular manner until he gets an intimation of an appropriation in a particular manner by the creditor.)]

4. Circumstances implying appropriation. — (1) Under Section 59 the Court may have regard not only to the debtor's express intimation but also to circumstances "implying that the payment is to be applied to the discharge of some particular debt." (1907) 11 Cal WN 939 (942) (DB)  1966 All LJ 588 = ILR (1966) 2 All 382.

(2) Mortgagor subscriber to a fund under obligation to pay Rs. 20 to a fund — Money advanced on mortgage — Covenant to discharge debt by monthly payments — Payments to be applied towards discharge of mortgage debt and not his subscriptions. (1909) 1 Ind Cas 909 (909) (Mad).

(3) Balance struck out in a running account — Subsequent payments are to be applied towards the balance. AIR 1936 Pesh 143 (144) (DB).

(4) Arrears of land revenue paid in respect of certain kist — Amount paid exceeding dues under that kist but very much less than under subsequent kist — Held it should be appropriated only in respect of former as there was implied direction to do so. (1908) 35 Cal 636 (639) (DB).

(5) Principal and interest due — No implied indication as to appropriation of amount towards principal can be inferred in the absence of express direction. AIR 1915 Lah 248 (249) = 1915 Pun Re No. 24.

(6) Method of appropriation having been determined by the parties, law does not require specific appropriation to be made on each payment. AIR 1937 Oudh 87 (98) = 12 Luck 435 (DB).

(7) In a matter between creditor and his debtor, in the absence of the debtor exercising a preference, it may be presumed that the creditor has appropriated it towards outstanding interest and then only to the principal. But this rule of appropriation has no application where it is a question between an assessee and the Revenue. In such a case the intention of the assessee must be presumed to be in favour of an appropriation least disadvantageous to himself. (1966) 2 ITJ 592 = (1966) 2 Mad LJ 452 (DB).

(8) Whether payment made by debtor is for a particular debt or all debts is a question of fact. 1966 All LJ 588 = ILR (1966) 2 All 382.

(9) When the crops were charged for the debt and the proceeds of the sale of the paddy obtained by the harvest of the crops were allowed to be drawn by the creditor, the proper inference to be drawn is that the payment was towards the liquidation of the debt for which the crops were hypothecated. Where the debt evidenced by hypothecation bond was the earliest among other debts and no specific debts were stipulated for repayment, the creditor could appropriate the proceeds of crops towards other debts only with the consent of the debtor. Where there was no evidence that debtor ever gave consent for such appropriation, election to appropriate cannot rest with the creditor. AIR 1959 Ker 233 (234) = 1959 Ker LT 19 (DB).

5. "Must be applied accordingly". —

(1) Section 59 deals with the application of payment where debt to be discharged is indicated, in which event the intention of the debtor is the paramount factor in determining to which particular debt a certain payment would be appropriated. AIR 1956 Pat 522 (525) (DB).

(2) When a debtor makes a payment with express directions, the creditor has to appropriate it accordingly. AIR 1922 PC 26 (27) = 48 Cal 839  AIR 1938 Cal 20 (21) = ILR (1937) 1 Cal 697 (DB)  (1958) 1 Andh WR 400 (DB). (If he does not do so he must return the amount to the debtor.)

(3) If money has been deposited with the Collector with a distinct direction by the depositor that the money is to be applied for certain definite payments the Collector has no authority without the consent of the depositor to apply any part of such deposit to a debt which may have subsequently arisen. (1950) 54 Cal WN 946 (951) (DB)  (1952) 56 Cal WN (4 DR) 15 (16, 18).

(4) A creditor has the option to refuse a payment at all with directions regarding appropriation — Once accepted, the direction will have to be carried out. AIR 1925 Rang 4 (5) = 2 Rang 204  AIR 1922 PC 26 (27) = 48 Cal 839  AIR 1962 Mys 190 (191, 192) = 40 Mys LJ 858.

(5) The law gives considerable latitude to the creditors in making appropriations of payments made by the debtors. The creditors have the right of election upto the last payment. But they may do so only when debtors do not themselves make appropriations of the payments they make at the time when the payments are made. AIR 1951 Trav-Co 80 (81) = 1950 Trav-Co LR 472 (DB).

(6) The law gives the first right of appropriation to the debtor which has to be exercised at the time of payment unless it is reserved for exercise at a subsequent point of time, and, failing that, the right of appropriation passes on to the creditor and he can exercise it irrespective of and even contrary to any intermediate direction from the debtor. AIR 1956 Cal 570 (573) (DB).

(7) Plaintiff paid defendants money on behalf of S, in satisfaction of debt due by S to defendants — Defendants refused to appropriate the payment towards S's debt, appropriated it towards an alleged debt due by plaintiff and recovered from S the sum owed — Plaintiff sued defendants to recover money paid by him — Held the defendants were bound to restore the money to the plaintiff. (1900) 2 Bom LR 706 (707) (DB).

(8) Payment by principal debtor — In absence of special agreement, surety has no right to control the appropriation. AIR 1917 Cal 537 (544) (SB).

(9) Appropriation made by both parties towards particular dues cannot be subsequently changed by one party without the consent of the other. (1911) 38 Cal 537 (541) = 38 Ind App 80 (PC)  AIR 1953 Trav-Co 70 (71) = ILR (1952) Trav-Co 361.

(10) Where the debtor alleges appropriation in a particular way, it is for him to prove the same. AIR 1966 J & K 64 (66) = 1966 Kash LJ 212.

(11) Where a decree provides for payment by instalments subject to the condition that in the event of default of two consecutive instalments decree-holder would be entitled to realise the entire outstanding balance at once, and if the judgment-debtor tenders payment to the decree-holder with an indication, that it should be appropriated in a particular way, then, unless the penalty clause has already come into operation it will not be open to the decree-holder to accept the payment, but appropriate the amount in a different manner. AIR 1962 All 586 (589) = 1962 All LJ 707 (DB). (3 All LJ 430, Diss. from.)

60. Application of payment where debt to be discharged is not indicated.—Where the debtor has omitted to intimate and there are no other circumstances indicating to which debt the payment is to be applied, the creditor may apply it at his discretion to any lawful debt actually due and payable to him from the debtor, whether its recovery is or is not barred by the law in force for the time being as to the limitation of suits.

SECTION 60 — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability.
2. Creditor's right to appropriate.
3. Lawful debt actually due.
4. Whether recovery is barred by law or not.
5. Circumstances indicating particular appropriation.
6. Mode of appropriation.
7. Re-appropriation.
8. Proof of intention.
9. Appropriation to save limitation.

1. Applicability. — (1) A debt under the Public Demands Recovery Act is nothing but a debt and Sections 59 and 60 apply to arrears of road cess. (1910) 11 Cal L Jour 266 (269) (DB).

(2) As between a creditor and his debtor, the law is that the creditor has the right of appropriation up to the very last moment. The right terminates when the creditor has made an appropriation and communicated it to the debtor. But this law is not necessarily applicable when the question, arises between a creditor and another person such as an Income-tax Officer. ILR (1963) 1 All 517 = (1963) 49 ITR 167 (All)  (1966) 2 Mad LJ 452 = (1966) 2 ITJ 592 (DB).

(3) Sections 59 and 60, Contract Act, apply to appropriation of payments under the Revenue Sale Law Act 11 of 1859. (1908) 35 Cal 636 (640) (DB).

(4) Arrears due in respect of separate kists are distinct debts and therefore the question of the right of the collector to appropriate a payment made by one of the co-proprietors will be governed by the provisions of the Contract Act. AIR 1926 Cal 866 (871) = 53 Cal 886 (DB)  (1908) 35 Cal 636 (640) (DB).

(5) Assuming that Sections 59 and 60 of the Act apply to payments made towards arrears of revenue a deposit in the nature of an advance towards a specific kist to fall due in the future is not a payment towards one of several debts in terms of those sections. (1950) 54 Cal WN 946 (950, 951) (DB).

(6) Sections 59 to 61, Contract Act, apply only where the debtor owes several debts to a person and voluntarily makes payment and not to a case where principal and interest are due on a single debt or a decree has been passed carrying interest on the sum adjudged to be due. AIR 1941 Lah 386 (388) = ILR (1941) Lah 740 (FB)  AIR 1951 Trav-Co 80 (81) = 1950 Trav-Co LR 472 (DB).

(7) The test to determine whether the dues to the plaintiff was one debt or several distinct debts is whether he could sue for such dues under O. 2, R. 2, Civil P. C. AIR 1961 Orissa 148 (150). (Contract of service on monthly salary — Each month's salary is a distinct debt.)

[See however AIR 1954 Madh B 151 (152).]

[But see AIR 1952 All 514 (515) (DB).]

(8) A mortgagee lessor who allows his decree for rent against the mortgagor to become barred cannot, when the mortgagor sues for redemption successfully claim the right to appropriate an amount received by him on behalf of the mortgagor from a third party towards the barred decree and insist that redemption should be allowed only on payment of full mortgage debt. Such a case does not fall under S. 60 as there are no several distinct debts due by the mortgagor to the mortgagee and a payment by the former without an intimation as to which of them it is to be appropriated. 1955 Mad WN 613 (614).

2. Creditor's right to appropriate. —

(1) Where debtor omits to indicate to which of several debts the payment is to be appropriated, the creditor has the right to appropriate it to any debt actually due and payable to him by the debtor. (1899) 26 Cal 39 (44) = 25 Ind App 179 (PC)  AIR 1956 Cal 570 (573) (DB)  AIR 1954 Trav-Co 233 (234) = ILR (1953) Trav-Co 721  ILR (1950) 1 Cal 578 (586) (DB)  AIR 1937 Nag 198 (199)  AIR 1935 Cal 39 (60) = 61 Cal 711 (DB)  AIR 1935 Oudh 209 (210) = 10 Luck 307 (DB)  AIR 1934 Cal 40 (42) = 60 Cal 1265 (DB)  AIR 1933 Pat 267 (268) (DB)  AIR 1926 Lah 183 (184) = 7 Lah 17 (DB)  AIR 1916 Pat 326 (327) = 1 Pat L Jour 474 (DB)  1966 All LJ 588 = ILR (1966) 2 All 382  ILR (1963) 1 All 517 = (1963) 49 ITR 167 (All). (A creditor may not be allowed to contend that he is not bound by appropriation made by him because he has not communicated it to his debtor.)

(2) The same basic principle underlies Ss. 59 and 60 of the Contract Act and also S. 55 of the Bengal Tenancy Act, 8 of 1885, and therefore where the landlord becomes entitled to appropriate a payment due to the tenant's failure to himself appropriate it he can exercise the right irrespective of and even contrary to any intermediate direction given by the tenant. AIR 1956 Cal 570 (573) (DB).

(3) A creditor is not bound to accept a payment on the conditions proposed by the debtor. Where he refuses he should return the money or the cheque by which money is preferred. AIR 1922 PC 26 (27) = 48 Cal 839.

(4) The creditor's right to appropriate a payment towards any debt to him can be exercised even up to the time of trial. AIR 1926 Lah 183 (183, 184) = 7 Lah 17 (DB)  AIR 1937 All 1 (2) = 58 All 791 (FB)  AIR 1933 Pat 267 (268) (DB)  AIR 1916 Mad 1196 (1201) (DB)  AIR 1960 Andh Pra 174 (175).

[See however AIR 1919 Mad 534 (535) (DB).]

(5) The right of the debtor and his creditor to appropriate payments will in no way be affected by the fact that security has been given for the debtor in respect of a particular liability and therefore nothing prevents them from appropriating a payment to clear off a prior indebtedness before giving credit in reduction of the liability for which the security has been given. AIR 1919 Mad 471 (471, 472) (DB)  AIR 1941 Lah 16 (18) = ILR (1941) Lah 323 (DB).

(6) In appropriating a particular debt the probable prejudice that may be caused to third persons having claims against the debtor is no concern of the creditor — He can place himself in the most advantageous position so long as he does not act either unconscionably or inequitably. AIR 1919 Mad 534 (535) (DB).

(7) Executor de son trot cannot remit any debt due to beneficiary and give preference to his own dues. AIR 1935 Cal 39 (60, 61) = 61 Cal 711 (DB).

(8) The right given by S. 60 of the Contract Act can be exercised by the creditor only at the time when he receives the payment. Section 60 does not give him any right to consolidate all the debts unilaterally, i. e., without the consent of the debtor and it does not allow him to treat a particular payment or payments as having been made towards all the debts as a whole. ILR (1960) 10 Raj 43.

(9) Payment of decretal amount in Court by mortgagor — Its appropriation towards interest first and then towards principal is normal rule, unless mortgagee was informed that payment was towards principal. AIR 1970 SC 161 (163).

3. Lawful debt actually due. — (1) The creditor invoking this section must establish the existence of a lawful debt actually due towards which the appropriation was made. AIR 1928 Cal 229 (229)  AIR 1954 Orissa 130 (130, 131) = ILR (1954) Cut 199.

(2) Bond silent as to post diem interest — No post diem interest will be actually and lawfully due in respect of which appropriation can be made. AIR 1917 Pat 510 (511).

(3) Creditor is not entitled to appropriate towards arrears of rent unless the arrears on the date of appropriation are proved. AIR 1922 Pat 446 (446) (DB)  AIR 1960 Pat 145 (146) = 1959 BLJR 549 (DB).

(4) The principle of this section applies not only to distinct debts but also to distinct parts of a single loan transaction. The creditor can appropriate payment by the debtor to any one of such parts. AIR 1937 All 1 (3, 4) = 58 All 791 (FB).

[See also AIR 1948 Nag 290 (291, 292) = ILR (1948) Nag 310.]

(5) Part of debt incurred by manager of joint family for future immoral purpose — Creditor who has obtained decree cannot appropriate from sale proceeds of the joint family property towards that part of debt which was illegal and not binding because of its immorality. AIR 1938 All 437 (440) (DB).

(6) Decree partly set aside in appeal — Unless Court directs the defendant to recover his costs in the first Court there is no lawful debt to which he can appropriate. AIR 1927 Cal 906 (907) (DB).

(7) Where the plaintiff, who had license under the Bihar Cotton Cloth and Yarn Dealers (Licensing and Control) Order, 1944, supplied standard cloth, as defined in Section 2 (10) of the Order, to the defendant who had no license for being sold in his shop, the amount due as the price of standard cloth is not a lawful claim made by the plaintiff and, therefore, the appropriation of a portion of the payment made by the defendant towards the price of standard cloth is also not permissible in the eye of law. AIR 1960 Pat 145 (146) = 1959 BLJR 549 (DB).

4. Whether recovery is barred by law or not. — (1) That the debt is barred by limitation is no bar to the creditor's right to appropriate towards it any payment not specifically paid towards any other debt. AIR 1940 Lah 166 (169)  AIR 1930 Mad 594 (595)  1965 Punj LR (Supp) 86. (Decretal amount directed to be paid by instalment — Payment by judgment-debtor — To be adjusted towards which instalment not specifically stated — Amount could be adjusted towards payment of time barred instalment.)  1963 All WR (HC) 390 = 1963 All LJ 496  1958 All WR (HC) 62.

5. Circumstances indicating particular appropriation. — (1) In the absence of any stipulation regarding appropriation it is the duty of the Court to see whether there was any intention on the part of the parties to appropriate the payment to any particular debt. AIR 1937 Pat 432 (433).

(2) Two debts owing, one bearing compound interest and the other simple interest — Debtor not indicating the appropriation — Creditor appropriating payments towards the simple interest dues — The fact that debtor was unwilling at the time of the execution of the bond to pay compound interest is not a circumstance which indicates that the payment ought to be appropriated towards the compound interest first. (1899) 26 Cal 39 (44) = 25 Ind App 179 (PC).

(3) Where accounts are taken and balance struck in a running account between the parties the inference is that any payment made subsequently should be applied towards the discharge of the balance. AIR 1936 Pesh 143 (144) (DB).

(4) Madras Agriculturists' Relief Act (4 of 1938), Section 8 (1) — Debtor making open payment before 1st October 1937 in excess of interest then due — Debtor knowing the extent of his indebtedness and the amount of interest — Intention of debtor unascertainable — Held, that the debtor in 1936 did intend to pay off part of the principal of his debt and indicated that intention by the very act of the payment. AIR 1943 Mad 236 (238, 241) = ILR (1943) Mad 563.

(5) Entries in books of the creditor may be taken as indicative of agreement to a proposed appropriation by the debtor. AIR 1922 PC 26 (27) = 48 Cal 839.

(6) Decree-holder filing accounts in execution application, merely entered credit and debit items and calculated interest on both and claimed execution for the balance: Held, that it resulted in appropriating the payments towards principal. AIR 1933 Lah 126 (126).

(7) Demand for January Kist and time extended for payment — Payment made in excess of January Kist and amount far below March Kist — No direction as to appropriation by debtor — Held, payment was to be treated as for January Kist. (1908) 35 Cal 636 (639) (DB).

6. Mode of appropriation. — (1) The creditor is entitled to appropriate a payment to debts in their chronological order. (1906) 3 All LJ 430, Dissented from.)

(2) The mode of payments of debts may be more than one; it may be actual payment; it may be by adjustment or it may be by any other means as agreed to between the creditor and the debtor. There can be a payment of adjustment and it is not necessary that there should always be an actual payment for appropriation or adjustment. AIR 1963 Mys 64 (65) = 40 Mys LJ 901.

SECTION 62 — SYNOPSIS

1. "If the parties to a contract agree."
2. Novation of contract — Effect.
3. Illustrative cases.
4. Novation by substitution of new party.
5. Cross contracts.
6. Agreement to substitute in future.
7. Section 62, whether applies after breach of original contract.

(b) A owes B 10,000 rupees. A enters into an arrangement with B, and gives B a mortgage of his (A's) estate for 5,000 rupees in place of the debt of 10,000 rupees. This is a new contract and extinguishes the old.

(c) A owes B 1,000 rupees under a contract. B owes C 1,000 rupees. B orders A to credit C with 1,000 rupees in his books, but C does not assent to the arrangement. B still owes C 1,000 rupees, and no new contract has been entered into.

9. Negotiable instrument invalid — Whether plaintiff can fall back on original consideration.

10. Alteration of documents — Effect.

11. Consideration under Section 62.

12. Burden of proof

13. Limitation.

1. "If the parties to a contract agree." — (1) Parties are not in a position to avoid a contract under Section 62 without the other side's consent. AIR 1935 Bom 225 (227) (DB)  AIR 1949 FC 211 (216) = 1949 FCR 379  1949 Bur LR (SC) 46 (51).

(2) A contract is concluded when in the mind of each contracting party there is a consensus ad idem and a modification or revocation of the contract requires a like consensus. AIR 1925 PC 232 (232).

(3) No legal novation or modification of an existing contract is created in a case where one party proposes the novation but the other party accepts the proposal in a qualified manner. AIR 1915 Oudh 31 (53) (DB).

(4) Rights under leases granted already cannot be affected except by agreement by lessee. AIR 1920 PC 136 (138).

(5) Where a party to a contract repudiates the contract it is not effective till it is accepted by the other party and rights under the contract are not given up but retained. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 161 (165) (DB)  (1962) 66 Cal WN 29. (Repudiation must be bilateral act of agreement between parties.)

(6) Where there is no mutual agreement among all the parties to substitute a new contract for the old contract there cannot be a novation. (1958) 60 Pun LR 42 (44)  AIR 1966 Ker 303 (305) = 1966 Ker LT 1145 (DB)  AIR 1960 Punj 549 (552) = 62 Pun LR 703 (DB). (A mutual abandonment, cancellation or rescission must be clearly expressed. In absence of any express or implied terms, conduct of parties is a fairly safe guide.)

(7) One party to a contract cannot unilaterally alter the terms of the contract. AIR 1957 Punj 140 (141) = ILR (1957) Punj 1165.

(8) A party to a contract is not entitled in law to cancel a concluded contract unilaterally. AIR 1958 Ker 195 (201).

(9) There is nothing repugnant to the law of contract to have as one of the express terms of the contract itself that it will be alterable at the instance of one party alone. AIR 1950 Cal 232 (235).

(10) A party to a contract cannot transfer his liability thereunder without the consent of the other party and such liabilities can only be transferred by a tripartite agreement which in such cases will amount to novation. AIR 1969 Cal 238 (244). (AIR 1962 SC 1810, Foll.)

2. Novation of contract — Effect. — (1) Section 62 deals with novation of contract. It comes into operation when a new contract is substituted for the contract in existence. AIR 1957 Pat 408 (412).

(2) A contract will be said to be rescinded by another between the same parties when the latter is inconsistent with or renders impossible the performance of the former. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 784 (789).

(3) In a novation there must be immediate and present substitution of another contract, and there is no true novation, if the liability under the original contract is not extinguished by the new contract and if there is reversion to the old contract. AIR 1956 Madh B 25 (27) = ILR (1956) Madh B 13 (DB)  AIR 1954 Nag 142 (147, 148) = ILR (1953) Nag 746 (DB).

(4) Essence of novation lies not in the dissimilarity of the terms between the two contracts but in the intention of the parties to supersede the old by the new. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 784 (787)  AIR 1945 Oudh 29 (30) (DB)  AIR 1936 Nag 37 (38, 40) = 31 Nag LR (Sup) 154  AIR 1935 Oudh 366 (369)  AIR 1925 Mad 1260 (1261) (DB)  1883 All WN 254 (255).

[See also AIR 1942 Bom 15 (16) = ILR (1942) Bom 101.]

(5) A collateral agreement must be, in every sense a complete legal contract and the effect must be to vary or add to the terms of the contract. Such collateral agreements are viewed with suspicion and so must be proved strictly. The terms of the agreement and also the animus contrahendi on the part of all the parties must be established clearly. No laxity in this respect would be allowed. AIR 1945 PC 144 (145).

(6) (Per majority, Sarkar, J., Contra.) An arbitration clause is a collateral term of a contract as distinguished from its substantive terms; but none the less it is an integral part of it. It is not because the arbitration clause survives, but because it does not put an end to their liability to pay damages for any breach of the contract. The contract is still in existence for certain purposes. But where the dispute is whether the said contract is void ab initio, the arbitration clause cannot operate on that dispute for its operative force depends upon the existence of the contract and its validity. So too, if the dispute is whether the contract is wholly superseded or not by a new contract between the parties, such a dispute must fall outside the arbitration clause, for, if it is superseded, the arbitration clause falls with it. AIR 1959 SC 1362 (1368, 1370) = (1960) 1 SCR 493 = 1961 Andh LT 20.

(7) If after a contract is concluded and its terms settled further negotiations are started with regard to new matters, that would not prevent full effect being given to the contract already existing, unless it is established as a fact that the contract was rescinded or varied with the consent of both the parties or that both parties treated it as incomplete and inconclusive. AIR 1949 FC 211 (216) = 1949 FCR 379.

(8) Whether there is a novation or not depends on the intention of parties. One should look to the substance and not to mere form. AIR 1927 Cal 538 (542) (DB)  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 784 (789)  AIR 1947 Cal 294 (299) = ILR (1947) 1 Cal 101  ILR (1946) 1 Cal 543 (551) (DB).

(9) Whether the parties intended the substitution of a new contract depends upon the circumstances of each case. AIR 1944 Oudh 63 (64, 65)  AIR 1942 Cal 87 (90) = ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB).

(10) The question whether a creditor of two or more persons has released one of them and converted the others into his sole debtors by what is called novation is a question of intention. To succeed on this ground what debtor has to prove is conduct inconsistent with the continuance of his liability, from which conduct an agreement to release him may be inferred. 1949 Bur LR (SC) 46 (52).

(11) Under Section 62, it is not always necessary to prove that a new contract has been substituted; it is enough if an alteration in the original contract is proved. Consequently, where an instalment bond is actually executed by the debtor after striking of the balance on the bahi account, the terms of the original contract are varied, and this variation will be sufficient to absolve the debtor from the performance of the original contract. The creditor cannot, therefore, fall back upon the original contract and cannot sue thereon. AIR 1935 Lah 897 (898).

(12) Whether there has been a mere variation of terms or abandonment depends upon the facts of each particular case and is often not easy to determine but the following test may be applied, viz., that in the first case (variation) there are no such executory clauses in the second agreement as would enable one to sue upon that alone if the first did not exist; in the second (rescission) one could sue on the second arrangement alone, and the first contract is got rid of either by express words to that effect, or because, the second dealing with the same subject-matter as the first, but in a different way, it is impossible that the two should be both performed. AIR 1935 Cal 347 (353, 354) = 62 Cal 175 (DB).

(13) Parties must rescind the prior contract altogether in order that there may be valid novation; if there is no such intention, there is no substitution and original contract is available. AIR 1928 Mad 1201 (1203) = 52 Mad 465 (DB)  (1874) 1 Ind App 241 (263) (PC)  AIR 1958 Pat 162 (164)  AIR 1956 Raj 12 (13) = ILR (1955) 5 Raj 85 (DB)  AIR 1941 Rang 37 (39, 40) = 1940 Rang LR 603 (DB)  AIR 1940 Pat 121 (124) (DB)  AIR 1938 Lah 757 (758)  AIR 1936 Lah 51 (53) (DB)  AIR 1923 Nag 213 (213, 214) * AIR 1920 Cal 143 (149) = 46 Cal 534  (1908) 4 Low Bur Rul 365 (366, 367) (DB)  AIR 1960 Pat 400 (405) = 1960 BLJR 224 (DB).

[See also AIR 1939 Pat 323 (328).]

(14) Mere alteration or modification of the terms of a contract does not amount to its rescission. The modifications are read into and become part and parcel of the original contract. The original terms also continue to be part of the contract and are not rescinded or superseded except in so far as they are inconsistent with the modifications. AIR 1955 Cal 65 (67).

(15) When a contract is novated there is a fresh contract coming into existence, directly, or by implication in place of the original contract. AIR 1925 Pat 228 (236) (DB)  AIR 1955 Cal 65 (67)  AIR 1953 Cal 642 (644).

(16) There is implied rescission of contract when new and inconsistent contract is agreed upon regarding same subject-matter between same parties. AIR 1917 Cal 52 (62) (FB)  AIR 1955 Cal 65 (67)  AIR 1916 Cal 136 (146) = 43 Cal 790 (DB).

(20) If a contract is clear and unambiguous, its true effect cannot be changed merely by the course of conduct adopted by the parties in acting under it. Such conduct, if it is clear and unambiguous, may in certain events raise the inference that the parties have agreed to modify their contract, but short of that such conduct cannot have the effect of changing the operation of an unambiguous agreement, though it might possibly, in special cases, support along with other appropriate evidence, a claim for rectification. (14) Taking a bill of exchange or a promissory note on account of a pre-existing debt does not operate as a discharge in the absence of intention to that effect. (22) Where the defendant was holding the properties for a particular period under a particular kanom document and after that period he was holding the properties under another kanom document executed by way of renewal, to such a case Section 62 has no application as there is no substitution or rescission or alteration of the original contract. AIR 1954 Trav-Co 377 (378, 379).

(23) Where the parties do not say anything at the time the hundies are executed as to whether they are intended to operate as an absolute discharge of the debt or as a conditional payment only, the legal effect of the transaction is that the original debt remains but the remedy for that debt stands suspended till the maturity of the instrument in the hands of the creditor. (33) A contract entered into by an insolvent, after the insolvency proceedings have been initiated but before he is adjudged an insolvent, is not per se void. Nor does insolvency per se operate as rescission of a contract. AIR 1964 Andh Pra 299 (301, 303) = (1964) 1 Andh LT 178 (DB).

4. Novation by substitution of new party.— (1) To supersede a contract by another contract, all the parties to the first contract must be parties to the second contract. AIR 1925 Mad 261 (263) = 48 Mad 693 (DB)  AIR 1951 Raj 74 (76) (DB).

(5) If the promisor being requested by the promisee, agrees to pay the debt to a third party, the original contract is replaced by a new one and the original promisee cannot enforce his claim against the promisor. (8) A contract by the purchaser of a property to pay the whole or part of the consideration retained by him for payment to the vendor's creditors can be enforced by the latter, though they were not parties to the contract. Basis of liability is not novation but purchaser in that case becomes a trustee for vendor's creditors. AIR 1918 Cal 941 (941) (DB).

(9) In a suit by A against B and C the plaint averred that certain amount was due to A from B and that C had undertaken to make the payment. It was alleged that C had intimated this fact to A but subsequently C withdrew his undertaking to pay to A as B had failed to pay him. Held that there was no novation within Section 62. All that C did was to assume responsibility to A on behalf of B and that later on C resiled from this undertaking. AIR 1933 Lah 335 (335).

(10) To determine, whether an incoming partner becomes liable to an existing creditor of the firm, two questions have to be answered. Firstly whether the new firm has assumed the liability to pay the debt, secondly, whether the creditor has agreed to accept the new firm as his debtor and to discharge the old partnership from its liability. A creditor cannot rely merely on agreement between the partners inter se. He must prove novation of contract. AIR 1957 Mad 8 (12) (DB).

(11) Where the original debtor is given up by the creditor and another person undertakes the liability for a portion of the debt and executes a hypothecation bond, the case is one of novation and the debt cannot be said to have been renewed, included or merged in the hypothecation bond. AIR 1951 Trav-Co 182 (182) (DB).

(12) A had contracted with B that he (A) shall give his daughter in marriage to B, and received Rs. 3,900 from the latter by way of consideration for that marriage. Later on A refused to perform the marriage and B called a Panchayat. As a result of the decision of the Panchayat, A was required to deposit Rs. 3900 with the panchayat on the understanding that the money would be returned to A if he performs the marriage of his daughter with B and that otherwise the money would be paid to B. Rs. 3265 out of Rs. 3900 were paid in cash to the Panchayat and for Rs. 635 A executed a promissory note in favour of E as representing the Panchayat. Held, that it was a case of novation of contract. 1946 Jaipur LR 84 (88) (DB).

(13) In every case where with the consent of the creditor another debtor is substituted for the original debtor there is in effect assignment of liability. The new debtor would be an assignee of the original debtor so long as the identity of debt is maintained. AIR 1956 Mad 364 (367) = ILR (1956) Mad 837 (DB).

5. Cross contracts. — (1) In "cross contracts" the second contract does not operate to extinguish the first contract completely nor is it effective as a novation. The two contracts are distinct and separate and intention of parties only to pay differences does not extinguish them. AIR 1925 Sind 144 (146) = 20 Sind LR 335.

(2) Where there are two contracts one for sale and the other for purchase for the same amount of the same class of goods, e. g., one hundred bales of cotton for settlement on the same day, the obvious intention of the parties is that the contracts should not be carried out according to their terms but should be treated as balancing each other. In such a case, generally speaking the parties intended that the contracts shall be cancelled and that in lieu the existing contracts, there shall be a fresh contracts under which one party has to pay and the other to receive on the due date the difference and neither party is to insist on the original contracts being carried out according to their terms. The Court may readily infer such a fresh contract, either from the terms of the instructions for the second contracts in referring to an intention to close the first contract, or from the manner in which the contracts have been dealt with in the books, e. g., by treating the first two contracts as cancelled, and replaced by a liability to pay or a right to receive the difference, or by other sufficient evidence. But, the liability to pay or receive the difference on the contracts would only arise, in the absence of agreement to the contrary, on the day fixed for the performance of the original contracts. AIR 1934 Bom 91 (92) (DB).

6. Agreement to substitute in future.—

(1) In order to operate as a novation under Section 62 the new contract must involve present supersession or extinguishment of the liability arising under the old contract. A mere agreement between the parties to effect such a supersession or extinguishment at a future date cannot constitute novation. AIR 1928 Nag 289 (289, 290)  AIR 1936 Lah 476 (477)  AIR 1929 All 503 (503) = 51 All 799 (DB).

7. Section 62, whether applies after breach of original contract. — (1) Section 62 contemplates that the original contract subsists and that the parties have agreed to replace it by a new contract. If there is a breach of the original contract Section 62 does not apply. AIR 1916 Mad 823 (824) (DB)  AIR 1953 Cal 642 (644)  AIR 1942 Cal 87 (90) = ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB)  AIR 1939 Rang 413 (415)  (1888) 15 Cal 319 (325) (DB).

(4) If after a breach of contract parties enter into a new contract to settle the amount of damages suffered in the breach of old contract, cause of action on the old contract is wiped out and the plaintiff can only sue on later contract. (5) The effect of non-payment of the mortgage money within the stipulated period is merely to furnish a cause of action to the mortgagee to sue on the mortgage; the mortgage remains in force so long as it is not discharged and until this is done, it can be substituted by a new contract. AIR 1939 Pat 477 (488).

8. Invalid novation — Effect. — (1) Novation means the wiping out of the original contract as well as the creation of a new valid contract. If the new agreement is invalid it cannot serve as novation, and the original contract continues unless the rights thereunder are expressly abandoned. AIR 1927 All 503 (504).

9. Negotiable instrument invalid — Whether plaintiff can fall back on original consideration. — (1) Where there is a pre-existing debt or liability and a promissory note or bill of exchange is passed in respect of it the plaintiff can fall back on the original consideration if for any reason the new contract fails. (2) The execution of a promissory note in satisfaction of a debt does not necessarily mean that original debt is extinguished but the note may operate as a substitute for that debt and the original debt is kept in abeyance pending the discharge or otherwise of the promissory note. 10. Alteration of documents — Effect — (1) The rule relating to the effect of material alterations in a deed is that, if an alteration (by erasure, interlineation or otherwise) is made in a material part of a deed after its execution, by or with the consent of any party thereto or person entitled thereunder, but without the consent of the party or parties liable thereunder, the deed is thereby made void. AIR 1940 PC 160 (163) = ILR (1940) All 625 = ILR (1940) Kar (PC) 287 = 67 Ind App 318  AIR 1958 Pat 211 (216) = 37 Pat 88  AIR 1957 Andh Pra 784 (788)  1950 Trav-Co LR 377 (383)  AIR 1947 Nag 145 (153) = ILR (1946) Nag 796 (DB)  1948 Bur LR (HC) 722 (724)  AIR 1936 Lah 1016 (1018)  AIR 1933 All 443 (449) (DB)  1966 Raj LW 466 = ILR (1966) 16 Raj 651.

(2) The deed materially altered no longer continues the same deed and no person can maintain an action upon it. AIR 1943 All 24 (25) = ILR (1942) All 938 (DB)  AIR 1954 Madh B 31 (32)  AIR 1940 Pat 245 (246, 247) (DB)  AIR 1933 Cal 196 (197)  AIR 1959 Andh Pra 596 (599).

(3) Any material alteration in an instrument even with the consent of the parties vacates the original instrument and makes it a new instrument. AIR 1919 Low Bur 45 (46)  1964 Ker LJ 536 = 1964 Ker LT 455. (Variation in terms of agreement — Agreement raising rent and fixing term of lease amounts to new lease.)

(4) Where the alteration makes no material change as regards the rights of the parties, the party is entitled to sue on the instrument. AIR 1939 Cal 181 (182)  AIR 1945 Lah 177 (179) (DB)  AIR 1939 Lah 486 (487, 488)  AIR 1936 Lah 659 (659).

(See also AIR 1934 Lah 543 (544) (DB).]

(5) In order to decide whether alteration in a document is material it has to be seen whether alteration in question varies rights, liabilities, or legal position of the parties, or it otherwise varies the legal effect of the instrument, or it reduces to certainty some provision which was unascertained and as such void. 1966 Raj LW 391 = ILR (1966) 16 Raj 768.

(6) Where there has been a material alteration in the document, which is fraudulent, the courts will not allow the plaint to be amended and the plaintiff to fall back on the original cause of action but where the alteration, though material is innocent and the plaint is based on the original cause of action as well as on the altered document the claim, if properly proved, can be allowed on the original cause of action. AIR 1930 Bom 66 (68).

(7) An alteration made in good faith to carry out the original intention of the parties does not vitiate the instrument. AIR 1945 Lah 177 (179) (DB)  AIR 1957 Trav-Co 189 (192) = ILR (1956) Trav-Co 998.

(8) The defendant executed a mortgage bond to the plaintiff in 1919. Subsequent to this, a simple bond was executed in 1922 for the balance, then owing under the bond of 1919. The plaintiff sued on the bond of 1922 but the suit was dismissed on the ground that the plaintiff had materially altered the terms of the bond. The plaintiff then sued on the original bond of 1919: Held that the execution of the bond of 1922 was a novation of the contract embodied in the bond of 1919, and the fact that the plaintiff had, by his own act, rendered the bond of 1922 invalid could not have the effect of reviving the mortgage bond of 1919 and the suit was, therefore, not maintainable. AIR 1931 All 325 (326) (DB).

defendant admits the debt. AIR 1937 Pat 572 (573, 575) = 16 Pat 527 (DB).

(10) No decree can be given on any previous oral agreement. AIR 1923 Lah 628 (629).

(11) Existence of subsequent oral agreement to modify contract may be proved — Contract between A and B — Despatch of letter and telegram by A to B to delete arbitration clause — No response from B — A is bound by arbitration agreement. (1966) 70 Cal WN 199.

(12) Any alteration or interpolation appearing on the face of a document is presumed, in the absence of evidence to the contrary to have been made before the execution of the deed. The burden of proving that the interpolation was made later on would lie upon the contesting executant, more particularly when the deed was registered with the interpolation in question already in it. AIR 1945 Lah 177 (179) (DB).

(13) A contract note, relating to certain shares, was originally drawn in the plaintiff's favour. He requested the defendant, a share-broker, to delete his name from the note, so far as certain shares were concerned, and to substitute for it the name of another person H. A fresh contract note relating to these shares, was made out in the name of H, and sent to him by the defendant. The defendant admitted this, but maintained that the transactions relating to these shares were entered into by him not for H, but for the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff was liable in respect of them; Held, that the onus rested on the defendant of showing that despite the altered terms of the contract note, the plaintiff remained liable to him in respect of the transactions in the shares, and that the Court would require very strong evidence to discharge that onus. AIR 1935 PC 93 (94).

11. Consideration under Section 62. —

(1) Section 62 does not require any further consideration for the validity of the substituted contract than the putting an end to the obligation under the original contract. AIR 1918 Mad 297 (299) (DB)  AIR 1943 PC 147 (153) = ILR (1944) Kar (PC) 85  AIR 1957 Pat 408 (412)  AIR 1956 Madh B 25 (27) (DB)  AIR 1942 Cal 87 (90) = ILR (1941) 2 Cal 237 (DB)  AIR 1931 Mad 200 (202).

(2) Plaintiff filed a suit for Rs. 810 — Defendants pleaded a reference to arbitration, under which award was made for payment of Rs. 400 with annual instalments of Rs. 50 — Held, settlement of a dispute was a valid consideration and Section 62 applied. AIR 1934 Lah 163 (1) (163).

(3) A mere promise by a creditor, made at the request of his debtor, to forbear from suing him is regarded as a voluntary promise and is of no effect. AIR 1914 Lah 121 (123) = 1914 Pun Re No. 4 (DB).

(4) Section 63, Contract Act, would be applicable only if it were merely a case of an extension of time. Where a mortgagee not only gives further time to the mortgagor but enters into a new contract for the transfer of property, in payment of the outstanding mortgage debt, there is a substituted contract and Section 63 has no application. Such a case is governed by Section 62, and the agreement would not be binding if it is not supported by consideration. AIR 1931 All 589 (592) (DB)  AIR 1953 Cal 642 (644)  AIR 1966 Madh Pra 313 (317) = 1966 MPLJ 659 (DB).

12. Burden of proof. — (1) When a party wants to make out a case of novation, he should plead the necessary facts to found novation, and state what was the original contract and in what way it has been replaced by a new contract. AIR 1941 Nag 100 (102) = ILR (1941) Nag 144 (DB)  AIR 1939 Pat 477 (486) (DB).

(2) Burden of proof of the fact that there has been by consent of parties, a departure from the terms of the original contract is on the person asserting it. AIR 1935 Cal 347 (353, 354) = 62 Cal 175 (DB).

(3) Where a plea of novation of contract is not pleaded either in written statement or in evidence adduced on behalf of defendant, it cannot be allowed at the time of argument in appeal. AIR 1963 Pat 131 (132).

13. Limitation. — (1) Novation of contract gives a fresh and independent cause of action, and limitation begins to run from the day on which new promise is broken. AIR 1925 Oudh 632 (632) = 29 Oudh Cas 24.

SECTION 63 — SYNOPSIS

1. Applicability and scope.
2. "Promisee."
3. "Dispense with or remit."
4. Extension of time.
5. "May accept instead of it any satisfaction."
6. Necessity for consideration.
7. Evidence.
8. Composition with creditors.

1. Applicability and scope. — (1) Section 63 constitutes a wide departure from the principles of the English Common law and those principles cannot promise made to him, or may extend the time for such performance,* or may accept instead of it any satisfaction which he thinks fit.†

Illustrations

(a) A promises to paint a picture for B. B afterwards forbids him to do so. A is no longer bound to perform the promise.

(b) A owes B 5,000 rupees. A pays to B, and B accepts, in satisfaction of the whole debt, 2,000 rupees paid at the time and place at which the 5,000 rupees were payable. The whole debt is discharged.

(c) A owes B 5,000 rupees. C pays to B 1,000 rupees, and B accepts them, in satisfaction of his claim on A. This payment is a discharge of the whole claim.‡

(d) A owes B, under a contract, a sum of money, the amount of which has not been ascertained. A, without ascertaining the amount, gives to B, and B, in satisfaction thereof, accepts, the sum of 2,000 rupees. This is a discharge of the whole debt whatever may be its amount.

(e) A owes B 2,000 rupees, and is also indebted to other creditors. A makes an arrangement with his creditors, including B, to pay them a §[composition] of eight annas in the rupee upon their respective demands. Payment to B of 1,000 rupees is a discharge of B's demand.

2. "Promisee". — (1) Suit on promissory notes executed by defendants' father and their separated brother. — Father dying pendente lite — Defendants also impleaded and decrees obtained — Defendants executing promissory note in consideration of the plaintiff not executing the decrees or filing suit against them and agreeing to make over decrees to defendants — Subsequent notice rescinding agreement as defendants failed to pay — Held, he could not do so, so long as the decree was in force and capable of execution and that he was not a promisee within the meaning of this section to take advantage of it. 3. "Dispense with or remit." — (1) Promisee is not bound to accept part performance of a contract. (1921) 3 Lah L Jour 141 (144) (DB).

(2) A claim which arises, not out of any promise, cannot be claimed to have been remitted or dispensed with. AIR 1944 Nag 122 (123) = ILR (1944) Nag 327.

of the performance — Even negligence does not amount to it. AIR 1946 Bom 469 (476)  (1968) 9 Guj LR 164 = ILR (1967) Guj 1159.

(4) Actual remission and not mere agreement to remit is permitted by the section. AIR 1929 Mad 794 (799) = 53 Mad 127 (DB).

(5) Conditional remission is not enforceable under the section. AIR 1915 Mad 1144 (1145) (DB).

(6) A notice to promisor that, if he did not perform a certain act the contract will be cancelled, does not operate as a rescission of the contract. AIR 1929 Nag 321 (324) = 26 Nag LR 88 (DB).

(7) Promisor or his assignee, though not party to agreement, can take benefit of release. AIR 1931 Bom 123 (124) (DB). (Release in favour of one member of firm operates as absolute release in favour of the firm.)

(8) Remission by person on verge of insolvency, without consideration is not operative against Official Receiver — Section 53, Provincial Insolvency Act, invalidates it. (9) No suit lies for the recovery of the amount remitted when a remission had been made and communicated by the creditor to the debtor. (1911) 9 Ind Cas 763 (764) (Mad). (19 Mad 391, Foll.)

(10) A remission in praesenti which is suspended until a certain future event occurs is valid. AIR 1952 Mad 675 (677, 678).

(11) A remission of a debt in praesenti whether in whole or in part, which is not a mere promise to remit in the future, is valid. AIR 1947 Mad 414 (415).

(12) Where A makes a proposal to B that the latter should reduce his claim and B accepts the proposal and reduces his claim, the compromise falls within Section 63. AIR 1948 Sind 91 (93) (DB).

(13) An agreement for supply of electricity was entered into between the Government and a Company with a certain guarantee clause. During the winding up proceedings, the Government gave an assurance to the provisional liquidator not to enforce the guarantee clause. Subsequently Government made a claim based on the guarantee clause against the liquidator. Held that Government's claim could not be sustained taking into consideration the conduct and surrounding circumstances. AIR 1948 PC 159 (163).

(14) The promisee is the State — Sureties in criminal case — By transfer of a case it cannot be said that the promisee has dispensed with the performance of the promise. AIR 1960 All 419 (420) = 1960 Cri LJ 873.

4. Extension of time. — (1) There must be mutual agreement between the buyer and the seller for extension of time. Unilateral act to extend time by promisee of his own accord for his own benefit is of no consequence. Agreement to extend time need not necessarily be reduced to writing. AIR 1958 SC 512 (517)  ILR (1949) 2 Cal 530 (535)  AIR 1947 Sind 141 (143) = ILR (1946) Kar 331 (DB)  AIR 1923 Lah 117 (119) (DB)  AIR 1914 Mad 573 (574) = 37 Mad 412 (DB)  1968 MPLJ 438 (DB)  AIR 1959 Cal 472 (474) (DB).

(2) Party choosing contract as broken, and resale ordered — Promisee postponing the date of resale for want of bidders — There is no extension of time and Section 63 does not apply. AIR 1933 Mad 704 (706).

(3) A creditor can extend the time under Section 63 even after expiry of time for performance. AIR 1931 All 589 (592) (DB).

(4) Mere forbearance to sue or to give notice of rescission does not amount to an extension of time for the performance of a contract. Extension can be granted only at the request of the promisor. Nor does negligence result in extension of time. AIR 1946 Bom 1 (5): ILR (1946) Bom 218 (DB)  1968 MPLJ 438 (DB)  ILR (1960) Mys 1079.

(5) Ultimate agreement to extend time — Gaps between intervening agreements to extend time since the expiry of date in the original contract — The gaps are of no importance — Final agreement to extend time alone is necessary under the section. AIR 1946 Bom 429 (432) (DB).

(6) Written agreement, collateral to promissory note, postponing time for payment is valid and enforceable. AIR 1917 Mad 539 (540) = 39 Mad 129 (FB).

(7) Calculation of damages for breach of contract, where time has been extended, is to be made from date of extension and not from original date. AIR 1922 PC 178 (180) = 48 Ind App 175 = 43 All 257  AIR 1943 Bom 229 (235)  AIR 1959 Cal 472 (474) (DB).

(8) By mere extension of time for delivery, the contract does not necessarily become a new contract, but the promisee gets certain rights under Section 63, Contract Act. AIR 1914 Cal 294 (296) = 41 Cal 35.

(9) It is always open to a party to forbear from insistence on the performance of contract by due date but the forbearing party is not entitled to fix a date of his own accord which will benefit to it and put the other party to disadvantage. AIR 1957 Pat 586 (596) = 36 Pat 633 (DB).

5. "May accept instead of it any satisfaction." — (1) Promisee may accept any satisfaction, but until the satisfaction agreed upon remains executory, the original cause of action is not discharged — But where the promisee accepted the promise itself in satisfaction, the original cause of action is immediately discharged. AIR 1946 Nag 148 (150) = ILR (1946) Nag 36 (DB)  AIR 1957 Assam 133 (135) (DB)  (1922) 65 Ind Cas 812 (813) (DB) (Pat)  (1908) 4 Low Bur Rul 365 (367)  (1888) 15 Cal 319 (326, 327) (DB)  AIR 1960 Pat 259 (260) = 1959 BLJR 651 (DB). (Plaintiff entering into contract for supply of goods by paying advance — Plaintiff accepting back advance on cancellation of contract and placing another order for supply of goods — Plaintiff, held, to have dispensed with the first contract.)

(2) Accord and satisfaction imply an agreement to take the money, in satisfaction of the claim, in respect of which it is sent, which must be evident from an actual agreement between the parties or from the conduct of one of the parties. Therefore, mere retaining of the money sent by promisor does not imply satisfaction. AIR 1922 All 461 (463) = 44 All 718 (DB)  AIR 1968 Bom 294 (298) = 69 Bom LR 843  AIR 1965 Cal 541 (545)  AIR 1963 Pat 152 (153) = 1963 BLJR 455 (DB). (3) Before a party can be said to accept something other than the performance stipulated for, in satisfaction of the contract it should be open to him to refuse such satisfaction and to insist on performance of the contract in accordance with its terms. ILR (1937) 1 Cal 757 (763).

(4) The fact that remission was made under an oral agreement will not prevent the discharge taking effect under Section 63, independently of such agreement, which is not illegal. (1903) 26 Mad 195 (196).

[See however (1966) 2 Andh LT 198.]

(6) Promissory note taken to reimburse loss on breach of contract for sale — Receipt for one of the payments under it stating that whole amount is recoverable if not paid within a particular time — Held there was no agreement reviving original cause of action. AIR 1931 Rang 189 (190).

(7) Agreement to sell property in satisfaction of debt may operate as a discharge of the debt if that is the intention of parties. AIR 1944 Mad 218 (220) = ILR (1944) Mad 742 (DB).

(8) Where a creditor discharges a person from his liability under a promissory note, directing the debtor to apply the sum for a particular purpose the discharge operates as a discharge of the note. AIR 1921 Cal 480 (481) (DB).

(9) The accord and satisfaction discharges the causes of action for breaches of contract already committed. Where the accord and satisfaction is by substituted agreement it is a question of construction of that agreement whether it also extinguishes all pre-existing rights and obligations and totally discharges the original contract. AIR 1953 Cal 642 (645).

(10) Antecedent contracts cannot be looked into when parties have entered into a new contract superseding the former. (1968) 2 Andh LT 240 (244) = (1969) 2 Andh WR 33 (DB).

(11) Contract that debtor should sell and creditor should accept any property in satisfaction of the debt may operate in any of the three ways, viz., (1) the contract by itself may operate as an absolute discharge or (2) as a conditional discharge or (3) it may be an independent transaction in the sense that it does not affect rights and obligations of the creditor and debtor respectively till the sale is actually completed. In which of these ways the contract is to have operation will depend upon the intention of the parties to be gathered from their conduct and surrounding circumstances. AIR 1956 Madh B 25 (28) = ILR (1956) Madh B 13 (DB)  AIR 1961 Cal 620 (625) = ILR (1962) 1 Cal 118. (12) Where remission is made, which does not require any independent consideration it binds the promisor. 1968 Jab LJ 995.

(2) Where there is no actual dispensation or remission, but an agreement to remit in future, consideration is necessary for such agreement. AIR 1943 Cal 181 (184) = ILR (1943) 1 Cal 101 (DB)  AIR 1952 Mad 675 (677)  AIR 1939 Mad 688 (689) (DB)  AIR 1935 Rang 188 (189) (DB)  AIR 1965 Andh Pra 171 (173) = (1964) 2 Andh LT 287 (DB).

(3) Under S. 63 a fresh contract is a good consideration for dispensing with the performance of a previous contract. AIR 1958 Raj 10 (12) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 129  AIR 1958 Raj 10 (12) = 1958 Raj LW 169. (Fresh contract to pay time-barred debt.)

7. Evidence. — (1) Though an agreement to extend time cannot be proved by oral evidence, where the mortgage is in writing satisfaction of part of the debt by payment and balance of remission can be proved by oral evidence. AIR 1930 All 721 (723) = 53 All 157 (FB)  AIR 1929 Mad 794 (797, 798) = 53 Mad 127 (DB).

(2) Assignment of decree — Agreement reciting certain sum as consideration — Part of the amount shown as received was only paid — Suit for balance — Defendant should be allowed to prove orally, in rebuttal of his claim that the part not paid was never intended to be paid where the plaintiff is allowed to prove orally that only part was received. AIR 1926 Mad 35 (36) (DB). (Reversing AIR 1925 Mad 660.)

(3) Conduct of party may be evidence of waiver by a party of his rights under a contract. (1922) 64 Ind Cas 461 (469) (Nag).

(4) A mere debit entry in the account of the bank does not necessarily amount to payment unless factually proved. AIR 1957 Assam 133 (137) (DB)  AIR 1959 Assam 162 (165) (DB).

(5) Evidence can be given to prove that the contract was not to be acted upon, but no evidence can be led to show that one or some of the terms of the agreement were not to be acted upon. It is, however, open to the parties to show that the promisee had dispensed with or remitted, wholly or in part the performance of the promise made to him. (1962) 3 Guj LR 149.

8. Composition with creditors. — (1) A composition is an arrangement between the compounding debtor and all or some of the creditors by which the creditors agree expressly or impliedly with the debtor and also with each other to accept from the debtor lesser amounts in full satisfaction of the amounts due. AIR 1938 Lah 769 (771, 772) (DB).

(2) Composition deed — Every creditor need not execute deed — Signifying acquiescence by other means is sufficient — But he cannot simply stand by idly. AIR 1938 Mad 199 (201) (DB)  AIR 1935 All 441 (442).

(3) Defendant entering into composition with creditors, including plaintiffs — Plaintiffs' general agent refusing to accept payment at composition rate — Other creditors paid at that rate — Plaintiffs' firm cannot resile from the arrangement. AIR 1933 Oudh 361 (362)  1960 MPLJ 742 = 1960 Jab LJ 533.

(4) As to discharge of surety when creditor compounds with, gives time to or agrees not to sue, principal debtor, see S. 135.

(5) Where in a suit on promissory note, the parties accepted a particular mode of paying the debt before a deity by way of a compromise petition under Order 23, Rule 3 Civil P. C., it was held that the same was binding and the defendant could not resile from it. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 69 (71).

(6) The defendant having acknowledged the debt, the creditors accepted pro rata distribution of proceeds from sale of certain properties. This amounts to substitution of new contract and composition with the creditor and therefore the creditor cannot maintain a suit on the original obligation. AIR 1956 Madh B 25 (29) = ILR (1956) Madh B 13 (DB).

SECTION 64 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope.
2. Contracts by minors and their guardians.
3. Option to rescind.
4. Restoration of benefits received.

1. Scope. — (1) A party to a contract cannot both avoid the contract and retain the benefit received under it. (1872) 14 Moo Ind App 53 (65) (PC)  AIR 1943 PC 34 (38, 39) = ILR (1943) Kar PC 30 = ILR (1943) 2 Cal 213 = 70 Ind App 35  AIR 1922 Oudh 259 (263) = 25 Oudh Cas 169 (DB).

(2) The principle "one who seeks equity must do equity" applies to person seeking to set aside voidable transfer. AIR 1922 Cal 150 (151, 152) = 49 Cal 911 (DB)  AIR 1931 All 201 (202) = 52 Ali 831 (DB).

(3) When a voidable transaction is avoided, the avoidance is effective not from that date but from the date of the original transaction itself. (1963) 29 Cut LT 137 = (1963) 5 Orissa JD 268. (AIR 1932 PC 89 and AIR 1957 Mad 451, Rel. on.)

(4) The principle on which Sections 64 and 65 rest is not confined to cases expressly included in either of them and is that no man can at once treat the contract as avoided by him so as to resume the property which he parted with under it and at the same time keep the money or other advantage which he received under it. The rule is applied as a rule of equity and good conscience. AIR 1932 Mad 303 (305) (DB)  AIR 1926 Mad 398 (400) (DB)  AIR 1922 Cal 150 (151, 152) = 49 Cal 911 (DB)  (1965) 1 Mad LJ 438 = ILR (1965) 1 Mad 167.

(5) Section 55 shows that the contracts referred to therein are voidable. Therefore, Section 64 is not limited to contracts voidable under Section 19 or Section 19A. (1910) 33 Mad 375 (396) (DB).

(6) Where a person agrees to advance monies to another from time to time upto a certain limit with object of financing litigation by latter, but fails or refuses to pay the full amount, he is nevertheless entitled under Section 64 to a refund of the amount actually advanced by him. AIR 1919 Mad 718 (728) (DB).

(7) Neither Section 64 nor Section 74 is applicable to a deposit, the stipulation for forfeiture of which in case of breach of contract is not one by way of penalty. AIR 1944 Mad 526 (527) = ILR (1945) Mad 269 (DB)  1958-2 Mad L Jour 528 (529)  AIR 1955 Orissa 20 (23) (DB)  AIR 1952 Cal 93 (98)  (1947) 52 Mys HCR 56 (67) (DB)  (1958) 2 Mad LJ 528.

(8) Material facts were fraudulently concealed from the life insurance company by the assured and so policy became void. The assured cannot recover the premiums paid even in absence of forfeiture clause. Sections 64 & 65 do not apply. AIR 1944 Mad 281 (283, 284) = ILR (1944) Mad 842 (DB)  AIR 1962 SC 814 (821) = 1962 Supp (2) SCR 571

 AIR 1962 Cal 625 (635) = 66 Cal WN 774.

(9) No equitable charge is created under Section 64 on the property in favour of the purchaser for the amount advanced by the purchaser spent by the vendor for discharging the incumbrances as Section 64 has nothing to do with the question of charge. AIR 1927 Mad 204 (206).

(10) Section 64 applies only to cases where the contract is voidable at the option of one party and therefore where a contract is rescinded by mutual consent the question of refund of moneys received by one of the parties from the other under the original contract does not fall under Section 64. AIR 1950 Cal 236 (238) = ILR (1950) 2 Cal 158  AIR 1959 Madh Pra 39 (42) = 1959 MPLJ 74 (DB).

(11) The principle of keeping alive can have application only when the contract is executory or where there is still something to be performed under the contract. It can have no application where time for performance has arrived and there has been a breach. Even if the defendant contends that the plaintiff is in breach, his only remedy is to counter-claim for damages and he cannot avoid the application of Section 64. (1965) 1 Mad LJ 438 = ILR (1965) 1 Mad 167.

(12) Sections 64 and 65 do not refer by the words 'benefit' and 'advantage' to any question of 'profit' or 'clear profit', nor does it matter what the party receiving the money may have done with it. Whether the investment made by the vendor with the consideration paid under the impugned sale ended in a profit or a loss, is of no consequence to the alienee. He can neither claim the benefit of the investment nor be bound by the loss resulting therefrom. He is concerned only with what he paid, and nothing more. 1961 Ker LJ 1226 = 1961 Ker LT 1018.

(13) The principle for refund of earnest money is independent of the considerations laid down in Sections 64, 65 and 74. AIR 1968 Assam 26 (27) = ILR (1964) 16 Assam 513 (DB).

2. Contracts by minors and their guardians.— (1) Sections 64 and 65 are applicable only to contracts between competent parties and not to cases, where there is not, and could not be, any contract. A contract entered into by a minor is absolutely void, and therefore this section has no application to contracts by minors. (1904) 26 All 342 (342) (DB)  (1903) 30 Cal 539 (548) = 30 Ind App 114 (PC)  AIR 1936 Nag 15 (16) = 31 Nag LR 62 (Sup) (DB)  (1910) 32 All 25 (27, 30) (DB).

(2) The terms 'person' and 'party' in Section 64 are interchangeable terms. They have reference to such person as is mentioned in Section 11 of the Act i.e., a person competent to contract. (1899) 26 Cal 381 (389) (SB).

(3) Where a minor sues to cancel a mortgage executed by him during his minority, the Court cannot direct repayment of consideration by the minor as a condition of his getting the relief, the contract itself being void. AIR 1915 All 209 (211)  AIR 1936 Lah 943 (944) (DB)  AIR 1924 Lah 294 (295)  (1898) 25 Cal 616 (625).

(4) Where a minor having induced another party to enter into a contract with him by fraudulently misrepresenting himself to be a major subsequently sues to set aside the contract on the ground of his minority he is bound in equity to restore the benefit received by him under the contract. AIR 1922 Oudh 30 (31) = 24 Oudh Cas 348. (Sale.)  AIR 1921 All 326 (327) (DB). (Mortgage.)  (1921) 60 Ind Cas 519 (520) (Lah)  (1909) 31 All 21 (30) (DB)  (1908) 7 Ind Cas 1000 (1001) = 1910 Pun Re No. 76 (DB).

(5) In suits for possession, the Court may give the minor a decree to the effect that he will be entitled to regain possession of his property only if he pays the mortgagee or the vendee at least that part of the consideration which was required by him for necessary purposes. AIR 1936 Lah 943 (944) (DB).

(6) A contract entered into by a certificated guardian, without authority, is not void but only voidable and the party rescinding the contract must, if he has received any benefit thereunder from the other party to the contract, restore such benefit so far as may be. AIR 1929 All 890 (893) = 51 All 1027 (DB)  AIR 1958 Madh Pra 373 (378)  AIR 1938 All 369 (372) = ILR (1938) All 614 (DB)  AIR 1928 Lah 250 (253) (DB)  AIR 1925 Bom 499 (499) = 49 Bom 576 (DB).

(7) Transfer of minor's property by a person not duly appointed as guardian, is void ab initio but minor must under Sections 64 and 65, restore any advantage received under it or make compensation for such advantage. (1908) 11 Oudh Cas 1 (13) (DB)  AIR 1927 Lah 722 (723).

(8) Minor's property sold by guardian and some land purchased with purchase-money — Land so purchased does not constitute benefit within meaning of Section 64 and hence need not be returned by ward in setting aside sale. AIR 1919 Mad 650 (650, 651) = 42 Mad 36 (DB)  1965 Ker LJ 265 = 1964 Ker LT 952 (DB). (Purchase of particular property with consideration money in contemplation of parties — Such property is benefit received under the sale.)

(9) Where a sale by a guardian on behalf of minor is declared void ab initio the vendee cannot claim for the improvement effected by him on the property. Sections 64 and 65 do not apply. 1913 Pun LR No. 98, p. 359 (361).

(10) The minor's right to repudiate a contract entered into by his guardian need not necessarily be by the minor himself. It may be done by the guardian on behalf of the minor. AIR 1940 Pat 661 (662) (DB).

3. Option to rescind.— (1) The word 'rescinds' implies an express and unequivocal cancellation of the contract. Where a domestic servant leaves his service without notice and the master engages another servant, the contract with former servant is not necessarily rescinded by the master and the servant is not entitled to get the pay for the work done. AIR 1938 Rang 207 (208).

(2) Where one party to the agreement has executed his part under it and the obligation still remains executory so far as the other party is concerned it is not voidable under this section at the option of the party whose promise still remains executory. AIR 1935 Bom 225 (227) (DB).

(3) In the case of a breach of a revocable contract or trust, the choice of the remedy lies with the party whose rights are infringed and not with the promisor or trustee. (1913) 20 Ind Cas 783 (788) (DB) (Oudh)  AIR 1965 Ker 187 (188) = 1964 Ker LT 546.

(4) Under Section 64 person who puts an end to contract under Section 39 is party rescinding voidable contract. AIR 1916 Nag 104 (110) = 12 Nag LR 177 (DB).

(5) Contract with stipulation to rescind may be rescinded for reasons not necessarily specified. AIR 1923 Bom 75 (76, 77).

(6) Where time is not the essence of the contract the non-performance in time does not entitle any party and especially the party who is in default to avoid the contract. AIR 1949 Cal 510 (514) = ILR (1951) 1 Cal 331.

(7) N an insolvent owed money to A and N was to get some money from P. By an arrangement between the parties P paid A. This arrangement was avoided at the instance of the official receiver as a fraudulent preference. P sued A for the return of money. It was held that his claim could not stand as it was the official receiver who rescinded the contract and so he alone could invoke Section 64. AIR 1936 Mad 978 (980) (DB).

(8) When time is of the essence of contract and it becomes voidable due to

65. Obligation of person who has received advantage under void agreement or contract that becomes void.—When an agreement is discovered to be void, or when a contract becomes void, any person who has received any advantage under non-performance by the other party, the contract does not automatically get determined. The party having right to rescind it has to, expressly or in unambiguous words, determine it under Section 64. AIR 1968 Andh Pra 190 (193).

(9) As to whether a party rightfully rescinding a contract is entitled to compensation, see Section 75.

4. Restoration of benefits received.—

(1) Under Section 64 the obligation to restore the benefit is cast on the party rescinding a voidable contract and not on the other party even though it was the other party's default that led to the rescission. ILR (1955) Mad 528 (547)  AIR 1966 Assam 95 (100) (DB)  AIR 1963 Cal 70 (72) (DB). (Reversed on another point in AIR 1967 SC 378.)  AIR 1959 Pat 176 (179) = 1958 BLJR 626.

(2) Where a person at whose option, under Section 55 a contract is voidable, rescinds it, while he gets compensation under Sections 73 and 74 for the breach, he has to restore under Section 64 any benefit so far as may be to the other party, the object being to replace the parties in the position which they occupied before the contract was made. (1910) 33 Mad 375 (395) (DB).

(3) Where a party to marriage contract, having accepted cash and jewels, subsequently repudiates the marriage contract he is bound to return what he has taken. (1922) 65 Ind Cas 812 (813) (DB) (Pat).

(4) Where the vendor rescinds a contract of sale for the default of the buyer he is bound to restore to the buyer the instalments of the price paid by him but without any interest thereon. AIR 1942 Sind 37 (39) = ILR (1941) Kar 495 (DB)  AIR 1927 Nag 168 (169).

(5) Where A executed a sale deed in favour of B for cash consideration and also in consideration of his services it was held that A who subsequently sought to have the sale set aside was bound to refund the cash consideration and also a sum of money as compensation for services. AIR 1934 Oudh 170 (171) (DB).

(6) Where an unauthorised sale by an executor or administrator is set aside, and a bona fide purchaser is deprived of the property purchased by him, then he is entitled in equity to be reimbursed for any expenditure incurred by him which has the effect of improving the permanent value of the property. AIR 1938 Bom 71 (74, 75) (DB).

(7) The term "benefits under the contract" extends only to the money paid as consideration and not to the improvements effected by a usufructuary mortgagee. AIR 1931 All 201 (203) = 52 All 831 (DB).

(8) The principle underlying the section is that the person made liable to refund must have received benefit under the contract. AIR 1926 Mad 398 (400) (DB).

(9) Section 64 cannot mean that the person rescinding a contract must restore all that he has received under it, irrespective of what he has given under it. The reasonable view is that he may be made to restore any balance of advantages received under the contract which can be clearly separated from the advantage for which consideration has been given by him. AIR 1922 Oudh 259 (263) = 25 Oudh Cas 169 (DB).

(10) Even if the defendant has not set up the plea, the Court before making an order for rescission of the contract on the ground of fraud, must make an order that the opposite party should restore the benefit he has received under the contract. AIR 1954 Pat 439 (441) = 33 Pat 52.

(11) Defendant carrying on business of manufacture and sale of safety matches under a licence — Defendant entering into partnership with plaintiff in respect of that business — Failure of defendant to get licence amended under Rule 178 (4), Central Excise Rules — Contract becoming impossible of performance — Rescission — Plaintiff entitled to restitution of monies paid to defendant in pursuance of such contract. AIR 1962 Mad 240 (242, 243) = (1962) 2 Mad LJ 109 (FB).

(12) Upon rescission of the contract by the seller on account of the wrongful refusal by the buyer to perform it, the contract becomes void and the duty of restitution of the benefit received under it arises under Sections 64 and 65 of the Act. Therefore the defaulting buyer is entitled to recover from the seller the instalment of price paid by the buyer subject to a set-off by the seller for damages caused by the breach of contract on the part of the buyer. (1964) 68 Cal WN 476 (DB)  AIR 1968 Bom 35 (36) = 69 Bom LR 250 (DB).

(13) Exchange of tarwad immovable property for convenience of enjoyment is invalid — Alienee before being ousted entitled to get back his property. 1963 Ker LJ 395 (DB).

such agreement or contract is bound to restore it, or to make compensation for it to the person from whom he received it.

(a) A pays B 1,000 rupees in consideration of B's promising to marry C, A's daughter. C is dead at the time of the promise. The agreement is void, but B must repay A the 1,000 rupees.

(b) A contracts with B to deliver to him 250 maunds of rice before the first of May. A delivers 130 maunds only before that day, and none after. B retains the 130 maunds after the first of May. He is bound to pay A for them.

(c) A, a singer, contracts with B, the manager of a theatre, to sing at his theatre for two nights in every week during the next two months, and B engages to pay her a hundred rupees for each night's performance. On the sixth night, A wilfully absents herself from the theatre, and B, in consequence, rescinds the contract. B must pay A for the five nights on which she had sung.

(d) A contracts to sing for B at a concert for 1,000 rupees, which are paid in advance. A is too ill to sing. A is not bound to make compensation to B for the loss of the profits which B would have made if A had been able to sing, but must refund to B the 1,000 rupees paid in advance.

7. Limitation.

1. Scope. — (1) The doctrine of restitution in integrum, which is of general application underlies the provisions of Section 65, Contract Act. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 427 (437) (DB)  AIR 1959 AP 277 (278) = (1959) 1 Andh WR 63 (DB).

(2) The underlying principle seems to be that a party who by some act of his benefits another with the knowledge that the purported agreement is void acts as a volunteer and a payment made by him is like a gift and cannot be recovered under Section 65. 1958 Cal LJ 95.

(3) Section codifies rules of equity. AIR 1945 Lah 164 (168) (DB).

(4) Section 65 enunciates the principles of restitution and should be liberally construed in order to do equity and justice between parties. The intention of the section is to prevent a party from avoiding an agreement and retaining the benefits received under it. AIR 1955 Assam 33 (44).

(5) The object of Section 65 is not to make a new contract between the parties when the contract entered into by them has been discovered to be void but only to restore the advantage received by one party thereunder to the other. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 427 (437) (DB).

(6) Section 65 starts on the basis of there being an agreement or contract between competent parties. It has no application to a case in which there never was, and never could have been, any contract. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (548) = 30 Ind App 114 (PC)  AIR 1929 Bom 89 (90) = 53 Bom 309 (DB)  AIR 1921 Bom 147 (147) = 45 Bom 225 (DB)  (1904) 26 All 342 (343) (DB).

(7) Unless a Court can restore the parties to their original position having regard to circumstances of each case there is no scope for the application of Section 65. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 427 (437) (DB)  AIR 1951 Pat 463 (468) = 30 Pat 137 (DB). (Where there is no contract because there is no mutuality section will not apply.)  AIR 1959 Andh Pra 277 (278) = (1959) 1 Andh WR 63 (DB).

(8) A contract which is void on the ground of the utter incapacity of parties to enter into contracts cannot attract the provisions of Section 65. (9) Where a person himself is not disqualified from entering into contract but the contract is void and unenforceable because it has failed to comply with the conditions laid down by an Act or rules there is no bar to a party to such a contract from suing under Section 65 of the Act. (5) If an agreement is void ab initio it cannot be discovered to be void when the Court finds it to be so because the parties are presumed to know the law. (7) The word 'discover' in Section 65 should not be given a restricted meaning which would make that word applicable only to cases where either the discovery is made by an outside agency other than the parties to the agreement or it is a discovery made by the parties which they could not have made even if they had shown all the diligence which could have been expected from any one. (5) A contract the enforcement of which alone is barred by the operation of law cannot be considered to have become void because in such a case it is not the right under the contract itself which is extinguished but it is only the right to sue to enforce the same that is barred. (The principle of quantum meruit applies even where no valid contract was executed in accordance with the statutory rules framed under Madras Local Boards Act.)

(3) The obligation of the person to refund the consideration which had been received by him under a contract which is discovered to be void or which has become void exists even in the absence of any specific contract between the parties for such a refund. AIR 1950 Nag 229 (231) = ILR (1950) Nag 467.

(4) Where a law imposes only a bar on the right to sue to enforce the rights under a contract the principle of Section 65 namely, that a right to restitution may arise out of the failure of contract though the right itself is not a matter of contractual obligation, will not apply because in such a case the contractual rights themselves are in no way impaired. AIR 1953 Pat 259 (263) = 31 Pat 963.

(5) Only a party who is clearly shown to have received an advantage under the contract can be ordered under the section to return the same. AIR 1937 Oudh 10 (12) = 12 Luck 478 (DB). (6) Under Section 65 each of the parties become bound to restore the benefit received under the contract and the plaintiff cannot recover any sum unless he proves that value of the advantage the other party received under the contract was greater than the sum received by him under the contract. AIR 1948 PC 56 (59) = 74 Ind App 295 = ILR (1947) Bom 860.

(7) A third party who is not a beneficiary under the contract which is set aside at his instance cannot be ordered under this section to refund any amount paid by one party to the other under the contract. (10) Party fulfilling his part of the contract can claim a return of benefit though the contract was invalid as being not reduced to writing. AIR 1929 Lah 742 (744) = 11 Lah 121 (DB).

(11) Section 65 applies only to a case where benefit or advantage is derived under an agreement before it is discovered to be void. If the benefit is received after the agreement is discovered to be void, then the advantage cannot be said to have been received under the agreement. AIR 1955 Assam 33 (41) (DB)  AIR 1955 Orissa 49 (54) = ILR (1955) Cut 1 (DB). (12) A party who becomes entitled to rescind a contract under Section 39 of the Act can set off against his liability to reconstitute his cross claim for damages for a breach of contract. AIR 1957 Madh B 53 (55). (Cross claim although it arises under the same contract stands on an independent footing.)

(13) Section 65 contemplates a benefit a gain, an item of property which has gone into the hands of the other party. Unless it can be said that the defendants came into possession of something tangible from the plaintiff, the plaintiff cannot succeed. The section, it is clear, does not contemplate reparation for any loss sustained by one party but only restoration of any benefit which has accrued from the one to the other. AIR 1960 Andh Pra 190 (192). (AIR 1960 Andh Pra 186, Dissented from.)

(6) Normally discovery is a question of fact and where no evidence on this point is adduced by the plaintiff the Court cannot come to any conclusion as to when it was made. But where the void nature of the agreement is patent, it may be held that the time when the agreement was discovered to be void is the date of the agreement itself. 1958 Cal LJ 95  ILR (1963) Cut 249.

7. Limitation. — (1) In the absence of special circumstances the time at which an agreement is discovered to be void under S. 65, is the date of the agreement. AIR 1933 PC 63 (65) = 60 Ind App 13 = 54 All 1067  AIR 1942 All 409 (410) = ILR (1942) All 817 (DB). (2) Suit for refund of advance paid under void agreement should be brought within three years of discovering agreement to be void. When the agreement is one forbidden by law ordinarily plaintiff must be deemed to have been aware of the fact when he entered into it. AIR 1925 Mad 885 (886).

(3) Where the lease is void, lessee is entitled to return of money — Article 116, Limitation Act, applies. AIR 1936 Pat 462 (465) (DB).

(4) The suit of a subsequent lessee, who has been dispossessed by a prior lessee, for damages and return of nazarana, is governed by Article 116 of the Limitation Act and time begins to run from the date of his dispossession. AIR 1940 Pat 81 (84) = 18 Pat 654 (DB).

(5) Where a contract becomes impossible of performance and thus a party is deprived of the satisfaction he originally obtained he gets a fresh cause of action for satisfaction of his claim under Section 65 of the Act as from the date on which the impossibility has arisen. (1926) 96 Ind Cas 909 (910) (Mad).

(6) A claim for money paid under a contract, which becomes void, is governed by Article 97 of the Limitation Act; and it must be preferred within three years from the time the contract becomes void. AIR 1928 All 360 (363) (DB).

SECTION 68 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. Necessaries.
3. Interest on value of necessities.
4. Proof of necessity.
5. Alienation by guardian for necessities.

1. Scope and applicability.— (1) Chapter V of the Contract Act deals with certain obligations resembling those created by contract and not obligations arising from contracts. (1910) 34 Bom 583 (588) (DB)  (1910) 32 All 25 (29) (DB).

(2) A minor falls within the class of persons referred to in Section 68 and so, though he is not liable even for "necessaries" and no demand in respect thereof series suited to his condition in life, the person who has furnished such supplies is entitled to be reimbursed from the property† of such incapable person.‡

Illustrations

(a) A supplies B, a lunatic, with necessities suitable to his condition in life. A is entitled to be reimbursed from B's property.

(b) A supplies the wife and children of B, a lunatic, with necessities suitable to their condition in life. A is entitled to be reimbursed from B's property.

[°] For persons who are competent to enter into contracts, see Section 11 supra.

[†] For personal liability of such incapable person, see S. 70 infra.

[‡] The property of a Government ward in Mahakoshal Region of the State of Madhya Pradesh and in Vidarbha region of the State of Maharashtra is not liable under this section—see S. 31 (1) of the C. P. Court of Wards Act, 1899 (24 of 1899).

is enforceable as against him by law, a statutory claim is created thereby against his property, enforceable by the person who has furnished such supplies. (1903) 30 Cal 539 (539, 540, 541) = 30 Ind App 114 (PC).

(3) Section 68 and not Section 70 deals exhaustively with liability for things supplied or delivered to a minor. AIR 1921 Nag 105 (106) = 17 Nag LR 20.

(4) Two things are necessary under Section 68, Contract Act, namely (1) that the person against whom the suit is brought is incapable of entering into a contract, and (2) another person (the plaintiff) has supplied him or any one whom he (the person incapable of entering into a contract) is legally bound to support with necessities suited to his condition in life. AIR 1936 All 819 (820).

(5) Under Section 68, Contract Act, it must not only be shown that moneys advanced were to be expended on goods suitable to the condition in life of the infant but also that they were suitable to infant's actual requirements at the time of sale and delivery. AIR 1938 Rang 359 (360) (DB).

(6) A creditor is entitled to recover monies advanced to a minor for his necessities, by invoking the principle laid down in Section 68, Contract Act, the minor's estate being liable therefor. AIR 1936 All 172 (175) (DB).

(7) The general rule is that a contract by a minor is absolutely void and unenforceable. It cannot even be made valid by confirmation or ratification on his attaining majority. Section 68 of the Contract Act is an exception to the general rule and the minor's estate is liable for the necessities supplied to him. AIR 1922 Nag 247 (248) = 18 Nag LR 119.

(8) In a suit on a pro-note, where the defendant establishes his plea of minority at the date of the execution of the pro-note, the plaintiff cannot be allowed at the revisional stage to invoke S. 68, Contract Act, so as to alter the whole character of the suit. AIR 1941 Mad 569 (571).

(9) Sections 68 and 70 of the Contract Act only apply where the money was advanced to the minor or to his guardian as such and not to a third party even though the minor was benefited by such advances. AIR 1921 Oudh 14 (21) (DB).

(10) Section 68 will not apply where necessities are supplied to a person or to some one whom that person is bound to support when such person is competent to contract. AIR 1947 Nag 84 (86) = ILR (1947) Nag 154. (Operation on wife — Doctor seeking to recover operation charges from husband — Husband being competent to contract Section 68 held did not apply.)

(11) Where the share of T was attached, while he was separate from his mother and where T had minor sons but T's brother and mother representing themselves to be owners and to be persons in possession of T's share, mortgaged that share and with the mortgage money satisfied the decree against T's estate. Held, that the mortgagors having never purported to act on behalf of minor sons of T and having totally ignored their existence, the mortgage could not be enforced against either T's descendants or T's property and that Section 68 of the Contract Act did not apply to the case. AIR 1925 All 213 (213, 214) (DB).

(12) As Section 68 of Contract Act is not controlled by Section 31 of C. P. Court of Wards Act, 1899, estate of Government ward is not exempt from liability for necessities supplied to ward. (1904) 17 CPLR 57 (58).

(13) Subsequent to coming into force of C. P. Court of Wards (Amendment) Act (1 of 1915) a suit against a minor based on Section 68 of the Contract Act is not maintainable. AIR 1921 Nag 105 (105) = 17 Nag LR 20.

(14) Section 37 of the U. P. Court of Wards Act (1912) has to be read with Sections 11 and 68 of the Contract Act. That section is no bar to a claim under Section 68 of Contract Act. AIR 1943 Oudh 119 (121) = 18 Luck 318  AIR 1936 All 819 (820).

(15) Promissory-note executed by a ward of Court for his necessities is not enforceable. He cannot get advantage of Section 68. AIR 1935 Lah 764 (765) = 16 Lah 932. (AIR 1927 Lah 414. Overruled.)

2. Necessaries. — (1) Necessaries mean goods suited to the condition in life of the infant and to his actual requirements. So things purchased with which the infant is plentifully supplied are not necessities. (1909) 36 Cal 768 (777).

(2) Word 'necessaries' in Section 68 cannot be restricted to what is necessary for elementary requirements of minor such as food and clothing. It includes money urgently needed for requirement of the minor. AIR 1930 All 128 (129) = 52 All 381 (DB).

(3) The term 'necessaries' is not confined to goods. It can include other things such as good teaching and instructions whereby the minor may profit himself afterwards, and also money to enable him to obtain these necessities. AIR 1938 Nag 65 (68) = ILR (1939) Nag 592.

(4) As 'necessaries' include everything necessary to maintain an infant in the state, station, or degree of life in which he is, "what is necessary" is a relative fact to be determined with reference to the fortune and circumstances of a particular infant. (1909) 36 Cal 768 (777)  AIR 1950 Mad 274 (275).

[See (1904) 17 CPLR 57 (59). (Sweetmeats may be necessities in particular circumstances.)]

(5) Cloth supplied to a minor and cash lent to him to effect necessary repairs in his house are 'necessaries' within the meaning of Section 68. AIR 1936 Nag 12 (13).

(6) A creditor advancing money to save the property of a minor from being sold for revenue is entitled to be reimbursed from the property of minor. AIR 1930 All 128 (129) = 52 All 381 (DB)  AIR 1925 Nag 33 (33).

(7) Where the guardian of a minor borrows money for the payment of rent due to lambardar, which the minor was bound to pay, the minor is liable under the transaction, as the guardian can do, what the minor himself would do. AIR 1938 Nag 65 (67) = ILR (1939) Nag 592.

(8) Minor is bound in respect of loans supplied to him for necessities. Agricultural operations and payment of creditors may, in suitable circumstances, be necessary purposes. AIR 1937 Nag 390 (391) = ILR (1937) Nag 458.

(9) Money advanced to a minor required for defence in certain criminal proceedings pending against him, and used for that purpose — Lender suing to get it back — Plea of minority at the time of contracting. Held, that the minor was liable as the money was paid for 'necessaries' the minor's liberty being in jeopardy. (1894) 21 Cal 872 (880) (DB).

[See also (1907) 10 Oudh Cas 38 (39) (DB)  (1899) 22 Mad 314 (317) (DB).]

(10) An infant's estate is liable for all the costs and expenses, properly incurred by the guardian in proceedings properly taken to preserve the infant from complete ruin and destitution. (1881) 7 Cal 140 (143, 144).

(11) Money spent on the obsequies of the father of the minor cannot be deemed to be necessities supplied to the minor within the meaning of Section 68. AIR 1933 Oudh 132 (133) (DB).

(12) Money borrowed by a guardian of a Hindu minor for Divali expenses is not a loan incurred for 'necessaries' and the minor's estate is not liable. AIR 1938 Nag 65 (68) = ILR (1939) Nag 592.

(13) Moneys paid to a minor for the discharge of his father's decretal debts, for the recovery of which nothing was done, cannot be called necessities but moneys borrowed by him for the necessary costs of a civil or criminal proceeding are held as necessities within S. 68 of the Contract Act. AIR 1922 Nag 247 (248) = 18 Nag LR 119.

(14) During the lifetime of his father, money borrowed by a person incapable of entering into a contract to pay for the Sradh of his mother, is not a necessity under Section 68. AIR 1917 Cal 485 (486) (DB).

(15) The question whether bulls are or are not necessities depends on the evidence let in by the parties in each particular case. AIR 1926 Mad 592 (592).

(16) Although the principle enunciated in Section 68 of the Contract Act would not apply to the expenses of marriage of a minor under English law, the principle has been extended in India to cover the marriage expenses of Hindu minors. AIR 1947 Mad 155 (155) = ILR (1947) Mad 541.

(17) By general principles of Hindu law a minor is under an obligation to provide out of the family property the funds necessary for performing the marriage ceremonies of his sister in a manner suitable to the social position of the family and its pecuniary sources: Such provision is "necessary" and one which the minor is 'legally bound' to make within Section 68. AIR 1921 Oudh 14 (17) (DB). (32 All 325, Foll.)  AIR 1940 Nag 327 (329, 330) = ILR (1940) Nag 632  AIR 1933 Nag 285 (287)  (1910) 32 All 325 (334) (SB).

(18) A father who has no joint family property in his hands is not bound to defray the marriage expenses of his daughter or sons and a person who spends for the marriage cannot recover the amount personally from the father. To such a case neither Section 68 nor Sections 69 and 70 will apply. AIR 1950 Mad 274 (275).

(19) Advancing of funds to a male Hindu minor for meeting his own marriage expenses is not supplying him with necessities suited to his condition in life within the meaning of Section 68 of the Contract Act, and a person advancing such funds is not entitled to be reimbursed from the property of such a minor. The Hindu law does not enjoin the marriage of a Hindu male before the age of majority. AIR 1940 Nag 327 (329, 330) = ILR (1940) Nag 632.

[See AIR 1941 Mad 387 (389).]

(20) In the case of a minor Muslim girl marriage is a "necessity" and the person incurring expenditure for marriage is entitled to relief under Section 68. AIR 1947 Mad 155 (156) = ILR (1947) Mad 541.

(21) The money spent over an object which an infant is legally bound to perform cannot be recovered unless it constitutes a 'debt' and is not a bounteous gift. AIR 1921 Oudh 14 (19) (DB).

(22) Unregistered sale deed — One of the vendors minor — Vendee suing to recover amount alleged to have been paid to some mortgagees in discharge of mortgage on the property in question and some more amount advanced to vendors — Held, that plaintiff acquired no interest in the property, as the mortgage was by a minor and he was not entitled to recover the money paid to discharge the mortgage nor to get the amount advanced to vendors which was not for necessities. (1910) 32 All 25 (27) (DB).

(23) Debt incurred by guardian for improving or developing minor's estate is not binding on such estate. Money borrowed for its upkeep or its preservation binds the estate. AIR 1939 Mad 414 (419, 420) (DB).

(24) Son selling land belonging to lunatic mother to get funds to treat her — Mother getting benefit of funds — Suit for possession by mother — Buyer held entitled to be reimbursed from property of mother to extent of value of necessities supplied. 1947 Rang LR 491 (493, 494).

(25) Where the plaintiff maintains his widowed grandmother with the intention of being repaid and not out of charitable disposition, he is entitled to a decree for the amount as against the defendant who had undertaken the responsibility of maintaining her under a decree but had refused to perform it. 1949 Trav-Co LR 129 (130, 131) (DB).

(26) The house leased to a minor for the purpose of living and continuing his studies is for a necessity, suited to the conditions of minor's life. AIR 1963 Madh Pra 58 (59) = 1961 Jab LJ 1279.

(27) Where the money advanced to the natural guardian against agreement to sell minors' undivided interest in joint family property, was used for the benefit and family expenses of the minors, the minors were liable to refund the amount advanced after the contract was rescinded on ground of breach of contract by the minors. (1966) 1 Andh LT 233 = (1966) 1 Andh WR 368.

3. Interest on value of necessities.—

(1) No interest on the value of necessities can be allowed by way of damages. AIR 1927 Lah 414 (415).

[See AIR 1940 Mad 106 (110) = ILR (1940) Mad 27 (DB).]

[But see AIR 1936 Nag 12 (13).]

4. Proof of necessity.— (1) In the case of necessities supplied to an infant the onus of proof lies on the creditor. AIR 1938 Nag 65 (67) = ILR (1939) Nag 592.

(2) It is not sufficient to plead that money was advanced and spent for the minor, but it must also be shown that it was necessary. (1907) 10 Oudh Cas 38 (39, 40) (DB).

(3) In a case where a creditor seeks to make the estate of the minor liable for advances made for necessities mere bona fide enquiry by the creditor into the existence of the necessity and advance in good faith thereafter will not suffice, but at the same time the creditor need not prove the actual application of the money. To require this is to ask him to do the impossible. The creditor is required to prove the circumstances of the minor's estate, the absence of any other source from which the necessity could be met at the time of the transaction and the suitability of the necessity having regard to the social status and the condition in life of the minor. If these are established and the creditor has advanced money for meeting such necessities after satisfying himself about the same, the creditor is entitled to a decree against the estate of the minor unless it is proved by the other side that the guardian did not actually apply the money for necessary purposes. The burden will, in such circumstances, shift on the defendants to prove that the guardian instead of using the money for the minor as required, used it for his own purposes. AIR 1938 Nag 68 (71, 72) (DB).

(4) A plaintiff is not debarred from proving that the goods were necessary if no enquiry had been made at the time the goods were supplied as to the necessity. AIR 1927 Lah 414 (415).

(5) A money lender, advancing money to a minor alleging that it was for necessities must draw the bond so as to bind the minor's estate. AIR 1914 Mad 648 (651) = 37 Mad 38 (DB).

(6) Mere statement in a bond executed by a person borrowing money in his personal capacity that the amount was to meet certain necessary expenses of the minor will neither bind the minor nor will afford sufficient proof of the amount having been spent for the necessities of the minor. AIR 1930 Oudh 299 (299).

5. Alienation by guardian for necessities.— (1) Section 68, Contract Act,

69. Reimbursement of person paying money due by another, in payment of which he is interested.—A person who is interested in the payment of money which another is bound by law to pay, and who therefore pays it, is entitled to be reimbursed by the other.

B holds land in Bengal, on a lease granted by A, the zamindar. The revenue payable by A to the Government being in arrear, his land is advertised for sale by the Government. Under the revenue law, the consequence of such sale will be the annulment of B's lease. B, to prevent the sale and the consequent annulment of his own lease, pays to the Government the sum due from A. A is bound to make good to B the amount so paid.

refers to a person who supplies a minor with necessaries suited to his condition in life; Section 68 does not show that a guardian can execute a valid mortgage of the ward's properties. AIR 1933 Rang 83 (84) = 11 Rang 193.

(2) A sale by the administrator of the estate of the deceased of property of his minor heirs is void and cannot be supported under Section 68, nor can the sale be ratified by minor subsequently. AIR 1919 Low Bur 53 (53) = 9 Low Bur Rul 186 (DB).

(3) In a contract of loan made by a mother of a minor, he is liable only for such sums as are spent for procuring necessaries for him. AIR 1927 Nag 196 (196)  AIR 1933 Nag 285 (287).

(4) A decree can be enforced against the minor's property if the debt was contracted for purposes necessary within the meaning of Section 68. AIR 1926 Pat 399 (399).

1. Applicability and scope.—(1) Sections 69 and 70 — The sections are not exhaustive of the principle contained therein. AIR 1926 Cal 657 (658) (DB).

(2) The general purport of the section is to afford to a person who pays money in furtherance of some existing interest an indemnity in respect of the payment against any other person who, rather than he, could have been made liable at law to make the payment. AIR 1950 PC 99 (104) = 77 Ind App 156.

(3) The doctrine of unjust enrichment which can be equated to Sections 69 and 70 of the Contract Act compels a person who gets unjustifiably enriched at the expense of another to make restitution. A person who officiously confers a benefit upon another is not entitled to restitution therefor. 1958-2 Mad LJ 148 (150)  1958-2 Mad LJ 86 (87)  AIR 1960 Mad 1 (6) = (1959) 2 Mad LJ 225 (FB)  AIR 1969 Cal 496 (510) (DB). (4) Sections 69 and 70 are distinct — Where one applies the other does not. AIR 1946 Cal 63 (64).

(5) Sections 69 and 70 deal not with contribution but reimbursement. AIR 1946 Cal 63 (64).

(6) The section converts the natural obligation into a legal obligation to pay on the part of the person who has received benefit of the payment by another person of what he was bound to pay. (1881) 3 All 66 (72) (FB).

(7) The section applies where a person pays money which another is bound by law to pay. The obligation to repay money which another has paid and on which a person has benefited does not arise in every case excepting those which fall under this section and Section 70. 17. "Paying." — (1) Payment in law means payment to another. So Government which held land under a landholder and paid assessment of the lands to prevent the sale thereof for arrears of revenue is not entitled to recover it from the landholder. (1907) 30 Mad 375 (377) (DB).

(2) Right to contribution does not arise unless the money has been paid in respect of which the right is claimed. (1936) 64 Cal LJ 55 (57).

(3) Mere giving of renewal of security by one of judgment-debtors liable for cost does not amount to payment — The person executing the deed is not actually out of pocket and does nothing more than to convert his former liability into another liability. (4) Mere undertaking to pay is not actual payment and does not afford a cause of action for the suits contemplated by this section. 1904 Pun Re No. 31 p. 109 (111) (DB).

18. Limitation. — (1) The right to reimbursement arising under Section 69 is governed by three years' limitation from the date on which the money was paid. (2) Vendee entering into possession on the date of the contract for sale — Vendee paying charges on the property since that time to the execution of sale deed — Time runs from the date of such payment and Article 61, Limitation Act, governs his suit for recovery of the money from the vendee. AIR 1927 Mad 1060 (1064).

(3) Pronote by R and N in favour of J and M — J alone realizing the whole amount — Subsequent suit by J and M on the pronote — Decree for M only for his half share — Suit by R to recover from J the amount paid to M — Suit is governed by Article 61 or Article 12 but not Article 96, Limitation Act. AIR 1938 Lah 99 (101) = FLR (1937) Lah 623 (DB).

70. Obligation of person enjoying benefit of non-gratuitous act.—Where a person lawfully does anything for another person, or delivers anything to him, not intending to do so gratuitously, and such other person enjoys the benefit thereof, the latter is bound to make compensation to the former in respect of, or to restore, the thing so done or delivered.*

SECTION 70 — SYNOPSIS

1. Scope and applicability.
2. "Lawfully does anything."
3. "For another."
4. "Or delivers anything to him."
5. "Not intending to do so gratuitously."
6. "Enjoys the benefit."
7. Compensation.
8. Quantum meruit — Compensation for services rendered.
9. Pleadings and proof.

1. Scope and applicability. — (1) The section is not exhaustive of the principle contained therein. AIR 1926 Cal 657 (658) (DB).

(2) Section 70 must be interpreted according to its clear and explicit terms and not in reference to the provisions of the English law relating to the matter. AIR 1930 Lah 364 (369) = 11 Lah 375 (DB)  AIR 1952 Cal 306 (313)  AIR 1960 Punj 585 (588) = ILR (1960) 2 Punj 676 (DB).

(3) Courts in India ought to be guided more by justice, equity and good conscience than by English precedents and should not cut down the beneficent provisions of Section 70, Contract Act which are intended to apply to all cases of benefit bona fide conferred by one person on another and which benefit is enjoyed by the other person. AIR 1915 Mad 95 (98) = 38 Mad 235 (DB).

(4) The terms of Section 70 are unquestionably wide, but applied with discretion they enable the Courts to do substantial justice in cases where it would be difficult to impute to the persons concerned relations actually created by contract. But it is incumbent on final Court of fact to be guarded and circumspect in their conclusions and not to countenance acts or payments that are really officious. (1911) 88 Cal 1 (7) (DB)  AIR 1917 Bom 141 (145) = 42 Bom 556  AIR 1928 Cal 389 (391).

(5) Where there is an express contract, Section 70, Contract Act, has no application. 62 Cal 612 (623) (DB)  AIR 1916 Low Bur 56 (56)  AIR 1947

Nag 84 (86) = ILR (1947) Nag 154  AIR 1967 Cal 310 (313)  AIR 1966 Andh Pra 297 (300) = (1966) 1 Andh WR 275. (However, there are exceptions to this broad rule. Section 70 is not inapplicable merely because plaintiff has another right of action arising out of another cause such as one founded upon contract express or implied or where for some reason the contract is unenforceable.)  AIR 1964 Pat 555 (559) (DB). (But its principle is extended to cases where services are rendered or things delivered in pursuance of a contract which is void.)

[See however AIR 1961 Raj 6 (9) = 1960 Raj LW 345 (DB). (Ordinarily the provisions of Section 70 are not invoked where originally the obligation to restitution arises under any agreement or contract; but there should be no bar to the application of the principle underlying Section 70 also to such class of cases.)]

(6) Section 70 is not founded on contract but embodies the equitable principle of restitution and prevention of unjust enrichment. (In India the principle was developed under Sections 69 and 70 of the Contract Act, and it is generally recognised that these sections are much wider in scope than the doctrine applied in England, and go far beyond it.)

(7) For applicability of Section 70, Contract Act, law will presume a contract, but where there could not have been a contract the law will not presume one. AIR 1937 Nag 330 (333) = ILR (1937) Nag 111.

(8) Section 70 does not apply to persons who are incompetent to contract. AIR 1950 Cal 491 (493)  AIR 1966 Raj 14 (18) = 1965 Raj LW 173 (DB). (Person entering into the contract having no legal competency.)

[But see AIR 1928 Mad 317 (320) (DB).]

(11) An obligation to repay money which another has paid and by which a person is benefited does not arise in every case. In India, the matter is regulated by Sections 69 and 70, Contract Act. AIR 1946 Nag 21 (23) = ILR (1945) Nag 820  AIR 1945 All 428 (429).

(12) Section 70 can only apply where the law can imply, from the circumstances, a promise to pay. Where the statute prohibits the company from making a binding contract before commencement of business, no implication of a promise to pay can or should be made. AIR 1950 Cal 491 (493).

(13) It is not in every case in which a man has benefited by the money of another that an obligation to repay that money arises. The question is not to be determined by nice considerations of what may be fair or proper according to the highest morality. To support such a suit there must be an obligation express or implied to repay. AIR 1945 PC 23 (30) = 72 Ind App 39 = ILR (1945) Kar (PC) 73  AIR 1934 Oudh 307 (311) = 9 Luck 701 (DB)  AIR 1953 Pat 145 (147) (DB)  AIR 1950 Mad 274 (276)  AIR 1969 Mys 350 (354) = (1969) 2 Mys LJ 580.

(14) Section 70 must not be so read as to justify the officious interference of one man with the affairs or property of another or to impose obligation in respect of services which the person sought to be charged did not wish to have rendered. AIR 1946 Nag 21 (23, 24) = ILR (1945) Nag 820  AIR 1957 Madh B 183 (183). (15) Under Section 70 plaintiff must prove (1) that he was doing something lawful when he was making the payment; (2) that he did not intend to pay gratuitously; (3) that what he did was done for the defendant and (4) that the defendant did enjoy the benefit. AIR 1915 Mad 95 (97) = 38 Mad 235 (DB)  AIR 1928 Cal 389 (391)  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 605 (607)  AIR 1958 Pat 203 (208, 209) = 37 Pat 113 (DB)  AIR 1957 Madh B 183 (183)  AIR 1953 Pat 145 (147) = 31 Pat 303 (DB)  AIR 1949 Pat 522 (524, 525) = 28 Pat 325 (DB)  1949 Bur LR (HC) 509 (521 to 525)  1948 Bur LR (HC) 159 (162, 163, 164) (DB)  AIR 1947 Cal 304 (307) (DB)  AIR 1968 SC 1218 (1222) = (1968) 3 SCR 214  AIR 1969 Ori 171 (175) = 34 Cut LT 1227  1969 Pat LJR 227 (229) = 1969 BLJR 527 (DB)  1968 Ker LJ 349 (351) = 1968 Ker LT 108  AIR 1966 Andh Pra 297 (299) = (1966) 1 Andh WR 275  AIR 1965 Andh Pra 322 (325) = (1965) 1 Andh WR 241  AIR 1962 Him Pra 43 (47). (16) Section 70, Contract Act, applies to a case when the "person" for whose benefit the payment is made is a large caste. AIR 1917 Bom 141 (147) = 42 Bom 556.

(17) If there is special Act settling the relation of parties the general Act is inoperative. House Accommodation Act ousts the jurisdiction of Civil Court to decide the question of necessity for repairs and its costs. Section 70 — Note 1 (contd.)

(19) An undertaking to pay is not actual payment and does not afford a cause of action for the suit contemplated by Sections 69 and 70 of the Contract Act until the money or its equivalent is actually paid. 1904 Pun Re No. 31, p. 109 (111) (DB).

(20) The provisions of Section 70 can be applied even when one of the parties concerned is a corporation or other public body. (22) Out of the two sections, namely Sections 65 and 70, the latter section covers a wider ground and should not be invoked in the case of a benefit received under a contract. AIR 1926 Oudh 388 (391) = 1 Luck 444 (DB).

(23) Sections 69 and 70 of the Contract Act deal with entirely different conditions and they cannot both apply to the same set of facts. If one applies, the other cannot. And neither of those sections is applicable when a person pays a debt for which he was personally liable. AIR 1946 Cal 63 (64).

(24) Section 70 deals not with contribution but reimbursement. A claim under the section can only be for the recovery of the whole of the money spent and not merely a part of it. AIR 1946 Cal 63 (64).

(25) Section 142 of the Madras Estates Land Act (1 of 1908), does not negative the right of reimbursement contained in Section 70. AIR 1951 Mad 650 (652, 653).

(26) It is not necessary that there should be a request proceeding from one party to the other before the work was undertaken or done to enable a resort to Section 70. AIR 1962 Mad 345 (345, 346) = (1961) 1 Mad LJ 574.

(27) Where property in which the judgment-debtor has no saleable interest is sold under a decree the auction-purchaser is entitled to recover the purchase money from the person to whom it has been paid provided he could bring his case within equitable principles which justify a suit for money had and received on the ground that it is unconscionable that the defendant should retain the money as against the plaintiff. (29) The fields covered by the two provisions of Section 70 and Section 175 (3) of the Government of India Act are separate and distinct. There is no conflict between the two provisions. AIR 1962 SC 779 (788) = 1962 Supp (1) SCR 876.

2. "Lawfully does anything." — (1) The meaning of the word "lawfully," in Section 70 is merely "bona fide". (4) Between the person claiming compensation and person against whom it is claimed some lawful relationship must subsist, for that is the implication of the use of the word "lawful" in Section 70, but the said lawful relationship arises not because the party claiming compensation has done something for the party against whom the compensation is claimed but because what has been done by the former has been accepted and enjoyed by the latter. (6) The word "lawfully" in Section 70, Contract Act is not a surplage and the section is not intended to enable total stranger, without any express or implied request on behalf of a debtor to put himself into the shoes of the creditor by the simple fact of paying the debts due by such debtor. Two consignments of coal were received under freight system under which the consignee was to pay the freight. The appellant paid the freight and sued respondents for its recovery: Held, that it was open for the appellant to have rejected the coal, for his right extended only to rejecting the coal and not to claim any charges that he chose to pay to the railway and that Section 70 did not apply as it could not be said that plaintiff did anything lawfully for the defendant and the defendant had the benefit of it. AIR 1928 Mad 198 (198).

(32) Section 70 cannot be applied when the act done or thing delivered was not lawful. It cannot be said that a person 'lawfully' pays money to the Govern-

3. "For another." — (1) Doing anything "for another" person means in some way taking his place as the doer. That is the first meaning of "for." There is no justification for importing into Section 70 looser sense of "for" and the phrase "does anything for another person not intending to do so gratuitously" in Section 70 means that when a person has proved that he did the thing for another person as explained above, he must then prove that he did not intend to do it gratuitously. Until a person has succeeded in proving that he acted for another, the question whether he acted gratuitously or not does not arise. AIR 1928 Mad 320 (321, 322) (DB).

4. "Or delivers anything to him." —

(1) The elements of Section 70 as regards the delivery of a thing are: (1) delivery (2) delivery without an intention to deliver gratuitously and (3) enjoyment of the benefit of the thing delivered. The section thus contemplates according to its own language a case where only those three elements are present and nothing more. They do not comprise a further element, viz., a request in response to which the thing was delivered. Indeed, if there is a request and a thing is delivered in compliance therewith, there would be an agreement and the person delivering the thing would be entitled to recover his dues under the agreement itself, without being required to fall back on the doctrine of compensation. 7. Compensation. — (1) Section 70 contemplates a case where, initially, at the time of the doing of the act, or the delivery of thing, there is no "proposal" or "promise" as defined in Section 2, and, therefore, no agreement; but an obligation to make compensation to the person doing the act or, delivering the thing nevertheless arises out of the fact that the person for whom the act was done or to whom the thing was delivered, accepted and enjoyed its benefit, although there was no request for the act or the thing on his part. The section clearly contemplates a case where an act has been done or a thing delivered without a request, but not gratuitously. It may be that cases where a request was made but it was by a person having no authority to make it are also intended because in such cases there is really no request by the person who receives and takes the benefit. (1952) 89 Cal L Jour 342 (363) (DB).

(2) The right to claim compensation under Section 70 is an equitable right which arises out of an implied contract of indemnity between persons whose interest in the property is liable for a common debt. (1956) 60 Cal WN 988 (993). (Suit by Corporation to enforce charge under Section 205, Calcutta Municipal Act (3 of 1923) — One co-sharer paying all the dues of Corporation — He can sue other co-sharers for compensation.)

AIR 1958 Ker 290 (297) = ILR (1958) Ker 558 (DB).

(8) The words of the section are wide enough to cover a case where a landlord delivers possession of the accommodation to the tenant under an understanding that the latter shall pay rent. In such a case if the tenant refuses to pay rent or offers rent which is reasonably low, the Court can award reasonable compensation. 1966 All LJ 688 (695) = 1966 All WR (HC) 69.

(9) Defendant being highest bidder at auction of right to collect fees in markets — Defendant however failing to execute registered lease deed representing terms of auction — Defendant exercising his right under auction — Held, Sections 65 and 70 applied and defendant was bound to pay compensation to plaintiff. (10) Compensation under Section 70 is ordered not in any affirmation of agreement or contract but in disaffirmation thereof. AIR 1961 Raj 6 (9) = 1960 Raj LW 345 (DB).

8. Quantum meruit — Compensation for services rendered. — (1) The principle of quantum meruit is often applied where for some technical reason a contract is held to be invalid. Under such circumstances an implied contract is assumed by which the person for whom the work is to be done contracts to pay the person who does work reasonably for the work done. AIR 1941 Mad 887 (887, 888)  AIR 1965 Andh Pra 191 (195) = (1965) 1 Andh WR 176 (DB).

(2) The principle of quantum meruit has no application to cases where there are specific contracts in operation, and has only application to cases where there is no contract in operation. AIR 1957 Mad 169 (177) (DB).

AIR 1966 Andh Pra 297 (300) = (1966)
1 Andh WR 275.

(4) Where the claim on a promissory note fails on the ground of undue influence, it does not involve the dismissal of the alternative claim set up by the plaintiff, as for instance, to recover remuneration of services rendered by him. Where it appears that he undertook various duties for the defendants and performed them with assiduity and care and they proved beneficial to the defendants and he did this under the impression that he would receive remuneration for the services, his claim to a reasonable compensation must be held to be established. AIR 1937 PC 50 (52, 53)  AIR 1927 Nag 241 (242).

(5) Where a contract is invalid so far as one party is concerned, it cannot bind the other party also. Decree can be passed on "quantum meruit" basis against a party enjoying benefit under this contract. AIR 1933 Pesh 16 (18)  AIR 1937 Bom 417 (419, 422) = ILR (1937) Bom 782 (DB)  (1936) 38 Pun LR 618 (619)  AIR 1933 Lah 15 (17) = 13 Lah 561 (DB)  AIR 1932 Rang 176 (178) = 10 Rang 522  AIR 1930 Lah 364 (369) = 11 Lah 395 (DB)  AIR 1927 Cal 465 (472) = 54 Cal 189 (DB).

(6) No claim in the nature of a quantum meruit can be founded upon a contract which has not been performed, unless the person who has a right to insist on its performance has elected to accept some benefit resulting from its partial or defective performance, or the circumstances are such as to show, in some other way, that a new contract has arisen between the parties. In order to raise an inference of a new contract the circumstances must be such as to give an option to the defendant to take or not to take the benefit. Where a contract has been only partly performed, the mere fact that the part performance has been beneficial is not enough to render the party benefited liable to pay for it; it must be shown that he has taken the benefit of the part performance under circumstances sufficient to raise an implied promise to pay for the work done notwithstanding the non-performance of the special contract. AIR 1963 Ker 181 (184) = 1963 Ker LT 335.

(7) If a party to a contract has rendered service to the other not intending to do so gratuitously and the other person has obtained some benefit, the former is entitled to compensation for the value of the services rendered by him, even if he failed to prove an express agreement in that behalf. AIR

(8) Where one has expressly or impliedly requested another to render him a service without specifying any remuneration but the circumstances of the request imply that the service is to be paid for, the law will imply a promise to pay, i. e., so much as the party doing the service has deserved or as is normally said a reasonable sum. AIR 1935 Cal 347 (353) = 62 Cal 175 (DB).

(9) If there is an agreement which is invalid under Section 28 of the Legal Practitioners' Act or no agreement at all, the pleader can sue under Section 70, of the Contract Act, and he can get whatever is a fair and just remuneration for the services he has actually rendered. AIR 1921 Nag 122 (125) = 17 Nag LR 8  AIR 1914 Cal 166 (166) (DB)  (1886) 9 Mad 375 (376) (DB).

(10) Section 28 of Legal Practitioners Act prohibits the recovery of any money under an agreement not recorded in a particular manner. It no doubt supersedes those provisions of the Contract Act under which agreement can be enforced generally. But it does not touch Section 70 which has no relation to express agreement at all, but which is intended specially to deal with cases where remuneration can be claimed in the absence of an agreement. 1888 Pun Re No. 160 p. 426 (426) (DB)  1893 Pun Re No. 136 p. 528 (533) (DB).

(11) Where the supply of hard coke made by the plaintiff to a jute mill belonging to the Military Department of the Government of India is rejected as it was not up to the specification upon which the Deputy Coal Commissioner gave direction for its disposal by sale and for payment of the price realised by the sale to the plaintiff, a suit in the meanwhile brought by the plaintiff against the Union of India to recover the price of the Coke supplied is governed not by Section 70 of the Contract Act but by the statutory provisions contained in Rule 8 and Rule 10-A (1) of the Colliery Control Order, 1945. AIR 1962 SC 779 (788) = 1962 Supp (1) SCR 876.

the money is not entitled to its return. AIR 1949 Cal 457 (462) = ILR (1950) 2 Cal 171.

entitled to receive the same compensation from the party in default, as if such person had contracted to discharge it and had broken his contract.

Explanation.—In estimating the loss or damage arising from a breach of contract, the means which existed of remedying the inconvenience caused by the non-performance of the contract must be taken into account.

Illustrations

(a) A contracts to sell and deliver 50 maunds of saltpetre to B, at a certain price to be paid on delivery. A breaks his promise. B is entitled to receive from A, by way of compensation, the sum, if any, by which the contract price falls short of the price for which B might have obtained 50 maunds of saltpetre of like quality at the time when the saltpetre ought to have been delivered.

(b) A hires B's ship to go to Bombay, and there takes on board, on the first of January, a cargo which A is to provide and to bring it to Calcutta, the freight to be paid when earned. B's ship does not go to Bombay, but A has opportunities of procuring suitable conveyance for the cargo upon terms as advantageous as those on which he had chartered the ship. A avails himself of those opportunities, but is put to trouble and expense in doing so. A is entitled to receive compensation from B in respect of such trouble and expense.

(c) A contracts to buy of B, at a stated price, 50 maunds of rice, no time being fixed for delivery. A afterwards informs B that he will not accept the rice if tendered to him. B is entitled to receive from A, by way of compensation, the amount, if any, by which the contract price exceeds that which B can obtain for the rice at the time when A informs B that he will not accept it.

(d) A contracts to buy B's ship for 60,000 rupees, but breaks his promise. A must pay to B, by way of compensation, the excess, if any, of the contract price over the price which B can obtain for the ship at the time of the breach of promise.

Section 73 — Synopsis (contd.)

33. Plaintiff's duty to mitigate loss — Explanation.

1-2. Breach of contract.— (1) In a suit to enforce a contract it is necessary to ascertain its exact terms, so as to determine the breach thereof. AIR 1932 Lah 148 (149) (DB).

(2) Section 73 relates to breaches of contract and not to torts. (1913) 11 All L Jour 335 (338, 339)  AIR 1927 Nag 75 (75). (Claim on breach of contract comes under Section 73 and not tort.)

(3) Illustrations to Section 73, Contract Act, are not more than general rules. AIR 1941 Sind 146 (150).

(4) The general principle which is embodied in Section 73 is that when there is a breach of contract, the party who suffers by the breach is entitled to recover compensation from the other party for the loss caused to him by the said breach. AIR 1955 Andhra 148 (151) (DB)  1965 All LJ 969 (970). (None of Sections 73 and 74 applies to a suit instituted by the party who has broken the contract.)  AIR 1964 Madh Pra 126 (127) = 1963 MPLJ 184 (DB).

(5) Section 73 applies to all contracts, including those in respect of lands. AIR 1927 Sind 120 (122) = 19 Sind LR 337. (Hence Indian Courts not to apply foreign rules of law or equity.)  AIR 1925 Rang 261 (262) (DB)  AIR 1919 Oudh 396 (396)  AIR 1918 Mad 1315 (1318) = 40 Mad 338 (FB).

(6) Damages cannot be granted for breach of an incomplete agreement. AIR 1927 All 837 (838) (DB).

(7) Where the buyer uses ambiguous terms in his order, and such terms are misinterpreted by seller and such misinterpretation is acted upon by the buyers, it is not open to the buyer to contend that he did not make the offer as understood by the seller, and if the buyer refuses to make payment for the goods supplied as per terms as understood by the seller, the buyer commits a breach of the contract. AIR 1928 Mad 873 (878) (DB).

(8) Where out of three contracts for supply of flour, plaintiff fulfilled only one, and on refusal of the same, sued for damages for the breach of that contract, he cannot succeed unless the parties intended to treat each contract separately. 1937 All LJ 1250 (1251).

(9) Notice of repudiation by vendor — Buyer may treat the notice as inoperative — Then contract continues for the benefit of vendor as well — Vendor may elect to complete contract in spite of previous repudiation. AIR 1923 Bom 113 (116).

(10) Under Section 55 of the Act, a promisee has the option of enforcing the contract or not as may suit him. If he chooses to enforce it, he can only claim damages as provided for in Section 73. ILR (1949) 2 Cal 530 (535).

(e) A, the owner of a boat, contracts with B to take a cargo of jute to Mirzapur, for sale at that place, starting on a specified day. The boat, owing to some avoidable cause, does not start at the time appointed, whereby the arrival of the cargo at Mirzapur is delayed beyond the time when it would have arrived if the boat had sailed according to the contract. After that date, and before the arrival of the cargo, the price of jute falls. The measure of the compensation payable to B by A is the difference between the price which B could have obtained for the cargo at Mirzapur at the time when it would have arrived if forwarded in due course, and its market price at the time when it actually arrived.

(f) A contracts to repair B's house in a certain manner, and receives payment in advance. A repairs the house, but not according to contract. B is entitled to recover from A the cost of making the repairs conform to the contract.

(g) A contracts to let his ship to B for a year, from the first of January, for a certain price. Freights rise, and, on the first of January, the hire obtainable for the ship is higher than the contract price. A breaks his promise. He must pay to B, by way of compensation, a sum equal to the difference between the contract price and the price for which B could hire a similar ship for a year on and from the first of January.

(h) A contracts to supply B with a certain quantity of iron at a fixed price, being a higher price than that for which A could procure and deliver the iron. B wrongfully refuses to receive the iron. B must pay to A, by way of compensation, the difference between the contract price of the iron and the sum for which A could have obtained and delivered it.

(13) Injunction issued prohibiting vendee to import certain goods — Vendee cancelling his contract to purchase, though vendor willing to keep contract open — Injunction shortly dissolved — Vendee not cancelling cancellation — Cancellation, held, to be voluntary — Person, obtaining injunction held, not liable. AIR 1929 PC 222 (224).

(14) Purchase by N of license for pawnshop auctioned by municipality — Terms of sale reduced to document, which recited that N was licensed for three years, subject to certain conditions but contained no guarantee as to validity of license — Grant, subsequently, set aside by Commissioner under powers given him by Burma Municipal Act — License again auctioned and again bought by N for much higher sum — N suing committee in damages for breach of contract basing his claim on difference between two bids. The municipality were not in a position to guarantee what the action of the Commissioner would be, nor could it be presumed that they ever intended to give any guarantee in the matter and that there was no breach of contract on their part and so they were not liable in damages. AIR 1930 Rang 16 (17) = 7 Rang 441 (DB).

(15) Consignment of 200 bundles of steel rods through Railway — Nine bundles found to have been changed — Refusal to take delivery — Offer of Railway Company for delivery of 191 bundles — Refusal to accept — Suit for damages — Railway liable only for nine bundles. AIR 1933 All 595 (596) (DB).

(16) Employer entitled to close work for definite and indefinite period for causes stated in contract — Power of closing for definite period exceeded but acquiesced in by employee — Subsequent indefinite closing legal — Employee cannot get damages. AIR 1934 Bom 126 (129) = 58 Bom 262 (DB).

(17) Goods of inferior quality delivered — Contract is broken on due date, and not when inferiority of quality is discovered, in the absence of a contract, that the due date shall be postponed until it is ascertained whether the goods are of the contract quality or not. AIR 1921 Bom 203 (203, 205) = 45 Bom 129 (DB).

(18) Contract for supply of sugar, of particular mill, at Rs. 29/6/- per maund, which was ex mill rate when contract took place — Under contract delivery to be made at place C — Breach of contract — Held, fact that contract was for particular quality of sugar which was to be supplied by defendant after he got delivery from mill and rate under contract was ex mill rate, would show that measure of damages would be difference between ex mill rate on date of breach

(i) A delivers to B, a common carrier, a machine, to be conveyed, without delay, to A's mill informing B that his mill is stopped for want of the machine. B unreasonably delays the delivery of the machine, and A, in consequence, loses a profitable contract with the Government. A is entitled to receive from B, by way of compensation, the average amount of profit which would have been made by the working of the mill during the time that delivery of it was delayed, but not the loss sustained through the loss of the Government contract.

(j) A, having contracted with B to supply B with 1,000 tons of iron at 100 rupees a ton, to be delivered at a stated time, contracts with C for the purchase of 1,000 tons of iron at 80 rupees a ton, telling C that he does so for the purpose of performing his contract with B. C fails to perform his contract with A, who cannot procure other iron, and B, in consequence, rescinds the contract. C must pay to A 20,000 rupees, being the profit which A would have made by the performance of his contract with B.

(k) A contracts with B to make and deliver to B, by a fixed day, for a specified price, a certain piece of machinery. A does not deliver the piece of machinery at the time specified, and in consequence of this, B is obliged to procure another at a higher price than that which he was to have paid to A, and is prevented from performing a contract which B had made with a third person at the time of his contract with A (but which had not been then communicated to A), and is compelled to make compensation for breach of that contract. A must pay to B, by way of compensation, the difference between the contract price of the piece of machinery and the sum paid by B for another, but not the sum paid by B to the third person by way of compensation.

and date of contract — Fact that delivery was to be made at place C was immaterial on question of measure of damages. 1969 All LJ 127 (128).

(19) Where there was a duty on the part of the vendor to give notice to the vendee of the arrival of the goods and it was not done, it amounts to a breach of contract. (1924) 19 Mad LW 654 (658) (DB).

(20) Defendant contracting to supply 1,000 maunds of husks to plaintiff — 589½ maunds supplied — The balance mixed with sand — Plaintiff refusing delivery — Defendant liable for breach. AIR 1931 Cal 163 (164).

(23) A executed a bond in favour of B for Rs. 1300, on B's assurance on oath that he would pay the debt of A, amounting to Rs. 1100, and pay cash of 200. B failed to perform his contract within a reasonable time — Held, that the contract became voidable, entitling A to sue B for cancellation or for damages under Section 73. 1882 Pun Re No. 186, p. 542 (548) (DB).

(24) Defendants contracted to transfer their business including stock in trade and outstandings to the plaintiffs and to pay them Rs. 1650 in consideration of the plaintiffs discharging the debts of the firm. Defendants resiled from their contract. Held, that plaintiff's could sue them for damages in terms of Section 73. Damage arose as plaintiffs were prevented from making profit out of the concern. 1889 Pun Re No. 20, p. 64 (68) (DB).

(25) The true basis of the claim for damages by anybody injured by an improper execution proceeding after receiving satisfaction by decree-holder can only be that it is a breach of an implied agreement not to execute the decrees any further. AIR 1935 Mad 961 (964).

(26) A paper was signed by the defendant to the effect that he and plaintiff had entered into a partnership for 2½ years and that amount of brokerage, earned by each partner separately, was to be divided equally among all. No counter agreement was given by plaintiffs and nothing further was done. Defendants, having refused to settle account, denied partnership. The plaintiffs sued for their share of profits. Held, on the facts, that the transaction amounted to an agreement to enter into partnership and that plaintiffs were entitled to damages for breach, on the basis of the profit that would have been made during the 2½ years. 1867 Pun Re No. 68, p. 130 (132) (DB).

A is informed of the contract between B and C. A builds the house so badly that, before the first of January, it falls down and has to be re-built by B, who, in consequence, loses the rent which he was to have received from C, and is obliged to make compensation to C for the breach of his contract. A must make compensation to B for the cost of rebuilding the house, for the rent lost, and for the compensation made to C.

(m) A sells certain merchandise to B, warranting it to be of a particular quality, and B, in reliance upon this warranty, sells it to C with a similar warranty. The goods prove to be not according to the warranty, and B becomes liable to pay C a sum of money by way of compensation. B is entitled to be reimbursed this sum by A.

(n) A contracts to pay a sum of money to B on a day specified. A does not pay the money on that day; B, in consequence of not receiving the money on that day, is unable to pay his debts, and is totally ruined. A is not liable to make good to B anything except the principal sum he contracted to pay, together with interest up to the day of payment.

(o) A contracts to deliver 50 maunds of saltpetre to B on the first of January, at a certain price. B afterwards, before the first of January, contracts to sell the saltpetre to C at a price higher than the market price of the first of January. A breaks his promise. In estimating the compensation payable by A to B, the market price of the first of January, and not the profit which would have arisen to B from the sale to C, is to be taken into account.

(28) Where defendant sold goods to plaintiff, receiving part of the consideration and agreed to receive the balance by instalments, and deliver the goods on demand and the plaintiff brought a suit for damages as the defendant had failed to deliver: held, that the defendant was liable. 1911 Pun LR No. 207, p. 801 (802).

(29) Sale — Direction to vendee to pay off creditor — Creditor who was not paid obtaining decree against vendor -- Suit by vendor against vendee could lie. AIR 1931 All 754 (755, 756) = 53 All 946 (DB).

The contract further provided that the contractor was bound to carry out changes made in the work, design, plan, etc., by the Engineer and that such alterations would not invalidate the contract. The Engineer asked the work to be stopped until further orders. After some correspondence between the parties, a new specification was resolved upon but the Council invited fresh tenders and gave the work to a new tenderer. Held that the Board had committed a breach of contract. 1929 All L Jour 735 (740).

ing the goods by a certain date but kept on saying after expiry of the date that he would deliver them as soon as he received them from his vendor, without requesting the plaintiff to extend the time for delivery, and ultimately the plaintiff repudiated the contract, the breach occurred on the date by which the defendant was bound to perform his part of the contract. AIR 1946 Bom 1 (7) = ILR (1946) Bom 218 (DB).

(33) Sale of goods bilty cut — Time for performance of agreement — Difficulty in getting wagons — Term that goods would be loaded on wagon being available — Delay apprehended by seller -- Alternative suggested by seller but not accepted by buyer — Buyer held responsible for breach of contract — Seller held entitled to get damages. (34) Sale of goods — Portion ready for delivery — Balance to be delivered on particular date — Failure to deliver — Date of breach for ready goods, the date of contract; for other goods, the date, fixed for delivery. AIR 1922 Bom 203 (204, 205).

(35) Contract of agency — Undertaking by agent not to work for other mills — The mere fact that he was buying and selling cloths from other mills and merchants, was not a violation of the contract. AIR 1921 Mad 664 (665) (DB).

(36) Where price is to be paid on receipt of railway receipt, failure to take delivery, on mere intimation of arrival of a portion of the goods, does not amount to breach of contract. AIR 1930 Lah 193 (195) (DB).

(p) A contracts to sell and deliver 500 bales of cotton to B on a fixed day. A knows nothing of B's mode of conducting his business. A breaks his promise, and B, having no cotton, is obliged to close his mill. A is not responsible to B for the loss caused to B by the closing of the mill.

(q) A contracts to sell and deliver to B, on the first of January certain cloth which B intends to manufacture into caps of a particular kind, for which there is no demand, except at that season. The cloth is not delivered till after the appointed time, and too late to be used that year in making caps. B is entitled to receive from A by way of compensation, the difference between the contract price of the cloth and its market price at the time of delivery, but not the profits which he expected to obtain by making caps, nor the expenses which he has been put to in making preparation for the manufacture.

(r) A, a ship-owner, contracts with B to convey him from Calcutta to Sydney in A's ship, sailing on the first of January, and B pays to A, by way of deposit, one half of his passage-money. The ship does not sail on the first of January, and B, after being in consequence detained in Calcutta for some time and thereby put to some expense, proceeds to Sydney in another vessel, and, in consequence, arriving too late in Sydney, loses a sum of money. A is liable to repay to B his deposit with interest, and the expense to which he is put by his detention in Calcutta, and the excess, if any, of the passage-money paid for the second ship over that agreed upon for the first, but not the sum of money which B lost by arriving in Sydney too late.

(38) The defendant purchased from the plaintiff a cargo of Watson's Harry Steam coal per Grecian, at Rs. 21 per ton. On the arrival of the coal in Calcutta, the defendant was called on to take delivery, which, after inspection, he refused to do on the ground that, the coal had not the usual certificate from Watson. On the same day the plaintiffs themselves, and three days after, their attorneys, wrote to the defendant that, unless he took delivery, the coal would be sold on his account and risk. The defendant refused to take delivery and the very next day without any proper advertisement, the plaintiffs sold the coal to M. and Co., for Rs. 13 per ton. But it was found that the real purchasers were the plaintiffs themselves. Held, that the sale was not a valid sale and that the plaintiffs were not entitled to recover any damages under the circumstances of the case. (39) Appellant approached by H. Q. for opening Service Club. — Club opened in premises taken on lease by appellant — Club managed by Committee of officers — Appellant appointed Commercial Manager — Committee undertaking to pay rent of premises — Club to endure during continuance of hostilities — H. Q. taking no part in management — Club closed down before period agreed upon by order of H. Q. in interest of military discipline — Crown held could not bind itself not to close Club — Order closing Club held was justified — H. Q. held were under no contractual obligation to appellant so to organise and conduct Club that it would not be necessary to close it during war and, therefore, the appellant could not claim damages for breach of this obligation. AIR 1947 PC 29 (31).

(40) To make decree for damages for the breach of a contract which is not the subject-matter of the litigation would be to assume that there has been a breach of the contract which has never been attempted to be specifically enforced. AIR 1916 Cal 774 (775) (DB).

(41) If the documents relied on as constituting a contract contemplate the execution of a further contract between the parties, it is a question of construction whether the execution of a further contract is a condition of term of the bargain or whether it is a mere expression of the desire of the parties as to the manner in which the transaction already agreed to, will in fact go through. In the former case, there is no enforceable contract either because the condition is unfulfilled or because the law does not recognise a contract to enter into a contract. In the latter case there is a binding contract and reference to the more formal document may be ignored. In such cases refusal to execute a formal contract cannot give rise in any case to an action for breach of contract. AIR 1933 PC 29 (31) = 60 Ind App 297 = 60 Cal 980.

(42) In a suit for breach of an executory contract, it is open for the defendant to show that it is not binding upon him inasmuch as it is not binding on the plaintiff. (1933) 27 Bom 618 (621) (DB).

(43) The plaintiff, a tailor, sued a Railway company for damages because of an undue delay in transit due to the fault of their servants. He had entrusted to the company his sewing machine to be carried to a place where car festival was to be held, with the object of making special profit. He had not intimated this object to the company, nor did he inform them that the machine was wanted within a fixed time — Held, that he was precluded from maintaining the suit by one of the conditions on the back of the forwarding note signed by him to the effect that defendants are not responsible for any loss of or damage to goods by reason of accident of unavoidable delay in transit or otherwise. (1898) 21 Mad 172 (174, 175, 178) (DB).

(44) A agreed to transfer to H the mortgage rights under a mortgage executed in her favour and also in favour of her son B. The consideration was fixed at Rs. 26,000 out of which Rs. 3000 were paid to A in advance. Subsequently A and B informed H that they were willing to execute a transfer deed in H's favour provided a further sum of Rs. 26,000 was paid. H refused and brought a suit for specific performance of the contract for sale and in the alternative for refund of money with interest. It was held H was entitled to refuse the offer made by A and B which was not bona fide and therefore A and B, and not H, were in breach of the contract. AIR 1947 PC 173 (175) = 74 Ind App 213 = ILR (1947) All 615.

(45) The plaintiff placed an order with the defendant for supplying six wagons of dust coal required for the manufacture of bricks at K railway station as per priority class 'N' issued in his favour. The defendants accepted the order subject to the sanction of the authorities concerned and confirmed the rate offered F. O. R. Colliery. The defendants placed indents for wagons regularly but no wagons were supplied. The plaintiff brought a suit for damages for breach of the contract and for refund of money paid towards the price — Held, that the contract did not imply that the goods were to be delivered at K. The defendant merely undertook to indent the wagons on account of the plaintiff which had been sanctioned by the Controller, Coal Distribution. The defendant having regularly indented the wagons there was no breach on his part and therefore was not liable in damages. (1950) 86 Cal L Jour 220 (228) (DB).

(46) Where contract had not become impossible of performance, the plaintiff was entitled to damages for breach of contract. AIR 1965 Mad 400 (403) = (1965) 1 Mad LJ 227 (DB).

AIR 1949 Cal 472 (477).

(48) Agreement to re-sell zamindari land to the seller — Refusal on demand to re-sell — Breach of contract is complete — Subsequent passing of U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (1 of 1951) does not affect the breach of contract and liability to pay compensation by way of damages for failure to resell Zamindari land, on account of passing of U. P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (1 of 1951). AIR 1963 All 201 (202).

(53) Breach of contract has to be proved before any enquiry can be conducted into the quantum of damages. When the Court without coming to any definite conclusion as to who had committed the breach awards damages against the defendant on the fragile consideration that the defendant had been profited by the contract not having been carried out overlooking the fact that the plaintiff had not himself observed a material term in the contract, the decree cannot be sustained in law. 1950-2 Mad L Jour 505 (506).

(54) If one party to a contract for the supply of electrical energy fails to fulfil without adequate excuse, its part of the contract, it is liable to pay damages to the other. AIR 1953 Punj 166 (168) (DB).

(55) A agreeing to sell certain property to B for a particular price — B paying part of the consideration money but subsequently refusing to pay the remaining amount on ground that the contract had not been settled for the price as alleged by A — B held was responsible for breach of contract. AIR 1955 Raj 70 (74, 75) = ILR (1954) 4 Raj 705 (DB).

(56) The defendants who were fishermen by profession were parishioners of St. Bortholomeo Roman Catholic Church. They secured certain sums from the plaintiff which they paid as voluntary contribution to the Church and entered into an agreement in writing with the plaintiff to pay him a specified share of their daily catch and to pay him damages in case of default. On 20-1-1125 the defendants sent a notice to the plaintiff stating that they had seceded from the Roman Catholic Church and ceased to be parishioners of the St. Bortholomeo Church and that therefore they were not willing to give the plaintiff the quota of fish they used to give. On the defendants thus ceasing to give their quota of fish, the plaintiff brought a suit for damages: Held: (1) that the agreement was not executed by the defendants for and on behalf of the Church as its representatives as they had undertaken personal liability for damages in case of breach of the contract; and (2) that the plaintiff had got a legal right to enforce the contract against the defendants which right could not be taken away from the plaintiff by the mere fact that some of the executants changed their religion and ceased to be members of the Church. AIR 1953 Trav-Co 302 (303) (DB).

(57) Section 73 relates to compensation for loss or damage caused by breach of contract. The claim for refund of money does not arise out of the breach of contract, but out of the right of the plaintiff to recover money paid to the defendant for consideration which has failed. AIR 1956 Raj 137 (139) = ILR (1956) 6 Raj 522 (DB).

(58) Where the plaintiff fails to accept delivery of more than half the stipulated quantity of goods, he is clearly guilty of a breach of the entire contract and the defendant is justified in refusing to abide by the terms of the contract. (65) Agreement to sell goods — Buyer alleging local usage demanding quantity in excess of standard weight — Seller expressing willingness to supply only according to standard weight and refusing buyer's demand for excess — Evidence adduced by buyer not establishing usage claimed by him — Such usage also declared to be void under statute — Seller has committed no breach of contract and hence buyer's suit against him for recovery of damages must be dismissed. ILR (1964) 14 Raj 799 = 1964 Raj LW 200 (200).

3. Anticipatory breach of contract.—

(1) If one party to a contract repudiates it, the other party may either treat the repudiation as inoperative, or he may treat the repudiation as a wrongful putting an end to the contract, and may at once bring his action as on a breach of it, but he cannot both sue upon the breach and also keep the contract open. AIR 1926 Mad 118 (119).

(2) A repudiation of contract, before the time for performance arrives, which is not accepted by the other party, the contract being kept alive, cannot be treated as an anticipatory breach of the contract. AIR 1928 Sind 103 (103) = 23 Sind LR 370  AIR 1937 Nag 289 (293) = ILR (1938) Nag 31.

(3) When a party to a contract is entitled to cancel the contract by reason of the breach by the other, notice of cancellation should be given to the other party — If no notice is given then the breach is condoned and the contract is allowed to continue. AIR 1928 Mad 211.

(4) A breach of contract may take place before the time fixed for performance of the contract has arrived where the promisor had repudiated the contract — In such an event, the promisee may elect to sue him for breach of the contract without waiting for the time fixed for performance. The exact measure of damages upon anticipatory breach is in the ordinary case precisely the same as it would be if the repudiation were not accepted as a breach and the injured party brought suit, after the time of performance, for non-performance at the time set, i.e., though the plaintiff sues at once for an anticipatory breach of the contract his damages are to be assessed according to the cost of performance, not at the time and place of the breach but at the time and place set for performance. AIR 1921 Cal 185 (187, 189) = 48 Cal 427 (DB)  AIR

1921 Low Bur 78 (80, 81) = 11 Low Bur Rul 182 (DB). (Breach — Repudiation — Other party may sue at once or wait till the due date — Measure of damages is the same in both cases, the difference between the contract rate and the market rate on the due date.)  AIR 1917 PC 255 (257). [See however AIR 1959 Raj 264 (266) = 1959 Raj LW 620 (DB). (But where the contracts of sale and purchase are done on an exchange from day to day with respect to commodities like bullion the market value of such contract on the date of repudiation is the best basis of damages rather than the actual value of performance as proved by the event.)]

(5) Lease of dry dock — Dry dock lost through lessee's negligence before end of term — Covenant enabling lessor to sue for re-delivery on breach of certain obligations — Such breach having taken place, lessor can sue before end of term, for damages for loss of the dock and for breach of the covenants — But rent cannot be claimed for period subsequent to commencement of action. AIR 1919 PC 85 (89).

(6) A seller is not to be defeated merely by its being shown that after repudiation by the buyer he had not the goods to implement the contract actually in his physical possession — He can show that he could supply the goods contracted for either from the open market or from any other source and he would be entitled to maintain a suit for damages for wrongful repudiation. AIR 1926 Mad 410 (410) (DB).

(7) Contract to place a part of a ginning factory at plaintiff's disposal for a certain period at a fixed rate — Anticipatory breach committed—Estimate of profits is the measure of plaintiff's loss — Plaintiff need not cut down the loss by actually getting his cotton ginned in another factory. AIR 1928 PC 200 (202) = 55 Ind App 299 = 55 Cal 1048 = 24 Nag LR 154.

(8) Contract for manufacture of goods according to specifications for sale in particular market — Such market lost — Order cancelled — Manufacturer ceasing to manufacture goods and claiming damages for breach of contract at 15 per cent of contract price, which he could have earned as profits — Such method of calculation, held proper — Damages awarded at 7½ per cent. on net value of goods. AIR 1945 Mad 291 (293, 294) = ILR (1946) Mad 192 (DB).

(9) If defendant commits breach before articles to be supplied to him are not finished, damages have to be assessed on estimate of profits which plaintiff would have made had the contract been performed. (1968) 2 Andh LT 326 (344) (DB).

4. Compensation and damages.— (1) The expression compensation is not ordinarily used as an equivalent to damages, although compensation may, often, have to be measured by the same rule as damages in an action for a breach. The term compensation signifies that which is given in recompense, an equivalent rendered. Damages, on the other hand, constitute the sum of money claimed or adjudged to be paid in compensation for loss or injury sustained, the value estimated in money, of something lost or withheld. The term compensation etymologically suggests the image of balancing one thing against another. Its primary signification is equivalence, and the secondary, and more common meaning is, something given or obtained as an equivalent. AIR 1923 Cal 507 (511, 512) (DB)  AIR 1956 Hyd 12 (13) = ILR (1955) Hyd 718.

(2) The jurisprudential meaning of the word "damages" is that it is nothing more than the compensation which the Court determines in the circumstances of each case for the injury or loss which has been sustained by the other party. AIR 1956 Punj 174 (176) (DB)  AIR 1956 Nag 221 (224) = ILR (1956) Nag 411 (DB).

(3) The word "compensation" is used in Article 115 of the Limitation Act in the same sense as in Section 73, Contract Act. AIR 1956 Hyd 12 (13) = ILR (1955) Hyd 718.

(3-A) Word "compensation" includes money due under contract for its breach. AIR 1970 All 206 (210) = 1969 All LJ 718 (FB).

(4) The word "compensation" in Section 19, Specific Relief Act, 1877, should be understood in the sense of damages contemplated in Section 73, Contract Act. AIR 1955 Nag 38 (40) = ILR (1955) Nag 538 (DB).

(5) A right to indemnity is given by the original contract whereas a right to damages arises in consequence of the breach of that contract. AIR 1928 Mad 43 (44).

(6) Inasmuch as a breach of contract does not result in any existing obligation on the part of the person who commits the breach, the right to recover damages is not an actionable claim and cannot be assigned. AIR 1954 Bom 423 (425) = ILR (1954) Bom 739.

(7) A party does not get damages or compensation by reason of any existing obligation on the part of the person who has committed the breach. He gets compensation as a result of the fiat of the Court. Therefore, no liability arises till the Court has determined that the party complaining of the breach is entitled to damages. AIR 1954 Bom 423 (425, 426) = ILR (1954) Bom 739.

5. Measure of damages.— (1) It is not general intention of the law, that in giving damages for breach of contract, the party complaining should, so far as it can be done by money, be placed in the same position as he would have been in, if the contract had been performed. The rule, which prescribes as a measure of damage the difference in market prices at the respective times, is merely designed to apply this principle and it generally secures a complete indemnity to the purchaser. AIR 1947 Sind 22 (24) = ILR (1946) Kar 296 (DB)  AIR 1941 Sind 146 (150)  AIR 1922 Pat 79 (82) (DB)  AIR 1956 Trav-Co 49 (50). (But this principle is only theoretically true for in practice it is almost certain that it is impossible to restore the party who has suffered by the breach of contract to status quo ante.)  AIR 1956 Nag 221 (224) = ILR (1956) Nag 411 (DB)  AIR 1962 SC 366 (369) = (1962) 1 SCR 653  AIR 1965 Pat 179 (183) = 1965 BLJR 679 (DB)  AIR 1960 Cal 270 (278) (DB).

(2) Section 73 is merely declaratory of the common law as to damages. AIR 1957 Ker 3 (6) = ILR (1957) Ker 13 (DB).

(3) It is well settled that Courts will give damages for breach of contract only by way of compensation for loss suffered and not by way of punishment. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (541) (DB)  AIR 1963 Madh Pra 242 (245) = 1963 MPLJ 307 (DB).

(4) Amount of Rs. 1000/-, in the shape of Post Office Saving Bank Pass Book, given as security for faithful performance of contract — Amount available to satisfy any damages suffered by the other party (Madras State) in default of faithful performance of contract — State not entitled to forfeit amount even if no damage is suffered. (1968) 2 Mad LJ 359 (361, 362) = 81 Mad LW 407.

(5) Minimum charge payable under an agreement for supply of electricity is not a penalty for breach of contract to consume a stated amount of electricity — The charge is for keeping the energy available to the consumer — The levy is legal. (1969) 1 Mad LJ 69 (73, 76) = ILR (1968) 2 Mad 553.

(6) Under the terms of Sec. 73 the compensation is only for the loss actually suffered and such compensation is not to be given for any remote or indirect loss or damage sustained by reason of the breach of the contract — The section does not give any cause of action unless and until the damage is actually suffered. AIR 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB).

(7) The amount of damages to be awarded can never exceed the loss actually suffered by the claimant or, which he is likely to suffer, provided that his acts are lawful and not contrary to the law, rules or bye-laws duly enacted. Thus, where the plaintiff gave on hire his Ghumti, a temporary wooden structure, after placing it on a public road or land in contravention of the municipal law and the bye-laws and the municipal Board removed the Ghumti and misappropriated it and the plaintiff did not possess any land on which the Ghumti, if placed, could fetch any income: Held that the income derived by the plaintiff by giving the Ghumti on hire was unlawful and he could not claim the amount by way of damages. AIR 1956 Bhopal 65 (65).

(8) The quantum of damages is not a part of the cause of action. It is a matter to be ascertained by the Court according to well laid down principles of law. AIR 1951 SC 144 (151) = 1950 SCR 979.

(9) Damages for breach of contract are intended to recompense the plaintiff for the pecuniary loss that he has sustained and do not depend upon the gain that the other party might have made. AIR 1950 Mad 289 (293) = ILR (1950) Mad 697 (DB).

(10) Contractor prevented from executing work — Damages payable to the contractor, may be fixed at estimated profits after making allowance on account of release from responsibility to execute the work. (1966) 1 Mys LJ 33 (36) = (1966) 5 Law Rep 773.

(11) Under this section damages are to be awarded as compensation for any loss or damage arising naturally in the usual course of things from the breach of contract. AIR 1937 Nag 243 (245) = ILR (1938) Nag 283 (DB)  AIR 1956 Cal 41 (44) (DB)  AIR 1965 SC 1981 (1984, 1985) = (1966) 1 SCWR 7.

(12) On breach of contract the party guilty of the breach must pay the injured person such damages as may accrue within a reasonable time. AIR 1917 Pat 178 (181) (DB)  AIR 1956 Pat 441 (444).

(13) The rules applicable for determining the amount of damages for the breach of a contract to perform a specified work is that the damages are to be assessed at the pecuniary amount of the difference between the state of the plaintiff upon the breach of the contract and what it would have been if the contract had been performed and not the sum which it would cost to perform the contract though in particular cases the result of either mode of calculation may be the same. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (540).

(14) In awarding damages it is an ordinary rule that change of circumstances may be taken into consideration. AIR 1928 Bom 427 (430) = 52 Bom 883 (DB).

(15) The measure of damages varies according to, not only the time at which breach is brought, but the special circumstances of the particular case. AIR 1956 Cal 41 (44) (DB).

(16) Where the parties have themselves fixed the value of their right, that amount is a proper measure of damages sustained by a party. AIR 1915 All 40 (41).

(17) The mortgagee is entitled to damages on account of failure of the debtor to pay the debt at the stipulated time and that the measure of damages prima facie should be the same as the rate of interest agreed upon, though the Court has discretion to reduce this rate if it is found to be unusual. AIR 1922 Lah 254 (257) = 3 Lah 200 (FB)  (1929) 115 Ind Cas 26 (29) (DB) (Lah).

(18) The amount due on a debt or for damages for breach of contract or in tort is to be determined according to the rate, prevailing at the date when the cause of action arises. Where, therefore, no time for repayment of a grain loan is fixed in the bond the debt is payable on demand and the grain must be valued at the rate prevailing on date of bond. AIR 1928 Lah 949 (951) (DB).

(19) The rate of exchange prevailing on the date of judgment is not the rate applicable in a suit for damages. AIR 1921 Cal 239 (240) = 48 Cal 886.

(20) On the breach of a contract by defendants to transfer their business, including stock and outstandings, plaintiffs would be entitled to recover compensation under this section for loss or damage which resulted to them from their having been prevented from making profit which would have accrued to them if defendants had fulfilled their promise and plaintiffs had fulfilled theirs. 1889 Pun Re No. 20, p. 64 (67) (DB).

(21) Promise of a share in partnership — Breach — Measure of damages is the difference between value of plaintiff's estate after breach of promise and its value if there had been no breach. AIR 1915 Lah 243 (244) = 1915 Pun Re No. 64 (DB).

quent to suit does not affect the measure of damages. AIR 1916 Mad 926 (927) (DB).

(23) Building contract — Contractor contracting to build up building according to plan and of particular kind — Building owner appointing supervising engineer — Collusion between contractor and engineer — Building, when nearly complete found very defective as to necessitate its pulling down — Passing of running bills by engineer does not preclude owner from challenging work done — Measure of damages is amount that would be required for constructing the building agreed for. AIR 1941 Nag 111 (112, 113, 114, 116) (DB).

(24) Wrongful termination of contract for manufacture of steel bins — Measure of damages in respect of finished bins would be difference between contract price and market price of such goods at time when contract is broken and in respect of unfinished bins would be difference between contract price on one hand and cost of labour and material required for manufacture of component parts of unfinished bins on the other — In absence of market at place of delivery, market price of nearest place or price prevailing in controlling market is to be considered. (Per Ramaswami, J.) AIR 1967 SC 378 = (1967) 1 SCR 633.

(25) Where a person purchases shares on a fraudulent representation of another person, in the absence of any special circumstances the measure of damages cannot be the amount of the loss ultimately sustained by the representee. It can only be for the difference between the price, which he paid and the price which he would have received if he had resold the shares in the market forthwith after the purchase provided of course that there was a fair market then. Ordinarily, the market rate of the shares on the date when fraud was practised would represent their real price in the absence of any other circumstances. If, however, the market was vitiated or was in a state of flux or panic in consequence of the very fact that was fraudulently concealed, then the real value of the shares has to be determined on a consideration of a variety of circumstances disclosed by the evidence led by the parties. AIR 1953 SC 235 (238) = 1953 SCR 789.

(26) Contract providing measure of liquidated damages consisting of (1) difference between contract price and market price on date of default, (2) certain additional amount above that — Breach of contract — Award of maximum amount named in contract as damages is not inconsistent with S. 73.

(27) Contract for sale of shares — Breach — Seller holding on to the shares after breach cannot recover difference below market price from purchaser. AIR 1915 SC 48 (49) = 43 Ind App 6 = 43 Cal 493 = 8 Low Bur Rul 343.

(28) In cases, where the elements of fraud, oppression, malice or the like are found, the law does not confine its remedy to the payment of compensation merely proportionate to any pecuniary loss actually suffered by the injured person — It can grant vindictive or exemplary damages by way of punishment to the wrong-doer. AIR 1942 Cal 493 (495) (DB)  AIR 1933 Cal 706 (708) = 60 Cal 918. (Charge of fraud against businessman — Exemplary damages may be allowed.)

(29) A contract of hiring of machinery gave the right to the owners of the machinery even after the hiring has been terminated to claim damages in addition to the arrears of rent due on the date of the termination of the hiring for breach of the agreement. The plaintiff, the owner, claimed rent up to the date of the plaint and thereafter up to date of decree: Held that, the agreement between the parties was a hiring agreement with an option to purchase and that the proper basis for the assessment of damages for use of the machinery not delivered up to the owner in pursuance of a demand was the amount of the hire agreed upon in the agreement. AIR 1935 Mad 603 (605) (DB).

(30) Where the plaintiff gets the work done by another the measure of compensation is the increased cost of work on account of the work so done. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 533 (540).

(31) Where there has been a breach of contract which was to run for several years, and as a result of the breach the plaintiff claims damages, the right to claim damages accrues on the date of the breach though, in determining the amount, the Courts have to make an estimate of likely damage suffered by the plaintiff for the early termination of the contract and anticipate as best as they can what damages are likely to be. ILR (1954) 2 All 531 (553, 554) (DB).

(32) A plaintiff cannot be allowed to accumulate damages by his own inaction. AIR 1956 Raj 137 (139) = ILR (1956) 6 Raj 522 (DB).

(33) According to Illustration (n) to Section 73, the law in India in consonance with the rule of English law does not regard collateral or consequential damage arising from delay in the receipt of money. This principle has be-

(34) An appellate Court should as a rule be reluctant to interfere with the finding of the trial Court on the amount of damages to be awarded in a particular case. AIR 1955 Pat 215 (222) = 32 Pat 662 (DB).

6. Sale of goods — Measure of damages.— (1) The law as to damages on forward contracts may be summed up as follows: (1) Damages to be assessed with reference to the date fixed for delivery. (2) If that date is in future, the Court must estimate rate as best it can and it matters not that the estimate is to the great extent speculative. (3) If the plaintiff has rescinded the contract and the defendant proves that after rescission plaintiff has made fresh contract at better rates or that acting reasonably and as prudent man he might have made such contract this will be considered ground for abatement of damages. (4) If plaintiff after rescission makes fresh contract, he does so at his own risk and if he gets worse rate, he cannot make use of that for purpose of enhancing his damages. (1912) 6 Sind LR 187 (191).

(2) Section 56 of the Sale of Goods Act 1930 does not provide as to how damages are to be measured. Therefore, the damages are to be measured in accordance with the principles laid down in Section 73 Contract Act. ILR (1954) 4 Raj 778 (786, 787) (DB)  AIR 1960 Pat 87 (98).

(3) In an action for non-delivery or non-acceptance of goods under a contract of sale, the law does not take into account in estimating damages anything that is accidental as between the plaintiff and the defendant; as for instance an intermediate contract entered into with a third party for the purchase or sale of goods. AIR 1922 PC 178 (180) = 48 Ind App 175 = 43 All 257  AIR 1921 Sind 98 (98, 99) = 15 Sind LR 214. (Loss sustained by either party through his breach of contract with a third party cannot be recovered unless the other party is aware of it.)  AIR 1917 Low Bur 161 (162). (Profits which the plaintiff would have made out of another contract if the defendant had fulfilled his contract, can be recovered only if the defendant knew about it at the time of making the contract.)

(4) Where in the case of a c. i. f. contract, the buyer fails to accept the drafts and cannot be made to pay the price the sellers are only entitled to the difference between the contract price and the price of the goods on the date of the breach. AIR 1932 Sind 9 (15) = 26 Sind LR 167  AIR 1921 Low Bur 75 (78) = 11 Low Bur Rul 141 (DB).

(5) Goods sold under a C. I. F. contract pass to buyer on shipment by seller and the latter is not liable for subsequent damage. AIR 1917 Sind 36 (37) = 10 Sind LR 118.

(6) In the case of breach of contract of sale of goods on c. i. f. terms the amount of damage would be the difference between the contract price and the market price on the date of the breach. Where the sellers failed to tender the c. i. f. documents to the buyer and themselves cleared the goods, the breach occurred on the date on which the sellers cleared the goods as there could have been no tender of those documents after that date and not on the date on which the sellers, after clearing the goods, had shipped them to Calcutta in implementation of a different contract.

Unless there was evidence placed before the Court by the plaintiff as regards the market price at the relevant dates, there cannot be a decree for damages against the defendants. AIR 1958 Mad 43 (52) = ILR (1957) Mad 1108 (DB).

(7) The principle, by which Courts are guided in awarding damages in restitutio in integrum, and exact cost of effecting a complete restitutio in integrum, is difference between original contract rate and that at which vendor can sell to fresh purchaser goods of same quantity and quality and of same shipment. Election to take advantage of repudiation of a contract goes only to question of breach. Damages must be estimated by difference between contract price and market price at day or days appointed for performance, and not at time of breach. AIR 1914 Sind 53 (58) = 8 Sind LR 95 (DB).

(8) The market rate prevailing on the date of delivery fixed in the contract should afford the basis of ascertaining the damages. AIR 1958 Andh Pra 427 (435) (DB)  AIR 1966 SC 395 (400) = (1966) 1 SCR 580  AIR 1964 Bom 76 (81) = 65 Bom LR 516 (DB). (Where damages are awarded on any other footing, it is necessary to explain the circumstances why the criteria of market rate was not applicable to the facts of that case.)  AIR 1960 Cal 590 (592) (DB).

(9) It may be that in ascertaining the damages with reference to the market price on the date of delivery the Court may be ascertaining them without reference to the fall or rise in the market since the date of the contract. But this consideration can have no relevance to the principle on which damages are awarded. AIR 1956 Nag 221 (224) = ILR (1956) Nag 411 (DB).

B made the purchase at S and sent 2 wagons charging the "bilty cut" rate. B, however could not secure third wagon for 14 months during which the seeds were lying with B in his godown and deteriorated. After notice to A, B auctioned the stock and sued A for the difference as damages. Held, that the property in the goods not having passed to A, he was not liable for any damages. AIR 1952 Vindh Pra 62 (64).

(28) Where the contract does not provide what damages should be paid in the event of a breach it is not open to read a term into the contract that the plaintiff agreed to receive only the damages representing the profits that he might have secured in accordance with certain scheme. What has to be determined under the terms of Section 73 is the market rate of the goods prevailing on the date of the breach. ILR (1956) Andhra 502 (512) (DB).

(29) Contract — Damages — Plaintiff, asking defendant, their agent to reship goods delivered for sale in foreign country — Defendant not carrying out his instructions — Plaintiff's remedy is relief by way of damages according to market rate in that country on date of refusal. AIR 1933 Sind 247 (250) (DB).

(30) Where in a contract for sale of goods, the goods are delivered late, the measure of damages is the difference between the market price on the due date of delivery and on the day of actual delivery, as given by illustration (e) to Section 73. But this test is subject to the main section that the purchaser must prove loss or damage caused to him. Where, however the purchaser sells the goods after the late delivery, the mere difference in price on the relevant dates is not sufficient to establish the loss. The measure of loss in such a case is the difference between the market price on the due date and the price actually obtained by sale of the goods. Where the fact of sale is established but the sale price is not proved, the purchaser is not entitled to any damages. AIR 1951 Pat 219 (221) (DB).

(32) Method of assessing damages in case of a breach of contract to supply future goods is to ascertain the quantity, to ascertain the price at which, the same might have been fairly sold in the market during the season to which the contract relates, deducting from such price the ordinary charges of producing and selling the goods in question and in no case the amount awarded should exceed the amount of liquidated damages fixed by the parties. (37) Where a purchaser delays to take delivery of goods resulting in the deterioration of goods even though the property in the goods did not pass to him, he has to compensate the seller under Section 73 for any loss occasioned by the delay. AIR 1916 Sind 86 (91) = 10 Sind LR 14.

(38) On breach by purchaser, resale must be held within reasonable time. Measure of damages is difference between contract price and realization on resale with costs and expenses. (44) Merchant buying goods in Japan, and desirous of paying in rupees, entering into contract with Bank — Purchases of yen to be during specified periods at fixed rate — Bank covering itself by yen purchased against yen sold — Importer failing to pay bills by purchase of yen commits breach — Measure of damages is difference between contract rate and buying rate of yen to be purchased against yen sold. AIR 1936 Rang 269 (271) (DB).

(45) Contract to deliver goods by instalments — Seller repudiating before due date — Damages are the difference between contract price and market price at dates of delivery though last date has not elapsed at the time of action but the seller can show in mitigation that in the interval the buyer could have obtained a new contract on better terms. (48) In the case of breach of contract of sale of goods if there was an available market for the goods at the date of breach, the damages must be based on the difference between that market price and the contract price; a contract of re-sale becomes immaterial, because if there was a market, the law presumes that the buyer can minimise his damages by procuring substituted goods in the market so that he is thus in the same position, apart from the difference in price, as if the seller had not made default. (50) Where for calculating damages for breach of contract to supply goods the market price on the date of the breach is not available as no transaction took place on that date the rate that was prevalent just before and just after that date can be taken into consideration. AIR 1954 Orissa 254 (254) (DB)  AIR 1961 Pat 107 (110). (AIR 1952 Cal 441, Diss. from.)

(51) Contract to purchase Pakistan Jute — Breach of — Award of damages according to rates prevailing in Calcutta Market held proper — Export price fixed by Pakistan Government need not be taken into consideration in adjudicating damages. AIR 1968 SC 522 (528) = (1968) 1 SCR 821.

(52) Defendant contracting to deliver goods at a particular place and not aware that goods were delivered by defendant's agent to railway for transit — Contract cannot be avoided for common mistake — Defendant refusing to hand over railway receipt but selling the goods — Damages should be calculated as on the date of refusal to hand over railway receipt. AIR 1927 Bom 514 (515, 516) (DB).

(53) Goods sent by railway in pursuance of contract for sale of black-gingelly — Repudiation of contract before delivery — For assessing damages for non-acceptance of goods the time was the date when the buyer finally refused to take delivery. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 30 (35).

(54) Where the term of the plaintiff's contract, with defendants, regarding delivery, was subsequently varied and there was to be no delivery to defendants, there could not be a breach of contract on part of defendants by reason of their not taking delivery. Correct measure of damages would be such as would put plaintiffs in same position as if their contract with defendants as varied had been carried out. AIR 1920 Bom 346 (347) (DB).

(55) Plaintiff ordering goods through defendants but failing to pay the draft on due date — Defendants doing so and taking delivery of goods — Plaintiff on tendering value entitled to goods — Refusal by defendants — The plaintiff was entitled to damages, namely the difference between the market value of the goods on the day on which he sent the cheque and the amount due by him on the draft. (1921) 23 Bom LR 1108.

(56) Where property contracted to be sold to plaintiff is sold by owner to another, the measure of damages in a suit for damages on breach of contract is the difference between actual price and contracted price. AIR 1927 Lah 252 (255) (DB).

(57) Credit and debit entries in buyer's accounts, as goods were left with seller — Subsequent pledge by buyer — Buyer's suit for account — The contract being unenforceable both entries cancel each other — If debit entry represents damages for conversion, value of goods is value at time of conversion. AIR 1927 Mad 340 (342) (DB).

(58) In cases where conversion has occurred, the profit obtained by conversion is usually held to be the best evidence of the measure of damages; but the measure of damages will still be the loss sustained, by not having the property delivered at the price agreed on. A man cannot by merely changing the form of action entitle himself to recover damages greater than the amounts to which he is in law entitled according to the true facts of the case and the real nature of the transaction. The usual rule in damages is that damages should be calculated from the date of the breach. AIR 1943 Nag 141 (143) = ILR (1943) Nag 272.

(59) Where the parties knew that the agreement to purchase goods was entered into to supply to a third party under a sub-sale it is a clear case where under the terms of Section 73 itself, the party committing the breach would be liable to pay the difference between the contract rate and the sub-sale rate if the parties knew at the time of the contract that a breach thereof would result in damage. But where there was no such knowledge, the only measure is the damage which naturally arose in the usual course of things from such breach. AIR 1955 Andhra 148 (152) (DB)  1963 Mys LJ (Supp) 361 (364, 365). (AIR 1946 Nag 392, Disting.)

(60) Where according to the terms of the contract the buyer is given, on breach of the contract, a right to purchase in the market and to claim the difference, it cannot be contended that since the buyer has not proved any purchase on his part, he is not entitled to claim any damages. The buyer can claim damages on the basis of market rate. It is a right which law gives and it is not taken away by the operation of the maxim 'Expressio unius est exclusio alterius' as the maxim does not apply to the case. ILR (1951) 1 Cal 420 (431).

(61) The plaintiff, a firm of Madras, booked orders for goods of the defendants who were the manufacturers of those goods and were carrying on their business at Mirzapur. The contract was for despatch of goods f. o. r. Mirzapur, at earliest booking day, the railway receipt to be negotiated through the Bharat Bank, Ltd. It was shown that the defendants failed to despatch goods, even after many reminders of the plaintiffs on the excuse that Railway booking was not open. It was in evidence that other merchants of Mirzapur had booked their goods. The plaintiffs cancelled the contract, covered up the contract by purchasing goods in the market and sued in Madras for the difference in price as damages — Held, that damages had to be assessed according to the market rate in Madras, as the performance of the contract and the payment for the goods were at Madras and not at Mirzapur. AIR 1949 Mad 858 (859).

(62) In cases of manufacture of articles, where part of articles to be manufactured in agreement, have been manufactured, amount of damages sustained by breach of contract would be ascertained by deducting value of articles manufactured from agreed price of those articles. (1968) 2 Andh LT 326 (343) (DB).

(63) Where in respect of a contract entered into between the plaintiff and the first defendant under which the goods to be supplied by the first defendant were agreed to be delivered by a third party, the second defendant, and a sum of money was received by the second defendant in pursuance of the contract, and on failure to receive the goods the plaintiff sued for damages for breach of contract, it was held that both the defendants were liable to pay damages. 1954 Mad WN 692 (693) (DB).

(64) In a suit for damages on non-delivery of goods it is the duty of the plaintiff to satisfy the Court that he was ready and willing with the money, that he had capacity to pay, or at any rate, he had made proper and reasonable preparations and arrangements for securing the purchase money and that he demanded the goods on the due date from the defendants. AIR 1958 Punj 289 (294) = ILR (1958) Punj 1670 (DB).

(65) On the breach of an agreement for sale of shares on the part of the seller, the purchaser can sue for the money deposited for the purchase of shares and damages or for shares and damages or for interest of the money or damages. AIR 1951 Hyd 47 (49) = ILR (1951) Hyd 440.

(66) Contract for sale of shares — Breach — Suit for specific performance or in alternative for damages — Defence that relation of parties was not that of vendor and vendee but that of agent and principal held not established — Measure of damages held was difference between market rate on date of agreement and on date of filing plaintiff and not date when plaintiff abandoned relief for specific performance. AIR 1948 Mad 391 (393) (DB).

(67) Where the commission agent sells the principal's bales of cotton without any justification or cause the principal, in a suit for damages for breach of contract, cannot select the rates of cotton prevailing on any date before the suit and after the breach had occurred or after the delivery of the bales has been refused to him. The measure of damages is the amount indicated by the difference in the rate at which the bales were purchased and the rate at which they could be sold when the principal demanded their delivery and the agent failed to comply. AIR 1953 Pepsu 113 (116) (DB).

(68) The principle that for a breach of contract a party is entitled by way of damages to the difference between the contract price and the market price is not an absolute and inviolable principle. It is only a presumptive test. AIR 1955 Cal 465 (469) (DB)  ILR (1955) 1 Cal 29 (36) (DB).

(69) Where the defendant sells his property to a third person for the same price contracted with plaintiff, there is no difference in prices and hence the plaintiff is not entitled to any damages on account of the alleged breach. AIR 1955 Nag 38 (41) = ILR (1955) Nag 538 (DB).

(70) Though there might be some broad equity in calculating quantum of damages at 50 per cent of that which would be strictly due, it would not suffice as a basis for finding at law. AIR 1960 Mad 388 (390) = 1960 Mad WN 627 (DB).

(71) 11-3-1950 agreed between parties as date for ready delivery — Defendant not accepting delivery on that date — Breach of contract takes place on that date — Rate of contracted goods on 11-3-1950 being same as originally agreed between parties, plaintiff suffers no damage. AIR 1953 Ajmer 8 (1) ((8 (1))).

(72) Where the Court below reduced the damages on the ground that the plaintiff (buyer) was always asking for the goods and never for the documents and that he never tendered the price of the goods under the contract on arrival of the ship and that the plaintiff alone should have got the import license and cleared the goods, held that each one of those three grounds might in a proper case be held to negative any breach on the part of the defendants but if the defendants did break the contract, they furnished no relevant basis for reducing the quantum of

R. 99. Resistance or obstruction by bona fide claimant.—Where the Court is satisfied that the resistance or obstruction was occasioned by any person (other than the judgment-debtor) claiming in good faith to be in possession of the property on his own account or on account of some person other than the judgment-debtor, the Court shall make an order dismissing the application.

R. 104. When the certificate prescribed by S. 41 is received by the Court which sent the decree for execution, it shall cause the necessary details as to the result of execution to be entered in its register of civil suits before the papers are transmitted to the record-room.

R. 105. Every attachment of moveable property under R. 43, of negotiable instruments under Rule 51, and of immoveable property under Rule 54, shall be made through a Civil Court Amin, or bailiff, unless special reasons render it necessary that any other agency should be employed, in which case those reasons shall be stated in the handwriting of the presiding Judge himself in the order of attachment.

R. 106. When the property which it is sought to bring to sale is immovable property within the definition of the same contained in the law for the time being in force relating to the registration of documents, the decree-holder shall file with his application for an order for sale a certificate from the Sub-Registrar within whose sub-district such property is situated, showing that the Sub-Registrar has searched his book Nos. I and II and their indices for the twelve years preceding the mortgage or attachment, as the case may be, and stating the encumbrances, if any, which he has found on the property.

R. 107. Where an application is made for the sale of land or of any interest in land, the Court shall, before ordering sale thereof, call upon the parties to state whether such land is or is not ancestral land within the meaning of Notification No. 1887-I-238-10, dated 7th October 1911, of the Local Government, and shall fix a date for determining the said question.

On the day so fixed, or on any date to which the enquiry may have been adjourned, the Court may take such evidence, by affidavit or otherwise, as it may deem necessary; and may also call for a report from the Collector of the district as to whether such land or any portion thereof is ancestral land.

After considering the evidence and the report, if any, the Court shall determine whether such land, or any, and what part of it, is ancestral land.

The result of the enquiry shall be noted in an order made for the purpose by the presiding Judge in his own handwriting.

R. 108. When the property which it is sought to bring to sale is revenue-paying or revenue-free land or any interest in such land, and the decree is not sent to the Collector for execution under Section 68, the Court, before ordering sale, shall also call upon the Collector in whose district such property is situate to report whether the property is subject to any (and, if so, to what) outstanding claims on the part of Government.

R. 109. The certificate of the Sub-Registrar and the report of the Collector shall be open to the inspection of the parties or their pleaders, free of charge, between the time of the receipt by the Court and the declaration of the result of the enquiry.

No fees are payable in respect of the report by Collector.

The Court may in its discretion adjourn the enquiry, provided that the reasons for the adjournment are stated in writing and that no more adjournments are made than are necessary for the purposes of the inquiry.

R. 111. If after proclamation of the intended sale has been made any matter is brought to the notice of the Court which it considers material for purchasers to know, the Court shall cause the same to be notified to intending purchasers when the property is put up for sale.

R. 112. The costs of the proceedings under Rr. 66, 106 and 108 shall be paid in the first instance by the decree-holder; but they shall be charged as part of the costs of the execution, unless the Court, for reasons to be specified in writing, shall consider that they shall either wholly or in part be omitted therefrom.

R. 113. R. 114. Whenever guns or other arms in respect of which licences have to be taken by purchasers under the Indian Arms Act (Act No. XI of 1878) are sold by public auction in execution of decrees by order of a Civil Court, the Court directing the sale shall give due notice to the Magistrate of the district of the names and addresses of the purchasers and of the time and place of the intended delivery to the purchasers of such arms, so that proper steps may be taken by the police to enforce the requirements of the Indian Arms Act.^a

R. 115. When an application is made for the attachment of livestock or other moveable property, the decree-holder shall pay into Court in cash such sum as will cover the costs of the maintenance and custody of the property for fifteen days. If within three clear days before the expiry of any such period of fifteen days the amount of such costs for such further period as the Court may direct be not paid into Court, the Court, on receiving a report thereof from the proper officer, may issue an order for the withdrawal of the attachment and direct by whom the costs of the attachment are to be paid.

R. 116. Livestock which has been attached in execution of a decree shall ordinarily be left at the place where the attachment is made either in custody of the judgment-debtor on his furnishing security, or in that of some landholder or other respectable person willing to undertake the responsibility of its custody and to produce it when required by the Court.

R. 117. If the custody of livestock cannot be provided for in the manner described in the last preceding rule, the animals attached shall be removed to the nearest pound established under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871, and committed to the custody of the pound keeper, who shall enter in a register—

(b) the day and hour on and at which they were committed to his custody;

Order 21, Rule 116 (All) — Note 1

(1) Buffaloes attached by Court Amin under warrant of attachment in execution of decree-holder were kept in custody of the sapurdar who for want of accommodation kept them for the night in the enclosure

(c) the name of the attaching officer or his subordinate by whom they were committed to his custody; and shall give such attaching officer or subordinate a copy of the entry.

R. 118. For every animal committed to the custody of the pound-keeper as aforesaid a charge shall be levied as rent for the use of the pound for each fifteen or part of fifteen days during which such custody continues, according to the scale prescribed under S. 12 of Act No. I of 1871.

And the sums so levied shall be sent to the Municipal or District Board, or the Notified Area, as the case may be, under whose jurisdiction the pound is. (21-11-1942.)

R. 119. The pound-keeper shall take charge of, feed and water, animals attached and committed as aforesaid until they are withdrawn from his custody as hereinafter provided and he shall be entitled to be paid for their maintenance at such rates as may be, from time to time, prescribed under proper authority. Such rates shall, for animals specified in the section mentioned in the last preceding rule, not exceed the rates for the time being fixed under S. 5 of the same Act. In any case, for special reasons to be recorded in writing, the Court may require payment to be made for maintenance at higher rates than those prescribed.

R. 120. The charges herein authorized for the maintenance of livestock shall be paid to the pound-keeper by the attaching officer for the first fifteen days at the time the animals are committed to his custody, and thereafter for such further period as the Court may direct, at the commencement of such period. Payments for such maintenance so made in excess of the sum due for the number of days during which the animals may be in the custody of the pound-keeper shall be refunded by him to the attaching officer.

R. 121. Animals attached and committed as aforesaid shall not be released from custody by the pound-keeper except on the written order of the Court or of the attaching officer, or of the officer appointed to conduct the sale; the person receiving the animals, on their being so released, shall sign a receipt for them in the register mentioned in Rule 118.

Note.—The reference to Rule 118 seems to be a mistake for Rule 117.

R. 122. For the safe custody of moveable property other than livestock while under attachment the attaching officer shall, subject to approval by the Court, make such arrangements as may be most convenient and economical.

R. 123. With the permission of the Court the attaching officer may place one or more persons in special charge of such property.

R. 124. The fee for the services of each such person shall be payable in the manner prescribed in R. 116. It shall not be less than four annas and shall ordinarily not be more than six annas per diem. The Court may at its discretion allow a higher fee: but if it do so, it shall state in writing its reasons for allowing an exceptional rate.

R. 125. When the services of such person are no longer required, the attaching officer shall give him a certificate on a counterfoil form of the number of days he has served and of the amount due to him; and on the presentation of such certificate to the Court which ordered the attachment, the amount shall be paid to him in the presence of the presiding Judge:

Provided that where the amount does not exceed Rs. 5 it may be paid to the sahna^o by money order on requisition by the amin, and the presentation of the certificate may be dispensed with.

[^o] Sahnas are persons employed to watch crops.

R. 126. When in consequence of an order of attachment being withdrawn or for some other reason, the person has not been employed or has remained in charge of the property for a shorter time than that for which payment has been made in respect of his services, the fee paid shall be refunded in whole or in part, as the case may be,

R. 127. Fees paid into Court under the foregoing rules shall be entered in the Register of Petty Receipts and Repayments.

R. 128. When any sum levied under R. 119 is remitted to the treasury, it shall be accompanied by an order in triplicate (in the form given as Form 9 of the Municipal Account Code), of which one part will be forwarded by the Treasury Officials to the District or Municipal Board, as the case may be. A note that the same has been paid into the treasury as rent for the use of the pound, will be recorded on the extract from the pass-book.

R. 129. The cost of preparing attached property for sale, or of conveying it to the place where it is to be kept or sold shall be payable by the decree-holder to the attaching officer. In the event of the decree-holder failing to provide the necessary funds, the attaching officer shall report his default to the Court, and the Court may thereupon issue an order for the withdrawal of the attachment and direct by whom the costs of the attachment are to be paid.

R. 130. Nothing in these rules shall be deemed to prevent the Court from issuing and serving on the judgment-debtor simultaneously the notices required by O. 21, Rr. 22, 66 and 107.

GARNISHEE ORDERS

R. 131. The Court may, in the case of any debt due to the judgment-debtor (other than a debt secured by a mortgage or a charge or a negotiable instrument, or a debt recoverable only in a Revenue Court), or any moveable property not in the possession of the judgment-debtor, which has been attached under Rule 46 of this Order, issue a notice to any person (hereinafter called the garnishee) liable to pay such debt or to deliver or account for such moveable property, calling upon him to appear before the Court and show cause why he should not pay or deliver into Court the debt due from or the property deliverable by him to such judgment-debtor, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree and the cost of execution. (As amended on 29-3-1949.)

R. 132. If the garnishee does not forthwith or within such time as the Court may allow, pay or deliver into Court the amount due from or the property deliverable by him to the judgment-debtor, or so much as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree and the cost of execution, and does not dispute his liability to pay such debt or deliver such moveable property, or if he does not appear in answer to the notice, then the Court may order the garnishee to comply with the terms of such notice, and on such order execution may issue as though such order were a decree against him.

R. 133. If the garnishee disputes his liability the Court, instead of making such order, may order that any issue or question necessary for determining his liability be tried as though it were an issue in a suit; and upon the determination of such issue shall pass such order as shall be just. [As amended on 29-3-1949.]

Order 21, Rule 131 (All) — Note 1

(1) It is open to a prospective garnishee to make a payment of his debt to his creditor even if he knew that by making that payment he was likely in a way to affect the interest of the creditor of his creditor. AIR 1962 All 107 (108) (DB).

(2) Notice under Order 21, Rule 131 — Ex parte order dismissing objections for non-compliance with certain directions — Ex parte order subsequently recalled and objections decided on merits — Order held, could not be challenged as it did not affect merits of the matter. AIR 1962 All 107 (108) (DB).

(3) Custodian of evacuee property cannot be ordered by Civil Court under Order 21, Rule 131, to deposit the sale proceeds of evacuee property against which a claim is registered. AIR 1965 All 70 (71, 72): 1964 All LJ 132.

Order 21, Rule 133 (All) — Note 1

(1) Rule 133 does not empower the Court to direct the decree-holder or the garnishee to file a separate suit so that the issue raised may be decided in that suit. The issues have to be tried in the execution proceedings themselves. AIR 1960 All 547 (547): 1960 All LJ 123.

(2) Garnishee disputing liability — It is for him to indicate on what grounds the dispute is being raised so that specific issues could be framed with respect to questions necessary for determining the liability. AIR 1963 All 313 (318, 319): 1963 All LJ 443 (DB).

R. 134. Whenever in any proceedings under these rules it is alleged, or appears to the Court to be probable that the debt or property attached belongs to some third person, or that any third person has a lien or charge upon, or an interest in it, the Court may order such third person to appear and state the nature of his claim, if any, upon such debt or property and prove the same, if necessary. [As amended on 29-3-1949.]

R. 135. After hearing such third person, and any other person who may subsequently be ordered to appear, or in the case of such third or other person not appearing when ordered, the Court may pass such order as is hereinbefore provided or make such other order as it shall think fit, upon such terms in all cases with respect to the lien, charge or interest, if any, of such third or other person as to such Court shall seem just and reasonable.

R. 136. Payment or delivery made by the garnishee whether in execution of an order under these rules or otherwise shall be a valid discharge to him as against the judgment-debtor, or any other person ordered to appear as aforesaid, for the amount paid, delivered or realised although such order or the judgment may be set aside or reversed.

R. 137. Debts owing from a firm carrying on business within the jurisdiction of the Court may be attached under these rules, although one or more members of such firm may be resident out of the jurisdiction: Provided that any person having the control or management of the partnership business or any member of the firm within the jurisdiction is served with the garnishee order. An appearance by any member pursuant to an order shall be a sufficient appearance by the firm.

R. 138. The costs of any application under these rules and of any proceedings arising therefrom or incidental thereto, or any order made thereon, shall be in the discretion of the Court.

R. 139. (1) Where the liability of any garnishee has been tried and determined under these rules, the order shall have the same force and be subject to the same conditions as to appeal or otherwise as if it were a decree.

(2) Orders not covered by clause (1) shall be appealable as orders made in execution.

Illustration.—An application for a garnishee order is dismissed either on the ground that the debt is secured by a charge or that there is no prima facie evidence of debt due. This order is appealable as an order in execution.

R. 140. All the rules in this Court relating to service upon either plaintiffs or defendants at the address filed or subsequently altered under O. 7, or O. 8 shall apply to all proceedings taken under O. 21 or Section 47.

Insert the following as Order XXI-A:—

“ORDER XXI-A

R. 1. Every person applying to a Civil Court to attach moveable property shall, in addition to the process-fee, deposit such reasonable sum as the Court may direct, if it thinks necessary for the cost of its removal to the Court-house, for its custody, and if such property is livestock, for its maintenance according to the rates prescribed in Rule 2 of this Order. If the deposit, when ordered be not made, the attachment shall not issue. The Court may, from time to time, order the deposit of such further fees as may be necessary. In default of due payment the property shall be released from attachment.

R. 2. The following daily rates shall be chargeable for the custody and maintenance of livestock under attachment:—

Goat and pig—Annas 2 to annas 4.

Sheep—Annas 2 to annas 3.

Cow and bullock—Annas 6 to annas 10.

Calf—Annas 3 to annas 6.

Buffalo—Annas 8 to annas 12.

Horse—Annas 8 to annas 12.

Ass—Annas 3 to annas 5.

Poultry—Annas 2 to annas 3 pies 6.

Explanation.—Although the rates indicated above are regarded as reasonable, the Courts should consider individual circumstances and the local conditions and permit deposit at reduced rates where the actual expenses are likely to fall short of the minima or maxima. If any specimen or special value in any of the above classes is seized a special rate may be fixed by the Court. If any animal not specified is attached, the Court may fix the cost as a special case.

R. 3. When the property attached consists of agricultural implements or other articles which cannot conveniently be removed and the attaching officer does not act under the proviso to R. 43, O. 21, he may, unless the Court has otherwise directed, leave it in the village or place where it has been attached—

(22) The person injured by breach of contract is to be placed in the position he would have been in had the contract been performed. Of course, he is not to be put in a better position by recovery of damages for the breach of contract than he would have been in if there had been performance. The fundamental principle of law of damages within the meaning of Section 73 is, that the person injured by breach of contract shall have fair and just compensation commensurate with loss sustained in consequence of the defendant's breach of contract which gives rise to the action. This amount is to be established with reasonable certainty. AIR 1957 Madh B 53 (56) = ILR (1956) Madh B 182 (DB)  AIR 1962 SC 366 (370) = (1962) 1 SCR 653. (AIR 1957 Madh B 53, Reversed.)

(23) In a suit against the Railway for compensation on account of the loss in transit of a consignment of 3 volumes of books, which formed part of a set, the plaintiff claimed the price of the whole set on the ground that the loss of 3 volumes rendered the whole set useless. It was not proved that the Railway had knowledge that the volumes were out of a single set and that the books if lost would render the whole set entirely useless — Held, that damage which can be said to naturally arise in the usual course of things is the price of the 3 volumes. Consequently, the loss of the entire set cannot be regarded as a loss naturally arising in the usual course of things. It was not the case of the plaintiff that the Railway had knowledge that the volumes were out of a single set. Hence it cannot be said that the Railway undertook any liability for the price of the entire set in case of loss of consignment. The Railway cannot, therefore, be liable for anything more than the value of the consignment. AIR 1952 Nag 32 (33) = ILR (1952) Nag 125.

25. Default of plaintiff.— (1) Sections 73 and 74 are meant for benefit of party willing to perform contract and not for defaulting party. (1910) 33 Mad 375 (379) (DB)  AIR 1964 Mad 508 (510) = (1964) 2 Mad LJ 263.

(2) A plaintiff, who has failed to perform his part of contract and proved no damages, cannot succeed in a suit for damages for breach of the contract. AIR 1919 Cal 1000 (1000) (DB).

(3) Party to be entitled to compensation must have done something to his own prejudice in performance of his part of the contract. AIR 1934 Nag 129 (132).

(4) A party to a contract cannot be in a better position by reason of his own default than if he had fulfilled his obligations. AIR 1942 Cal 382 (384).

(5) Plaintiff's plea to benefit by his own breach of contract and enforce it against defendants cannot be allowed. AIR 1934 Lah 84 (84)  AIR 1934 Lah 845 (846) = 36 Cri L Jour 737.

(6) Breach of contract — Breach waived by lapse of time — Remedy for breach is lost. AIR 1969 Mys 310 (311) = (1969) 1 Mys LJ 237 (DB).

(7) Vendor having no goods to deliver is not entitled to compensation for vendee's refusal to take delivery. AIR 1934 Nag 129 (132).

(8) To maintain a suit for damages for alleged breach of contract, the plaintiff should have performed his part of the contract, taken possession of the land, put forward any accounts of the alleged loss and claim damages on that basis alone. It is the duty of plaintiff in such circumstances to mitigate the damages. AIR 1939 Lah 118 (122) (DB).

(9) Mere fact that party has committed breach of term of contract with reference to first instalment, in which goods are to be delivered, does not in itself entitle the other to treat the contract as at an end. But where breach has been such as goes to the root of the contract, the party in default cannot insist on remainder being carried out. AIR 1930 Cal 382 (384) (DB).

(10) A agreed to give B reasonable time to fulfil order placed with him, having regard to exigencies of B's business. The order was however given too late. B not liable to pay damages for not carrying out terms of contract. (1911) 12 Ind Cas 339 (340, 345) (Oudh).

(11) Where the plaintiff was guilty of unjustifiable conduct in not co-operating with the railway in tracing out the lost bale by helping them to identify the same etc., when requested by the railway so to do — Held, that the last day of which the market value should be taken into calculation ought to be the day on which the plaintiff would in ordinary course have received the goods if he had complied with the request of the railway and co-operated with them in tracing out the lost bale. AIR 1925 Cal 737 (739) (DB).

(12) Plaintiff agreeing to construct house for defendant according to estimated cost less certain rebate — Defendant stopping work and settling dues at certain amount — Suit by plaintiff for work actually done — Defendant cannot claim rebate proportionate to rebate upon original estimate. AIR 1938 Cal 538 (538) = ILR (1938) 2 Cal 320 (DB).

(13) The doctrine of frustration only applies if the disturbing cause goes to the extent of substantially preventing the performance of the whole contract: "interference leaving a considerable part capable of performance, will not be an excuse. AIR 1940 Pat 204 (238) = 19 Pat 1.

(14) Plaintiffs acting as commission agents of defendants in respect of purchase of textile goods — Such goods required to be kept in godown of plaintiffs before despatch to defendants — Plaintiffs agreeing to insure goods and defendants to pay for it — Goods not insured by plaintiffs destroyed by fire caused by explosion in Bombay Docks — Suit by plaintiffs to recover damages in respect of price of goods destroyed — Counter claim by defendant on ground of plaintiffs' breach of duty in not insuring goods — Measure of plaintiff's liability to defendants — Difference between compensation received under Bombay Explosion (Compensation) Ordinance, 1944, and what would have been received if insurance had been effected is to be compensation or damages. AIR 1948 Bom 133 (137) (DB).

26. Proof of damages.— (1) Section 73 makes it compulsory for the plaintiff to prove that he has suffered damage and the extent to which he has suffered before a Court can award him damages for breach of contract, and if he does not give the best evidence, every presumption should be made against him, but this does not relieve the Court altogether of the duty of assessing the damages, as best it can, on evidence and materials actually before it. AIR 1927 Sind 49 (52) = 19 Sind LR 41  AIR 1918 PC 149 (150)  AIR 1915 All 295 (297)  AIR 1965 Pat 179 (183) = 1965 BLJR 679 (DB)  (1968) 2 Andh LT 326 (348) (DB)  AIR 1964 Madh Pra 101 (109) = 1964 MPLJ 579 (DB)  AIR 1964 Pat 250 (253) = 1963 BLJR 426 (DB). (Failure to supply goods — Market price not stated in plaint — Allegation as to price at which vendee was forced to purchase goods would indicate market price and vendee would be entitled to damages on its basis.)  AIR 1963 Cal 163 (174, 175) = 1963 Cal LJ 43  AIR 1960 Pat 87 (97).

(2) Compensation cannot be granted on grounds of equity for loss of profit in the absence of proof that any damages had been sustained. AIR 1960 Punj 478 (480) = 62 Pun LR 710.

(3) In a suit for damages for a breach of contract, the defendant is entitled to know exactly what case he has to meet and he must be afforded an opportunity to investigate the details of the claim so that he can call evidence about it if he can, and so he can attack the plaintiff's estimate of damages, as well as the basis on which it is grounded. The plaintiff must consequently furnish the necessary particulars. AIR 1938 Nag 530 (531).

(4) The rule, that in a suit for work done by a contractor against his employer, it is for the plaintiff to prove his claim and if the evidence he has produced is not reliable, he can get nothing beyond what the defendant has admitted, can hardly be applied to a case where the defendant is a railway company and the defendant's measurements were not properly made and the defendant has not been able to produce all relevant materials in connection with the measurements that the defendant made. AIR 1933 Cal 165 (167) (DB).

(5) The amount of damages must be established with reasonable certainty. But this does not mean that absolute certainty is required nor, in all cases, is there a necessity for direct evidence as to the amount. Where the defendant has, by his wrong, put it out of the plaintiff's power to prove the quantum of damage exactly, the presumption is against the defendant and the burden is upon him to reduce the amount from the highest possible estimate. Only such approximation to certainty is required as would satisfy the mind of a prudent and impartial person. Where there has undoubtedly been an infringement of a right, nominal damages are recoverable even though no actual damage can be proved. AIR 1923 Cal 49 (50, 51, 52) (DB)  AIR 1963 Cal 163 (174) = 1963 Cal LJ 43  ILR (1960) 1 Cal 821 (832)  AIR 1959 Andh Pra 551 (560, 561) (DB).

(6) Where the only evidence available as regards damages is the plaintiff's own estimate about it and the defendant does not produce best evidence though within his power, adverse inference against him can be drawn. AIR 1963 Madh Pra 197 (200) = 1964 MPLJ 848 (DB).

(7) Even without amendment of plaint Court can award proper measure of damages if there is sufficient evidence on record. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 30 (35). (AIR 1924 Bom 390, Foll. ILR 39 Cal 568 Not foll.)

(8) In a breach of contract to sell immovable property, the market value of the land is what it will fetch in the open market. In such a case earlier sales of the same property or comparison with other similar plots in the locality will also help in ascertaining the value. AIR 1921 Sind 197 (199) = 15 Sind LR 21.

(9) It is open to the Judge of the Small Cause Court to assess the damages for bailee's negligence, even in the absence of more definite evidence as to the extent of the negligence which he has found to be proved. AIR 1924 Rang 356 (358).

(10) Contract for delivery at a place — Plaintiff producing no evidence to show market rate at the place — Plaintiff is not entitled to damages. AIR 1934 Lah 59 (60)  ILR (1960) Mys 990 (998) (DB).

(11) Proof of damage is necessary to enable recoverability. AIR 1948 Mad 442 (444) = ILR (1948) Mad 851 (DB)  (1969) 1 SCWR 1064.

(12) Where the plaintiff who was in possession of a temple under an agreement complained of dispossession by the defendant and claimed damages and loss suffered by him in respect of the offerings of the temple which to some extent were personal offerings and the amount whereof was uncertain and voluntary in character: Held, that whether the damages were claimed for breach of contract or in tort on the ground of wrongful deprivation of possession no decree for damages could be allowed, where there was no definite proof of loss suffered by the plaintiff. AIR 1955 Ajmer 14 (16).

(13) In a suit for damages it is for the plaintiff to adduce reliable evidence to show what damages he has suffered. AIR 1957 Pat 350 (355) = 35 Pat 967 (DB)  AIR 1966 MP 95 (102) = 1965 MPLJ 809 (DB). (Plaintiff relying on hypothetical and misleading data to prove part of damages, though in position to give better and satisfactory data — Claim for that part not allowed.)  ILR (1961) 1 Cal 389 = (1960) 64 Cal WN 992 (1006). (Market-rate which is based on a large series of transactions put through or carried on by a firm of brokers is more reliable and more truly the best evidence on the point of market-rate.)

(14) In a suit for damages for loss of goods which had been consigned under railway risk, the onus is entirely on the Railway to establish that the loss was not due to any negligence on its part. AIR 1957 Pat 328 (331) = 36 Pat 495 (DB).

27. Date when damages become due. — (1) Damages for breach of contract become due on the date when the contract is broken. AIR 1921 Lah 39 (41)  AIR 1969 Cal 496 (510) (DB). (Allegation of date of breach of contract is material and relevant in awarding damages.)  AIR 1963 Madh Pra 197 (200) = 1964 MPLJ 848 (DB)  AIR 1960 Cal 729 (733) = 64 Cal WN 475 (DB).

(2) If contract was to do work for lump sum, price could not be recovered until work was completed. (1913) 19 Ind Cas 48 (51) (Low Bur.)  AIR 1963 Ker 181 (186) = 1963 Ker LT 335.

(3) Where, even after the date originally fixed for delivery, the seller continued to supply and the purchaser to receive the contracted goods: Held, that on evidence that there was an extension of time granted, and as delivery was going on, it was not open to the seller to fall back upon the date originally fixed for delivery as the date for assessing damages. AIR 1930 Mad 624 (625) (DB)  AIR 1960 Pat 87 (97).

(4) Contract by defendant to despatch the goods purchased for the plaintiff immediately after purchase — Defendants did not do so disputing that the goods contracted for were with reference to sample but not of pure quality as claimed by plaintiff — Goods not despatched after several demands — Held the breach must be held to have occurred when the defendant disputed the quality of goods agreed to be dispatched — Damages would be the price on the date of breach of contract. AIR 1970 Pat 91 (94) (DB).

(5) Where a term in a contract provided that the delivery of the goods should be given as and when they arrived at A and the goods arrived at A on December 2, 1942 and the buyers demanded delivery on December 9, 1942 and the demand was not complied with: Held, that the contract was broken on December 2, 1942, when the delivery should have been made, and that it was the date to be taken for the assessment of damages. AIR 1944 Mad 418 (418, 419) = ILR (1945) Mad 180 (DB).

(6) Where a contract is made by defendant that certain goods shall be delivered at a certain place to the plaintiff, but the time of delivery is not given in the contract, the plaintiff cannot extend the time for delivery beyond a reasonable period so as to suit his own convenience while calculating the amount of damages for breach. But if goods are delivered and accepted after long delay, it is open to the plaintiff to say that he would put an end to the contract on a particular date so as to calculate damages from that date. AIR 1928 Mad 1232 (1234).

(7) If the buyer and the seller agrees to extend the time for performance of contract, the buyer is entitled to damages if the contract is not performed at the extended time. It does not matter that the agreement takes place after the original date of delivery has expired and when the seller has already committed breach of the contract. AIR 1959 Cal 472 (474) (DB).

(8) Where a contract is made in English currency the date for calculation of damages is the date of the breach and the date on which the rate of exchange is to be taken for conversion is the date on which the money was to be paid and that the rate of interest is that fixed in the contract. AIR 1923 Rang 265 (267, 268) = 1 Rang 339 (DB).

(9) There can be no action for breach of contract unless damage has actually been suffered. Action by the judgment-debtor therefore commenced before the judgment-debtor has paid the amount due by him to the decree-holder twice over is not maintainable. AIR 1933 All 511 (512).

(10) The section does not give any cause of action unless and until the damage is actually suffered. AIR 1946 Pat 263 (267) (DB)  (1908) 10 Bom LR 1113 (1123, 1124, 1125).

(11) Held that though the date of breach of the contract was the date of delivery, the defendants having the right to give delivery within any time till the last moment of that date until the day had elapsed, it could not be said that the defendants had committed breach of the contract. It was therefore physically impossible for the plaintiff firm to make the purchase in the market on that very day. It could not therefore be said that the plaintiff firm was under an obligation to purchase the shares on the very same day on which delivery was to be given. AIR 1954 Cal 179 (186).

(12) Goods validly seized by Forest Ranger and entrusted to a third party for safe custody — Goods tampered with while in such custody — Plaintiff-owner refusing to take delivery of goods on release, as being tampered with — For calculating damages, price on date of refusal to take delivery was taken as basis and not the price on date of seizure. (1961) 3 OJD 227 (235) = 27 Cut LT 340 (DB).

28. Suit for damages.— (1) The remedy of a suit for damages for breach of a contract need not be one of the terms of the contract but becomes available under the law in case of a breach of a contract. The ordinary remedy of a suit for damages in case of breach is not excluded merely because certain other remedies in case of breach are mentioned in the contract. AIR 1942 Pat 269 (270).

(2) The whole basis of a suit for damages is that at the date of the suit there is no pecuniary liability upon the defendant and the plaintiff has come to the court in order to establish a pecuniary liability. AIR 1954 Bom 423 (426) = ILR (1954) Bom 739.

(3) After breach of contract cause of action is no longer based on contract itself but on its breach. (1968) 70 ITR 347 (352) (Cal) (DB).

(4) Though there was no provision for payment of damages in the Essential Supplies (Temporary Powers) Act or in the Scheme of the Commissioner, the plaintiff is entitled to sue for damages under the general law of contracts. Though the contract is brought about through the medium of the Commissioner, the parties are governed by the provisions of Sale of Goods Act. ILR (1956) Andhra 502 (510) (DB).

(5) There can be no cause of action under a breach of contract unless the damage has been suffered. Merely because the decree-holder files an execution without giving credit for uncertified payments does not give cause of action to the judgment-debtor. It is only when the judgment-debtor is made to pay twice over that he suffers damages. AIR 1950 Madh B 15 (16) = 1 Madh BLR 419 (DB).

(6) The plaintiff was one of the importers appointed by Government for controlled cotton cloth and the defendant was a licensed semi-wholesale dealer. The distribution of cloth was controlled by the Textile Commissioner under the powers conferred by Section 30 Cotton Textiles (Control) Order 1948. Three bales of controlled cotton cloth were allotted by the Textile Commissioner to the defendant by means of an order. The defendant did not acquiesce in the order of allotment and refused to accept the bales, whereupon under the permission of the Textile Commissioner the plaintiff sold the bales at a loss and instituted a suit for recovery of damages which he had sustained. Held, that there was neither any condition in the licence nor was there any provision in the Control Order from which it might be inferred that the defendant entered into an obligation to pay damages to any third party. There being no contract between the plaintiff and the defendant the plaintiff had no cause of action against the defendant. AIR 1955 Vind Pra 33 (36).

(7) A part of the cause of action to sustain a suit for damages for breach of contract would certainly arise at the place where performance of the contract is provided. AIR 1949 Mad 145 (146) (DB).

(8) Suit for damages — Consignment of goods under C. I. F. or F. O. R. contract — Goods according to sample — Suit lies at place of consignment — Where goods are not according to sample, suit lies also at place of discovery. AIR 1950 Mad 768 (768, 769).

(9) Where the specific articles purchased have been shown to the purchaser at the place of contract the jurisdiction to entertain a suit for damages for supplying articles of inferior quality will only be in the courts of that place and not in courts in the place to which the articles may be subsequently consigned at the instance of the buyer. AIR 1953 Mad 389 (390).

(10) A party cannot maintain an action claiming damages for the breach of an alleged contract unless he can aver and prove that he has performed or has at all time been ready to perform his part of the contract. AIR 1947 Nag 193 (200) = ILR (1947) Nag 60 (DB)  AIR 1923 All 220 (224) (DB).

(11) The right to compensation arises coincidentally with the right to specific performance and out of the breach or non-performance of the contract of sale. Where, therefore, the purchaser sues for and obtains a decree only for the specific performance of the contract, his subsequent suit for compensation for the breach would be barred under Order 2, Rule 2, Civil P. C. AIR 1957 Andh Pra 960 (961).

(12) Valid cancellation of contract — Bad motive behind cancellation furnishes no cause of action to other party for claiming damages. AIR 1959 Andh Pra 551 (554) (DB).

(13) A suit for damages is not within the jurisdiction of the Tribunal appointed under the Displaced Person (Debts Adjustment) Act, 1951, because the word 'debt' in Section 2 (6) of that Act does not include damages for breach of contract. AIR 1956 Punj 174 (177) (DB).  AIR 1961 Punj 340 (349) = 63 Punj LR 275 (FB). (AIR 1960 Punj 291, Disapproved; AIR 1956 Punj 174 and F. A. F. O. No. 87 of 1953 (Punj), Approved.)

29. Limitation.— (1) A suit for damages for breach of contract of marriage is governed by Article 115, Limitation Act. AIR 1953 Madh B 91 (93) = ILR (1952) Madh B 322 (DB).

(2) To a suit for damages for breach of express covenant of indemnity in a sale deed the article applicable is Article 116 read with Article 83 of the Limitation Act and the limitation will run from the date of disturbance. AIR 1958 Ker 322 (324) = ILR (1958) Ker 27 (DB).

(3) A suit for recovery of money in respect of realisation by the decree-holder of the decretal dues paid twice over is a suit for damages for breach of an implied contract by the decree-holder to get the payments certified and not to execute the decree and the article applicable is Article 115 or possibly Article 97. AIR 1951 Pat 348 (349) = 28 Pat 974 (DB).

(4) Suit for loss sustained after resale of goods — Suit is governed by Article 115 of Limitation Act and is to be instituted within 3 years of date of breach of contract. AIR 1960 Mad 480 (482) = 1960 Mad WN 489 (DB).

(5) Article 65 of Limitation Act (1908) is applicable to cases of breach of contracts under Section 73 also. 1959 Raj LW 46 (49) = ILR (1959) 9 Raj 17.

(6) Where the contract itself is void, cause of action cannot be breach of any contract; consequently limitation in such case is governed by Article 120 and not Article 115. AIR 1964 Pat 225 (DB).

30. Suit for specific performance.—

(1) Where a plaintiff claiming specific performance prays in the alternative for the return of moneys expended by him and for other proper relief, the prayer is wide enough to include a claim for compensation for breach of contract in substitution for its performance. 1891 Punj Re No. 83, p. 408 (413) (DB). (Sale-deed not registered — Suit for specific performance — Although proof of contract is excluded, compensation for breach may be given.)

(2) Specific performance not granted for special reasons to party entitled, party is entitled to damages in lieu thereof. AIR 1924 Lah 163 (165).

(3) Where there is a breach of contract to sell, the plaintiff can sue for specific performance or alternatively for damages. The plaintiff is entitled even at the trial to elect whichever of the two remedies would be advantageous to him and if he abandons the relief for specific performance, the suit must be treated as a suit for damages. AIR 1948 Mad 216 (217)  AIR 1965 Mad 85 (86, 87) = (1965) 1 Mad LJ 362 (DB). (Contract for sale — Claim for damages by purchaser — No suit for specific performance can be maintained by him, thereafter.)

(4) There is a distinction between damages for breach of a contract which can only be claimed under the Contract Act and damages in substitution for specific performance the claim for which Section 19 of the Specific Relief Act permits. The two claims are based on entirely different considerations. Compensation in substitution for specific performance is granted where the Court could have granted specific performance but declines in its discretion to do so. ILR (1952) 1 Cal 27 (32) (DB).

(5) While awarding the amount of compensation under Section 19 of the

Section 73 — Note 30 (contd.)

Specific Relief Act. the Court has ordinarily no alternative but to act on the principles contained in Section 73 of the Contract Act. AIR 1963 Pat 298 (302) (DB).

(6) Whether the claim is for specific performance or for damages, the cause of action is breach of contract. The reliefs follow as a consequence of the breach of contract. If the party aggrieved is ready and willing to carry out his part and the party complained against commits the breach then the party aggrieved may either sue for specific performance or for damages. Moreover a claim for specific performance under the Specific Relief Act can co-exist with a claim for damages under the Contract Act and claim under one Act cannot preclude claim under the other so long as the requirements of the respective statutes are satisfied. In a proper case, therefore, a plaint for specific performance can be converted by amendment into a claim for damages for breach of contract. AIR 1952 Cal 78 (81) = ILR (1951) 2 Cal 376.

(7) Contract of sale of house on plot granted by Government — Term that vendor shall obtain necessary permission from Government before sale — Vendor making application but withdrawing the same — Specific performance held was enforceable — Permission for sale if refused, damages could be granted. AIR 1964 SC 978 (980) = (1964) 2 SCR 495.

31. Defences to suit for damages.— (1) Where the buyer wrongfully cancels the contract without justification, he cannot set up any defence which he might otherwise have done to any action for damages. AIR 1920 Bom 181 (182).

(2) A party, who by his conduct makes a performance of the contract impossible, is deprived of his rights to recover anything by way of damages from the other party. AIR 1925 Nag 119 (120).

(3) Where there is a contract subject to condition that the plaintiff may, upon a breach of it, treat it as cancelled and not ask for damages, the defendants are bound to justify their refusal to perform the contract since they cannot themselves bring about the state of affairs which would avoid the contract. AIR 1926 Nag 435 (442)  AIR 1922 Bom 44 (44, 45) = 46 Bom 806 (DB).

(4) Claim for damages for breach of contract entered into against provisions of law is not maintainable for no party can claim any rights in respect of such contract. AIR 1969 SC 504 (513) =

(1969) 2 SCJ 313. (AIR 1962 Ker 92, Reversed.)

(5) A plea under Explanation to Section 73 does involve questions of fact. Therefore, the defendant cannot be allowed to raise such plea for the first time at appellate stage. AIR 1960 Ker 139 (140) = 1959 Ker LT 941 (DB).

32. "Obligation resembling those created by contract."— (1) I, under-proprietor of entire village, selling some land to defendants — Subsequently J mortgaging all his interest in village to plaintiff — Mortgagor to pay revenue then payable and any amount by which it might be enhanced at any future settlement — Settlement officer, subsequently, enhancing amount of rent payable to superior proprietor by defendants — Plaintiff being required to pay whole of under-proprietary rent to superior proprietor, claiming against defendants amount of enhanced rent — Defendants, held, were under "obligation resembling those created by contract" within Section 73, and were, therefore, liable as in an action for damages for breach of express contract. (1903) 6 Oudh Cas 346 (350).

(2) It is clear from the expression "as if in para. 3 of Section 73 that a party who is ultimately injured on account of failure to discharge a liability under Section 72 has a right to enforce that liability against a person who is guilty of default in performance of an obligation. AIR 1963 Raj 198 (201) = 1963 Raj LW 304. (Postal employee making over payment under bona fide mistake of fact while discharging postal cash certificate — Amount recovered from his salary by postal department — He is entitled to sue payee for recovery of excess payment.)

(3) When a payment is made by the judgment-debtor to the decree-holder, there is an implied understanding between the parties that the decree-holder shall credit that amount towards the decree and in case of his not giving a credit of that amount towards the decree, he shall refund the amount to the judgment-debtor. A decree-holder by not giving credit of the amount received by him out of Court and by filing an execution petition for the recovery of such amount contravenes the implied understanding of the parties and he should be made to refund the amount. The judgment-debtor need not wait till the decree-holder recovers the amount twice over in order to entitle him to file a suit for the refund of the amount already paid by him. The amount already paid may be regarded as loss sustained by the judgment-debtor in such a case and it may, therefore, form part of the damages which may be awarded to the judgment-debtor. ILR (1952) 2 Raj 731 (740) (DB).

33. Plaintiff's duty to mitigate loss — Explanation.— (1) Implementing of contract is a part of the general law and is also recognised by the explanation to Section 73 of the Act. AIR 1923 Rang 84 (85) = 11 Low Bur Rul 326 (DB).

(2) The explanation to Section 73 casts a burden upon the person complaining of the breach of contract to show that he did not possess means of remedying the inconvenience caused by the non-performance of the contract. AIR 1943 Oudh 17 (22) = 18 Luck 327 (DB)  AIR 1963 Madh Pra 242 (245, 246) = 1963 MPLJ 307 (DB). (Contract with Government to collect lac, rescinded by contractor — Government must hold re-auction — Contractor entitled to benefit from failure to hold re-auction.)

(3) Though in case of a breach of contract, the plaintiff is entitled as far as possible, to be put in the same position as he would have been in case the contract had been carried out and get all such damages as naturally flow from the defendant's failure to perform his part of the contract and are not too remote, the plaintiff is under an obligation to mitigate the damages as far as possible. (4) There is a duty cast upon the plaintiff to minimise the damage, if he could, but the burden of proving that the plaintiff had the means available, and did not take steps to avail himself of the means would lie heavily on the defendant. AIR 1925 Rang 261 (262, 263) (DB).

(5) Tenant agreeing to pay Government revenue and cess failing to pay it — Landlord having notice of intended sale but taking no steps to avoid it by paying necessary dues — Sale taking place — Landlord is entitled to damages for breach of contract. (6) Party is not entitled to damages for breach of contract if he might have avoided loss by the use of reasonable precautions. AIR 1915 Cal 601 (605) (DB)  (1966) 7 Guj LR 512 (530) = ILR (1966) Guj 426.

(7) A plaintiff who sues for damages owes the duty of taking all reasonable steps to mitigate the loss consequent upon the breach and cannot claim as damages any sum which is due to his own neglect. AIR 1925 Bom 28 (30, 31) = 49 Bom 25 (DB)  AIR 1956 Bhopal 65 (65)  AIR 1969 Bom 373 (381) = 1969 Lab IC 1324  (1969) 71 Pun LR 566 = 1969 Cur LJ 494 (499) (DB)  (1966) 7 Guj LR 512 (530) = ILR (1966) Guj 426  AIR 1963 Madh Pra 242 (245) = 1963 MPLJ 307 (DB).

(8) The duty to minimise damages arises where breach has occurred. AIR 1924 Cal 427 (432) (DB).

(9) It is the duty of a Court to consider the question of mitigation of damages while assessing the quantum of damages in a suit based on breach of a contract, 1969 Cur LJ 494 (498) = 71 Punj LR 566 (DB).

(10) Where plaintiffs could have taken delivery earlier and avoided deterioration of goods, it was held that they had failed to do what they might have done to "remedy the inconvenience." (1911) 9 Ind Cas 470 (471) (Low Bur)  ILR (1954) 4 Raj 778 (793) (DB).

(11) If at the date of breach plaintiff could do something to mitigate damage, defendant is entitled to benefit of it. But the fact that by reason of loss of contract which defendant has failed to perform plaintiff obtains the benefit of another contract which is of value to him does not entitle the defendant to the benefit of the latter contract. AIR 1915 PC 48 (49, 50) = 43 Cal 493 = 8 Low Bur Rul 343 = 43 Ind App 6.

(12) Principle on which damages for breach of contract are assessed is laid down in Section 73, and explanation to that section shows that means which existed for remedying the inconvenience caused should be taken into consideration. (13) It is undoubtedly the duty of a plaintiff to mitigate the damages caused by the defendant's breach. The plaintiff cannot claim to be compensated for loss which was due to his own failure to behave reasonably after the breach. The test to determine whether his behaviour was reasonable is to see whether he did what a prudent man might have reasonably done if the whole expense was to fall on himself. The plaintiff must not have acted in a way legitimately open to blame. The rule must be applied with discretion because the party who is already in the wrong by breaking the contract is not entitled to impose new and extraordi-

(15) It is the duty of the judgment-debtor to have the adjustment of payment certified. If he does so, he would suffer no damage. If he fails to do so when it is in his power, he puts himself out of Court as regards his claim for damages. AIR 1950 Madh B 15 (16) = 1 Madh BLR 419 (DB).

(16) A servant's duty is to minimise the damages and for this purpose to seek and accept suitable employment but he is not expected to accept an engagement in a lower status, and this will be taken into consideration in the calculation of the damages.

The question what is reasonable for a plaintiff to do in mitigation of damages is not question of law, but one of fact in the circumstances of each particular case the burden of proof being upon the defendant. AIR 1960 Cal 214 (219).

19. Penal stipulations — Illustrative cases.

1. Penalty and liquidated damages — General. — (1) A penal stipulation cannot be enforced. Liquidated damages must be the result of a "genuine pre-estimate of damages." They do not include a sum fixed in terrorem. AIR 1941 PC 101 (103)  AIR 1955 Pat 215 (221) = 32 Pat 662 (DB)  AIR 1954 Madh B 84 (86) = ILR (1953) Madh B 198  AIR 1965 Andh Pra 33 (35, 36) = (1964) 1 Andh WR 69 (DB).

(2) Penalty differs from stipulated damages within the meaning of S. 74. The essence of liquidated damages is a genuine pre-estimate of damage which is agreed upon while the essence of a penalty is a stipulation in terrorem of the offending party. 1961 Jab LJ 141 = 1960 MPLJ 1379.

(3) The distinction between penalty and liquidated damages has been abolished by the Indian Contract Act and now in every case (except bail bonds or where the bond is given for the performance of any public duty or act in which the public are interested, in which a sum exceeding the amount so named or, as the case may be, the penalty stipulated for.

Explanation.—A stipulation for increased interest from the date of default may be a stipulation by way of penalty.]

Exception.—When any person enters into any bail-bond, recognizance or other instrument of the same nature, or under the provisions of any law, or under the orders of the †[Central Government] or of any §[State] Government, gives any bond for the performance of any public duty or act in which the public are interested, he shall be liable, upon breach of the condition of any such instrument, to pay the whole sum mentioned therein.*†

Explanation.—A person who enters into a contract with Government does not necessarily thereby undertake any public duty, or promise to do an act in which the public are interested.

(4) The word penal implies that there is a main contract and a subsidiary contract, providing for some more drastic consequences (e.g., liability to pay something more than the debtor would be liable to pay under the primary contract) in the event of the breach of the original and main contract. AIR 1919 Mad 200 (201)  AIR 1934 Mad 31 (36) (DB)  AIR 1933 Oudh 291 (295) = 8 Luck 707 (DB). (The term penalty cannot be properly applied where all that is agreed between the parties is that they shall revert to situation existing immediately prior to the new agreement, even though that may involve liability on the part of one of them for a sum greater than if he had carried out the agreement.)]

(6) In deciding the question whether the sum mentioned in a clause is a penalty or liquidated damages in a given case the Court must take into consideration the intention of the parties, as evidenced by their language and the circumstances of the case. AIR 1960 Pat 87 (91)  AIR 1958 Andh Pra 598 (604) = (1958) 1 Andh WR 255.

(7) If the sum is imposed as security for the due performance of the contract it is a penalty. The essence of a penalty is a payment of money stipulated as in terrorem of the offending party; the essence of liquidated damages is a genuine covenanted pre-estimate of damage. AIR 1960 Pat 87 (91).

penalty clause — Neither party having any intention of enforcing it at all — Defendant railway seeking to show that it is liquidated damages — Onus is on Railway to prove that such is the intention. AIR 1960 Pat 87 (94).

1-A. "Stipulation by way of penalty" — General. — (1) The addition of the words "or if the contract contains any other stipulation by way of penalty" to S. 74, by Amendment Act in 1899 has considerably enlarged the scope of the section and has the effect of getting rid of all subtle technicalities on the application of the equitable principle regulating the duty of the Court to relieve against penalties. AIR 1917 Mad 5 (6) (DB).

(2) There cannot be a stipulation by way of penalty unless there is another antecedent promise. For a sum to be treated as a penalty it must be an amount to be paid in case of a breach of an antecedent promise. AIR 1918 Mad 574 (576) (DB). (Contract to pay heavy rate of interest is not by itself a stipulation by way of penalty and cannot be relieved against under S. 74.)

(3) Penalty in Section 74 means only a separate payment — Re-taking of chattel and retention of moneys already paid under seizure clause in hire-purchase agreement is not separate and extraneous payment and does not amount to a penalty within the meaning of Section 74. AIR 1930 Rang 193 (196) = 8 Rang 236 (DB).

"Penalty".

(4) Where the rights and liabilities of the parties are regulated by contract, the terms of which could not be said to have been unfair at the date when the contract was entered into, the principle of natural justice cannot be invoked to relieve one of the parties of some hardship which might have been provided against in the contract, but which the parties have omitted to provide for. AIR 1936 Pat 341 (343, 344) = 15 Pat 594 (SB).

(5) Penalty clause does not deprive creditor of right to reasonable compensation. AIR 1923 Nag 98 (99).

(6) An agreement which carries a penal clause, such as may be covered by Section 74 of Contract Act, is not in any sense of the term 'unlawful.' AIR 1926 All 278 (280) (DB).

(7) Section 74 does not only speak of all agreements that are unreasonable but speaks of all agreements in which the damages to be paid for breach of contract are stated as a certain sum of money or are otherwise specified. AIR 1926 Nag 473 (474).

[See also AIR 1920 Oudh 180 (182) = 23 Oudh Cas 118 (DB). (S. 74 is not restricted to money, increased interest or the like. It can include any other stipulation by way of penalty, for instance, a stipulation to convey certain property, on default of payment of a debt on a fixed date.)  AIR 1917 Mad 405 (406) (DB).]

[But see (1903) 6 Oudh Cas 167 (170). (Section 74 was applicable only to cases in which pecuniary compensation was sought for breach of contract.)

(7-A) The expression "the contract contains any other stipulation by way of penalty" comprehensively applies to every covenant involving a penalty whether it is for payment on breach of contract of money or delivery of property in future or for forfeiture of right to money or other property already delivered. AIR 1963 SC 1405 (1410, 1411) = (1964) 1 SCR 515. (AIR 1952 Bom 310 and AIR 1915 Mad 896 (FB), Overruled.)

(8) If a clause was in the nature of a penalty, it can be relieved against even if it was contained in a family settlement. AIR 1953 All 559 (563) = ILR (1954) 2 All 495 (DB).

(8-A) Where under an agreement an option to a vendor is reserved for repurchasing the property sold by him the option is in the nature of a concession or privilege and may be exercised on strict fulfilment of the condition on the fulfilment of which it is made exercisable. Refusal to enforce the term specifically for failure to abide by the condition does not amount to enforcement of a penalty and the Court has no power to afford relief against the forfeiture arising as a result of breach of such condition. AIR 1963 SC 1182 (1184) = (1962) Supp 3 SCR 476.

(9) In suit by legal practitioner for recovery of any fees due to him from his client as per agreement between them, Section 4 of the Legal Practitioners (Fees) Act (1926) excludes the operation of Section 74 of the Contract Act. AIR 1956 Raj 25 (27) = ILR (1955) 5 Raj 753.

(10) Section 74 dealing with promises to pay specified sums upon the breach of a contract, does not apply to cases of forfeiture of the deposits for breaches of stipulations even when some of them be trifling and some are not. 1960 Jab LJ 536 (538).

(11) The Contract Act is meant to cover contracts between the parties and not statutory provisions enacted by competent legislature e.g. Rule 90 of the Displaced Persons (Compensation and Rehabilitation) Rules which is a statutory provision. 1965 Pun LR (Supp) 170 (172).

1-B. Unconscionable agreement — Test. — (1) Whatever may be the expression used in a contract in describing the payment to be made in case of a breach, the question must always be whether the construction contended for renders the agreement unconscionable and extravagant, and one which no Court ought to allow to be enforced. (1912) 16 Cal WN 697 (700) (PC). (Case from Ceylon.)  AIR 1925 Mad 177 (179). (Where reasonable compensation for breach is provided, there is no penalty; but where it

(2) Questions as to unconscionable bargains must be decided on the provisions of the Contract Act, as amended in 1899 and on these alone. Principles of the English Courts of Equity are entirely inapplicable. AIR 1918 PC 249 (250, 251) = 1918 Pun Re No. 124.

(3) It is impossible to lay down any abstract rule as to what may or may not be extravagant, or unconscionable. 8. "Reasonable compensation". — (1) Section 74 recognises the right to reasonable compensation on breach of contract, which must mean some sort of compensation however small. (2) It is only in cases where the damages are by way of penalty that the Court has the power under Section 74 to fix reasonable damages. (1966) 68 Pun LR 619 (620). (AIR 1962 SC 1314 and AIR 1963 SC 1405, Followed.)

(3) Whatever the distinction between liquidated damages and penalty may be, Section 74 is broad enough to include both classes of cases and the section gives wide discretion to the Court, in the assessment of damages, even in cases, where the parties to the contract have, in anticipation of the breach, expressly determined by agreement the sum payable as damages for the breach. Court is not bound to award the entire amount agreed upon and at the same time cannot decree damages exceeding the amount previously agreed upon by the parties. There is no specific limitation for the reduction of amount payable as damages, though the words "reasonable compensation" necessarily imply that the discretion must be exercised with care, caution and on sound principles. (4) Where the parties have deliberately specified the amount of liquidated damages there can be no presumption that they at the same time, intended to allow the party who has suffered by the breach to give a go by to the sum specified and claim instead a sum of money which was not ascertained or ascertainable at the date of the breach. AIR 1962 SC 1314 (1319) = (1962) Supp (3) SCR 549 = 65 Bom LR 267.

10. Instalments — Illustrations (f) and (g). — (1) The principle underlying illustration (f) is that the whole of the debt being payable immediately the creditor agrees with the debtor to allow him to pay the amount by instalments so long as he pays them regularly. But the principle underlying Illust. (g) is that debtor by paying consideration gets the right to retain and use the amount of each instalment until the date of its becoming due and payable. If therefore in such a case the debtor commits breach and fails to pay one instalment, no doubt he becomes liable to pay to the creditor damages for breach but to be called upon to pay the whole of the balance in spite of the fact that he has given consideration for withholding the amounts of the other instalments till their respective due dates, would be in the nature of a penalty. AIR 1925 Mad 177 (180).

(2) An agreement to pay an amount by a given date with condition that on default a larger sum shall be paid is in the nature of a penalty. But if there is an agreement to pay a particular sum followed by a condition allowing to the debtor, as for example, the payment of a lesser sum or payment by instalment by a particular date or dates, then the party seeking to avail of the concession must carry out strictly the conditions on which it was granted and there is no power in the Court to relieve him from this obligation. (8) Whether some amount is paid by way of earnest money or kept in deposit for the due performance of any obligation under the contract, it is always for the Court to determine under Section 74 what amount, if any, would be "reasonable compensation" under the circumstances of a particular case. (11) An advance paid in respect of a contract of sale is not liable to forfeiture on default like earnest money. (What in fact constitutes an earnest money is the inherent character of the deposit made and not the name given to it.)

(12) Whether payment made as advance under a contract of sale is earnest to ensure due performance of the contract or not is a mixed question of law and fact and has to be ascertained by reference to the proportion the amount bears to the total sale price, the need to take a deposit intended to act as in terrorem, the nature of the contract and other circumstances not capable of being exhaustively listed. ILR (1966) 1 Mad 114 (117).

(13) There is distinction between the penalty for breach of contract and the forfeiture of a deposit of earnest money. When the latter is a payment actually made, the former is compensation for breach, Section 74 deals with compensation for breach. AIR 1930 Bom 213 (215) (DB)  AIR 1954 Madh B 134 (135)  ILR (1950) Nag 625 (629) (DB)  AIR 1947 Nag 193 (200) = ILR (1947) Nag 60 (DB)  1967 All LJ 126 (129, 130) = ILR (1966) 2 All 307 (DB)  AIR 1966 Orissa 76 (79) = 32 Cut LT 521.

(14) To come within the principles applicable to earnest money, a deposit must be paid at the time of entering upon the bargain. Those principles cannot be applied to any future payment to be made under the contract. An earnest is something paid or given at the time of the bargain to show that negotiation had been changed into a binding contract, and as a pledge for its due performance by the depositor to be forfeited in case of non-performance by his default. (15) Deposit of some amount by a purchaser serves two purposes, if the purchase is carried out it goes against the purchase money but its primary purpose is that it is a guarantee that the purchaser means business. 1960 Jab LJ 536 (538)  AIR 1960 Andh Pra 515 (516)  AIR 1960 Punj 51 (55).

(16) The rule as to penalty dealt with in Section 74 is not applicable to cases of forfeiture of deposits made for the due performance of a contract. Where the instrument refers to some deposit as a guarantee for the performance of the contract, the party in default cannot claim a refund of the deposit, since such a deposit operates as motive to the parties to carry out the obligations under the contract. AIR 1963 Andh Pra 71 (71, 72) = (1962) 2 Andh WR 254.

(17) The rule of law applicable to cases of sale which forfeits the deposit in case of contract equally applies to leases also and there is no essential difference in the characteristics attached to each of these kinds of contracts. (Where there is an express provision in the contract of lease which stipulates that the deposit which is a part of the rent will be forfeited on the breach of any of the conditions of the lease deed the contract must be given effect to without reference to Section 74 of the Contract Act: 16 Mad 474, Overruled.)  AIR 1938 Lah 62 (63) (DB).

(18) Where in an auction of the leasehold rights for a long number of years, the highest bidder deposited one-fourth of the price 'on account of premium' and 'in part payment' subject to sanction the deposit of the 'bid money' was only towards part payment of the sale consideration and not an earnest money or a guarantee for the due performance of the contract. 1967 All LJ 126 (135) = ILR (1966) 2 All 307 (DB).

In case of breach, in a suit by the other party for damages, credit for the amount forfeited must be given. Only the difference between the actual loss and the amount forfeited can be recovered. (3) The true test for deciding the question whether the provision relating to the payment of a larger amount than the amount decreed on compromise on default by the judgment-debtor to perform any of the conditions of the decree is or is not a penal clause depends on a determination of the question whether or not the larger amount was actually due to the decree-holder at the time of the compromise; in other words, whether the decree-holder is merely withdrawing a conditional concession granted by him to the judgment-debtor or whether he is attempting to recover an amount which was not actually due to him. AIR 1927 Lah 659 (662).

(4) Where a consent decree provides that in default of payment by the defendant on certain date of a certain smaller sum of money than is claimed to be due, the defendant shall pay to the plaintiff the larger sum claimed and which is really due plus the costs of the suit with interest at 9 per cent. per annum, time is not only the essence of such contract but it is also its whole consideration and such decree cannot amount to a penalty. AIR 1929 Sind 98 (100, 102) = 23 Sind LR 375 (DB)  AIR 1957 Pat 542 (544) (DB)  AIR 1957 Raj 378 (382) = ILR (1957) 7 Raj 276  Madh BLJ 1954 HCR 569 (573)  1948 Jaipur LR 39 (43) (DB).

[See also 1961 Jab LJ 141 = 1960 MPLJ 1379. (Clause in compromise decree to pay Rs. 500/- more held to be penal.)]

(5) Where according to a compromise a suit is decreed for the whole amount claimed but a provision is made that if a smaller amount is paid within a stipulated time, the decree-holder would accept it in lieu of his whole claim, the provision for payment of the whole amount in case of default in the payment of the smaller amount is not a penal stipulation. (6) Stipulation in compromise decree that appeal would stand dismissed in the event of failure to pay anyone of the instalments on the due dates is penal in character. (1968) 1 SCWR 45 (47, 48) = 1968 SCD 309.

(7) Compromise mortgage decree — Provision to pay by instalments — In default whole amount realisable by sale of property without getting final decree — Instalment due on a particular date not paid — Permission to deposit money within three days granted — Money accordingly deposited — Notice issued to decree-holder — Held, judgment-debtor could not derive benefit of Order 34, Rule 4 (2), Civil P. C. — Held, further that provision to sell property in case of default in payment of instalment, not being penal, could not be relieved against. AIR 1934 Oudh 44 (45) = 9 Luck 387 (DB).

(8) Where in execution of a consent decree, the executing Court decides that a certain clause in the decree is not penal and does not fall under Sec. 74 of the Contract Act, and there has been no appeal from the decision, the question cannot be gone into in subsequent execution, even though reliance is placed not on Section 74 of Contract Act but generally on Section 47 of the Civil P. C. AIR 1946 Sind 150 (151, 152) = ILR (1946) Kar 132.

(9) By a compromise, time for payment of the amount that was settled was extended upto 3-11-1948. The circumstances however indicated that the parties really intended to reduce the amount of the liability and the time that was granted for payment was not of the essence of the contract. The parties never intended to apply the condition rigidly and the liability to pay on default the amount due under the decree was only meant to secure the performance of the agreement: Held, that the condition was in the nature of a penalty and could be relieved against under Section 74 of the Contract Act. AIR 1958 Madh Pra 333 (337) (DB).

(10) Executing Court has power to grant relief against penalty embodied in decree on the equitable principle underlying S. 74 and relieve one of the parties to the contract against any term which operates as a penalty although the contract may have been embodied in a decree of the Court. (11) Suit for specific performance of sale — Compromise decree — On default of deposit of price by plaintiff the suit to stand dismissed — The clause is in the nature of penalty — The defendant is entitled only to reasonable compensation. 1969 All LJ 279 (283).

17. Chit fund. — (1) Terms of a chit fund can be penal. AIR 1927 Mad 1105 (1107).

(2) In order to determine whether a clause in a bond by the bidder in the case of a chit fund transaction is a penalty or not, it is irrelevant to consider whether the amount of the chit that he buys and the amount of the instalments that he undertakes to pay are or are not the same. To hold that the obligation to pay the lump sum on failure to pay an instalment is a penalty would have the effect of relieving the purchaser of the chit fund from his obligation to carry out the contract that he has made and to pay the consideration that he has offered at the time of the auction. It can make no difference that the amount of the bond is larger than the amount of the chit fund. AIR 1935 Mad 385 (386) (DB).

(3) Chit fund — Subscriber buying the chit — Security bond in favour of stakeholder — Provision to pay all future instalments in lump on default to pay any, not penal. AIR 1933 Mad 657 (658) (DB)  AIR 1933 Mad 252 (255) (DB).

(4) Where a chit agreement provided that in case the subscribers failed to pay their subscriptions regularly, they were not only to forfeit the dividend but were also to pay the whole amount on demand with interest thereon from the

18. Landlord and tenant. — (1) Kabuliat — Covenant to pay higher rent if the lessee continues in possession after the term provided by the kabuliat expires — Case does not come within the meaning of Section 74 because it is not an attempted enforcement of the payment of a sum of money on failure to perform an act which the party has contracted nor a penalty payable on the performance of an act forbidden by the contract. AIR 1928 Pat 62 (63)  AIR 1934 All 115 (116, 117). (2) Landlord and tenant — Increased rent reserved in case lessee commits breach of covenant in lease deed — Such increased rent is not penalty but is in nature of liquidated damages — Acceptance of original rent by lessor with knowledge of breach — He does not lose his right to recover higher rent subsequently though he cannot recover for periods for which he has already received lower rent — Even if it is penalty, Courts cannot relieve against it. AIR 1935 Mad 335 (337) = 58 Mad 856.

AIR 1961 J and K 39 (41) (DB).

(7) Although the Courts should not lightly interfere with contracts between landlords and tenants in case of permanent mokarrari leases, a stipulation to pay 75 per cent. interest besides full damages is an unconscionable one and should not be enforced. AIR 1916 Cal 166 (168) (DB). (Richardson J. dissenting:— Stipulation ought to be enforced according to its true construction. The mere fact that the interest is high is, in the circumstances, no ground for relief.)  AIR 1920 Pat 97 (102) = 5 Pat LJ 302 (DB). (The provision for the payment by the tenant of any damages that may be fixed by the landlord for cutting trees on the holding or their value is penal.)

(8) Stipulation to forfeit 6 months' rent, held as deposit, on breach of terms held not penal as Section 74 does not apply to forfeiture of deposit. Unreasonableness of the amount is the test of penalty. AIR 1918 Mad 36 (37) (DB).

AIR 1929 Mad 783 (784).

(13) Deposit in a lease contract interest on which is to be credited towards rent and the deposit to satisfy arrears of rent is no legal deposit where there was no recitation of forfeiture in the contract. AIR 1929 Mad 817 (818, 819) = 53 Mad 141 (DB).

(14) Provisions in a lease for a term intended to secure vacant possession cannot be taken to be penal provisions. Terms as to forfeiture are by no means unusual or extraordinary in a lease, especially when there are conditions in the lease which are very liberal. AIR 1949 Cal 47 (54) (DB).

(15) In lease of brick fields for 10 years, the provision as to forfeiture providing for the removal by the lessee of bricks and other materials on the demised property before the expiry of the lease or within 3 months thereafter was by no means unusual or extraordinary and not penal in nature. 4. Contract of indemnity — Effect.
5. Contract of indemnity — Suit on.
6. Contract of indemnity — Discharge of.
7. Limitation — See Section 125 and Limitation Act (1963), Arts. 27 and 113.

1. Scope.— (1) The expression 'contract of indemnity' in Section 124 has been used in a narrow sense and the general law about contracts of indemnity is much wider than the contract of indemnity as defined in the Contract Act. A contract of fire insurance or marine insurance is always a contract of indemnity though under the Contract Act, it would more properly come under Section 31 defining contingent contracts. AIR 1941 Lah 68 (69) (DB).

(2) Section 124 deals only with one particular kind of indemnity which arises from a promise made by the indemnifier to save the indemnified from the loss caused to him by the conduct of the indemnifier himself or by the conduct of any other person but does not deal with those classes of cases where the indemnity arises from loss caused by events or accidents which do not or may not depend upon the conduct of the indemnifier or any other person, or by reason of liability incurred by something done by the indemnified at the request of the indemnifier. AIR 1942 Bom 302 (303) = ILR (1942) Bom 670  AIR 1940 Bom 315 (316) = ILR (1940) Bom 552 (DB).

(3) Right to indemnity given by original contract should always be distinguished from right to damages arising from breach thereof. AIR 1928 Mad 43 (44).

(4) In a contract of indemnity there is no privity of contract between surety and debtor while in the case of a contract of guarantee, surety, creditor and principal debtor are parties to the contract. AIR 1937 Oudh 19 (20) = 12 Luck 484 (DB).

(5) Forbearance to sue principal at the surety's request is sufficient consideration for promise by surety to pay the amount himself. 1911-2 Mad WN 145 (145) (DB).

(6) Sections 124 and 125 which deal with the contract of indemnity lay down only the rights of the promisee; the rights of the promisor are not mentioned — It is a well-known principle of law that where one person has agreed to indemnify another, he will, on making good the indemnity, be entitled to succeed to all the ways and means by which the person indemnified might have protected himself against or reimbursed himself for the loss. This principle is based on natural equity and is of general application. It is an essential part of the law about indemnity and the Contract Act does not impair it. (1890) 14 Bom 299 (303) (DB).

(7) There is a distinction between contract of indemnity and that of guarantee, or suretyship. In the case of the former the non-liability of the principal debtor does not affect the obligation undertaken by the indemnifier which is primary. Every contract of guarantee, however, is not a contract of indemnity having this effect, for in the absence of special circumstances, the liability of a surety is only ancillary and can rest only on a valid obligation on the part of the party whose debt or obligation is guaranteed. AIR 1957 Mad 164 (165, 167) = ILR (1957) Mad 176 (DB).

(8) Contract of guarantee presupposes three parties, the creditor, the principal debtor and the surety. First of all there is a contract between the principal debtor and the creditor. This is the base of the entire transaction. Then there must be a contract between the surety and the creditor by which the former guarantees the debt to the latter. There must be a further contract by which the principal debtor asks the surety to act as such though such a request need not always be express and may be implied. If a person undertakes to reimburse another for some loss which may be caused to him, say by a third person or by himself, but not at the request, express or implied, of the third person, then the person who having undertaken the liability and having been called upon to make good the loss will not be able to recover the loss so caused to him from the principal debtor, the latter being not privy but virtually a stranger to the undertaking given to the promisee. The position of the party undertaking the liability is that of an indemnifier and the contract is a contract of indemnity. AIR 1958 Raj 343 (346) = ILR (1958) 8 Raj 975  AIR 1949 Nag 48 (49) = ILR (1948) Nag 350.

[See also AIR 1952 All 587 (588) (DB)  AIR 1959 Mad 122 (125) = 71 Mad LW 866 (2) (DB).]

(9) In indemnity, the possibility of risk of any loss happening is only contingent against the indemnifier. (1966) 59 ITR 378 (383) (Mad) (DB).

2. Contract of indemnity.— (1) Where property is transferred by a vendor to a vendee with a direction to the vendee to pay off a third person, the transfer may amount to a contract of indemnity. AIR 1938 All 297 (298, 299) = ILR (1938) All 500 (FB)  AIR 1939 Pat 194 (197) = 17 Pat 751 (DB). (Covenant to pay off prior mortgage debt by vendee.)  AIR 1918 Mad 1135 (1136) (DB).

(2) Plaintiffs executing and registering ijara deed in favour of defendants — Defendants agreeing to pay off mortgages executed by plaintiffs — Ijara deed held to be a contract to pay off mortgages and not a contract of indemnity. AIR 1938 Pat 275 (277) = 17 Pat 338 (DB).

(3) An agreement between the seller and the purchaser whereby the consideration for the sale is to be paid by the purchaser to a creditor of the vendor amounts to a contract of indemnity. AIR 1935 Nag 147 (148).

(4) The clause in a registered sale-deed that, "if upon the objection of any one any damage or loss accrues to the vendee, the vendor will be liable" amounts to a contract of indemnity and is not a mere covenant for title and quiet possession. AIR 1929 Lah 383 (388).

(5) Mother and minor daughter entering into contract with film company — Mother agreeing that minor should do service for company failing which, mother and daughter would compensate loss suffered by Company — Daughter failing to fulfil contract — Suit by company to recover loss — Held, this was not a contract of indemnity by the mother. AIR 1938 Rang 359 (359) (DB).

(8) Where after having declared that there were no prior encumbrances on the property, the sale deed contained a clause, "Should any dispute arise in respect of the above property and should you thereby sustain any loss, we shall make good the loss on the liability of our family property and on our personal liability," it was held that the covenant was not confined to encumbrances mentioned earlier but covered every dispute which caused loss to the vendee and thus amounted to a specific covenant to indemnify the vendee in case he sustained loss on account of any dispute in respect of the property. AIR 1950 Mad 621 (623) (DB).

(9) A, decree-holder, transferring decree to B — C executing security bond in favour of B undertaking to indemnify B for loss due to acquisition of rights under decree — Bond not showing judgment-debtor was party to arrangement — Deed is not guarantee but only as indemnity bond. The document was signed by the executant and executed in favour of the Municipal Committee. It was not signed by the bill collector. There was no liability of the bill collector to the Municipal Committee. The document was executed in order to ensure a faithful discharge of duties by the bill collector. — Held that the document was a contract of indemnity and not one of guarantee notwithstanding the description of the executant as surety at the foot of the document. AIR 1949 Nag 48 (49) = ILR (1948) Nag 350.

(11) It is well known that a contract of insurance, specially fire insurance, is a contract of indemnity. AIR 1959 Cal 558 (563) = 63 Cal WN 367.

AIR 1967 Cal 119 (122, 125) (DB).

(14) Employees of Bank agreeing to see to repayment of irregular loan granted by them within a month or to repay the amount themselves — Agreement is a valid contract of indemnity. AIR 1964 Ker 267 (269) = 1963 Ker LJ 1076.

3. Implied contract of indemnity.—

(1) A right to indemnify generally arises from contract, express or implied, but it is not confined to cases of contract. AIR 1946 Mad 472 (475) = ILR (1947) Mad 58 (DB).

(2) It is a general principle of law that when an act is done by one person at the request of another which act in itself is not manifestly tortious to the knowledge of the person doing it and such act turns out to be injurious to the rights of a third party, the person doing it is entitled to an indemnity from him who requested that it should be done. AIR 1938 PC 191 (192, 193) = ILR (1938) Bom 502 = 65 Ind App 286 = 32 Sind LR 786  AIR 1946 Mad 472 (477) = ILR (1947) Mad 58 (DB)  AIR 1960 Punj 425 (427).

AIR 1926 Mad 597 (599).

(7) Where the defendant's promise to indemnify is absolute one an action can be brought the moment there is failure of performance and a plea of non-damnification would be bad. AIR 1914 Mad 655 (656) = 38 Mad 791 (DB).

AIR 1920 Bom 352 (353).

(10) Assignment of debt — Assignor agreeing to indemnify — Suit against the debtor by the assignee dismissed — He is entitled to be indemnified — Failure to examine a witness in the suit no bar to the assignee's right of action on the indemnity. AIR 1918 Mad 358 (359).

- (3) all sums which he may have paid under the terms of any compromise of any such suit, if the compromise was not contrary to the orders of the promisor, and was one which it would have been prudent for the promisee to make in the absence of any contract of indemnity, or if the promisor authorized him to compromise the suit.

(7) Indemnifier can be asked to indemnify before person to be indemnified has incurred loss — "Compelled to pay" need not be construed as "already paid." AIR 1944 Pat 185 (187, 188) = 22 Pat 65 (DB). (See also under Section 55, T. P. Act.)  AIR 1956 Bom 106 (108) = ILR (1956) Bom 60 (DB)  AIR 1943 Mad 360 (362). [But see AIR 1919 Nag 126 (127) = 15 Nag LR 78. (Suit by surety on contract of indemnity before he has made payment and consequently before he is damnified, is premature.)]

(8) In one class of cases the indemnity-holder is not entitled to ask for a decree for payment of money to himself before the damage is incurred by him and that class of cases is one where the indemnifier is himself interested in the application of the money. In this class of cases, the only relief to which, the indemnity-holder is entitled is to call upon the indemnifier to perform specifically the contract of indemnity and pay the amount in question to the creditor concerned. In all other cases it may be open to the indemnity-holder to ask for a decree for the amount in question in his own favour. AIR 1956 Bom 106 (109) = ILR (1956) Bom 60 (DB).

(12) Plaintiffs were owners of house and lands which were mortgaged. Lands alone were sold to defendant who agreed to indemnify against claims of mortgagee by paying off his mortgage. Plaintiffs also mortgaged house to defendant for sum required to pay off prior mortgage. Money was left with defendant. On failure of defendant to pay off prior mortgage, house and the lands were sold in execution of the mortgage decree. Lands were freed by defendant. But the house was sold and was purchased benami by defendant. Plaintiffs sued defendant for breach of contract to indemnify him: Held, that the defendant was bound to return house to plaintiffs if it was purchased by him benami or, if not purchased benami, he was bound in damages. Plaintiffs were also entitled as damages to all costs to which they were put. AIR 1923 Mad 492 (496).

(13) Assignment of mortgages to creditor in satisfaction of debts undertaking to make good loss in case of dispute — Scaling down of decree obtained on mortgages — Debtor liable to pay difference between full amount of bond and amount realised. AIR 1945 Mad 98 (99) = ILR (1945) Mad 491 (DB).

1. Scope.— (1) A surety bond in favour of the Court does not literally fall under this section as a "contract of guarantee." But principles underlying Sections 133 to 141 may be applied thereto. AIR 1944 Lah 428 (431) (DB)  AIR 1939 Bom 23 (25) = ILR

(1938) Bom 794 (DB)  AIR 1967 Mys 147 (149) = (1965) 2 Mys LJ 87. (Though in the absence of any stipulation in that behalf there is no ground for limiting a surety's liability only to decrees passed after contest, there is nothing unreasonable or wrong in a surety expressly stipulating that he would be bound by his guarantee only if a decree is passed after contest and he would not be bound by a consent decree.)  AIR 1959 Bom 516 (517) = 1958 Nag LJ 72.

(2) A guarantee is a contract to indemnify upon a contingency and the Court is to determine what contingency the parties intended when they executed the contract. AIR 1930 Cal 17 (19) = 57 Cal 764 (DB).

(3) Suretyship agreement, though supplementary to principal contract (i.e. if principal contract falls agreement of suretyship also falls) is separate and distinct. AIR 1940 Sind 199 (200) = ILR (1940) Kar 347 (DB).

(4) The obligation which a surety incurs under the bond which he gives to the Court under the Code of Civil Procedure is excluded from the definition of 'contract of guarantee' contained in Section 126. AIR 1957 Madh Pra 98 (105) (DB).

(5) Plaintiff deposited a sum of money in a branch of a bank having its head office at Dacca. The defendant had given a personal undertaking that he would be personally liable for any loss that the plaintiff might sustain. Due to political happenings as a result of partition of India, the branch of the bank was closed. No payments were made to the depositors at that bank, from that date. The head office of the bank being at Dacca, in Pakistan, communication between India and Pakistan had been dangerous and difficult. The defendant pleaded frustration by reason of the partition of India. It was held that the doctrine of frustration did not apply and that the defendant could not be absolved from performance under Section 56. AIR 1957 Pat 256 (258) (DB).

(6) The word "surety" occurring in Article 57, Stamp Act (1899) has been used in the same sense in which it is used in Section 126. AIR 1964 All 519 (520) = 1964 All LJ 592 (DB).

(7) The words "has become liable as surety" in Section 145, Civil P. C. should not be confined to surety in the strict sense of the term as used in the Contract Act. 1961 Raj LW 31 (32).

2. Contract of guarantee — Meaning.— (1) The primary idea of suretyship is an undertaking to indemnify if some other person does not fulfil his promise. AIR 1936 All 327 (332) = 58 All 804 (FB).

(2) A contract of guarantee involves three parties, the creditor, the surety and the principal debtor, and a contract to which those parties are privy. The foundation is the contract between principal debtor and the creditor. Then there must be a contract between the creditor and the surety, by which the surety guarantees the debt. But if those are the only contracts the case is one of indemnity. In order to constitute a contract of guarantee, there must be a third contract, by which the principal debtor expressly or impliedly requests the surety to act as surety. AIR 1940 Bom 315 (316, 317) = ILR (1940) Bom 552 (DB)  AIR 1958 Raj 343 (345) = ILR (1958) 8 Raj 975  AIR 1949 Nag 48 (49) = ILR (1948) Nag 350. (Contract of indemnity and contract of guarantee — There are two parties in the case of former and three parties in case of latter.)  AIR 1968 Cal 371 (377) = 72 Cal WN 94  AIR 1968 Goa 29 (33) = 70 ITR 518. (There can be no contract of guarantee if liability does not exist. The liability of the guarantor presupposes the existence of a separate liability of the principal debtor and his liability is thus secondary which comes into existence only in default by the principal debtor.)  AIR 1959 Mad 122 (125) = 71 Mad LW 866 (2) (DB).

[See also AIR 1957 Madh Pra 98 (105) (DB). (Surety giving bond to Court under Civil P. C. — It is not a contract of guarantee.)]

[But see AIR 1921 Mad 530 (531) (DB). (There need not be privity between principal debtor and surety.)]

(3) There can be no contract without a liability enforceable at law. AIR 1918 Bom 197 (199) = 42 Bom 444 (DB).

(4) A contract of guarantee presupposes the existence of a "principal debtor" and no such contract can be made as regards a broker before a sale has taken place when there is no principal debtor in existence in respect of whose default the guarantee can be given. AIR 1934 Nag 163 (164) = 30 Nag LR 205.

(5) Implied request to surety by principal debtor is sufficient for contract of guarantee. AIR 1937 Oudh 19 (20) = 12 Luck 484 (DB).

(6) There is no complete contract if the nature of security is not specified. 1934 Mad WN 1388 (1390) (DB).

(7) Agreement to pay on failure of others to pay constitutes contract of guarantee. AIR 1932 Nag 62 (65) = 28 Nag LR 325 (DB).

(8) It is not necessary that the principal debtor should as a matter of law be an express party to the contract of guarantee, it is sufficient that the principal debtor is a party by implication to the contract. AIR 1957 Pat 256 (257) (DB).

(9) The word "guarantee" has acquired a technical meaning. The essence of guarantee is that a guarantor agrees to discharge his liability only when the principal debtor fails in his duty. This presupposes the existence of a principal debtor. If there never was another person who can be properly described as the "principal debtor" there cannot be said to have been any "guarantee" either in its technical or ordinary meaning. AIR 1953 Madh B 26 (27) = 1953 Cri L Jour 253 (DB). (Promissory note executed jointly by a company and its managing agents does not come within the purview of Section 87-D of the Companies Act, 1913.)

(10) Contract of guarantee, unlike a contract of insurance, is not one of "uberrimae fidei" but a contract of "strictissima juris." AIR 1955 Cal 217 (223). (Contract construed.)

(11) There is distinction between contract of indemnity and a contract of guarantee. In the case of the former, the non-liability of the principal debtor does not affect the obligation undertaken by the indemnifier which is primary. Every contract of guarantee, however, is not a contract of indemnity having this effect, for in the absence of special circumstances, the liability of a surety is not ancillary and can rest on a valid obligation on the part of the party whose debt or obligation is guaranteed. AIR 1957 Mad 164 (165, 167) = ILR (1957) Mad 176 (DB)  (1966) 59 ITR 378 (383) (Mad) (DB). (In the case of guarantee, there is an existing debt or duty the performance of which is guaranteed by surety — In indemnity, the possibility of risk of any loss happening is only contingent against the indemnifier.)  AIR 1963 Mad 413 (418, 419) = (1963) 2 Mad LJ 20 (DB). (Overruled on another point in AIR 1969 SC 493 — Where the liability of the principal is held to be not enforceable, on the ground of the contract being illegal, there is no question of surety being made liable — App. No. 7 of 1956, Dt/- 8-7-1959 (Mad), Reversed.)

(12) The necessity of the principal-debtor being a party or his consent or request may be important and decisive for determining whether the contract is one of guarantee or one of indemnity, but for enforcing it against surety the question has no relevance. AIR 1955 Hyd 261 (263) = ILR (1955) Hyd 754 (DB).

(13) A person sought to be made liable as a surety should undertake to perform the promise or discharge the liability of a third party in case of his default. AIR 1952 All 996 (1001, 1010) = ILR (1952) 2 All 984 (DB).

(14) One of the essential elements for a transaction of a guarantee is the presence of three different parties as collaborating in the execution of a deed of guarantee. Where this element is missing and the principal debtor is not taken into consideration at all, the deed is not one of a guarantee but is only an indemnity bond. AIR 1952 All 587 (588) (DB). (Decree-holder transferring decree to B — C executing a surety bond in favour of B undertaking to indemnify B for loss due to acquisition of rights under decree — Bond is not one of guarantee but one of indemnity.)

(15) The primary idea of suretyship in an undertaking to indemnify the debtor in case he does not fulfil his promise, the contract of guarantee being thus a contract to indemnify. The central point in such a case is to determine what was the contingency which the parties had in their minds when the contract was entered into. AIR 1969 Andh Pra 294 (298) (DB).

(16) Guarantee is in the nature of a collateral engagement to answer for the debt, default or miscarriage of another as distinguished from an original and direct engagement for the party's own act. AIR 1964 Raj 76 (77) = 1963 Raj LW 430.

3. Contract of guarantee — Illustrations — Promissory note.— (1) A writing to S, in presence of D, please lend Rs. 1200 to D. "There will be no trouble (Nuks) in the payment of your money. Be assured, if there be any trouble, I hold myself responsible" — Privity between these parties proved — This is contract of guarantee and not contract of indemnity — A is liable to S as surety to discharge liability in default by D, the principal debtor. AIR 1937 Oudh 19 (20) = 12 Luck 484 (DB).

(2) Father mortgaging his separate property and having benefit of whole mortgage loan — Son made party to mortgage deed as party of second part not described as surety, but joining at the request of the mortgagee — Son held in reality to be a surety and entitled to benefit of security to the extent of his contribution towards mortgage debt. AIR 1942 Mad 628 (629) = ILR (1942) Mad 851 (DB).

(3) Money given by A to B for investment on security of immovable property — B instead of doing so lending it to C on promissory note drawn by C in name of B — B endorsing it to A and informing him that he would come to him with borrowers and clear loan — B held liable as endorser as well as guarantor of payment. AIR 1939 Mad 848 (849) (DB).

(4) A mere recommendation by C that A should buy goods of B will not entail on C the consequences that might flow from his guaranteeing that A will not suffer any loss if he takes up B's offer of sale. AIR 1927 Mad 62 (65, 66) (DB)  AIR 1915 Mad 528 (528) (DB).

(5) Employment contract between insurance company and employee — Increment in salary to be proportionate to increase of business — Contract, held could not be construed as one of guarantee and that securing of business was not condition precedent to accrual of salary. AIR 1939 Lah 509 (510).

(6) Trustee not undertaking any personal liability to creditors is not a surety. (1907) 30 Mad 235 (240) (DB).

(7) A person who writes to a creditor under his signature that he shall be responsible for the payment of the debt due to him from another person stands in a position of a principal debtor and not of a surety. AIR 1937 Pat 410 (411) = 16 Pat 27 (DB).

(8) Relative of judgment-debtor offering cheque to decree-holder in satisfaction of claim — Relative is not surety. AIR 1941 Pesh 6 (7) (DB).

(9) Person promising to pay extra rate of interest in consideration of creditor giving time to debtor, without any liability on part of debtor, is not surety. AIR 1930 All 543 (544) (DB).

(10) Persons who are jointly and severally liable on promissory notes are not sureties. One of two joint promisors paying whole debt cannot claim lien on shares of another held by creditor. AIR 1933 Mad 39 (42) = 55 Mad 949 (DB).

(11) Where on arrest of A by a decree-holder for realising decree debt, B, relation of A, gives Government promissory notes as security for fulfilment of obligation under decree, there is neither contract of guarantee as contemplated by Section 126, nor any personal liability as surety under Section 145, C. P. C., (1908). This creates only equitable charge on G. P. Notes in favour of decree-holder to secure amount due under decree. AIR 1916 Cal 30 (30) (DB).
